FOREWORD

Dear student,

The Rwanda Basic Education Board (REB) is pleased to present this English Student's Book for Senior One. This textbook has been developed to support the effective implementation of the Competence-Based Curriculum (CBC) by promoting learner-centered teaching and learning practices that align with Rwanda's vision of empowering learners to reach their full potential, actively participate in society, and pursue meaningful career paths.

As Rwanda continues its journey towards becoming a knowledge-based economy, education remains a key driver of national development. Teachers play a central role in this transformation by helping learners connect classroom learning with real-life experiences, thereby fostering personal growth, critical thinking, and lifelong learning.

This textbook serves as a comprehensive resource for the teaching and learning of English at Senior One level. English is an integral part of the CBC and contributes significantly to the development of the knowledge, skills, values, and attitudes that learners need to become responsible, competent, and productive citizens. Through the learning activities provided in this book, students are encouraged to communicate effectively, solve problems creatively, and contribute positively to their communities and the nation at large.

In its commitment to providing quality education for all, the Government of Rwanda emphasizes the use of teaching and learning materials that are fully aligned with the national curriculum. This textbook has therefore been carefully designed to support curriculum implementation and enhance learning outcomes.

I would like to express my sincere appreciation to all those who contributed to the development and refinement of this textbook. Special recognition goes to the REB team that coordinated the entire process. I also extend my gratitude to our partners, teachers, subject specialists, and all individuals who contributed their expertise and feedback from the beginning to the end of this important undertaking. Their valuable contributions have greatly enriched this textbook and will help improve the learning experiences and outcomes of our students.

Dr. Nelson MBARUSHIMANA

Director General/ Rwanda Basic Education Board (REB)

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I would like to express my sincere appreciation to all those who contributed to the development and refinement of this English Student's Book for Senior One. This achievement would not have been possible without the dedication, expertise, and collaboration of various stakeholders.

Special thanks go to the Rwanda Basic Education Board (REB) staff, subject specialists, university lecturers, and teachers whose valuable contributions and professional expertise greatly enriched the quality of this textbook.

I also extend my gratitude to our education development partners for their continuous support throughout the process. Their commitment to improving the quality of education in Rwanda has been instrumental in the successful completion of this work.

To all individuals and institutions who contributed in one way or another, I convey my heartfelt appreciation for their invaluable support and dedication to enhancing teaching and learning in Rwanda.

UNIT 1: MY SECONDARY SCHOOL

Key Unit Competence

To communicate effectively in both speaking and writing about school, subjects, and friends using appropriate language, while demonstrating confidence, cooperation, and respect.

Learning Objectives

By the end of this unit, you should be able to:

Knowledge and Understanding

1. Identify vocabulary related to the school environment, school subjects, and friendship in context.
2. Explain key language features used in the unit, including countable and uncountable nouns, singular and plural forms, and the simple present tense.
3. Distinguish English consonant sounds (/p/, /b/, /t/, /d/, /k/, /g/) and recognise the difference between voiced and voiceless consonants.
4. Identify characters or speakers in simple literary texts.

Skills

1. Read, listen, speak, and write clearly about school life, subjects, and friends using appropriate vocabulary, grammar, and the simple present tense.
2. Use correct pronunciation and spelling of learned words and sounds in oral and written communication.
3. Compare and describe characters or speakers in short poems or stories, expressing ideas clearly and accurately.

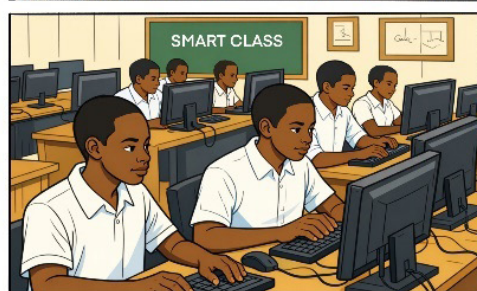

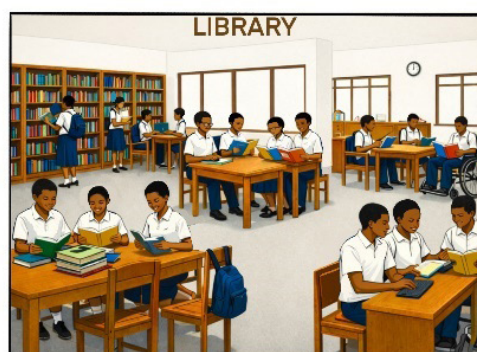

Attitudes and Values

1. Show respect and appreciation for friendship, cooperation, and others' opinions during learning activities and discussions.
2. Demonstrate responsibility and positive attitudes towards learning by participating actively, completing tasks, and working collaboratively.
3. Value your school environment by showing care for school property, teachers, and fellow learners.

Introduction to the unit

School is an important place where learners gain knowledge, develop talents, and build friendships. In this unit, you will learn how to talk about your school, subjects, friends, and daily school activities. You will practise reading, listening, speaking, and writing in English while learning useful vocabulary and correct language structures. You will also enjoy literature activities and improve your pronunciation of common English sounds.

Introductory Activity

Observe the picture and answer the questions that follow:

- a. What can you see in this picture?
- b. Describe the school in the picture.
- c. Discuss the similarities and differences between the school settings shown in these pictures and your school.

1.1. Reading: Talking about school, subjects and friends

Activity 1.1.1

Discuss:

- What makes a new school welcoming?
- Which places do you expect to find in a good school?

Activity 1.1.2

Read about my school and answer the questions that follow:

Passage: My new school

My name is Uwase Clarisse, and I am a new student at Urumuri Secondary School in Gasabo District. I joined this school at the beginning of this term, and I already feel comfortable here. The school was built many years ago, in 1980, and it is located near a small forest and a large school garden. From above, the school buildings form the shape of a big letter U, which makes our compound easy to recognise.

Urumuri Secondary School has many important facilities. We have a well-equipped library, a modern science laboratory, a spacious dining hall, and a large playground where students enjoy sports after classes. Our school garden is also special because students use it for practical lessons.

At school, I study several interesting subjects such as Mathematics, English, Kinyarwanda, History and Citizenship, Geography and Environment, Biology and Health Sciences, Physics and Entrepreneurship. My favourite subject is English because I enjoy reading stories, learning new vocabulary and communicating with other people. I also like English lessons because they help me build confidence in speaking.

I have already made two close friends: Kajuga and Gasaro. We meet in the library almost every afternoon. We read storybooks, revise our notes and sometimes work on group exercises together. Gasaro enjoys Biology and dreams of becoming an agronomist. She is friendly, polite and very hard-working.

Kajuga, on the other hand, loves History and says he wants to become a lawyer in the future. He always makes us laugh, and we enjoy spending time with him.

I am happy in my new school because I have good teachers, interesting subjects and supportive friends. I know I will succeed in my studies at Urumuri Secondary School.

Comprehension Questions

A. Literal comprehension and textual analysis

1. Mention any three facilities found at the school.
2. Which subjects does Clarisse study? Write at least five of them.
3. Why is English Clarisse's favourite subject?
4. The writer says the buildings form a big "letter U." What does this description help the reader to understand about the school?
5. Identify one sentence in the text that uses the present simple tense to show a habit.
6. What words or phrases show that Clarisse's friends influence her positively?
7. How does the writer show that the school provides opportunities for both academic learning and practical learning?
8. What does the text suggest about the importance of a school library? Give evidence from the passage.

B. Interpretation of the text

1. Why do you think Clarisse "already feels comfortable" in her new school? Give two reasons based on the text.
2. What qualities of a good friend can you identify from the way Clarisse describes Gasaro and Kajuga?
3. Why do you think Clarisse believes she will "succeed in her studies" at Urumuri Secondary School?
4. What can we infer about the school's learning environment from the facilities mentioned?
5. How does Clarisse's experience show the importance of creating a welcoming environment for new students?
6. Clarisse's positive experience shows the importance of welcoming new students. What can teachers and learners do to create a welcoming environment in your school?

Activity 1.1.3

From the reading text above:

1. Write words related to school places
2. Write words related to people and careers
3. Identify the school Subjects mentioned in the text.
4. Identify a sentence that expresses the daily routine

1.2. Vocabulary: School Environment

Activity 1.2.1

A. Match the words in column A with their meanings in column B.

A	B
1. Spacious	a) A room where scientific experiments are done
2. Laboratory	b) A person who studies soil and crops
3. Facilities	c) Things such as buildings or equipment provided for use
4. Agronomist	d) Someone whose job is to give advice to people about law and speak for them in court.
5. A lawyer	e) Large and with plenty of space

B. Complete the Sentences with the correct word from the box.

friendly, equipment, subjects, playground, confidence

1. Our science teacher showed us how to use the laboratory _____.
2. Students enjoy playing football on the _____.
3. English and Mathematics are my favourite _____.
4. My friend is very _____; she talks politely to everyone.
5. Speaking English every day helps me build _____.

Activity 1.2.2

Talk about Clarisse's school experience. Explain what makes her school a good learning environment and compare it with your own school experience. Mention any similarities between her experience and yours.

Experimental version

1.3. Listening: School and favourite subjects

Activity 1.3.1

Think about a friend who goes to a different school. What would you want to know about their school? What subjects do they study? Do they have a library?

Activity 1.3.2

Listen to the conversation between Annet and Kalisa, and answer the questions that follow

Annet: Hello, Kalisa. How is your new school?

Kalisa: It's great! The teachers are friendly, and the school has a big library and a good laboratory.

Annet: That sounds nice. Which subjects do you study?

Kalisa: I study English, Mathematics, Science, Geography and Environment, and Kinyarwanda.

Annet: And what is your favourite subject?

Kalisa: My favourite subject is English because I enjoy reading and speaking. What about you?

Annet: I like Science. I want to become a doctor in the future.

Kalisa: That's a good dream. Maybe we can study together one day.

Listening Questions

1. What facilities does Kalisa mention?
2. List three subjects Kalisa studies.
3. Why is English Kalisa's favourite subject?
4. Which subject does Annet like?
5. What does Annet want to become in the future?

Activity 1.3.3

- Do Kalisa (in listening dialogue) and Clarisse (in reading text), like school for the same reasons? How do you know?
- Which student is more similar to you? Why?

1.4. Speaking: Talking about school subjects

Activity 1.4.1

Think silently and note one subject you enjoy and one subject you find difficult.

Activity 1.4.2

In pairs, take turns to ask and answer the following questions. After both of you have answered, write three complete sentences describing your partner's answers and present them to the whole class.

Questions to ask your partner

1. Which subjects do you study at school?
2. Which subject is your favourite? Why?
3. Which subject is difficult for you? Why?
4. Which teacher helps you understand lessons best?
5. How do you prepare for exams in your favourite subject?

Activity 1.4.3:

Do you agree or disagree with the statement: "Some school subjects are more important for future careers than others"? Give reasons and examples to support your ideas, then present your opinion to the class.

1.5. Language Focus

Activity 1.5.1

Reread the text: "My new school", and:

- Write the things you can count
- Write the things you cannot count

1. Countable and Uncountable Nouns

- Countable nouns are nouns that refer to things we can count. They have both singular and plural forms.

Examples: a classroom, two classrooms; a friend, many friends

- Uncountable nouns are nouns that refer to things we cannot count directly. They do not take a/an and do not have plural forms.

Examples: information, advice, water, homework

Examples:

- Urumuri Secondary School has many facilities such as a library, a computer lab, and a playground. (countable)
- Clarisse has two new friends, Gasaro and Kajuga. (countable)
- The school gives students information about different clubs. (uncountable)
- Clarisse receives support from her classmates. (uncountable)

2. Singular and Plural Nouns

- Singular nouns are nouns that refer to one person or thing.

Examples: a friend, a subject, a classroom

- Plural nouns are nouns that refer to more than one person or thing.

Examples: friends, subjects, classrooms.

Plural Rules

- Add -s: book → books
- Add -es: words ending in s, x, ch, sh: class → classes
- Irregular plurals: child → children, person → people

Examples:

- Clarisse likes her new subject, English. (singular)
- There are many subjects taught at Urumuri Secondary School. (regular plural)
- She already has two friends, Gasaro and Kajuga. (regular plural)
- Many students use the library to do research. (regular plural)

3. Simple Present Tense

The simple present tense is used to talk about:

a) Daily Routines / Habits: For actions that happen regularly.

Example:

- Clarisse studies in the library every afternoon.
- Students attend morning assembly every day.

b) Permanent Situations: For things that are generally true or last a long time.

Example:

- The school has a big library.
- Urumuri Secondary School offers many subjects.

c) General Truths / Facts: For statements that are always true.

Example:

- English is an international language.
- Students need discipline to succeed

d) Likes / Dislikes / Preferences: To express what someone enjoys or prefers.

Example:

- Clarisse likes English.
- Gasaro enjoys Biology.

Form of the present simple

Person	Affirmative	Negative	Interrogative
I	I work	I do not work	Do I work?
You	You work	You do not work	Do you work?
He	He works	He does not work	Does he work?
She	She works	She does not work	Does she work?
It	It works	It does not work	Does it work?
We	We work	We do not work	Do we work?
You	You work	You do not work	Do you work?
They	They work	They do not work	Do they work?

Tips:

- Add -s / -es for He/She/It.
- Use the base verb for I/You/We/They.
- Use signal words like always, usually, every day, sometimes to show habit.

Activity 1.5.2

Read the sentences and write C for countable nouns and U for uncountable nouns.

1. The school provides information about its clubs.
2. Clarisse borrowed three books from the library.
3. Students need equipment for their science lessons.
4. Gasaro and Kajuga are her new friends.
5. The school encourages respect among students.

Activity 1.5.3

A. Write the correct singular or plural form of the noun in brackets.

1. Clarisse enjoys studying different (subject) _____.
2. Two new (student) _____ joined the English Club.
3. The teacher gave each learner a (task) _____.
4. Many (classroom) _____ are equipped with projectors.
5. Every (person) _____ is welcome to join a club.

B. Fill in the blanks with the correct simple present form of the verbs in brackets:

1. Clarisse _____ (study) English every day.
2. Gasaro _____ (help) her in Biology.
3. The library _____ (provide) books for research.
4. Kajuga _____ (love) History.
5. Students _____ (attend) assembly every morning.

1.6. Writing: Describing My School

Activity 1.6.1

Imagine a new student has just joined your school. Write a paragraph to let them know what your school is like and what happens there every day.

Your paragraph must include:

- At least three (3) countable nouns (e.g., books, desks, classrooms) and at least two (2) uncountable nouns (e.g., water, porridge, information, furniture).
- At least three (3) verbs in the simple present tense (e.g., study, play, eat, clean)

Activity 1.6.2

How well do you know your classmates? Today, you are going to be a "Student Journalist." You will interview two friends to find out what makes them excited about learning. Find two friends and ask them the questions below. Use your notebook to record their answers. Then, write a paragraph to report about them.

Your interview checklist:

- Full Name: What is your friend's full name?
- Star Subject: Which school subject do they love the most?
- The "Why": Give two clear reasons why they enjoy that subject.
- Action: How do they show they are interested? (e.g., Do they answer many questions? Do they read extra books?)
- Inspiration: How does their hard work motivate you to do better?

The interview tracker

Interview Questions	Friend 1	Friend 2
---------------------	----------	----------

Full Name
Favourite Subject
Why do they enjoy it?
How do they show interest? (e.g., answering questions)
How does this motivate you?

Examples:

I have two close friends who inspire me with their favourite subjects.

Amani loves Mathematics. He enjoys solving difficult problems, and often helps others understand them. He practices every evening, which makes him confident and accurate.

Keza prefers English. She likes reading stories and learning new words. She is active in class and writes short stories in her free time to improve her English. Their hard work motivates me to study more and stay positive. I appreciate having friends who encourage me to enjoy learning.

1.7. Literature

Activity 1.7.1

Read the poem below and answer the questions that follow

Poem: My School Day

My School Day

I carry my dreams with me to class,
Walking through school where hopes feel strong.
My mind keeps learning new things each day,
Looking for knowledge like morning light.

I listen to what I am taught and try my best,
Each lesson helps me move ahead.
My heart stays brave when work feels hard,
It shines like a small light in the dark.

I walk toward tomorrow with confidence,
Feeling courage in every step I take.
My dreams lead me forward into the future,
Like a traveler starting a new journey.

Questions and Activities

1. Who is speaking in the poem?
2. What word in the poem shows that someone is speaking?
3. Where is the speaker most likely found? Give a reason.
4. What line shows that the speaker is a learner?
5. Which value does the poem teach about school work?
6. Recite the poem clearly and confidently in front of the class.

Notes: Persona/ Speaker in a poem.

The persona or speaker is the voice that talks in a poem.

It expresses thoughts, feelings, or experiences.

The speaker may or may not be the poet.

Examples from the Poem

1. "I carry my dreams with me to class,"

- The word "I" shows that someone is speaking.
- The speaker talks about going to class, so the persona is a learner.

2. "I listen to what I am taught and try my best,"

- The speaker describes learning, showing again that the persona is a student.

The persona gives the poem a point of view and helps convey feelings, thoughts, and experiences.

Activity 1.7.2

Stay in School

Questions

wake early, greet the sun,

1. Who is the speaker in the poem?
2. Who is the speaker talking to?
3. What advice does the speaker give to the child about school?
4. Name two activities the child is encouraged to do every day.
5. How does going to school help shape the child's future?
6. What attitude should the child show towards learning and friends?
7. What is the main lesson or moral of the poem?

1.8. Sounds and spelling

English Consonant Sounds – /b/, /p/, /t/, /d/, /k/, /g/

Introduction

In English, some consonant sounds use your voice, and some do not.

- Voiced sounds: Your vocal cords vibrate when you say the sound.

Examples: /b/, /d/, /g/

- Voiceless sounds: Your vocal cords do not vibrate; only air is released.

Examples: /p/, /t/, /k/

Sound	Voiced/ Voiceless	How to make it	Example
/b/	Voiced	Lips together, voice	book, bag
/p/	Voiceless	Lips together, puff of air	pen, paper
/t/	Voiceless	Tongue behind teeth, puff	table, test
/d/	Voiced	Tongue behind teeth, voice	desk, dog
/k/	Voiceless	Back of tongue to soft palate, puff	classroom, cat
/g/	Voiced	Back of tongue to soft palate, voice	garden, goat

Activity 1.8.1

Sort the words below according to the initial sound.

book, bag, pen, pencil, table, teacher, desk, dog, classroom, garden, gate, computer

Initial Sound	Words
/b/	_____ , _____
/p/	_____ , _____
/t/	_____ , _____
/d/	_____ , _____
/k/	_____ , _____
/g/	_____ , _____

Activity 1.8.2

Sound Race

Work in pairs. Choose a partner and sit facing each other. Decide who goes first.

One partner will start by saying a word (related to school) that begins with the consonant sound called by the teacher. The other partner responds quickly with a different word that begins with the same sound. Take turns saying words until you cannot think of any new word.

Example

Teacher calls: /b/

- Partner 1: book
- Partner 2: bag
- Partner 1: board
- Partner 2: basket
- Game continues until no more words can be said.

Repeat the game for each sound: /b/, /p/, /t/, /d/, /k/, /g/

2. Give the names of fruits you can see in this picture.
3. State the importance of fruits for humans.
4. Name five fruits that do not appear in the picture.

2.1. Reading: Talking about Meals and Balanced Diet

Reading: Balanced Diet

Activity 2.1.1

Read the poems aloud. Pay attention to the nutritional value mentioned, then answer the questions that follow;

Poem 1:

Delicious Food for Life

We all enjoy delicious food,
That which makes us healthy is good.
Fruits, which are juicy, are good,
We all enjoy delicious food.

We should consider nutritional value,
We all need it, we can't argue.
You need energy? In cassava paste there is plenty.
You need proteins? Bean stew has plenty.

Poem 2:

"My Balanced Diet, My Heath"

I like potatoes, I like tomatoes,
I like oranges, and I like porridge.
I favour the beans, and savour the greens.
I love meat, I can't miss wheat.
Beans for proteins, greens give protection,
wheat for carbs; you need some fats.
Three meals a day keep hunger away

Questions:

1. Why does the poet in poem 1 say we "can't argue" about nutritional value?
2. In poem 2, the poet uses the word "protection." What do you think the body is being protected from?
3. Look at both poems. Which food item is mentioned in both as a source of protein?
4. Imagine you are a chef. Based on these poems, list three ingredients you would use to make a "balanced" plate.

Activity 2.1.2

Read the text "Nutrition" and answer the questions that follow

Nutrition

When should you eat a balanced diet? What should your portion size be? Choose health foods and eat regular, balanced meals each day.

Serve whole-grains and choose more fish, poultry and less red meat. Always opt for low-fat dairy foods. Your meals don't have to be expensive with plenty of substitutes present. Choose cassava, arrowroots, sweet potatoes or maize for carbohydrates. Substitute meat with beans, peas or eggs. Also, eat locally available fruits and vegetables.

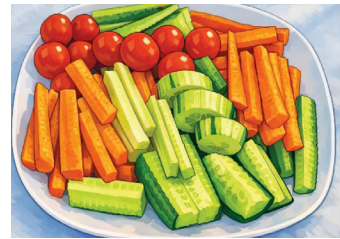

Breakfast

You must include protein in your breakfast. When they are available, choose from eggs, salmon, lean ham or low-fat dairy. Alternatively, take a chunk of cassava and a helping of beans, followed by a banana. Top your morning toast with a scrambled egg, a slice of smoked salmon or lean ham. Alternatively, enjoy an omelet.

Do not skip breakfast. It plays a key role in maintaining healthy weight.

Mid-morning snack

Eating small portions and often is good. Spread your intake evenly throughout the day. Make every snack count with nourishing options. Swap your biscuits for oatcakes. Spread with peanut or almond nut butter and a banana or have a tasty dip with veggie sticks.

Lunch

Make lunch a mix of lean protein and starchy carbohydrates. Go for high fibre whole-grains to generate energy. Opt for an open rye-bread sandwich topped with salmon. Choose chicken or low-fat dairy as well as plenty of salad. Otherwise, choose whole-grain toast topped with baked beans.

Mid-afternoon

Satisfy that craving and the need for energy with fruit. Eat groundnuts, simsim and any available fruit. This can help stabilise the release of sugars, which keep you energised.

Dinner

Choose fibre-rich carbohydrates foods such as whole grains, cassava, sweet potatoes or others. They're low in fat and help you relax in the evening. Combine them with some healthy essential fats from oily fish like salmon. They are also in sardines, nuts, seeds and their oils. Your body uses healthy fats for regeneration and repair. This is important for maintaining healthy skin and hair.

Always fill half your plate with vegetables or salad.

(Adapted from The New Times Rwanda)

Questions

1. According to Text 1, what kind of food should we consider "good"?
2. Which specific food item provides energy in Text 1?
3. List four food items the speaker likes in Text 2.
4. Based on Text 2, what is the benefit of eating "greens"?
5. How many meals a day does the second poem recommend to stay full?
6. Why should breakfast not be skipped?
7. Name two protein foods recommended for breakfast.

Activity 2.1.3

Study the table below. Match each picture with the correct food.

Picture	Food
	Proteins
	Vitamins
	Carbohydrates
	Fats
	Minerals

Experimental version

Activity 2.1.4

Match the words in column A with their correct meaning in column B

WORDS	MEANING
1. Breakfast	a) The meal eaten in the middle of the day.
2. Lunch	b) A diet that includes the right amounts of different food groups (carbohydrates, proteins, fats, vitamins, and minerals) to keep the body healthy.
3. Dinner	c) Nutrients that give the body energy and help protect organs; some fats help with growth and healthy skin. Examples: oils, nuts, seeds, avocados, oily fish.
4. Proteins,	d) Nutrients that help the body work properly and keep you healthy. Examples: those found in fruits and vegetables.
5. Balanced diet	e) The main meal eaten in the evening.
6. Carbohydrates	f) Foods that give the body energy. Examples: rice, maize, bread, cassava, potatoes.
7. Vitamins	g) The first meal of the day, usually eaten in the morning.
8. Fats	h) Foods that help the body grow, build muscles, and repair tissues. Examples: meat, beans, eggs, fish, dairy.

Notes:

1. The Food Groups (Nutrients)

To have a balanced diet, we must eat different types of nutrients.

- Carbohydrates (Carbs): Foods that give our body energy.
 - Examples: Cassava, maize, potatoes, rice, bread, yams.
- Proteins: Foods that help our body grow and repair muscles.
 - Examples: Beans, peas, meat, fish, eggs, milk, groundnuts.
- Vitamins & Minerals: Foods that protect us from diseases and keep our skin and eyes healthy.
 - Examples: Cabbages, dodo (amaranth), carrots, oranges, mangoes.
- Fats & Oils: Foods that provide extra energy and help the brain, but should be eaten in small amounts.
 - Examples: Avocado, cooking oil, butter, seeds.

2. Describing Food (Adjectives)

Use these words to describe how food tastes or its condition:

- Delicious / Tasty: Food that has a very good flavor.
- Juicy: Food that contains a lot of juice (like a ripe orange).
- Nutritious: Food that is very healthy for the body.
- Fresh: Food that is newly picked or cooked (not stale).
- Balanced: A meal that contains all the necessary food groups.

3. Action Verbs (The Language of Eating)

- Savour: To taste and enjoy food slowly.
- Substitute: To use one food instead of another (e.g., "I substitute meat with beans").
- Opt for: To choose something (e.g., "Always opt for fresh fruit").
- Skip: To miss a meal (e.g., "Never skip breakfast!").
- Maintain: To keep something in good condition (e.g., "Healthy food helps maintain a good weight").

2.2. Listening about daily meals and balanced diet

Activity 2.2.1

A. Listen to a script about healthy eating and answer the questions.

Healthy eating

"Healthy eating is important for everyone. Our bodies need different types of food to work properly. Fruits and vegetables give us vitamins that help protect us from sickness. Whole grains like brown rice and oats provide energy for daily activities. Protein from foods such as beans, fish, eggs, and lean meat helps our muscles grow and stay strong. We also need healthy fats from nuts and avocados, but only in small amounts. Drinking enough water is important too, because it helps digestion and keeps the body hydrated. Choosing fresh foods and avoiding too much sugar can help us stay active, focused, and healthy."

B. Choose the Correct Answer. (Circle the correct option.)

Vitamins help to:

- a) Make food sweet
- b) Protect us from sickness
- c) Build houses

Protein helps:

- a) Muscles grow and stay strong
- b) Hair become longer
- c) Water taste better

Healthy fats should be eaten:

- a) In large amounts
- b) Rarely
- c) In small amounts

C. True or False

- i. Whole grains like brown rice give the body energy.
- ii. Water helps digestion.
- iii. Too much sugar helps us stay active.

2.3. Speaking: Daily meals and balanced diet

Activity 2.3.1:

Look at the table below. Think about what you ate for lunch yesterday. Say whether your lunch included the three main things your body needs: Energy foods, Growth foods, and Protective foods. Use the examples to help you."

I ate...	Food Group	Benefit
Example: Rice	Energy	Helps me play and study.
Example: Beans	Growth	Makes my muscles strong.
Example: Cabbage	Protection	Keeps me from getting sick.

Activity 2.3.2:

In your groups of four, take turns answering these simple questions. Use the Sentence Starters to help you speak in English.

1. What did you eat for lunch yesterday?
2. Was your meal "balanced"? why? (Did it have Energy + Growth + Protection foods?)
3. Why is it hard to study when you are hungry or skip a meal?

Sentence Starters

- "Yesterday, I ate... and..."
- "My meal was/was not balanced because..."
- "A balanced diet helps me learn better because I feel..." (Choose: strong / awake / happy).
- "If I skip a meal, I feel..." (Choose: tired / weak / hungry).

Each group chooses one person to be the "Speaker." The Speaker will stand up and tell the class what the group discussed.

And say for example: "In our group, most of us ate [Name of food]. We think a balanced diet is important because it gives us [Energy/Growth] to study well. When we skip meals, we feel [Tired/Weak]."

Activity 2.3.3:

Imagine you are at a healthy food market. One student is the seller. The other is the buyer. Roleplay the dialogue in front of the class.

At the market

Seller: Good morning! Welcome to the Healthy Market. What would you like today?

Buyer: Good morning. I want to buy healthy food. What do you have?

Experimental version

Seller: I have fruits, vegetables, beans, Irish potatoes, sweet potatoes, eggs, milk, fish, and maize.

Buyer: That is good. Which food gives energy?

Seller: Irish potatoes, sweet potatoes, and maize give energy. Which one do you prefer?

Buyer: I prefer sweet potatoes. Why are beans good for us?

Seller: Beans help our bodies grow strong. Do you eat beans at home?

Buyer: Yes, I do. I eat beans and vegetables. Which food keeps us healthy?

Seller: Fruits and vegetables keep us healthy and prevent sickness.

Buyer: I will buy beans, sweet potatoes, and fruits. How much are they?

Seller: They are affordable and good for your health. Thank you for choosing healthy food.

Buyer: Thank you. I will eat healthy food every day.

2.4. Language Focus

Pronouns as subject, object, or possessive

A. Subject Pronouns

Activity 2.4.1

Read the following sentences carefully and underline the subject pronouns

- I eat breakfast at 7 a.m.
- You should choose healthy foods for lunch.
- He cooks dinner for his family.
- She likes eating fruits in the morning.

Notes:

Subject Pronouns: I, you, he, she, it, we, they

Subject pronouns do the action in a sentence.

These pronouns are used when the person is performing the action

Activity 2.4.2:

Read these sentences and underline the subject pronouns. Some sentences may not have them.

1. It is important to eat a balanced diet.

- Peter: "No, it is not mine. I saw Alice using it earlier. I think it is hers."
- Teacher: "Alice, is this your ruler?"
- Alice: "Yes! It is mine. Thank you!"

Activity 2.4.5

In your notebooks, match the person to the word they used to show they own the object

The Person	The word they used
I (Jane)	Yours
You (Talking to Peter)	Hers
She (Alice)	Mine

Note:

Possessive Pronouns: mine, yours, his, hers, ours, theirs

Possessive pronouns show ownership.

These pronouns show that something belongs to someone.

Pronoun Families

Each subject pronoun has a matching object pronoun and a matching possessive pronoun. They form pronoun families.

Subject Pronouns	Object Pronouns:	Possessive Pronouns
I	Me	Mine
You	You	Yours
He	Him	His
She	Her	Hers
it	It	Its
We	Us	Ours
You	You	Yours

6. The students eat lunch at midday. → _____

2.5. Writing: My favourite meal

Activity2.5.1

Before you write, look at the table below. Use it to check if your favourite meal is balanced.

Component	Example of food	Why it is healthy
Carbohydrates	(e.g., Cassava / Rice)	It gives me energy.
Proteins	(e.g., Beans / Fish)	It helps me grow.
Vitamins	(e.g., Cabbage / Mango)	It protects me from illness.

Write a short paragraph (5–8 sentences) about your favourite meal. Follow the structure below:

1. Sentence 1: State what your favourite meal is.
2. Sentence 2-4: List the ingredients and say which food group they belong to (use your notes from Part A).
3. Sentence 5: Explain how this meal helps you in school.
4. Sentence 6: Conclude by saying why you enjoy it.

Activity2.5.2

Based on the "Nutrition" text you read earlier, write three golden rules for healthy eating. Start each sentence with: "We should..." or "We must..."

1. We should eat locally available fruits and vegetables.
2. We must...
3. We must...

2.6. Literature: Themes and messages in literary works

Activity 2.6.1:

Read the story below and answer the questions that follow;

Say No to Drugs

He was once happy, strong, and free,
With dreams of who he hoped to be.
Then drugs came close and said, "Just try,"
He believed the lie and asked not why.

Soon he was sad, weak, and alone,
School forgotten, dreams overthrown.
Drugs stole his smile, his hope, his way,
And turned his bright days dark and grey.

Dear young friend, please hear the truth:
Drugs destroy the life of youth.
Choose school, work, and honest ways,
Say no to drugs, protect your days.

Questions

1. What do you think this poem is mainly about?
2. Why do you think the poet wrote this poem?
3. What lesson can we learn from this poem?
4. How can this poem help us make better choices in our own life?

Notes

Themes and Messages

1. Theme

The theme is the main idea of a story or poem. It tells what the story or poem is mostly about.

Example: In "Say No to Drugs", the theme is that drugs are dangerous and harmful.

2. Message

The message is the lesson or advice the writer wants the reader to learn. It tells us what we should do or avoid.

Example: The poem teaches us to say no to drugs and choose a healthy life.

3. Examples from the Poem

- Theme: Drugs can destroy a person's life.
- Messages:
 - Drugs make people weak, sad, and stop them from achieving their dreams.
 - Avoid drugs and focus on school, work, and good habits.
 - Wise choices lead to a better and successful future.

4. Why Themes and Messages

- They help us understand the writer's purpose.
- They teach us good behavior and warn against bad behavior.
- They guide us to make better choices in life.

Activity 2.6.2:

Read the poem below and answer questions that follow;

The Gift of Kindness

A little smile, a helping hand,
Can change a heart, help someone stand.
A kind word spoken, gentle and true,
Can light the path for me and you.
Sharing food or sharing toys,
Brings more joy than worldly noise.
Treat others well, in all you do,
Kindness always comes back to you.

Questions

1. What is the theme of the poem?
2. What is the message of the poem?
3. Give one example from the poem of a kind action.
4. Why does the poet say that kindness "always comes back to you"?

2.7. Sounds and Spelling: Long and short vowels

Activity 2.7.1:

Read to recognize how differently the vowels sound

Distinguishing long and short vowels: /i:/ vs /ɪ/ and /u:/ vs /ʊ/

1. /i:/ (long) vs /ɪ/ (short)

/i:/ – Long vowel

Produced with the tongue high and forward in the mouth

Sound is longer and tenser

Example words:

1. sheep /ʃi:p/

2. beat /bi:t/

3. seat /si:t/

2. /ɪ/ – Short vowel

Tongue is slightly lower and more relaxed

Sound is shorter and looser

Example words:

1. ship /ʃɪp/

2. bit /bɪt/

3. sit /sɪt/

Example:

sheep /ʃi:p/ (animal) vs ship /ʃɪp/ (boat)

1. /u:/ (long) vs /ʊ/ (short)

/u:/ – Long vowel

Tongue is high and back

Lips are rounded

Sound is longer and tenser

Example words: food /fu:d/, pool /pu:l/

/ʊ/ – Short vowel

Tongue is slightly lower and more relaxed

Sound is shorter and softer

Example words: foot /fʊt/, look /lʊk/, pull /pʊl/

Example:

pool /pu:l/ (place to swim) vs pull /pʊl/ (to drag)

Activity 2.7.2:

Write /i:/ or /ɪ/ for the underlined vowel.

a) Sheep b) Sit, c) Leauve, d) Win. E) Teach, f) Hill, g) Cheeese, h) Fish

Experimental version

2.8. End of unit assessment

A. Knowledge and Understanding

1. Vocabulary and Nutrition

a) Match the food group in Column A with its function in Column B.

Column A	Column B
1. Carbohydrates	a) Help the body grow and repair
2. Proteins	b) Protect the body from disease

(we / us)

3. Sounds: Long and Short Vowels (4 marks)

a) Choose the word with a long vowel sound.

1. ship – sheep
2. pull – pool

b) Write /i:/ or /ɪ/ for the underlined vowel sound.

1. sit _____
2. cheese _____

B. Skills

4. Reading Comprehension

Read the text below and answer the questions.

Healthy Meals

A healthy meal contains carbohydrates, proteins, vitamins, and a small amount of fats. Rice and cassava give us energy. Beans, eggs, and fish help our bodies grow strong. Fruits and vegetables protect us from illness. Eating a balanced diet helps learners stay active and concentrate better in class.

Questions

1. Name two foods that give energy.
2. Which foods help the body grow strong?
3. Why are fruits and vegetables important?
4. How does a balanced diet help learners at school?

5. Listening (Teacher reads the text aloud twice)

Listening Text (for the teacher)

"Marie eats breakfast every morning. She drinks milk and eats fruits. At lunch, she eats rice and beans. She believes healthy food helps her study well and stay strong."

Questions

1. What meal does Marie eat every morning?
2. Mention one food Marie eats at lunch.
3. Why are fruits and vegetables important?
4. How does healthy food help Marie study well and stay strong?

6. Writing

Write one paragraph (5–7 sentences) about your favourite meal.

Your paragraph must include:

- At least one carbohydrate, one protein, and one vitamin food.
- At least two pronouns (subject, object, or possessive)
- Explain why the meal is good for your health.

C. Attitudes and Values

Answer the following questions in complete sentences.

1. Why is it important to eat a balanced diet?
2. How can healthy eating help you perform better at school?
3. How do you show responsibility when choosing what to eat?

UNIT 3: HOLIDAY ACTIVITIES

Picture A:

Picture B:

Key Unit Competence

To communicate effectively in both speaking and writing about holidays, past experiences, and planned activities using appropriate language while demonstrating confidence and respect.

Learning objectives

Knowledge and understanding

By the end of this unit, you will be able to

1. Recognize the use of past simple and past continuous tense forms, including affirmative, negative, and question structures, when talking about past holiday experiences.
2. Identify main and minor characters in a story and explain their roles in the narrative.
3. Recognize and identify words ending with the consonant sounds /s/, /z/, /t/, and /d/ in isolation and in short sentences.

Skills

1. Listen to audio recordings or spoken stories about holidays and extract specific details
2. Speak fluently and accurately about holiday experiences, using correct verb tenses, appropriate vocabulary, and clear pronunciation.
3. Write coherent texts describing past holiday experiences with correct structure, grammar, and sequencing.

Attitudes and Values

1. Demonstrate curiosity and interest in reading about holidays and applying new vocabulary in speaking or writing tasks.
2. Show a positive attitude toward listening, focusing carefully, and demonstrating interest in other people's experiences.
3. Show confidence and respect when sharing your experiences, listening attentively to others, and showing interest in classmates' stories.

Introduction to the unit

Holidays are exciting moments when people travel, relax, visit different places, and enjoy fun activities with family and friends. In this unit, you will learn to talk about past holiday experiences, describe places you visited, and explain activities you did during the holidays. You will develop listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills using the simple past and past continuous tenses. You will also learn to identify characters in stories, improve pronunciation of ending sounds, and write short personal recounts about memorable holiday experiences.

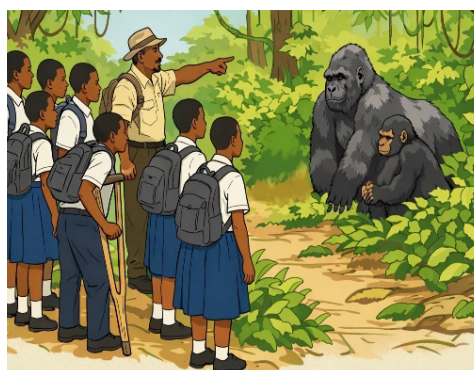

Introductory activity:

Look closely at the two pictures below. Each represents a different kind of holiday experience.

Picture A:

Picture B:

Read and discuss the following questions.

For Picture A

1. What are the people doing in this picture?
2. Why is this a good place to visit during the holidays?

1. Which animals do you recognize? Where in Rwanda can we find them?
2. Why do people travel long distances to visit these animals?
3. The Conservation Challenge: Discuss one thing you can do during your holiday to protect animals and the environment.

3.1. Reading about holidays and past experiences

Activity 3.1.1

Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow.

The holiday plans

Many students look forward to the next school holidays. There is excitement as holidays approach. Finally, they can take a break from routine. However, many students do not spend their leisure time productively.

Manzi and Ingabire were discussing how they are going to spend the six-week December holiday. The holiday was going to begin in three weeks. Both of them were excited.

Ingabire said, "This coming holiday, my sister and I are going to go to Rusizi. My uncle and other relatives live at the lake-view border town. My uncle, Nsengiyumva, has a big elegant mansion. We are going to stay there for three weeks.

"My sister and I are going by Volcano Bus. We are going to board it at Nyabugogo, at exactly 6:30 a.m. Since it's a long journey, we will carry snacks. When we arrive, I am going to help my aunt with house chores. I am also going to help keep the compound clean. My cousin, Kalisa, is going to take me around Rusizi Town. We'll cross the border. I hope we are going to travel by boat. What are your plans for the holiday, Manzi?"

"I am going to visit my aunt, Umutoni in Kigali. She has a big, beautiful house. She is coming back from China soon. She had gone there for business. My aunt is rich, successful and has many employees. However, I will offer to help with chores. I am going to spend most of my leisure time reading English and Kiswahili novels. English and Kiswahili are widely used in East African regional communication. I will easily interact with East Africans when I am fluent in both. My aunt is my role model. When I finish my studies, I am going to engage in business like her," Manzi said.

A. Comprehension Questions

1. What do many learners look forward to?
2. Why are learners excited as holidays approach?
3. How long is the December holiday mentioned in the text?
4. When was the holiday going to begin?
5. What is the name of Ingabire's uncle?

Experimental version

6. How long will Ingabire and her sister stay in Rusizi?
7. Which means of transport will Ingabire and her sister use?
8. Where will they board the bus?
9. At what time will they board the bus?

B. Discuss these Questions

1. What does the text suggest about how students usually spend their holidays?
2. Why can Ingabire's holiday be considered productive?
3. What shows that Ingabire's family is well prepared for her visit?
4. What can we learn about Ingabire's character from her plans?
5. Why does Ingabire mention exact details such as time and transport?
6. What do crossing the border and travelling by boat suggest about Ingabire's holiday plans?

3.2. Vocabulary activities

Activity 3.2.1

2. The girls are going to _____ the Volcano Bus at Nyabugogo.
3. They will carry _____ because the trip is long.
4. Their _____ will take several hours.

5. Ingabire will help with house _____ during her stay.
6. They will cross the Congo _____.
7. Their uncle lives in a large, elegant _____.
8. Many learners look forward to the school _____.

3.3. Listening: Past experience

Activity 3.3.1

Look at the pictures of places above

Discuss:

- Which place would you like to visit during a holiday?
- What activities can you do there?

Predict: What animals or objects might you see at each place?

Activity 3.3.2

Listen as the teacher reads the story below. Answer the questions

"Last month, our class went on a school trip. First, we visited Akagera National Park. We saw zebras, giraffes, and elephants. We had lunch near Lake Ihema and took a short boat ride. Later, we visited Rubavu and walked along Lake Kivu, enjoying the scenery and swimming in some areas. On the last day, we went to Sunny Coast Beach. We collected shells, built sandcastles, and had a picnic near the sandy beaches. Everyone was happy and learned a lot."

Comprehension Questions

1. Name one animal the students saw in Akagera National Park.
2. Where did the students have lunch at the national park?
3. What activity did students do at Lake Kivu?
4. Name two things students did at Sunny Coast Beach.
5. How did the students feel at the end of the trip?

3.4. Speaking: Describing my best holiday

Activity 3.4.1

Find a partner. One person is the Interviewer, and the other is the Traveler. Use the guide below to have a conversation. Act this in front of the class.

The Question	The Answer (Sentence Starter)
Where did you go for your holiday?	"I went to..."
Who did you go with?	"I went with my..." (family/friends/siblings)
What activities did you do there?	"We enjoyed..." (hiking/swimming/visiting)
What was your favourite moment?	"My favourite moment was when we..."
Would you like to go there again? Why?	"Yes/No, because it was..."

Activity 3.4.2

Role-Play: "The Surprise Return"

Scenario: Student A has just arrived at the bus station after a long holiday trip. Student B meets Student A unexpectedly and is very curious to know everything about the holiday.

- Student B (Curious Friend): "Welcome back! Tell me, where did you go?"
- Student A (Traveler): "I just returned from [Place]. It was amazing!"
- Student B: "Who went with you? And what did you see there?"
- Student A: "I went with [People]. We saw [Animals/Landmarks]."

Activity 3.4.3

Stand in front of the class and give a short 1-minute talk about your best holiday in Rwanda. Use the guide below to help you speak clearly.

1. Introduction: "The best holiday I ever had in Rwanda was in..."
2. The People: "I travelled there with..."
3. The Action: "While we were there, we..."
4. Conclusion: "I enjoyed it because..." (It was exciting / I learned a lot.)

B. Read the motion below and discuss whether you agree or disagree with it. Give reasons to support your ideas.

Motion: "Students learn more from holiday experiences than from classroom lessons."

Experimental version

- If you agree, think about learning how to cook, farm, travel, or speak to new people during holidays.
- If you disagree, think about learning subjects like Mathematics, Science, and English from teachers in class.

3.5. Language structure

A. THE PAST SIMPLE TENSE

1. What is the Past Simple tense?

We use the Past Simple tense to talk about actions that started and finished in the past. It is the most common tense used for telling stories about holidays.

2. How to build the Past Simple

To use this tense correctly, we must look at three different types of sentences: Affirmative (Yes), Negative (No), and Interrogative (Question).

Sentence Type	Structure	Example
Affirmative (+)	Subject + Past Verb	They took pictures at Akagera.
Negative (-)	Subject + did not (didn't) + Base Verb	I didn't travel far last holiday.
Interrogative (?)	Did + Subject + Base Verb...?	Did you go to Musanze?

Important Rule: In Negative and Question forms, we use "did". When "did" is in the sentence, the main verb must go back to its original form (e.g., I didn't visit, NOT I didn't visited).

Use	Explanation	Example
Completed Action	A finished action at a specific time.	We visited the beach last summer.
Series of Actions	Telling a story in order.	We arrived, checked in, and swam.
Past Habits	Things you did regularly before.	We always visited relatives in August.
Past Facts	Things that were true before.	They lived in Spain when they were young.

Practice Activities

Activity 3.5.1

Change the sentences below into the Past Simple as requested in the brackets.

1. I visit Rubavu last holiday. (+ Affirmative) _____
2. We saw many elephants. (- Negative) _____

Experimental version

3. He visits the hot springs. (? Interrogative) _____
4. They travel to Akagera National Park. (+ Affirmative) _____
5. She eats lunch at the hotel. (- Negative) _____

Activity 3.5.2

Complete the sentences using the correct Past Simple form of the verb in brackets.

1. We _____ (visit) the museum yesterday.
2. She _____ (not / eat) breakfast this morning because she was late.
3. They _____ (go) to the beach last weekend and played volleyball.
4. I _____ (see) a movie last night, but I _____ (not / like) it.
5. _____ (you / enjoy) your trip to the National Park?

Activity 3.5.3

Past tense verbs are divided into two families, Regular and Irregular. Look at the list and place them in the correct house.

walk, buy, play, go, see, talk eat, clean

The regular house (-ed)	The irregular house
1. _____	1. _____
2. _____	2. _____
3. _____	3. _____
4. _____	4. _____

B. PAST CONTINUOUS TENSE

The Past Continuous presents an action as in progress at a particular past time.

Sentence Type	Structure	Example
Affirmative (+)	Subject + was/were + verb- ing	I was swimming in Lake Kivu.
Negative (-)	Subject + wasn't/weren't + verb- ing	They weren't taking pictures.
Interrogative (?)	Was/Were + Subject + verb- ing ?	Were they walking on the beach?

Using Past Continuous with Past Simple

Experimental version

We often use these two tenses together to show that a short action (Past Simple) interrupted a long action (Past Continuous).

Example: "We were swimming (Long action) when we saw (Short action) a big wave."

C. TIME EXPRESSIONS & SEQUENCING WORDS

To tell a good holiday story, you need to show the order of events.

To show...	Words to use
The Start	First, In the beginning, Early in the morning.
The Middle	Then, After that, Later, Next.
Simultaneous Actions	While (I was eating while they were playing).
The End	Finally, In the end, Eventually.

Activity 3.5.4

Use the prompts to create full sentences in the Past Continuous.

1. (they / dance) → They were dancing.
2. (she / not / read/ a story book) → _____
3. (I / sleep / when the phone rang) → _____
4. (we / eat / dinner / at 8 PM) → _____
5. (he / not / work / at 10 a.m. yesterday) → _____

3.6. Writing: Personal recount of last holiday

Activity 3.6.1

1. Think about your last holiday. Answer these questions to plan your writing:

- Where did you go?
- Who went with you?
- What activities did you do?
- What was your favourite moment?
- How did you feel at the end of the holiday?

2. Write a personal recount of your holiday using 5–8 sentences. Make sure to:

- Start with a sentence introducing when and where you went.
- Describe the activities in order.
- Use words that show your feelings (e.g., happy, excited, tired).
- End with a sentence about how you felt at the end.

Example: "Last holiday, I went to Akagera National Park with my class. First, we saw zebras and elephants. Then we had lunch near the lake. We went on a short boat ride. I was very happy. I enjoyed the holiday very much."

Activity 3.7.1

Read the story below and answer the questions

MUGABO, THE MIGHTY

Once upon a time, there lived a widower in Central Rwanda. He had refused to remarry for fear that a step-mother would mistreat his children. His friends and relatives had abandoned him, saying that they could not trust a man who did not have a wife. But the man stuck to his conviction until all his children became mature and self-reliant. One day, he brought his children together and told them:

"Your mother died when you were still young, but I decided to stay a widower because I feared that a step-mother would mistreat you. Now that you are big enough to defend yourselves, I want to know what you would like to do for me in return."

Each, except the last born, said what he would do for his beloved father. When the last born was asked to say something, he kept quiet because he did not know what to say.

After a few months, the old man called his sons again. He slaughtered a fat bull and carefully roasted its meat for that particular occasion. He hoped that his last born would then say what he would do for him, but still the young man did not have anything to say. So, his brothers got very angry with him, started beating him and even chased him out of that family. As he was allowed to take with him whatever he wanted, he collected some pieces of roasted meat, packed them well and left. Whenever he got hungry, he would exchange some meat for other food and life went on until the meat was finished. He tried to persevere but his patience ran out after three days without eating. He finally decided to look for employment.

He asked a certain man to employ him. The man asked him:

"What is your name and what are you able to do?"

"I am called Mugabo the Mighty and the only job that I can do for you is to carry your tobacco pipe," said the young man.

The man told him that he could not employ somebody just to carry his pipe. He advised him to try his luck elsewhere.

Later that day, he met another man to whom he told the same thing and the man offered him a job. The young man was happy. For some months, the lad ate and slept well.

Then one day his employer asked him:

"Hey! What did you say your name was?"

"Mugabo the Mighty, Sir."

"Are you sure you are Mighty?" asked the employer.

"Oh, yes! No man in this entire region can match me," answered the young man.

"Does that include me and the king?" asked the employer.

"Absolutely! I am mightier than both of you."

"Then I must go and report this to the king," threatened the employer.

"Go right ahead, Sir," replied the young man.

When they reached the king's palace, the employer said what the young man had told him. The king asked Mugabo whether that was true and the young man confirmed that it was true. Then the king said:

"Remain here so that I may confirm whether you are really mightier than any of us in this region."

One fine morning, the king asked Mugabo to clear a well that was infested by dangerous snakes and surrounded by a thick forest. That forest was inhabited by fierce animals such as lions, leopards and buffalos. Mugabo went there fearlessly and cleared the forest and the well. He killed any animal that approached him. After one week of hard work, he sent a message to the king to come and inspect the well. He added that if he wished, he could bring his cows to drink water from it.

The king told his herdsman to take cows to the well. After the cows had drunk water, Mugabo escorted them back to the king's palace. The herdsman reported how beautiful the well was and the king was happy but not fully contented. So, he thought of a more difficult task. The king asked the young man to follow his men and carry out any orders that would be given to him.

Together, they walked until they reached a hard rock. They asked Mugabo to get firewood from that rock. They gave him an axe and told him that it should remain unscratched after the exercise. They left him there and went back to the king's palace. After they had left, the rock was struck by lightning. Immediately, a snake emerged and tied together the broken pieces of rock. The lightning struck again and placed the load on the young man's head. Then, a supernatural wind blew him and dropped him in the king's palace. Those who had given him that task arrived several hours later. They were all exhausted and too tired to talk. The king was amazed, especially when he observed that Mugabo looked fresh while the axe was unscathed.

A few months later, the king called for him again and gave him another test. He told him that there was a field, far away, that needed planting. He added:

"The field is already cleared. I just want you to sow the whole of it with finger millet." He gave him servants to help him carry the finger millet for sowing. But the field had not been cleared. In fact, it was a virgin bush.

Experimental version

The servants left him there and returned to the palace. While he was still wondering how to approach the challenge, a multitude of rodents in various species appeared and told him:

"Do not worry. We have come to help you."

As soon as they had finished saying that, they started burrowing the field and before sunset, the whole field was ready for planting.

Questions

1. Who does the story mostly focus on, and why is he important to the story?
2. How do his actions influence what happens in the story?
3. Who are the people that appear briefly but affect his journey or test him?
4. How do the actions of others help to show his strength or abilities?
5. What lesson can we learn from how he faces challenges in the story?

Notes

Main Characters

A main character is the most important person in a story. The story is built around this person, and most events happen because of what he or she does.

Features

- The story mainly talks about this person.
- He or she appears throughout the story.
- Most events happen because of his or her actions.
- The message of the story is shown through this person.

Example

- Mugabo the Mighty is the main character.
- The story follows his life, challenges, and success.
- His strength, patience, and courage move the story forward.

2. Minor Characters

Minor characters are people who support the story but are not the main focus of story.

Features

- They appear for a short time.
- They help develop the story.
- They test, support, or challenge the main character.

Examples

- Mugabo's father introduces the family background.
- Mugabo's brothers create conflict by chasing him away.
- The employer and the king test Mugabo's abilities.
- Other helpers show his special powers.

3. Why we need characters in stories

- Main and minor characters work together to develop the events of the story.
- Minor characters help to show the qualities of the main character, such as strength, patience, and courage.
- Through the actions and experiences of the characters, the story teaches a moral lesson: patience, self-belief, and perseverance can lead to success.

Activity 3.7.2

Read the story below and answer the questions that follow;

Rukundo the tireless

Long ago, in a hilly village, there lived a young man called Rukundo. He was known for his hard work and patience. When others rested, Rukundo worked. When others complained, he remained calm and focused.

Rukundo lived with his uncle, who often gave him heavy tasks. Many people in the village thought the tasks were too difficult, but Rukundo never refused. He believed that hard work would one day change his life.

In the same village lived a young man called Bena, who hated work. He laughed at Rukundo and said, "Why struggle so much? Life should be easy." Other lazy youths agreed with him and spent their days sleeping, gossiping and enjoying themselves on the shore of Lake Kivu.

One season, the village chief announced that a large road had to be cleared through a thick forest so that traders could reach the village. Many young men, including Bena, avoided the work. Rukundo stepped forward and began clearing the road alone.

For many days, Rukundo cut bushes, removed stones, and worked under the hot sun. Though tired, he did not give up. When the chief came to inspect the work, he found the road already cleared. The chief was amazed and praised Rukundo in front of the whole village.

Because of his hard work, Rukundo was given land and tools to start his own farm. Bena and the lazy youths were ashamed and realized that laziness only brings regret.

Questions

1. Who is the major character in the story?
2. What actions show that he is the major character?
3. Who are the minor characters in the story?
4. What role does the village chief play in the story?
5. What lesson can we learn from the story?

3.8. Sounds and spellings: Ending consonant sounds (/s/, /z/, /t/, /d/)

Activity 3.8.1

Look at the words in the box below. Say them out loud. Put each word into the correct column based on the sound you hear at the end, not just the letters you see.

beds, cat, maps, road, played, dogs, seat, rice

/s/ (Hiss)	/z/ (Buzz)	/t/ (Sharp)	/d/ (Soft)
1. Rice	1. _____	1. Cat	1. _____
2. _____	2. _____	2. _____	2. _____

Learning the Sounds

Sound	Description	Examples
/s/	A "hissing" sound (like a snake).	Rice, Kiss, Bus, Class
/z/	A "buzzing" sound (like a bee).	Doors, Days, Boys, Bees
/t/	A short, "sharp" sound.	Cat, Hat, Light, Sit
/d/	A "soft, deep" sound.	Road, Bed, Card, Friend

The /-ed/ and /-s/ endings

- The /s/ vs /z/ rule: If a word ends in a "vocal" sound (your throat vibrates), the "s" sounds like /z/ (e.g., Dogs, Cars). If it ends in a "quiet" sound, it sounds like /s/ (e.g., Maps, Cats).
- The /t/ vs /d/ rule (Past tense of Regular verbs):

1. /t/ sound

The -ed is pronounced /t/ when the verb ends in a voiceless sound (/p/, /k/, /f/, /s/, /ʃ/, /tʃ/).

Examples:

- help → helped /helpɪt/
- wash → washed /wɒʃt/
- look → looked /lʊkt/
- jump → jumped /dʒʌmpt/

2. /d/ sound

The -ed is pronounced /d/ when the verb ends in a voiced sound (all sounds except /t/ and /d/).

Examples:

- play → played /pleɪd/
- clean → cleaned /kliːnd/
- call → called /kɔːld/
- rain → rained /reɪnd/

3. /ɪd/ sound

The -ed is pronounced /ɪd/ after /t/ or /d/

Examples:

- need → needed /'niːdɪd/
- want → wanted /'wɒntɪd/

Activity 3.8.2

Read these sentences aloud. Pay close attention to the bolded ending sounds.

1. The bus (/s/) is full of boys (/z/).
2. The cat (/t/) sat on the bed (/d/).
3. She liked (/t/) the maps (/s/) of the roads (/z/).
4. Our class (/s/) starts (/s/) in ten days (/z/)

3.9. End of unit assessment

A. Knowledge and Understanding

1. Grammar and Tenses (Past Simple & Past Continuous)

a) Fill in the blanks with the correct Past Simple form of the verbs in brackets:

1. Last holiday, we _____ (visit) Akagera National Park.
2. She _____ (not / eat) breakfast because she was late.
3. They _____ (go) to the beach and played volleyball.
4. I _____ (catch) a movie, but I _____ (not / like) it.
5. _____ (you / enjoy) your trip to Lake Kivu?

b) Rewrite these sentences in Past Continuous:

1. I / read a storybook / when the phone rang → _____
2. They / play football / at 5 p.m. → _____
3. She / not / cook / when I arrived → _____

c) Choose the correct sentence:

1. I (was walking / were walking) to the park when it started to rain.
2. They (was dancing / were dancing) all evening.

2. Characters in Stories

Read the story summary below and answer the questions:

Story: Mugabo the Mighty went through many challenges, completing difficult tasks and showing courage, patience, and strength. He was helped by animals and tested by the king.

1. Who is the main character, and why is he important?
2. Name two minor characters and explain how they influence Mugabo's journey.
3. What lesson does the story teach about facing challenges?

3. Vocabulary and Word Recognition

a) Match the words in Column A with their correct meanings in Column B.

Column A	Column B
1. Holiday	A. A break from school or work
2. Journey	B. A trip from one place to another
3. Mansion	C. A very large and expensive house
4. Snacks	D. Light food eaten between meals
5. Border town	E. A town located near the boundary between two countries

b) Word endings: Say the words aloud and write the sound you hear at the end: /s/, /z/, /t/, or /d/

Words: beds, cat, maps, cars, liked, dogs, seat, rice

B. Skills

1. Reading Comprehension

Read the passage below and answer the questions:

"Last month, our class went on a school trip. First, we visited Akagera National Park. We saw zebras and giraffes. Later, we visited Lake Kivu, swam, and enjoyed the scenery. On the last day, we went to Sunny Coast Beach, built sandcastles, and had a picnic. Everyone was happy at the end of the trip."

1. Name one animal seen at Akagera National Park.
2. What did the students do at Lake Kivu?
3. Name two activities at Sunny Coast Beach.
4. How did the students feel at the end of the trip?

2. Listening and Speaking

Part A – Interview (Role-Play):

- Pair up. Student A is the Interviewer; Student B is the Traveler. Ask and answer the following questions:
 1. Where did you go for your holiday?
 2. Who went with you?
 3. What activities did you do?
 4. What was your favourite moment?
 5. Would you like to go there again? Why?

Part B – Short Presentation:

- Stand in front of the class and talk about your best holiday using this structure:
 1. Introduction: "The best holiday I ever had in Rwanda was in..."
 2. People: "I travelled there with..."
 3. Activities: "While we were there, we..."
 4. Conclusion: "I enjoyed it because..."

3. Writing

Write a personal recount of your last holiday using 5–8 sentences. Make sure to:

- Use Past Simple and Past Continuous tenses.
- Describe events in order using time expressions (first, then, later, finally).
- Use words that show your feelings (e.g., happy, excited, tired).

Example: "Last holiday, we went to Akagera National Park. First, we saw zebras and elephants. Then we had lunch near the lake. I was very happy. I enjoyed the holiday very much."

4. Spelling & Phonics

Read the sentences aloud and pay attention to the ending sounds:

1. The bus (/s/) is full of boys (/z/).
2. The cat (/t/) sat on the bed (/d/).
3. She liked (/t/) the maps (/s/) of the roads (/z/).
4. Our class (/s/) starts (/s/) in ten days (/z/).

C. Attitudes and Values

1. How can you show respect when listening to your classmate's holiday story?
2. Give one example of a productive activity you can do during holidays.
3. Why is it important to pay attention to details when telling or writing about past experiences?

Project: "A Holiday to Remember" – Travel Promotion Business

Imagine you are the owner of a small travel company in Rwanda. Choose one tourist place you would like to promote and prepare a simple travel promotion about it. Write a short travel story describing what you saw, did, and enjoyed there using past tense verbs and descriptive words. Then write a short message inviting tourists to visit the place and present your ideas orally, explaining why the place is interesting for visitors and helpful to the local community.

UNIT 4:

CLOTHES

AND FASHION

Key Unit Competence

To communicate effectively in speaking and writing about clothes and dressing styles for different occasions while valuing cleanliness and smart appearance.

Learning Objectives

Knowledge and Understanding

By the end of this unit, you should be able to:

- Describe different types of clothes using appropriate adjectives such as long, colourful, smart, and traditional.
- Explain and use when-clauses to describe time and situations in sentences.
- Identify and apply correct word stress in two-syllable words related to clothes and fashion.

Skills

- Read descriptive passages about what people are wearing.
- Listen to short spoken texts and identify clothes worn for different occasions.
- Write a short descriptive paragraph about appropriate clothing for a specific event.
- Pronounce and stress two-syllable words related to clothes and fashion accurately.
- Analyse and interpret characters' traits by examining their clothing and behaviour in a story.

Attitudes and Values

- Appreciate the importance of dressing neatly and appropriately for different occasions.
- Show respect for cultural and traditional dress codes.
- Value cleanliness, smartness, and good personal appearance.
- Appreciate positive personal traits such as kindness, honesty, and respect.

Introduction to the unit:

Clothes help people look neat, comfortable, and suitable for different occasions. In this unit, you will develop your listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills as you learn how to describe clothes, talk about fashion, and choose appropriate outfits for different activities and events.

Introductory activity: Picture interpretation

Observe the picture below carefully and answer the questions that follow.

1. What clothes can you see in the picture?
2. How can you differentiate between men's clothes and women's clothes in the picture?
3. Why do you think men and women often wear different types of clothes for different occasions?

4.1. Reading: Describing clothes

Activity 4.1.1

Name and describe clothes on images below. Talk about their colour, length, material, pattern and shape

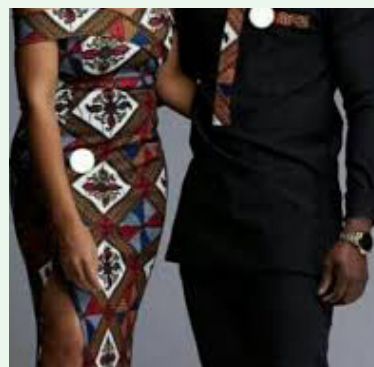

In your description you might need to use some of the following sentence starters:

- In picture 1 I can see) _____
- In the first picture there is/are _____
- The (clothing item) is _____
- The man/ woman in picture 2 is wearing (colour + clothing item) _____

Picture A:

Picture B:

Activity 4.1.2

Read the passage below carefully and then answer the questions that follow.

Passage: Choosing What to Wear

Before leaving the house, I always take a moment to consider what to wear. On a normal school day, I must put on my school uniform. However, everything changes during the holidays. If the weather is cold, I wear a heavy jacket, a coat, or a cardigan. When it is drizzling, I put on a raincoat and gumboots. On a sunny day, I choose light clothing.

Both the occasion and the weather determine what I wear. An occasion may be formal or informal. For a formal occasion, I wear formal clothes such as a suit. Examples of formal occasions include interviews and weddings, where many people choose to wear suits. On informal occasions, my clothing is casual. Sports days and parties are examples of informal occasions.

During traditional ceremonies, many people wear cultural dress. Women often wear long, flowing silk gowns, mostly in blue and white colours. Men usually wear white vests and loose-fitting wrappers tied around the waist, along with headgear. These clothes reflect tradition and cultural identity.

Comprehension Questions

A. Literal Comprehension and Textual Analysis

1. What does the writer do before leaving the house?
2. What does the writer wear on a normal school day?
3. How does the writer decide what to wear during the holidays?
4. According to the passage, what determines the type of clothing people wear?
5. Mention two examples of formal occasions given in the text.

B. Interpretation of the Text

1. Why do you think the writer takes time to consider what to wear before leaving the house?
2. According to the passage, what problems might arise if someone ignores the weather or occasion when choosing clothes?
3. Why are cultural dresses important during traditional ceremonies?
4. How does the passage show the connection between clothing and social expectations?

4.2. Vocabulary activities

Activity 4.2.1

Match the words in Column A with their correct meanings in Column B

Column A	Column B
Uniform	Matching formal jacket and trousers
Cardigan	Clothing worn by students at school
Raincoat	A meeting for a job opportunity
Suit	Waterproof coat
Interview	Knitted jacket opening at the front

Activity 4.2.2

Fill in the blanks with the correct word from the box below.

Uniform, coat, cardigan, raincoat, gumboots, suit, casual, formal, gowns, wrappers

1. On a normal school day, I must put on my _____.
2. If it is cold, I wear a heavy jacket, _____ or cardigan.

Experimental version

3. If it is drizzling, I wear a _____ and _____.
4. For a wedding, some people wear a _____.
5. On informal occasions, I wear _____ clothing.
6. During traditional ceremonies, women wear long flowing silk _____.
7. Men wear loose-fitting _____ tied around the waist.

4.3. Listening: Choosing the right clothes

Activity 4.3.1

Listen to the teacher reading the scenario and answer the questions that follow

"When I woke up this morning, the weather was very cold and windy. I knew I needed something warm. I opened my wardrobe and chose a thick sweater and a wool coat. I also put on a scarf to keep my neck warm. In the afternoon, the weather changed. The sun came out and it became warm, so I removed my coat and wore a light T-shirt instead."

Questions:

1. What was the weather like in the morning?
2. What two warm items did the speaker wear?
3. What did the speaker add to keep their neck warm?
4. What happened in the afternoon?
5. What did the speaker wear when it became warm?

4.4. Speaking: Buying clothes

Activity 4.4.1

Pair role play: Choosing appropriate clothes to buy

Role-play the situation below. After completing the role play, swap roles and repeat the activity.

Scenario: Student A is going to an important event (for example: an interview, a wedding, a party, or a school function). Student B is a fashion adviser and shop owner.

Task: Student B should suggest suitable clothes for the event and explain the reasons for each choice, considering factors such as occasion, weather, culture, and cleanliness. Student A should listen, ask questions, and respond politely.

Experimental version

Examples:

Student A: Hello! I am going to a wedding this weekend. I want to buy suitable clothes. Can you help me?

Student B: Of course. You should buy a smart suit or a beautiful dress because a wedding is a formal occasion.

Student A: Do you have my size?

Student B: Yes. Please try this one. It fits you well.

Student A: I like it. How much does it cost?

Student B: It costs 40,000 RWF. The shoes are 15,000 RWF.

Student A: That is good. I will take them. Thank you for your help.

Student B: You are welcome. You will look smart and elegant at the wedding.

Activity 4.4.2

Organize an in-classroom debate on the motion: "Traditional clothes should be worn more often than modern clothes."

Debate Setup:

Divide the class into two teams:

- Team A (For / Proposition)
- Team B (Against / Opposition)

Debate Structure: Each team should present:

Opening statement – Introduce the team's position

Three main arguments – Support the position with clear reasons and examples

Rebuttal – Respond to the opposing team's arguments

Closing statement – Summarise the team's views clearly

4.5. Language focus: When-clauses and adjectives

A. When-Clauses:

1. When + Present Simple → Habit or Routine

Use this form to talk about actions that usually happen.

Examples:

- When I go to school, I wear my school uniform.
- When it rains, I wear a raincoat.

Reversed order:

- I wear a jacket when it is cold.
- I change my clothes when I get home.

2. When + Present Simple → Future Meaning

Use the present tense after when to talk about future plans.

Examples:

- When the wedding day arrives, I will wear a suit.
- When the holiday starts, I will wear casual clothes.

3. When + Past Simple → Past Routine

Use this to talk about what you used to do in the past.

Examples:

- When I was in primary school, I wore a uniform every day.
- When it was cold, we wore sweaters to school.

4. When + -ing form → Simultaneous Actions

Use this to show two actions happening at the same time.

Examples:

- When choosing my clothes, I think about the weather.
- When wearing traditional dress, people feel proud of their culture.

5. Placement of When-Clauses

A when-clause can come at the beginning or end of a sentence.

Examples:

- When it is sunny, I wear light clothes.
- I wear boots when it is rainy.

Note: If the sentence starts with when, use a comma after the clause.

B. Present Continuous Tense

1. Read the sentences out loud

1. Maria is wearing a blue blouse.
2. John is taking off his shirt.
3. Mrs. Gasana is wearing a black pair of trousers.
4. Charles is wearing a T-shirt and a brown pair of shorts.
5. Alice is wearing a white blouse and a black skirt.

Note: The words in bold are verbs showing the present continuous tense, also called the present progressive tense.

2. Formation of Present Continuous Tense

The present continuous tense is formed as: am / is / are + verb-ing

3. Uses of Present Continuous Tense

- Actions happening right now: Things happening at this moment.

Example: The tailor is sewing a school uniform.

- Temporary actions (not permanent): Something happening around this time, but not forever.

Example: He is wearing sports clothes this week because he is taking part in school games

- Actions happening "right around now";
- Actions in progress, not necessarily at the exact moment.

Example: Students are learning about clothes this term.

- Future arrangements / planned events;
- Fixed plans in the near future.

Example: She is buying a new dress for the wedding tomorrow.

C. Adjectives for Describing Clothes

We can describe clothes by their colour, length, material, pattern, shape, style, or thickness.

Examples:

1. The shoes I am wearing are in fashion. (describing style)
2. The jumper he is wearing is green. (describing colour)
3. The dress she is wearing is long. (describing length)
4. The shorts he is wearing are made of cotton. (describing material)
5. The cap he is wearing is flowery. (describing pattern)
6. The scarf I am wearing is rectangular. (describing shape)
7. The jacket he is wearing when it is cold is very thick. (thickness)

Activity 4.5.1

Use adjectives below to describe your clothes and your friend's clothes. You may use a dictionary to understand new adjectives. Construct your sentences using present continuous tense. Then present your sentences to the class.

Adjectives to describe clothes:

Baggy, boot-cut, clingy, casual, close-fitting, conservative, comfortable, designer, full, full-length, heavy, hooded, ill-fitting, informal, knee-length, loose-fitting, low-cut, open-necked, oversized, padded, plunging, revealing, scanty, seamless, skin-tight, sleeveless, starched, strapless, polo-neck, V-neck

4.6. Writing: Describing an occasion based on clothes

Activity 4.6.1

Describing a Person

- Look at your partner (or imagine one).
- Write 5–6 sentences describing what the person is wearing right now.

Activity 4.6.2

Describing Your Clothing Style

- Write a short paragraph (5–7 sentences) about your usual clothing style.
- Include colours, patterns, fabrics, and your favorite outfit.

4.7. Literature: Character traits and context

Activity 4.7.1

Read the story below and answer questions that follow;

Amani and the Lost Goat

In a quiet village, there lived a boy named Amani. He was known for being honest, kind, and hardworking. Amani always helped his parents in the farm and looked after his younger siblings.

One morning, Amani's neighbour, Juma, shouted in panic. His goat had escaped and was running towards the forest. Amani ran to help, even though he had chores to finish.

Along the way, Amani met his friend Biko, who loved playing and often avoided work. Biko said, "Let's go play instead. The goat can wait." But Amani replied, "We must help Juma. It's the right thing to do."

Amani ran through the forest carefully, calling the goat. When he finally found it stuck between two bushes, he gently freed it and led it safely back to Juma. The neighbour thanked him and praised his bravery and kindness.

That evening, Amani's parents were proud of him. They said, "Amani, you have shown honesty, kindness, and courage. These traits will always help you in life."

Questions

1. Who is the story mainly about?
2. What did you like most about Amani?
3. What didn't you like about Biko?
4. What did Biko suggest they do instead of helping?
5. How did Juma and Amani's parents feel about what he did?

Notes

Character Traits

1. Meaning of character traits

- Character traits are the qualities or features that describe a person
- They show what a person is like inside, not just what they do.
- Traits can be good or bad.

2. Types of Traits

- Positive traits: honest, kind, brave, hardworking, helpful
- Negative traits: lazy, selfish, rude, dishonest, careless

3. How to identify traits

- By looking at what a character does.
 - Example: Amani rescued the goat → shows he is brave and helpful.
- By what a character says.
 - Example: Amani said, "We must help Juma. It's the right thing to do." → shows he is responsible.
- By how others react to the character.
 - Example: Juma thanked Amani → shows he did something good.

4. Why character traits

- They help us understand characters better.
- They help us learn lessons about behaviour.
- They make stories interesting and meaningful.

Experimental version

Activity 4.7.2

Read the story below and answer the questions that follow;

Sara and the Lost Book

Sara was a bright and curious girl who loved reading. Every day after school, she visited the library to explore new books. She was careful with books and always returned them on time.

One afternoon, Sara noticed a new student, Tendo, looking sad. Tendo had dropped his notebook and could not find it. Sara ran to help him, picked up the notebook, and handed it back. Tendo smiled and thanked her.

Later, during a library project, some students were tempted to take books without signing them. Sara reminded them politely that it was wrong and explained why rules were important. Some students listened, while others ignored her advice.

By the end of the week, Sara's teacher praised her for being helpful, honest, and responsible, and said her example inspired other students to behave well in the library.

Questions

1. Name at least four positive traits of Sara from the story.
2. Which negative traits do some minor characters show?
3. How do we know Sara is helpful and responsible?
4. What does the story teach us?

4.8. Sounds and spelling: Word stress in two-syllable words: (deSIGN, reLAX)

Word stress in two-syllable nouns and verbs

- Two-syllable nouns and adjectives: Stress is usually on the first syllable

Word	Stress Pattern
Table	TA-ble
Window	WIN-dow
Happy	HAP-py
Clever	CLE-ver

Experimental version

- Two-syllable verbs: Stress is usually on the second syllable

Word	Stress Pattern
Relax	re LAX
Begin	be GIN
Arrive	ar RIVE
Enjoy	en JOY

Activity 4.8.1

Underline the syllable that is stressed in each word.

1. Table
2. Window
3. Happy
4. Clever
5. Relax
6. Begin
7. Arrive
8. Enjoy

Activity 4.8.2

Listen and repeat (Pronunciation practice)

Your teacher will say the words aloud. Listen carefully and repeat, stressing the correct syllable.

- TA-ble
- WIN-dow
- HAP-py
- re-LAX
- be-GIN
- ar-RIVE

4.9. End of unit assessment

Section A: Knowledge and Understanding

1. Multiple Choice Questions (Choose the correct answer)

- a) Which of these is an example of a formal occasion?
 - i. Sports day
 - ii. Wedding
 - iii. Picnic
 - iv. Library visit
- b) When the weather is cold, which of the following is suitable clothing?
 - i. T-shirt
 - ii. Raincoat
 - iii. Wool coat
 - iv. Shorts

c) Identify the correct sentence using a when-clause:

- i. I wear my uniform when I go to school.
- ii. I wear uniform when I went school.
- iii. Wearing uniform I go to school when.
- iv. I wear when uniform to school.

d) Two-syllable words usually stressed on the first syllable are:

- i. table, window
- ii. relax, begin
- iii. enjoy, arrive
- iv. choose, wear

e) Two-syllable verbs usually stressed on the second syllable are:

- i. happy, clever
- ii. arrive, relax
- iii. table, window
- iv. blue, dress

2. Read the passage and answer the questions below:

Passage:

"Before going out, I check the weather and choose my clothes carefully. On cold mornings, I wear a jacket and scarf. When it rains, I wear a raincoat and gumboots. For formal occasions such as weddings, I wear a suit. For informal occasions such as picnics, I wear casual clothes. During cultural celebrations, I wear traditional dresses to show respect for my heritage."

Questions:

1. What does the speaker wear on cold mornings?
2. Which clothes are worn during rainy weather?
3. Why does the speaker wear traditional clothes during cultural celebrations?
4. Mention one formal and one informal occasion from the passage.
5. Rewrite this sentence using a when-clause at the beginning: "I wear a suit for formal events."

3. Character Traits Analysis

Read the short story excerpt and answer the questions:

"Amani always helped his parents and looked after his younger siblings. One day, his neighbour's goat ran into the forest. Amani ran to help, even though he had chores to finish. He rescued the goat and returned it safely."

- a) Who is the main character in the story?
- b) Mention two positive traits of Amani.
- c) How do we know Amani is responsible?
- d) What lesson can we learn from Amani's actions?

Section B: Skills

1. Listening Comprehension

Teacher reads aloud:

"When I woke up today, it was very cold. I wore a thick sweater and a wool coat. I also wore a scarf and gloves. Later, the sun came out, and it became warm. I removed my coat and wore a T-shirt."

Questions:

1. What was the weather like in the morning?
2. Name three items the speaker wore to stay warm.
3. What did the speaker wear when it became warm?
4. Which word describes how the weather changed during the day?

2. Speaking: Role Play

Work in pairs. One student is going to a formal event, and the other is a fashion adviser. Use prompts below. Swap roles after the first round.

- Adviser: "You should wear ... because ..."
- Student: "Thank you. Why do you suggest that?"

Scenario examples: wedding, interview, sports day, cultural celebration.

3. Writing

Write a short paragraph (5–7 sentences) describing:

- a) Your usual clothing style. Include: colours, patterns, fabrics, and favourite outfit.
- b) What you would wear for a formal and informal occasion and why.

4. Vocabulary & Grammar

A. Fill in the blanks using words from the box:

Uniform, coat, cardigan, raincoat, gumboots, suit, casual, formal, gown, wrappers

1. On a normal school day, I must put on my _____.
2. If it is cold, I wear a heavy jacket, _____ or cardigan.
3. If it is raining, I wear a _____ and _____.
4. For a wedding, some people wear a _____.
5. On informal occasions, I wear _____ clothes.
6. Women wear long flowing silk _____ during cultural ceremonies.
7. Men wear loose-fitting _____ tied around the waist.

B. Present Continuous Tense

Rewrite the sentences in Present Continuous:

1. Maria / wear / a blue blouse → _____
2. John / take off / his shirt → _____
3. Charles / wear / a T-shirt and shorts → _____

C. Adjectives

Look at the picture (teacher shows a man and woman). Describe what each is wearing using adjectives:

- e.g., long, colourful, loose-fitting, casual, formal, traditional.

D. Word Stress

Underline the stressed syllable in the two-syllable words:

1. Window
2. Relax
3. Clever
4. Begin
5. Enjoy

Section C: Attitudes and Values

1. Discuss

Debate the motion in class:

"Traditional clothes should be worn more often than modern clothes."

- Give one argument in favour.
- Give one argument against.
- Show respect for the opinions of others during the debate.

2. Personal Reflection

Write 3–4 sentences on why dressing neatly and appropriately is important. Mention at least one value you show when dressing smartly (e.g., respect, cleanliness, confidence).

End of Unit 4-Project

Project: Healthy lifestyles for our community

"Have you noticed that some students eat too much junk food or wear uncomfortable clothes at school? How do you think this affects their health and confidence?" Work in your group to solve this issue. Follow the steps below:

1. Identify the problem

Discuss common problems such as eating too much junk food or wearing uncomfortable clothes at school. Explain how these problems affect health, comfort, confidence, or learning.

2. Plan your solution

Create a healthy meal, snack, or simple advice about comfortable and appropriate clothing for school activities. Use local foods and practical ideas.

3. Write short descriptions

Write simple English sentences to describe your product or idea. Use descriptive and persuasive words.

4. Create a small business idea

Decide how your group can sell or promote the idea, such as recipe cards, healthy snacks, or school wear advice. Set a simple price.

5. Present your project

Present your work to the class. Clearly explain:

- the problem,
- your solution,
- how it helps the community,
- and how it can generate income.

UNIT 5:

THE PHYSICAL ENVIRONMENT

Key Unit Competence

To communicate effectively in speaking and writing about the physical environment, weather, and natural resources, using appropriate language, while showing care, responsibility, and respect for the environment.

Learning Objectives

By the end of this unit, you will be able to:

Knowledge and Understanding

- Identify and describe types of weather and physical features of Rwanda.
- Recognize vocabulary related to temperature, rainfall, and natural resources.
- Describe the use of the future tense (will) for prediction.
- Recognize the setting (time and place) in a text or story.
- Identify and pronounce linked sounds in connected speech.

Skills

- Read and interpret short texts about Rwanda's physical environment.
- Listen for specific information from weather reports.
- Talk about and predict environmental changes using correct language structures.
- Apply correct subject-verb agreement in spoken and written sentences.
- Explain how the physical environment helps create meaning in a text.
- Pronounce correctly words related to the physical environment.

Attitudes and Values

- Develop responsibility towards environmental protection.
- Appreciate Rwanda's natural beauty and resources.
- Demonstrate positive attitudes towards keeping the environment clean.
- Value the role of the environment in human activities and emotions.

Introduction to the Unit

Rwanda's weather and physical environment affect our daily lives and natural resources. In this unit, you will learn how to describe temperature, rainfall, and physical features of Rwanda such as mountains, lakes, and plateaus. You will also develop your English skills in reading, listening, speaking, and writing as you talk about weather forecasts, environmental protection, and the future of our environment.

Introductory activity: Picture description

1. Identify and name physical features in the image.
2. Describe the physical environment shown using full sentences.
3. Which physical features influence human activities in the image? Explain.
4. Compare the highland and lowland areas shown.

5.1: Reading: Rwanda's physical features and resources

Activity 5.1.1

Read about Rwanda. Answer the questions

Text: Rwanda's Climate and Natural Environment

Rwanda is a small, landlocked country in East Africa with a mild and pleasant climate. Because much of the country lies on high land, temperatures are moderate rather than extreme. In many areas, daytime temperatures range between 20°C and 27°C. High-altitude regions such as Musanze and Rubavu are cooler, while parts of Eastern Rwanda are warmer.

Rwanda experiences two main rainy seasons: the long rainy season from March to May and the short rainy season from October to December. Rainfall varies across the country. Western Rwanda, especially near Lake Kivu and mountainous areas, receives heavy rainfall, while the eastern region is drier. The main dry seasons occur from June to September and from January to February.

Weather forecasts help people prepare for future weather conditions. Farmers use forecasts to decide when to plant or harvest crops, while travelers and businesses plan activities accordingly. The Rwanda Meteorology Agency provides weather information through radio, television, and mobile phones.

Rwanda is known as the Land of a Thousand Hills because of its many hills and mountains. It has lakes such as Lake Kivu, rivers like the Nyabarongo, volcanoes in the north including Mount Karisimbi, forests, valleys, and plains.

The country is rich in natural resources. Fertile soils support crops such as coffee, tea, bananas, and Irish potatoes. Rwanda also has minerals including tin, tantalum, wolfram, and gold. National parks and forests attract tourists and protect wildlife, contributing to the economy.

A. Answer these questions

1. Why does Rwanda have mild temperatures?
2. When does the long rainy season occur in Rwanda?

3. Which part of Rwanda receives heavy rainfall?
4. Name two physical features found in Rwanda?
5. Mention two minerals found in Rwanda

B. Discuss these questions

1. How does Rwanda's high altitude make the climate mild, and why is this good for people?
2. Why does rainfall differ from one region of Rwanda to another, and how does this affect people's activities?
3. Why are farmers more affected by weather changes than other people, and how should we support them?
4. What does the text show about Rwanda's natural resources, and why should they be used carefully?
5. What picture of Rwanda does the writer give, and how does this make you feel about protecting the environment?

5.2: Vocabulary: Physical features:

Activity 5.2.1

Match the words in column A with their meanings in column B

Column A	Column B
1. Landlocked	a. Height of a place above sea level
2. Altitude	b. Area with hills, valleys, mountains, etc.
3. Predict	c. Not having access to the sea
4. Fertile	d. To say what will happen in the future
5. Resources	e. Able to support healthy plant growth
6. Forecast	f. Important materials found in the earth
7. Heavy	g. Large or intense
8. Drier	h. Things found in nature that people use
9. Landscape	i. Less wet
10. Minerals	j. A statement about future weather

Activity 5.2.2

Fill in the Blanks with the correct words from the list below:

rainfall, climate, forecast, minerals, fertile, altitude, resources, heavy, pleasant, landscape

- Rwanda has a mild and _____ climate.
- The western part of Rwanda receives _____ rainfall.
- Farmers use the weather _____ to plan their activities.
- Rwanda has important _____ such as tin and gold.
- The country has _____ soil that supports crop growth.
- Musanze is cooler because it is at a high _____.
- Rain does not fall evenly across the country; some areas get more _____ than others.
- Rwanda has many natural _____ like forests and lakes.
- The hills, valleys, and mountains form Rwanda's beautiful _____.
- Visitors enjoy Rwanda's _____ weather throughout the year.

5.3 Listening for Specific Information in a Weather Forecast Report

Activity 5.3.1

Listen to a weather report carefully and answer the questions that follow;

Weather Report

"Welcome to the Rwanda weather forecast. Tomorrow, the central region including Kigali will experience partly cloudy conditions with temperatures around 24°C. In the north, Musanze will have morning fog followed by light rain later in the day. The western areas near Karongi will receive heavy afternoon rain due to moisture from Lake Kivu. In the east, districts like Nyagatare will have sunny and dry weather, with temperatures reaching 31°C. The south, especially Nyaruguru, will get scattered showers throughout the day."

Questions:

- What will be the temperature in Kigali?
- What weather will Musanze experience in the morning?
- Why will Karongi receive heavy rain?
- How hot will Nyagatare be?
- What kind of rainfall is expected in Nyaruguru?

5.4 Speaking: The future of our Environment.

Activity 5.4.1

Look around your community and think about the environment in Rwanda today. Discuss questions such as:

- Are there enough trees?
- Is the environment clean?
- How is the weather changing?
- Are animals and water resources protected?

Activity 5.4.2

Predict how the environment may change over the next 20–30 years.

Discuss forests, climate, water, land use, and wildlife. Use expressions such as:

- I think ...
- In the future ...
- It is possible that ...
- This may affect ...

Then discuss what people, schools, and communities can do to protect the environment, such as planting trees, saving water, and reducing pollution. Present your ideas to the class. One student explains the environmental changes, and the other presents the suggested solutions.

5.5. Language Focus: Subject–Verb Agreement and Future tense (will) for Prediction.

Activity 5.5.1

Study the following sentences about future environmental changes and identify how “will” is used to make predictions.

- a. Air quality will improve if we plant more trees.
- b. Temperatures will rise because of climate change.
- c. People will protect forests by planting more trees.
- d. Many areas will face droughts if rainfall decreases.

A. Future Tense with Will

Form: Subject + will + base verb

Use: To make predictions.

Example: Temperatures will rise because of climate change.

B. Subject–Verb Agreement

Definition: Subject–Verb Agreement means that the verb must match the subject in number (singular or plural).

Rules:

1. Singular and Plural Subjects

- Singular subject: Verb is always in singular

Example: The climate changes slowly.

- Plural subject: Verb does not end in -s

Example: Farmers grow crops in fertile soils.

2. Two separate subjects joined by "and"

- Always use a plural verb

Example: Forests and rivers support wildlife.

3. Subjects Joined by "or" / "nor"

- The verb agrees with the nearest subject

Example:

- Either the farmer or the students protect the environment.
- Either the students or the farmer protects the environment.

4. Collective Nouns

- Usually singular

Example: The family depends on farming.

5. Indefinite Pronouns (Always Singular)

- Examples: everyone, someone, anybody, each, every, nobody, something

Examples:

- Everyone cares about clean water.
- Each farmer uses weather forecasts.

6. Uncountable Nouns

- Always take a singular verb

Examples:

- Rainfall affects crop production.

Experimental version

- Information helps farmers plan activities.
- Weather influences daily life.

7. Words ending in "s" but Singular

- Examples: mathematics, economics, news

Examples:

- News about climate change is on the radio.
- Economics is important for managing natural resources.

Activity 5.5.2

- Rwanda (experience / experiences) two rainy seasons every year.
- Farmers (use / uses) weather forecasts to plan planting and harvesting.
- Each student (has / have) a textbook about the environment.
- The lakes in Rwanda (provide / provides) water and fish for many people.
- Rainfall (vary / varies) across different regions of the country.
- My family (live / lives) in Musanze, a cool high-altitude area.
- The boy and his sister (walk / walks) to school through the hills.
- Either the teacher or the students (is / are) talking about climate change.
- Everybody (is / are) ready for the environmental study trip.
- The information (is / are) helpful for protecting natural resources.

5.6: Writing: Protecting the Environment

Activity 5.6.1

Think about environmental problems in your community such as deforestation, pollution, or poor waste management. Write at least three actions people can take to protect the environment, for example:

- planting trees,
- reducing pollution,
- reusing and recycling materials,
- saving water and energy.

Write one clear paragraph (6–8 sentences) explaining how these actions help protect the environment in Rwanda.

While writing, try to:

- use will to make predictions about the future,
- and apply correct subject–verb agreement.

You may use expressions such as:

- We should ...
- People can ...
- This helps to ...
- In the future ...
- The environment will ...

5.7. Literature: Setting – Time, Place, and Physical Details

Activity 5.7.1

Read the story below and answer the questions that follow;

The Brave Little Fisherman

In a small fishing village by the river, lived a boy named Kwame. Every morning, he went to the river to help his father catch fish. The sun was just rising, and the water sparkled in the early light.

One day, a strong wind blew while Kwame was fishing. A boat was about to capsize. Kwame quickly grabbed a rope and helped secure the boat. His father and the other villagers praised him for being brave and alert.

The river was surrounded by tall trees and green hills. Birds sang in the morning, and the villagers' houses were built from mud and grass. Kwame returned home as the sun set behind the hills, tired but proud.

Questions on Setting

1. Where does the story take place?
2. When does the story happen?
3. Name two physical details that help you imagine the village.
4. How does the river setting make Kwame's actions more impressive?
5. Why is knowing the time and place important in this story?

Notes: Setting (Time, Place, Physical Details)

1. Meaning of Setting

- Setting is the time, place, and physical details in a story.
- It tells us where and when events happen.

2. Components of Setting

- Time: When the story happens (morning, afternoon, past, present).

- Place: Where the story happens (village, school, river, garden).
- Physical Details: Things or surroundings that help the reader imagine the scene (trees, flowers, boats, houses).

3. Importance of Setting

- Helps readers understand the story better.
- Creates mood and atmosphere.
- Explains why characters behave in certain ways.

Setting refers to where and when a text takes place, as well as the physical environment described. Understanding the setting helps readers better understand the events, characters, and message of a text.

e.g. Elements of Setting in the above given text:

- Place: Rwanda
- Time: Present time and regular seasonal periods
- Physical Environment: Hills, mountains, lakes, rivers, forests, fertile land, minerals, and national parks

Activity 5.7.2

Read the story below and answer the questions that follow;

Story: Lina's School Garden

Lina loved her school garden. Every afternoon after classes, she watered the flowers and planted new seeds. The garden was behind the school building, filled with colorful flowers, green vegetables, and fruit trees.

One day, Lina noticed some students picking flowers without permission. She ran to stop them and explained why they should care for the garden. The teacher saw what Lina had done and praised her for protecting the garden.

The schoolyard was full of sunshine, and the garden had small paths lined with stones. Birds chirped, and butterflies flew among the flowers. Lina spent the evening watering the plants before heading home.

Questions Setting

1. Where does the story take place?
2. When does the story happen?
3. Mention two physical details that help you imagine the garden.
4. How does the garden setting help you understand Lina's actions?
5. Why is knowing the setting important for understanding the story?

5.8 Sounds and Spelling: Linking Sounds in Connected Speech (go – on sounds like: gowon)

Linking Sounds in Connected Speech

Connected speech happens when words are spoken together smoothly in natural English. In connected speech, sounds may link, blend, or change to make speech faster and more natural.

Types of Linking Sounds

1. Consonant + Vowel Linking

When a word ends with a consonant sound and the next word begins with a vowel sound, the consonant links to the vowel.

Examples:

- go_on
- put_it

2. Vowel + Vowel Linking (Using /y/ or /w/)

When a word ends with a vowel sound and the next word begins with another vowel sound, we insert a /y/ or /w/ sound to make speaking easier.

Examples:

- I_yam
- go_way

3. Same Consonant Linking

When one word ends with a consonant sound and the next word begins with the same consonant sound, we pronounce the sound only once, not twice. The two sounds join smoothly in connected speech.

Example:

Words	How we say them
Big game	big g ame
Black cat	black ck at
Red dress	red dr ess
Green notebook	green nn otebook
Stop playing	stop pp laying

4. Linking /r/

In some accents (e.g. British English), an /r/ sound appears only when the next word starts with a vowel. Example: far_away

Activity 5.8.1

Read Aloud

Instruction: Read the sentences aloud. Use linking sounds where necessary.

1. We will go on after lunch.
2. Put it on the desk.
3. I am interested in weather reports.
4. Turn off the lights before you leave.
5. Their house is far away from school.

5.9 End of unit assessment

A. Knowledge and Understanding

1. Vocabulary and Concepts

a) Match the words in Column A with their correct meanings in Column B.

Column A	Column B
1. Altitude	a. Statement about future weather
2. Forecast	b. Height of a place above sea level
3. Landlocked	c. Important materials found in the earth
4. Minerals	d. Not having access to the sea

b) Choose the correct word to complete each sentence. (climate, rainfall, fertile, resources)

1. Rwanda's _____ is mild because of its high altitude.
2. The eastern part of Rwanda receives less _____ than the west.
3. _____ soils support farming activities.
4. Forests, lakes, and minerals are natural _____.

2. Grammar: Future Tense and Subject-Verb Agreement

a) Complete the sentences using will and the correct verb.

1. Temperatures _____ (increase) if forests are destroyed.
2. Farmers _____ (use) weather forecasts to plan planting.

b) Choose the correct verb.

1. Rainfall _____ (affect / affects) crop production.
2. Either the teacher or the students _____ (protect / protects) the environment.
3. Everybody _____ (care / cares) about clean water.

3. Sounds: Linking Sounds

a) Write the words as they are spoken using linking sounds.

1. go on → _____
2. put it → _____

b) Identify the type of linking sound used.

1. far_away → _____
2. I_am → _____

B. Skills

4. Reading Comprehension

Read the text below and answer the questions.

Rwanda's Physical Environment

Rwanda is known as the Land of a Thousand Hills because of its many hills and mountains. Its high altitude makes the climate mild and pleasant. The country has lakes, rivers, forests, and fertile land that support farming and tourism. Weather forecasts help farmers and travelers plan their activities. Protecting these natural resources is important for Rwanda's future.

Questions

1. Why is Rwanda called the Land of a Thousand Hills?
2. How does altitude affect Rwanda's climate?
3. Mention two natural resources found in Rwanda.
4. How do weather forecasts help people?
5. Why should natural resources be protected?

5. Listening for Specific Information

Teacher reads the text aloud twice

Listening Text (for teacher)

"Tomorrow, Kigali will be partly cloudy with a temperature of 25°C. Musanze will be cool and foggy in the morning. In the east, Nyagatare will be hot and dry. Heavy rain is expected in areas near Lake Kivu."

Questions

1. What will the weather be like in Kigali?
2. Which area will be foggy in the morning?
3. Where is heavy rain expected?
4. How will the weather be in Nyagatare?

6. Speaking

In pairs, talk about future changes in Rwanda's environment.

You should:

- Use will to make predictions
- Mention at least one environmental problem
- Suggest one solution

(Teacher assesses fluency, correct language use, and clarity.)

7. Writing

Write two paragraphs about how people can protect the environment in Rwanda.

Your paragraphs should:

- Mention at least two actions
- Use will at least once
- Show correct subject–verb agreement

C. Attitudes and Values

Answer the questions in complete sentences.

1. Why is it important to protect Rwanda's natural environment?
2. How can learners show responsibility towards keeping the environment clean?
3. How does appreciating Rwanda's natural beauty help people care for it better?

UNIT 6:

ANTI-SOCIAL BEHAVIOURS

Key Unit Competence

To communicate effectively in speaking and writing about anti-social behaviour and its effects, while promoting responsibility, respect, and good conduct in the community and school.

Learning Objectives

Knowledge and Understanding

- Identify common anti-social behaviours such as bullying, smoking, and drinking alcohol.
- Explain the effects of anti-social behaviour on individuals and the community.
- Recognize rules, consequences, and key language used when talking about anti-social behaviour.

Skills

- Read, listen, speak, and write about anti-social behaviour and its effects using correct vocabulary and language structures.
- Use prepositions of time and place, conjunctions, and correct intonation when describing anti-social behaviour.
- Analyze situations to decide whether behaviours are acceptable or unacceptable in school and the community.

Attitudes and Values

- Show respect and responsibility by valuing safe and positive behaviour.
- Appreciate the importance of following rules at school and in the community.
- Demonstrate care for others and the environment by rejecting anti-social behaviour.

Introduction to the Unit

Anti-social behaviours can negatively affect people's lives, schools, and communities. In this unit, you will learn to develop your English skills in reading, listening, speaking, and writing as you discuss responsible behaviour, respect for others, and ways of creating peaceful communities.

Introductory activity

Study the picture above and answer the questions that follow;

1. Describe the anti-social behaviour shown in this picture
2. Which lessons can we learn from this picture?
3. What can you do to avoid being like people in the picture?

6.1 Reading: Anti-Social Behaviours and their Effects

Activity 6.1.1

Read the passage below carefully and then answer the questions that follow.

Text 1: Say No to Smoking

Some smokers never consider the consequences of smoking. If they did, they would not be smoking. Some people have the misconception that smoking helps the smoker relax. This belief is false.

One effect of smoking is the development of respiratory problems. Many smokers suffer from a 'never-healing' cold and cough continuously.

Smoking also leads to addiction to nicotine, which makes it difficult to stop.

Nicotine causes physical and mood-altering effects in the brain that are temporarily pleasing. When a smoker stops smoking, withdrawal symptoms such as anxiety occur.

In addition, cigarette smoking causes serious diseases such as heart disease and stroke. Smokers have much higher rates of cancer than non-smokers, especially lung cancer.

Smokers experience shortness of breath almost three times more often than non-smokers. Their heart rates are also faster, which increases the workload on the heart and may cause dizziness, chest pain, and fainting.

Smoking may also lead to other risky behaviours. Research shows that smokers are more likely to use alcohol, marijuana, and cocaine. Smoking is also associated with fighting and unprotected sex.

To live longer, people must protect their hearts, lungs, and overall health. On average, heavy smokers live seven years less than non-smokers. Smoking harms physical fitness and leads to suffering and death. There is no beauty in taking drugs. Young people are advised to avoid gangs, alcohol, and smoking.

A. Answer these Questions

1. What false belief do some people have about smoking?
2. Mention health problems caused by smoking.
3. Why do smokers find it difficult to stop smoking?
4. According to the text, how does smoking affect breathing?
5. What advice does the writer give to young people?

Experimental version

B. Discuss these Questions

1. How does the writer feel about smoking? Give one reason from the text.
2. Why does the writer compare smokers with non-smokers?
3. Why are withdrawal symptoms like anxiety mentioned in the text?
4. What lesson can young people learn from this text?
5. How does smoking harm not only the smoker but also society?
6. Do you think smoking is a responsible behaviour? Explain your answer.
7. What values does the text promote about health and lifestyle?

6.2. Vocabulary: Anti-Social Behaviours

Activity 6.2.1

Match the words in Column A with their correct meanings in Column B.

Column A	Column B
1. Consequences	A. Loss of consciousness for a short time
2. Misconception	B. Wrong or false belief
3. Respiratory	C. Actions that may cause harm or danger
4. Addiction	D. Effects or results of an action
5. Withdrawal	E. Involving breathing or the lungs
6. Anxiety	F. Strong need or dependence on a substance
7. Stroke	G. Sudden damage to the brain caused by blood flow problems
8. Risky behaviour	H. Feeling of worry or nervousness
9. Fainting	I. Body strength and health
10. Physical fitness	J. Symptoms that occur when stopping an addictive substance

Activity 6.2.2

Fill in the Blanks

Use the following words to complete the gaps: misconception – addiction – nicotine – anxiety – respiratory – cancer – dizziness – alcohol – fitness – consequences

1. Some smokers never consider the _____ of smoking.
2. Many people have the _____ that smoking helps them relax.

Experimental version

3. Smoking causes _____ problems.
4. Cigarettes lead to _____.
5. _____ causes addiction in smokers.
6. Withdrawal symptoms include _____.
7. Smoking increases the risk of lung _____.
8. A fast heart rate may cause _____.
9. Smokers are more likely to use _____.
10. Smoking harms physical _____.

6.3 Listening: Good Behaviours in Public Places

Activity 6.3.1

Think about how people should behave in places such as schools, markets, churches, buses, hospitals, and streets. Discuss the behaviours that show respect, responsibility, and good manners in public places.

Activity 6.3.2

Listen to your teacher reading the scenario and answer the questions that follow:

Trouble at the Market

"The village market was busy and lively. Suddenly, a group of teenagers arrived. They were shouting loudly with abusive language, which made the older women feel insulted. One teenager began scribbling names on a freshly painted wall. Another started pushing people out of his way to get to the front of the line, almost knocking over a small child. They also threw rubbish on the ground instead of using the bin.

When one elder told them to stop, they just laughed and made fun of his clothes. This disrespectful behaviour made everyone feel uncomfortable. Instead of a peaceful place to shop, the market turned into a scene of tension and fear.

Answer these questions

1. Where did the story take place?
 - A) At school
 - B) At the village market
 - C) At a park
2. How did the teenagers make the older women feel bad?

A) By giving them flowers
Experimental version

- B) By shouting loudly and using bad language
 - C) By helping them carry goods
3. What did one teenager do to the wall?
- A) Painted it neatly
 - B) Scribbled names on it
 - C) Cleaned it
4. How did the teenagers respond to the elder?
- A) They listened and stopped
 - B) They ignored him and made fun of his clothes
 - C) They apologized
5. Choose one word to describe the teenagers:
- A) Helpful
 - B) Disrespectful
 - C) Hardworking

True or False (T/F):

- 6. The teenagers threw rubbish on the ground instead of using the bin.
- 7. The market felt peaceful and calm after the teenagers arrived.
- 8. One teenager almost knocked over a small child while pushing people.

6.4 Speaking: Talking about Anti-Social Behaviours and their Effects

Activity 6.4.1

- Think of some examples of anti-social behaviours you have seen at school or in the community (e.g., bullying, littering, smoking, fighting).
- Discuss the effects of these behaviours on individuals, families, school, and society

Activity 6.4.2

- Think about effects of anti-social behaviour on individuals and society, and in your small groups debate on any of the following motions;
- 1. "Students who bully others should be expelled from school immediately."
- 2. "Social media is the main cause of anti-social behaviour among teenagers."
- 3. "Parents should be punished for the bad behaviour of their children."
- 4. "It is better to reward good students than to punish bad students."
- 5. "Watching violent movies makes children more aggressive."

Experimental version

Use the following tips for a successful debate

Debate Setup

- Proposition Team (Agree):

This team supports the motion. Members present reasons, facts, and examples to show why the motion is true or important.

- Opposition Team (Disagree):

This team challenges the motion. Members give opposing ideas, explain weaknesses in the motion, and present alternative views.

Each team should prepare ideas in advance and assign speakers to introduce arguments, respond to the other team, and conclude.

Useful Debate Language

- We strongly believe that...
- (Use this to clearly state your main opinion.)
- In our opinion...
- (Use this to express ideas politely.)
- This behaviour hurts/disturbs...
- (Use this to explain negative effects on people or society.)
- We disagree because...
- (Use this to challenge the other team's argument with reasons.)
- To conclude, people should behave responsibly.
- (Use this to summarize your ideas at the end of the debate.)

Activity 6.4.3

Read and role play the dialogue below;

Teacher: Mubyeyi, how come you were having a cigarette? Do you smoke?

Mubyeyi: (looking scared) O ... of course not, madam. I ... I found it on my desk. You walked in as I was removing it!

Teacher: Gatete, Umutoni, Hirwa ... look at your friend. Did the cigarette walk to her desk? Who put it there?

Gatete: Madam, it wasn't me.

Umutoni: It wasn't me either.

Hirwa: Madam, it wasn't me and I have never seen Mubyeyi smoking. It must have been someone else. We all say no to smoking. We know smoking causes cancer.

Teacher: I hope you are all being sincere. You should all avoid drugs.

Gatete: Madam, we are ... I wonder what makes one start smoking or abusing drugs!

Teacher: Well, some people abuse drugs because of peer pressure. This is when your friends urge you to do what you don't want. For instance, some young people smoke because they think it will make them popular. Some don't want to be laughed at or teased.

Hirwa: I was in such a situation once. My cousins asked me to take a swig of beer to show that I am "grown-up". Sadly, my cousins are always drunk. They hardly shower and sometimes they laugh even at birds! They seem lonely and miserable. I didn't want any of that.

Teacher: Well, they are addicts ... they need help.

Umutoni: Madam, on the one hand, some young people smoke because they see their parents smoke! On the other hand, some are just curious.

Teacher: I know ... and that is sad. You should always do what is right not what other people do. If you must copy, copy good not evil.

Mubyeyi: My brother is in a rehabilitation centre. He was addicted to cocaine. He once told me he started using drugs because he was bored! Another time, he said he took drugs in order to be brave. He has wasted his youth. I am glad he is getting help now.

Teacher: Being an adolescent can be challenging. Some adolescents take drugs to test limits with their parents; others do it out of ignorance. However, drugs will affect your health, not your parents'! Only you will suffer. Hence, keep off drugs.

6.5. Language focus

Activity 6.5.1

Work in pairs. Complete each sentence using the correct preposition or conjunction from the box. Use each item in the box once. [so, at, in, on, at, during, inside, but]

1. I am sitting _____ the classroom, _____ I should listen and avoid shouting.

2. The teacher is standing _____ the desk, _____ some students are shouting loudly.

Experimental version

3. We come to school_____ 7:30 a.m., and arriving late shows poor behaviour.
4. Lessons start_____ Monday, so missing class on that day affects learning.
5. Shouting _____the classroom _____lessons is anti-social behaviour.

A. Prepositions of Place

Prepositions of place show where an action happens or where a person or object is located.

Common prepositions of place: in, on, at, near, inside, outside

Examples and uses:

- in – used for enclosed spaces or areas
Students are in the classroom.
- on – used for surfaces
The notice is written on the wall.
- at – used for specific points or locations
Students gather at the school gate.
- near – used to show closeness
Smoking is not allowed near the school.
- inside – used to show something is within a place
Shouting inside the classroom disturbs learning.
- outside – used to show something is not within a place
Some students wait outside the hall.
- Note: Prepositions of place answer the question "Where?"

B. Prepositions of Time

Prepositions of time show when something happens.

Common prepositions of time: at, in, on, during, before, after

Examples and uses:

- at – used for exact times
*The lesson starts at 8:00 a.m.
- in – used for longer periods (months, years, parts of the day)
Exams take place in June.
- on – used for days and dates

Experimental version

The debate will be held on Monday.

- during – used to show something happens within a period of time

Shouting during lessons affects learning.

- before – used to show something happens earlier

Students should arrive before class.

- after – used to show something happens later

Activities continue after school.

Note: Prepositions of time answer the question “When?”

Activity 6.5.2

Study the following sentences and identify and underline prepositions of place and prepositions of time.

1. Anti-social behaviour inside the classroom causes problems.
2. People should behave responsibly in public places.
3. Showing respect to others at school is very important.
4. Bullying often happens during break time.
5. Some students shout in the morning assembly.
6. Smoking is not allowed during school hours.
7. Drinking alcohol before class affects learning.
8. At school, bullying on social media creates serious problems.
9. After school, drinking alcohol near the gate breaks rules.
10. Students should behave responsibly in public at all times
11. During lessons, shouting in class hurts learning.
12. Showing respect at school during lessons helps everyone feel safe.

C. Conjunctions (and, but, or, because, so)

Conjunctions are words used to join words, phrases, or clauses in a sentence. They help ideas flow smoothly and show the relationship between ideas.

Uses of Common Conjunctions

- AND – adds information

Used to join similar ideas or actions.

Example: Smoking harms health and breaks school rules.

- BUT – shows contrast

Used when ideas are different or opposite.

Example: Some students know smoking is harmful, but they still try it.

- OR – shows choice

Experimental version

Used when there is a choice between two or more options.

Example: Students can behave responsibly or face punishment.

- BECAUSE – gives a reason (cause)

Used to explain why something happens.

Example: Smoking is dangerous because it causes serious health problems.

- SO – shows result (effect)

Used to show what happens as a result of an action.

Example: Smoking is harmful, so students should avoid it.

Activity 6.5.3

Fill in with the correct conjunction from the brackets [but or and so because]

1. Bullying hurts students ___ affects their confidence.
2. He knows shouting is wrong ___ he continues.
3. Smoking is banned ___ it is harmful.
4. Students should behave responsibly, ___ they can avoid consequences.
5. Respect others ___ face punishment.

6.6. Writing about Anti-social behaviours and their effects

Activity 6.6.1

Paragraph Writing

In everyday life, some behaviours can disturb peace and harm people in schools and communities. Write three short paragraphs about anti-social behaviours, their effects, and ways to prevent them. As you write, try to use:

- Prepositions of place such as: At school, in the community, near the market, on the street;
- Prepositions of time such as: During break time, at night, in the morning, on weekends;
- Connectors/linking words such as: And, because, but, although, therefore, and so to connect your ideas clearly.

Write in your own words and give real-life examples.

Paragraph 1: Describing anti-social behaviours

Begin your paragraph with:

"Some common anti-social behaviours are ..."

Describe 2-3 anti-social behaviours you have seen at school or in the community.

Explain where and when they usually happen.

Example:

"Some common anti-social behaviours are fighting near shops, making noise at night, and smoking during break time at school."

Paragraph 2: Effects of anti-social behaviours

Begin your paragraph with:

"These behaviours can cause ..."

Explain how these behaviours affect people, families, schools, or the community. Use conjunctions to connect your ideas clearly.

Example:

"These behaviours can cause fear and poor relationships because many people feel unsafe in public places."

Paragraph 3: Advice on responsible behaviour

Begin your paragraph with:

"To prevent these behaviours, students should ..."

Give advice on how students can behave responsibly at school and in the community. Use expressions such as should, must, and it is important to.

Example:

"To prevent these behaviours, students should respect others, behave well in public places, and avoid bad peer groups."

6.7. Literature: Characterization and Character Traits

Activity 6.7.1

Read the story below and answer the questions that follow;

James and the School Project

James is a hardworking and disciplined student. Every day after school, he spends time completing his homework carefully and helping his younger brother with reading.

One day, the teacher assigned a class project. Some students tried to rush through it and copy from others, but James planned his work, collected all the materials, and worked patiently. His classmates noticed how organized and focused he was.

At the end of the week, the teacher praised James for being hardworking, disciplined, and responsible.

Questions: Characterization

Experimental version

1. Who is the main character in the story?

2. Name three traits of James shown in the story.
3. How does James show that he is disciplined and hardworking?
4. Who are the minor characters, and what traits do they show?
5. Why are James' traits important in the story?

Notes:

Characterization and Character Traits

1. Characterization

- Characterization is how a writer shows what a character is like.
- It includes actions, words, and how others react.

2. Character traits

- Traits are qualities that describe a character.
- Examples of positive traits: hardworking, disciplined, kind, responsible, brave.
- Examples of negative traits: lazy, careless, selfish, rude.

3. How to identify traits

- By actions: James plans and completes his project → hardworking.
- By words: James explains to classmates → disciplined and responsible.
- By reactions: Teacher praises them → shows they acted well.

4. Why character traits

- Helps readers understand characters better.
- Teaches lessons about good behaviour.
- Makes stories interesting and meaningful.

Activity 6.7.2

Read the story below and answer the questions that follow;

Amina and the Classroom Garden

Amina loves her classroom garden. Every afternoon, she waters the plants, pulls out weeds, and encourages her classmates to take care of the flowers.

Some students wanted to pull flowers for fun, but Amina reminded them to respect the plants and explained why it was important to care for the garden. Her teacher praised her for being kind, hardworking, and disciplined.

The garden had colourful flowers, neat small paths, and sunlight shining through the windows, creating a pleasant environment for learning.

Questions:

1. Who is the main character in the story?
2. Name three traits of Amina shown in the story.
3. How does Amina show that she is hardworking and disciplined?
4. Who are the minor characters, and what traits do they show?
5. Why are Amina's traits important in the story?

6.8. Sounds and Spelling: Intonation in yes/no questions/wh-questions and statements

Intonation is the rise or fall of the voice when we speak. It helps listeners understand whether we are giving information, asking a question, or seeking details.

Rule 1: Statements → Falling Intonation (↘)

When we make statements, our voice usually falls at the end because we are giving information or expressing a complete idea.

Examples:

Students should behave responsibly. ↘

Smoking breaks school rules. ↘

Rule 2: Yes / No Questions → Rising Intonation (↗)

Yes/No questions usually have rising intonation at the end because the speaker expects an answer: yes or no.

Examples:

Is smoking allowed at school? ↗

Do students respect others? ↗

Rule 3: Wh-Questions → Falling Intonation (↘)

Wh-questions (what, why, when, where, who, how) usually have falling intonation because the speaker wants information, not just yes or no.

Experimental version

Examples:

Why does shouting disturb others? √

What causes bullying at school? √

Activity 6.8.1

Read Aloud (Model Practice)

Is smoking allowed at school? √

Students should behave responsibly. √

Why does shouting disturb others? √

Activity 6.8.2

Write √ or √.

Smoking breaks rules. ____

Is bullying common? ____

Why is shouting a problem? ____

Do students respect others? ____

Alcohol causes problems. ____

6.9. End of unit assessment

A. Knowledge and Understanding

A1. Multiple-choice questions

Choose the correct answer.

1. Which of the following is an example of anti-social behaviour?

- A. Helping an elderly person
- B. Bullying a classmate
- C. Cleaning the school compound
- D. Sharing books

2. Smoking is considered anti-social mainly because it:
 - A. Makes people popular
 - B. Improves health
 - C. Harms health and breaks rules
 - D. Saves money
3. Which word best describes a false belief about smoking?
 - A. Consequence
 - B. Addiction
 - C. Misconception
 - D. Fitness
4. Shouting loudly ___ lessons disturbs other learners.
 - A. on
 - B. at
 - C. during
 - D. after

A2. Vocabulary Matching

Match the words in Column A with their meanings in Column B.

Column A	Column B
1. Addiction	A. Wrong belief
2. Consequences	B. Strong dependence on something
3. Misconception	C. Results of an action
4. Anxiety	D. Feeling of worry

A3. Grammar: Fill in the blanks

Complete the sentences using one correct word from the brackets. (at, in, because, but, so)

1. Smoking is banned at school ___ it is harmful.
2. Students should behave responsibly ___ public places.
3. He knows bullying is wrong ___ he still does it.
4. Anti-social behaviour causes problems, ___ students should avoid it.

B. Skills

B1. Reading Comprehension

Read the text and answer the questions.

Text: Bad Behaviour at School

Some students show anti-social behaviour at school. They shout in class, bully others, and litter the compound. These actions make other learners feel unsafe and disturb learning. Teachers spend much time correcting behaviour instead of teaching. If students respect rules and care for others, the school becomes a safe and happy place for everyone.

Questions

1. Mention two anti-social behaviours in the text.
2. How do these behaviours affect learning?
3. According to the text, what should students do to make school a better place?

B2. Listening

(Teacher reads the text aloud twice)

Listening Text (for the teacher):

"During break time, some students were pushing others and shouting loudly near the classrooms. One student threw rubbish on the ground instead of using the bin. This behaviour disturbed nearby classes and made teachers unhappy."

Questions

1. When did the behaviour happen?
2. Mention one anti-social behaviour from the listening text.
3. True or False:
 - a) The students were behaving responsibly.
 - b) The behaviour affected nearby classes.

B3. Speaking

(Oral – assessed by the teacher)

In pairs, discuss the following:

1. Mention one anti-social behaviour common in your school or community.
2. Explain one effect of this behaviour.
3. Suggest one way students can behave responsibly.

(Teacher assesses clarity, correct vocabulary, and appropriate intonation.)

B4. Sounds and Intonation

Write ↗ for rising intonation or ↘ for falling intonation.

1. Smoking breaks school rules. ____
2. Is bullying allowed at school? ____
3. Why should students respect others? ____

B5. Writing

Write one short composition advising fellow students about the consequences of anti-social behaviours.

Guidelines:

- Mention four anti-social behaviours.
- Explain their effects.
- Give advice on responsible behaviour.

C. Attitudes and Values

C1. Situational Judgement

Read the situation and answer the questions.

During lunch time, a student starts insulting others and throwing rubbish on the ground.

1. Is this behaviour acceptable? Why?
2. What advice would you give to this student?
3. What values are being ignored in this situation?

End of unit 6-Project

My School, My Community – Class Magazine

Every school has both challenges and positive experiences. Some behaviours, such as bullying, teasing, or disrespect, can affect students negatively. However, schools are also places where learners build friendships, enjoy activities, and learn important values. Work in groups to create a class magazine that promotes positive behaviour and suggests ways to reduce anti-social behaviours in your school community.

Step 1: Identify the Problem

As a group:

- Discuss common anti-social behaviours in your school or community.
- Choose one behaviour your group would like to focus on.
- Share ideas about how students can promote respect, responsibility, and cooperation.

Step 2: Collect Information

- Interview classmates, teachers, or school leaders to learn more about the problem and possible solutions.
- Take notes about positive school experiences, friendships, favourite subjects, school events, or good behaviours to include in your magazine.

Step 3: Create Your Magazine

- Work together to prepare different parts of the magazine. You may include:
- Short descriptive texts about school life, friends, or activities;
- Articles encouraging positive behaviour and peaceful relationships;
- Advice on how students can avoid anti-social behaviours;
- Drawings, slogans, or pictures related to your topic.

While writing, use:

- descriptive and persuasive language;
- conjunctions to connect ideas clearly;
- prepositions of place and time correctly.

Step 4: Present Your Work

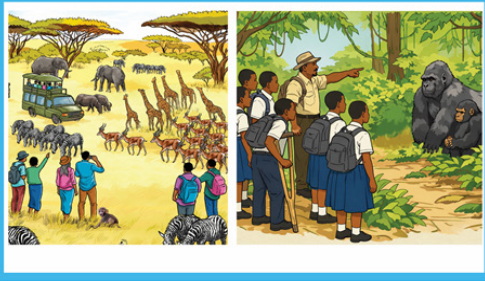

- Present your magazine to the class.
- Explain the problem your group discussed and the solutions you suggested.

Tell the class how your magazine promotes a safe, respectful, and friendly school environment.

UNIT 7:

SOURCES

OF WEALTH

Key unit competence:

To communicate clearly in speaking and writing about Rwanda's sources of wealth using correct language, while showing appreciation and responsibility for the country's natural and economic resources.

Learning Objectives

By the end of this unit, you will be able to

Knowledge and understanding

- Identify Rwanda's agricultural and mineral resources and their contribution to the country's wealth.
- Describe how these resources support the economy and development.
- Explain why resources are valued and how they are grown, mined, and exported.

Skills

- Read and listen to texts about Rwanda's natural resources to identify key types and main ideas.
- Speak and write clearly about Rwanda's sources of wealth using target vocabulary, grammar, and descriptive words.
- Recognize and pronounce -ed endings (/t/, /d/, /Id/) and use them in sentences about resources.

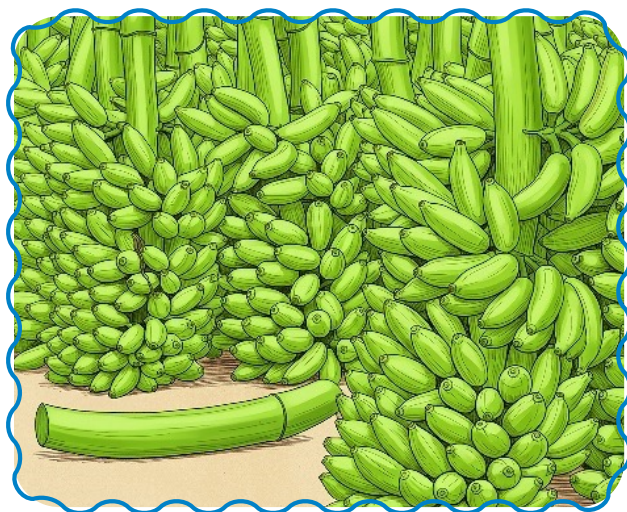

Attitudes and Values

- Appreciate the role of farmers and miners in Rwanda's economy.
- Value sustainable agriculture and mining practices for the benefit of communities and the country.
- Show responsibility and respect for Rwanda's resources and the environment.

Introduction

Rwanda is a resource-rich country with valuable natural and economic resources such as fertile land, agriculture, and minerals like tin, tantalum, and tungsten. These resources play an important role in the country's development and economic growth. In this unit, you will develop your English skills in reading, listening, speaking, and writing as you describe Rwanda's resources, explain how they are grown, mined, and exported, and express their importance to the economy while using appropriate language structures.

Introductory activity: Picture interpretation

Look at this picture carefully and answer the questions.

1. What do you see in the picture?
2. Where can you find these in Rwanda?
3. Why are they important to Rwanda?

7.1. Reading about resources in Rwanda

Activity 7.1.1

Read the following dialogue and answer questions that follow;

Kankindi and McPherson are chatting on Facebook. Kankindi is in Kigali and McPherson is in Ireland.

Mcpherson: Did you say you come from Ru – a- nda?

Kankindi: Rwanda, the land of a thousand hills.

Mcpherson: You must be very proud of your country!

Kankindi: Indeed, I am.

Mcpherson: Why are you studying Agricultural economics? Do you have many farmers in Rwanda?

Kankindi: (laughing) You got the pronunciation right! I am studying Agricultural Economics because I want to help farmers in my district earn more from their produce. Nearly 91% of Rwandans earn their living from farming. They are either farmers or they buy or sell farm products.

Mcpherson: Is the farming on large scale?

Kankindi: On one hand, coffee is grown in Western Rwanda by small-scale farmers, whereas tea is grown on large estates.

Mcpherson: Those are cash crops ... what about food crops? Do you keep livestock?

Kankindi: Coffee and tea are Rwanda's main exports. It is also important to mention plantains, which are both cash and food crops. However, plantains are mainly used for making traditional beverages such as beer and wine.

Mcpherson: Really ... wine from plantains?

Kankindi: Yes ... Then, we have pyrethrum, maize, beans, sorghum, potatoes, sugarcane, cassava and ... yes, we keep livestock.

Mcpherson: If I ever visit Africa, I will come to Rwanda.

Kankindi: Rwanda is beautiful, full of resources and amazing people. Which of these crops are grown in your village: coffee, tea, plantain, pyrethrum, maize, beans, sorghum, potatoes, sugarcane or cassava?

Answer these questions based on the text:

1. According to Kankindi, what percentage of Rwandans earn their living from farming?
2. Where is coffee grown, and how does it differ from how tea is grown?
3. Kankindi mentions "cash crops." Based on the context, what do you think cash crops are?
4. What are plantains used for in Rwanda according to the text?
5. Why does Kankindi want to study Agricultural Economics?

Activity 7.1.2

A. In pairs, take on one of the roles in the dialogue: one student will be Kankindi (in Kigali) and the other will be McPherson (in Ireland). Read the dialogue aloud together, focusing on clear pronunciation, correct intonation, and appropriate expression to make the conversation sound natural.

B. "Which of these crops are grown in your village?" In small groups, list the crops mentioned in the text. Put a tick (✓) next to the ones grown in your local community

Activity 7.1.3

Read the report about Rwanda's natural resources (minerals, metals, and fossil fuels). Pay attention to important names, numbers, and locations mentioned in the text. After reading, answer the questions using information directly from the report.

Overview of resources in Rwanda

Rwanda's chief natural resources include tin ore, gold, methane and tungsten ore. The significant export commodities in 2010 included tin ore, columbite, tantalite and tungsten ore. In 2010, the country's tantalum production accounted for 15% of the global tantalum production. Peat increased by 10%, and tin increased by 46%. The country's quarrying and mining sector accounted for only 0.7% of the GDP.

Industrial minerals

About 100,000 tonnes of cement were produced by Cimerwa in 2010. The company planned to construct a new cement plant by the end of 2011. It was expected to produce 700,000 tonnes of cement per year. The company planned to export cement to eastern Congo and Burundi.

In 2010, however, the demand for cement in Rwanda increased to almost 460,000 tonnes. Therefore, cement had to be imported to meet this growing demand. Demand for cement was expected to reach 680,000 tonnes by 2015.

Metals

In 2008, TransAfrika Resources Limited carried out gold exploration activities in Gicumbi District. This site had resources that amounted to 5.55 million metric tonnes of gold.

In 2010, Central Multi-Services SARL mined cassiterite at the rate of almost 300 t/yr. In the same year, Wolfram Mining & Processing produced 120 t/yr of tungsten. Eurotrade International produced about 480 t/yr. Equally, Natural Resources Development Rwanda Ltd produced between 12 and 36 t/yr of tungsten.

Fossil fuels.

Rwanda's Lake Kivu was estimated to contain 60 billion m³ of natural gas. In 2010, Kibuye Power 1 Limited extracted natural gas from Lake Kivu. Kivuwatt Limited planned to construct a gas-fired power station and extract natural gas from Lake Kivu.

Pollution

Mining activities surrounding River Sebeya in the Western Province were suspended. These activities were polluting River Sebeya, which is a source of livelihood for the local people. Mining in this area will continue only after the execution of proper environment protection measures.

Answer these questions based directly on the numbers and names in the text.

1. List the four chief natural resources mentioned at the start of the report.
2. What percentage of the world's tantalum production did Rwanda provide in 2010?
3. How many tonnes of cement did Cimerwa plan to produce per year at their new plant?
4. Which two countries did Cimerwa plan to export cement to?
5. In which district were gold exploration activities carried out in 2008?
6. How much natural gas is estimated to be inside Lake Kivu?
7. What specific river was being polluted by mining activities in the Western Province?

Experimental version

7.2 Vocabulary: Resource in Rwanda

Activity 7.2.1

A. Match the words in Column A with their correct meanings in Column B

Column A	Column B
1. Natural resources	A. Materials sold to other countries
2. Export commodities	B. Fuel formed from ancient plants and animals
3. Production	C. Things found in nature that are useful to humans
4. Demand	D. Amount of something that people want or need
5. Import	E. To bring goods into a country
6. Exploration	F. The process of searching for minerals
7. Extracted	G. Taken out from the ground
8. Fossil fuels	H. The act of making or producing something
9. Suspended	I. Temporarily stopped
10. Pollution	J. Damage to the environment caused by harmful substances

B. Complete the sentences using words from the box below.

natural gas – export – production – demand – imported – exploration – suspended – cement – tungsten ore – pollution

1. Rwanda's chief natural resources include tin ore, gold, methane and _____.
2. In 2010, Rwanda's tantalum _____ accounted for 15% of global production.
3. The company planned to _____ cement to eastern Congo and Burundi.
4. About 100,000 tonnes of _____ were produced by Cimerwa in 2010.
5. Cement had to be _____ because local production could not meet demand.
6. Gold _____ activities were carried out in Gicumbi District in 2008.
7. The _____ for cement in Rwanda increased to almost 460,000 tonnes.
8. _____ was extracted from Lake Kivu to support power generation.
9. Mining activities near River Sebeya were _____ due to environmental concerns.
10. Mining activities caused _____ to River Sebeya.

7.3 Listening: Rwanda's main resources

Activity 7.3.1

Listen carefully as your teacher reads a text about Rwanda's main resources and decide whether the statements below are true or false

Rwanda's Main Resources

"Rwanda has both agricultural and mineral resources. Coffee and tea are grown in the highlands, processed in factories, and exported. Minerals like tin, tungsten, and gold are mined, processed, and sold abroad. Methane gas from Lake Kivu is used to generate electricity that support local industries and export. Rwanda also follows environmental rules to protect rivers and communities."

Say whether the statements below are True (T) or False (F).

1. Coffee and tea are grown in Rwanda's highlands.
2. Minerals are mainly imported into Rwanda.
3. Tin, tungsten, and gold are processed before export.
4. Methane gas is found in Lake Kivu.
5. Environmental protection is not important in mining activities.

7.4 Speaking: Rwanda's resources

Activity 7.4.1

Practise speaking English by creating a simple interview about Rwanda's natural and economic resources.

Work in pairs and take turns playing two roles: a Reporter and an Expert. The Reporter asks questions, and the Expert gives clear and simple answers using examples from Rwanda. Use the short dialogue below as a guide to help you think of ideas. You are NOT supposed to memorize it or repeat it word for word. Instead, read it first, understand the ideas, and then speak freely using your own sentences.

Reporter: Good morning. Can you tell us about Rwanda's natural resources?

Expert: Good morning. Rwanda is rich in natural resources. It has fertile land for farming and important minerals in the ground.

Reporter: What crops are grown in Rwanda?

Expert: Rwanda grows crops such as coffee, tea, maize, and beans. Coffee and tea are grown on large estates.

Reporter: What happens to these crops after harvesting?

Expert: After harvesting, they are processed and exported to other countries. This helps Rwanda to earn foreign income.

Reporter: I also hear about plantains. What are they used for?

Expert: Plantains are both a food and a cash crop. They are mainly used for making food and traditional drinks like beer and wine.

Reporter: What about minerals in Rwanda?

Expert: Rwanda has minerals such as tin, tungsten, tantalum, and gold. These minerals are mined from the ground.

Reporter: What is done with these minerals?

Expert: They are processed and exported to other countries. This supports Rwanda's economic development.

7.5 Language Focus

Activity 7.5.1

Fill in the blanks using suitable adjectives from the tables.

Fertile damaged valuable productive natural

1. Rwanda has _____ land that supports agriculture.
2. Tin and gold are _____ resources.
3. Lake Kivu contains _____ methane gas.
4. Farmers grow crops on _____ land.
5. Mining must avoid leaving _____ land.

A. Adjectives to describe resources

Notes:

Adjective	Meaning	Examples
Natural	Found in nature	Rwanda has many natural resources.
Mineral	Related to minerals	Tin is a mineral resource.
Renewable	Can be replaced naturally	Forests are renewable resources.

Non-renewable	Cannot be replaced quickly	Minerals are non-renewable resources.
Valuable	Worth a lot	Gold is a valuable resource.
Abundant	Available in large quantities	Methane is abundant in Lake Kivu.
Limited	Not available in large amounts	Some resources are limited .
Exportable	Can be sold to other countries	Coffee is an exportable resource.
Strategic	Important for development	Energy resources are strategic .
Sustainable	Used without damage	Rwanda promotes sustainable resource use.

B. Adjectives to describe land

Adjective	Meaning	Examples
Fertile	Good for growing crops	Rwanda has fertile land.
Arable	Suitable for farming	Most of the land is arable .
Hilly	With many hills	Rwanda is a hilly country.
Volcanic	Formed by volcanoes	The soil in Musanze is volcanic .
Rocky	Full of rocks	Some mining areas are rocky .
Forested	Covered with forests	Parts of Rwanda are forested .
Wet	With much water	Marshlands are wet areas.
Dry	With little rainfall	Some eastern areas are dry .
Protected	Kept safe by law	National parks are protected areas..
Degraded	Damaged by misuse	Mining can cause degraded land.

C. Adverbs to describe actions related to farming and exporting

Adverbs for Farming Activities

Adverb	Meaning	Examples
Carefully	With attention	Farmers carefully prepare the land.
Regularly	Often, at fixed times	Crops are regularly watered.
Seasonally	According to seasons	Tea is harvested seasonally .
Efficiently	Without waste	Farmers use land efficiently .
Sustainably	Without harming nature	Crops are grown sustainably .
Naturally	in a natural way	Some crops grow naturally .
Slowly	Not fast	Crops grow slowly in dry periods.
Successfully	With good results	Farmers successfully increase yields.
Traditionally	Following customs	Coffee is grown traditionally in some areas.
Mechanically	Using machines	Fields are prepared mechanically.

D. Adverbs for exporting and trade

Adverb	Meaning	Examples
Locally	Within the country	Products are processed locally .
Internationally	Across countries	Tea is sold internationally .
Mainly	Mostly	Coffee is mainly exported to Europe.
Officially	According to the law	Goods are officially exported.
Safely	Without danger	Products are transported safely .
Directly	Without passing through others	Minerals are exported directly from Kigali.
Efficiently	In a well-organized way	Goods are shipped efficiently .
Legally	Following the law	Minerals must be exported legally .
Quickly	In a short time	Fresh produce is exported quickly .
Successfully	With positive results	Rwanda successfully exports coffee and tea.

Activity 7.5.2

Fill in the blanks using suitable adverbs from the tables.

Locally carefully responsibly regularly mainly
--

1. Farmers _____ prepare their land before planting.
2. Tea leaves are harvested _____ throughout the year.
3. Coffee is _____ exported to international markets.
4. Minerals must be mined and exported _____.
5. Agricultural products are processed _____ before export.

E. Present simple passive

To understand the Present Simple Passive, you need to shift your focus from who is doing the action to what is happening to the object.

We use the Present Simple Passive when:

- The action is more important than the person doing it.
- We don't know who did the action, or it is obvious (e.g., we know farmers grow coffee, so we focus on the coffee).
- We are describing processes (how things are made, grown, or mined).

Notes:

Subject Type	Helping Verb	Past Participle	Example
Singular (Coffee, It)	Is	grown	Coffee is grown in Rwanda.
Plural (Minerals, They)	Are	exported	Minerals are exported abroad.

F. Active vs. Passive transformation

Active Voice (Focus on the Doer)	Passive Voice (Focus on the Resource)
Farmers grow sugarcane.	Sugarcane is grown (by farmers).
Mining companies extract coltan in Rwanda.	Coltan is extracted by mining companies in Rwanda.
Companies export tantalum.	Tantalum is exported .

Activity 7.5.3

Practice: change these active sentences into the Present Simple Passive:

1. Workers wash the minerals. _____
2. Factories pack the tea. _____
3. The government protects the environment. _____

7.6 Writing about resources in Rwanda

Activity 7.6.1

Think about your home district. Write 3 short paragraphs (50–80 words in total) about your district, focusing on the following:

1. What is grown in your area
2. What is mined or processed (if any)
3. How people work to use these resources

While writing, try to use:

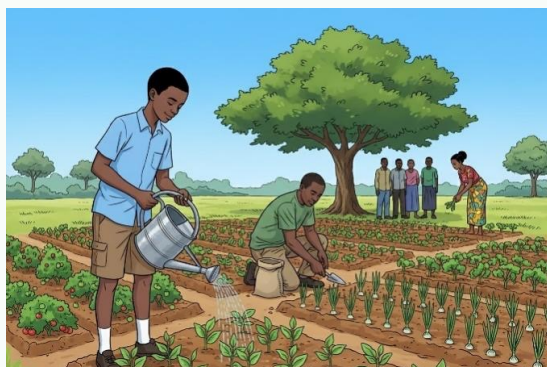

- Adjectives to describe land and resources (e.g. fertile, rich, valuable, productive)
- Adverbs to describe actions (e.g. carefully, widely, actively, successfully)
- Present simple passive to describe processes (e.g. is grown, is mined, is processed, is exported)
- Example starters for ideas:
 - "In my district, crops such as..."
 - "Minerals are..."
 - "People in my area work..."

7.7 Literature: Messages

Activity 7.7.1

Read the story below and answer the questions that follow

Michael and the Village Farm

Michael lived in a small village with his parents. One day, his father decided to plant vegetables on a small plot of land. Michael helped by clearing the land, planting seeds, and watering them regularly.

At first, the vegetables grew slowly, and some neighbors laughed at them, saying it was a waste of time. But Michael and his family stayed patient and careful. After a few months, the farm produced tomatoes, carrots, and onions. They sold the vegetables at the local market and earned some money.

With the money, they bought more seeds, tools, and even a small goat. Over time, they expanded the farm and later bought more livestock. They earned a steady income. Michael realized that wealth could come from planning, patience, and making good use of resources.

Questions:

1. What lesson do you think Michael's story is teaching us?
2. How does Michael's family show they are using resources wisely?
3. Why is patience important in Michael's story?
4. What can we learn about earning wealth from this story?
5. Can you think of another way Michael's family could earn money?

Notes:

Messages

1. Meaning of Messages

- A message is the lesson or advice a story teaches the reader.
- In these stories, the focus is on how people can earn wealth responsibly and successfully.

2. Sources of Wealth Illustrated in the Stories

- Farming or agriculture (Michael's vegetable farm).
- Skills and craftsmanship (Aisha's bead-making).
- Other sources include trading, education, saving, and using resources wisely.

3. Importance of Messages

- Helps learners understand lessons about earning and managing wealth.
- Encourages good behaviour, such as patience, honesty, and responsibility.
- Shows that wealth comes from smart decisions and skills, not just luck.

Activity 7.7.2

Read the story below and answer the questions that follow

Aisha's path to success

Aisha learned how to make colourful beads and necklaces from her older sister. She decided to sell them in the local market to help her family. Every day, she spent hours designing unique products, arranging them neatly, and greeting customers politely.

Some other young people tried to copy her work or rush through their own sales without care. But Aisha focused on quality, honesty, and patience. People liked her work, bought more from her, and she saved enough money to help her family buy school books and clothes.

Through her experience, Aisha discovered that wealth can come from learning useful skills, offering value, being honest, and practicing patience.

Questions:

1. What is the main message of Aisha's story?
2. How do Aisha's actions show the importance of learning skills to earn wealth?
3. What lesson does the story give about copying others or being careless?
4. Why are honesty and patience important in earning wealth?
5. How can you use the lessons from Aisha's story in your own life?

7.8. Sounds and Spelling: Pronouncing "-ed" endings

Activity 7.8.1

Read aloud the verbs listed below. Decide how the -ed ending is pronounced: /id/, /t/, or /d/

Verbs: exported, packed, planted, cleaned, played, worked, looked, needed, loved, washed, started, mined

/id/	/t/	/d/

In English, when we talk about the past (e.g., mined, exported, worked), we add -ed to regular verbs. However, this ending is pronounced in three different ways depending on the last sound of the original verb.

Experimental version

1. The /ɪd/ Sound (The extra syllable)

This is the easiest one to spot. We use it only when the verb already ends in a "t" or "d" sound. It adds an extra "beat" to the word.

- Rule: Use after /t/ or /d/.
- Examples: * Export → Exported (/ɪd/)
 - Plant → Planted (/ɪd/)
 - Need → Needed (/ɪd/)
 - Start → Started (/ɪd/)

2. The /t/ Sound (The quiet sound)

We use this after "unvoiced" consonants. These are sounds where your throat does not vibrate when you say them.

- Rule: Use after p, k, f, s, sh, ch.
- Examples:
 - Work → Worked (sounds like workt)
 - Pack → Packed (sounds like packt)
 - Wash → Washed (sounds like washt)
 - Look → Looked (sounds like lookt)

3. The /d/ Sound (The vibrating sound)

We use this after "voiced" sounds. These are sounds where your throat vibrates.

- Rule: Use after b, g, v, z, m, n, l, r, and all vowels.
- Examples:
 - Mine → Mined (/d/)
 - Clean → Cleaned (/d/)
 - Play → Played (/d/)
 - Love → Loved (/d/)

Activity 7.8.2

Read these verbs. Sort them in the correct column based on how you pronounce the "-ed" ending.

extracted, liked, processed, exported, farmed, lived, used, shouted.

The /ɪd/ Sound	The /t/ Sound	The /d/ Sound
1.	1.	1.
2.	2.	2.
3.	3.	3.

7.9 End of unit assessment

A. Knowledge and Understanding

A1. Multiple-Choice questions.

Choose the correct answer.

1. Which of the following is a cash crop in Rwanda?
 - A. Beans
 - B. Cassava
 - C. Coffee
 - D. Sorghum
2. Which energy resource is extracted from Lake Kivu and used to produce electricity?
 - A. Gold
 - B. Tin
 - C. Methane gas
 - D. Cement
3. Rwanda's mineral resources are important mainly because they:
 - A. Increase rainfall
 - B. Support the economy and exports
 - C. Reduce farming
 - D. Stop pollution
4. Which sentence is in the present simple passive?
 - A. Farmers grow tea in the highlands.
 - B. Tea is grown in Rwanda's highlands.
 - C. Farmers are growing tea.
 - D. Farmers have grown tea.

A2. Vocabulary Matching

Match the words in Column A with their meanings in Column B.

Column A	Column B
1. Natural resources	A. Goods sold to other countries
2. Export	B. Damage to the environment
3. Mining	C. Things found in nature that are useful
4. Pollution	D. Taking minerals from the ground

A3. Complete the sentences

Use the correct word from the box

(fertile – exported – demand – mined – valuable)

1. Coffee and tea are _____ to international markets.
2. Rwanda has _____ land suitable for agriculture.
3. Gold is _____ in some parts of Rwanda.
4. The _____ for cement has increased in recent years.
5. Minerals are _____ resources for national development.

B. Skills

B1. Reading Comprehension

Read the passage and answer the questions.

Rwanda's Wealth

Rwanda's wealth comes from agriculture, mining, and skilled labour. Crops such as coffee and tea are grown on fertile land and exported to other countries. Minerals like tin and gold are mined and processed locally. Farmers and miners work hard to support the economy while protecting the environment through sustainable practices.

Questions

1. Mention two sources of wealth from the passage.
2. How do farmers and miners contribute to Rwanda's economy?
3. Why is protecting the environment important according to the text?

B2. Listening

(Teacher reads the text twice)

Listening Text (for the teacher): "Rwanda earns wealth from farming and mining. Crops are carefully grown, harvested, and exported. Minerals are mined responsibly to protect the environment and nearby communities."

Questions

1. Name one agricultural activity mentioned.
2. How are minerals mined according to the text?
3. True or False:
 - a) Crops are exported.
 - b) Environmental protection is ignored.

B3. Speaking

(Oral – assessed by the teacher)

In pairs, talk about Rwanda's sources of wealth.

- Mention one crop and one mineral found in Rwanda.
- Explain how each supports the economy.

(Assessment focuses on clarity, vocabulary, grammar, and confidence.)

B4. Grammar and Language Use

B4.1 Change into the present simple passive.

1. Farmers grow maize.
→ _____
2. Companies export minerals.
→ _____

B5. Sounds and Spelling: -ed Endings

Write /ɪd/, /t/, or /d/.

1. exported ____
2. packed ____
3. mined ____
4. washed ____

B6. Writing

Write a short composition about the sources of wealth in your home district.

You should include:

- What is grown or mined
- How people work
- Why these resources are important

C. Attitudes and Values

C1. Situational Question

A mining company pollutes a nearby river while extracting minerals.

1. Is this behaviour responsible? Why?
2. What should be done to protect the environment?
3. Which values are being ignored?

UNIT 8:

INTRODUCTION TO LITERARY GENRES

Key unit competence

To analyze oral and written literary genres by exploring their characters, plot, setting, themes, and moral lessons while relating the insights to everyday life.

Learning Objectives:

Knowledge and Understanding

By the end of this unit, you will be able to:

- Explain the meaning, purpose, and forms of literature, and their roles in society.
- Identify the key features of prose: characters, plot, setting, themes, and messages.
- Recognize major genres of oral and written literature and their social, cultural, and moral importance.

Skills

By the end of this unit, you will be able to:

- Read and analyse literary texts, identifying characters, plot, setting, themes, and lessons.
- Compare oral and written texts, noting similarities and differences.
- Create and present short literary texts with clear themes and messages.

Attitudes and Values

By the end of this unit, you will be able to:

- Appreciate literature as a source of knowledge, creativity, and moral lessons.
- Respect cultural diversity, oral traditions, and promote peace and security.
- Show empathy, cooperation, and responsibility by applying lessons from stories to help your community stay safe and peaceful.

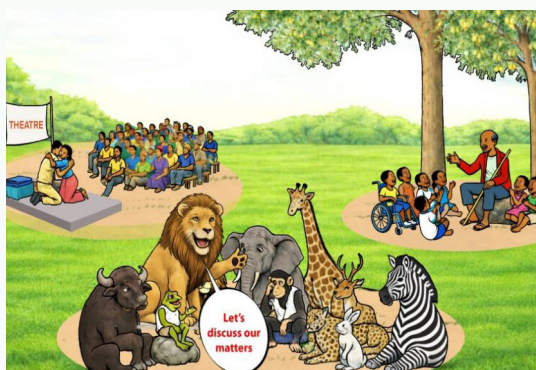

Introduction

Literature is a powerful way to share ideas, stories, and feelings, helping you understand life, culture, and human experiences. This unit focuses on oral and written literary genres, including stories, poems, and plays. You will explore the key elements of literature such as characters, plot, setting, themes, and moral lessons, and see how they work together to create meaning. It will also help you create your own simple literary works, such as short stories, poems, or dramatized scenes.

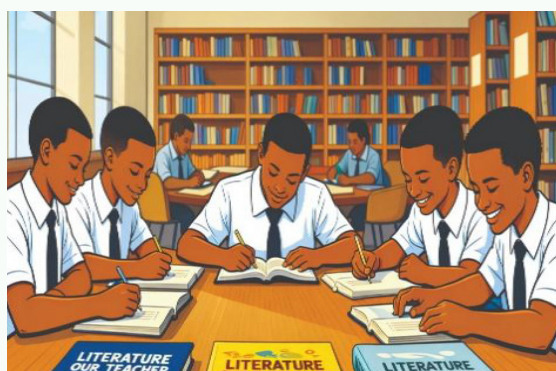

Introductory activity:

Observe the pictures below and answer the questions that follow.

Picture 1

Picture 2

Questions

1. What is the old man doing with the children in picture 1?
2. How can you tell the story is told aloud in picture 1?
3. Which animals are in picture 1, and what unusual things are they doing?
4. What are the learners doing in the library in picture 2?
5. How can you tell that Picture 2 represents written literature?

8.1. Meaning and functions of literature

Activity 8.1.1

In your groups, read carefully the literary texts below and answer the questions that follow.

A. The Animals and the Peace Forest

Kaburuburu was once known as the Peace Forest, a place where peace and harmony reigned among the animals that lived there. The lion was the forest leader. The fox cooked for everyone. The elephant grew food and cooked tasty meals. The hyena cared for the young ones. The crocodile knew the rivers and how to sail the canoe.

Then one year, the rain stopped for a long time. The grass dried up. Water holes disappeared. The animals were thirsty and hungry. They knew they had to leave the Peace Forest to find water and food.

At a wide river, they found a small canoe. The crocodile said, "The crocodile said, 'This boat can take us across.' 'Yes,' agreed the lion. "We go together."

At first, the water was calm. But soon dark clouds covered the sky. Wind blew hard. Rain poured down. The little canoe rocked again and again.

"I'm scared," whispered the fox. "Keep calm," said the elephant.

Suddenly - splash! - water began filling the canoe.

"We will sink!" cried the fox.

"Look!" said the crocodile. "A floating log is near us! We must reach it!"

"Push!" shouted the lion.

They used all their strength. The elephant pushed. The hyena helped the small ones. The fox shouted for courage. They reached the log and held on tight. The storm howled, but the log kept them safe.

When the rain eased, they reached the riverbank. They were wet and tired, but alive.

The lion looked at his friends and said, "We were afraid, but because we helped one another, we survived."

B. The victim of ignorance

I had a book upon my shelf,
I pushed it back , I did not read.
"Books are boring," I once said,
"I can learn without a page."
One day I walked a path so long,
The trees all looked the same.
I needed signs to show the way,
But letters looked so strange.
I stood and cried, my feet so tired,
I wished I knew how words worked.
A sign said "Home →" I could not read,
I didn't know which way to turn.
I learned that day, under the sky,
That reading guides your feet and mind.
Words can help you find your way,
If you learn them, you will not stay lost.

C. One Jump, one handcuff

Narrator: Ntamwete was once a good student, but drugs slowly took control of his life.

NKundishuri: Ntamwete, you are changing. Please stop using drugs.

Sindambiwe: We care about you. School is your future.

Ntamwete: Drugs help me forget my pain. I thought I was strong.

Narrator: One day, Ntamwete jumped the school fence into the bushes.

Police Officer: Stop right there! Come out now!

Ntamwete: (crying) I was wrong. I didn't know how to stop. Please forgive me. I will never use drugs again.

Police Officer: Drugs destroy dreams and bring regret.

NKundishuri: We warned you because we love you.

Sindambiwe: Your life still matters.

Ntamwete: (to the audience) Learn from me. One bad choice can ruin your future.

Comprehension Questions about the three literary works

1. Based on their physical features, identify which text is a story, which is a poem, and which is a play. Give reasons for your answers.
2. How did each text make you feel while reading it? Explain your answer.
3. What lessons do you learn from The Animals and the Peace Forest?
4. What message does The Victim of Ignorance teach us about reading and education?
5. What warning is given in One Jump, One Handcuff, and why is it important for young people?

Experimental version

6. Besides entertaining readers, what important lessons or values do these texts teach? Give examples from the texts.
7. Based on these three texts, what do you think literature is, and what functions does it serve in society.

Importance of Literature

Literature is a form of art that uses words to show ideas and feelings about life and society. It can make us think, feel and change. For example, in "One Jump, One Handcuff," the play shows how drugs can ruin a student's life, teaching readers an important life lesson.

Importance of Literature

- Literature educates and informs us:

It helps us understand ourselves, others, and the world. In "The Victim of Ignorance," the poet shows that reading can guide our choices and help us avoid mistakes.

- Literature entertains us:

Stories and poems are fun to read. The adventure of animals crossing the river in "The Animals and the Peace Forest" entertains while teaching teamwork.

- Literature stimulates imagination and thinking:

It encourages creativity and critical thinking. Thinking about Ntamwete's choices in "One Jump, One Handcuff" helps readers consider consequences and better decisions.

- Literature helps us understand history, culture, and identity:

Traditional stories preserve culture. Reading animal tales or proverbs connects us to Rwandan traditions and values.

- Literature connects us to other subjects:

It teaches lessons in morals, psychology, and philosophy. Ntamwete's story explores human behavior, choices, and ethics.

- Literature humanizes us:

It teaches compassion and moral values. Seeing animals help each other in "The Animals and the Peace Forest" encourages empathy and cooperation.

- Literature raises social awareness:

It warns against social problems. "One Jump, One Handcuff" shows the dangers of drugs and their impact on life and education.

- Literature strengthens language and communication skills:

Reading poems like "The Victim of Ignorance" improves vocabulary and expression.

- Literature prepares us for careers:

Practicing clear expression through reading or acting in plays like "One Jump, One Handcuff" helps in any profession.

- Literature provides mental health benefits:

Reading reduces stress and helps manage emotions. Stories like "The Animals and the Peace Forest" give adventure and excitement safely.

Activity 8.1.2

In Cyamudongo Forest

Before the problems began, Cyamudongo Forest was full of life. Elephants walked slowly among tall trees, lions roared but did not harm other animals, birds sang, and little animals ate grass and seeds. Rivers and waterholes were full, and every animal had a home in Cyamudongo.

Soon, trouble came. Lions started to eat small animals. Elephants started to trample young trees, and small animals ate the remaining grass. Trees slowly disappeared, rivers dried, and animals became weak and afraid of what the future would bring.

The tortoise wondered and said, "If we do not take care of Cyamudongo, we will all suffer. Luck is destroyed by carelessness."

The elephants, small animals, and birds felt sorry. They planted seeds, protected trees, and promised to always plant a tree after grazing or eating. The lion did not change. The animals chased him away, and he went to live in another forest.

Slowly, Cyamudongo grew green again. Rivers returned, trees grew tall, and animals were safe. A forest lost is a home lost.

A: Cyamudongo Forest and the Importance of Literature

1. How did the animals live in Cyamudongo Forest before the problems started?
2. What problems happened in the forest later?
3. What type of story is this?
4. How did the animals save the forest?
5. What happened to the lion, and what lesson do we learn from it?

Experiment 133

B. Matching Activity: Story Events and Importance of Literature

Instructions: Match the event from the story (Column A) with the correct importance of literature (Column B). Write the correct letter.

Column A – Event in the Story	Column B – Importance of Literature
1. The forest was healthy before problems started	a. Raises social awareness
2. Animals struggling when the forest became dry	b. Educates and informs us
3. Animals planting seeds and protecting trees	c. Entertains us
4. Animals showing compassion and helping each other	d. Humanizes us
5. The story itself with exciting events	e. Stimulates imagination and thinking

8.2. Categories of Literature: Oral and Written Literature

Activity 8.2.1

1. Turn to your partner and tell them any traditional story or a song you have heard from your parents, grandparents, or elders that includes animals, nature, events from long ago, and a lesson or moral. Then, orally present your story to the class.

A. Read the stories below and answer the questions that follow.

Literary work 1

One cold evening, an old man sat by the fireplace, the warm flames dancing on the walls. His children gathered around him, eyes wide with curiosity. He cleared his throat twice. The children knew what it meant, he wanted them to listen very carefully. He began to tell them a story.

"There was a man, named Magorwa, who looked after his sheep and cultivated his fields. One day, while he was taking his sheep to graze, he noted that a rabbit in the bush had eaten some of his crops. When he came back the next day, the same small creature had eaten more of his crops. He took the rabbit back home and said, 'I'm going to have to slaughter you for eating my crops.' The rabbit said, 'Wait; please don't eat me. Forgive me and I will not eat your crops anymore.'

Magorwa had a good heart; he forgave Rabbit and let him go.

On his way back to the field the next day, Magorwa was approached by Lion. Lion told him that he had to kill one of the sheep in the field and give it to him. Magorwa was scared and did as he was told. He went and killed one of his sheep and gave it to Lion. This kept happening day after day.

One day, on his way to his field, Magorwa met Rabbit. Rabbit said, 'I see that you have less and less sheep. What has happened?' Magorwa replied, 'Lion comes every day and makes me give him one of my sheep. Now I have just a few of them left.'

The little animal he had saved said, 'The next time Lion comes I will be next to you, hidden in a bush. I will tell you what to say.'

Magorwa took his sheep to the grasses and Lion once again came from the forest and told him it was time for him to give him another one of his flock. However, Magorwa said he would not give him any more. Rabbit was hidden next to Magorwa and spoke out loudly.

'Who are you talking to?' asked Lion.

Rabbit said loudly, 'I am the king of heaven and earth who puts on the skin of lions.'

'Who is that?' asked Lion.

'What are you looking for?' shouted Rabbit, hidden behind the bush.

Lion was scared and said, 'I ... I'm just looking for firewood.'

'Sit down and don't move!' shouted Rabbit, who then whispered to Magorwa to get the firewood rope and tie the hands and legs of Lion.

That is how Magorwa captured and killed the big ferocious Lion and saved his sheep, with the help of the little vegetable-eating animal he had forgiven."

The children listened in silence, their eyes shining with wonder as the old man smiled, the fire crackling softly behind him.

Literary text 2

Silence as the curtains rise. Sounds of cutlery only. Mr Bwembya occasionally clears his throat. Ian has his earphones on. Lisa looks tense whilst Linda is oblivious to all the tension.)

MR BWEMBYA: So did everyone have a good day?

LINDA: Yes! The rehearsal went really well!

LISA: That's really nice Linda. Keep up the good work.

LINDA: Mrs Afumba says I'll definitely win the best actress award! She says that I act very well as a rich man's girlfriend.

IAN: (mumbling) Because you have a living example in this house.

MR BWEMBYA: What did you say Ian?

IAN: Nothing.

LINDA: So Mummy, I need new clothes for the play because there are three different scenes and I must have an outfit for each scene. Mrs Afumba insists that I must look like an expensive high-class woman because I am the girlfriend of a very rich man. May I go shopping tomorrow Mummy?

LISA: Yes, we can, if Father gives us money. Maybe we can get Ian those sports shoes he's wanted for so long.

MR BWEMBYA: Let's buy Linda's clothes first since she needs them for the play soon and then we can buy Ian's shoes later.

IAN: (mumbling) Of course. Ian's needs are not that important! Did you say something young man? (Silence)

MR BWEMBYA: So what about you Ian? Were you chosen to play in the school's rugby team? (Silence)

MR BWEMBYA: (shouting) Ian, I am talking to you! Will you answer me!

IAN: What?

MR BWEMBYA: I asked you a question.

IAN: (looking defiant) What?

LISA: Ian! You cannot speak to your father like that!

IAN: And you cannot speak to me like that! You are not my mother.

MR BWEMBYA: Ian! Apologise to your mother right this minute!

IAN: She's not my mother. In case you have forgotten, my mother was packed out of this house and sent off to live in the village because of the girlfriend of a very rich man! In fact, I think I shall go live with my mother and leave this house to the girlfriend of a very rich man and her daughter.

(Ian walks off from the dinner table.)

Questions

1. Who are the main characters in literary text 1 and literary text 2?
2. Where and how is each story told or presented ? (Hint: fireplace, book/script)
3. What animals appear in the literary text 1, and what is unusual about them?
4. Which story is transmitted orally, and which is transmitted in written form? Give one reason for your answer.
5. How do the two stories teach lessons or morals differently?

Categories of Literature: Oral Literature and Written Literature

1. Oral Literature

Oral literature refers to literary works that are spoken and heard. They are passed from one generation to another by word of mouth.

Features of Oral Literature:

- Told aloud
- Passed from elders to children
- Depends on memory
- May change when retold
- Uses animals, nature, and old times
- Teaches moral lessons

Oral literature includes folktales, myths, legends, proverbs, riddles, songs, chants, spoken poems.

Examples from the text:

- The Literary text 1 told by an old man to his children around the fireplace.

2. Written Literature

Written literature refers to literary works that are written and read. They are found in books, scripts, or plays.

Features of Written Literature:

- Written down
- Has fixed words
- Read from books or scripts
- Preserved over time
- Plays include dialogue and stage directions

Written Literature includes: Plays, novels, short stories, poems, drama scripts, essays, biographies.

Examples from the text:

- Literary text 2 written as a play.
- Stage directions such as:
 - "Silence as the curtains rise. Sounds of cutlery only. Mr Bwenbya occasionally clears his throat."
 - "(Silence)", "(shouting)", "(looking defiant)"
- Dialogue with characters' names like MR BWEMBYA: or LINDA:

Summary table:

Oral Literature	Written Literature
Spoken and heard	Written and read
Passed by word of mouth	Kept in books or scripts
Depends on memory	Has fixed words
May change when retold	Remains the same
Told by elders or storytellers	Written by authors
Example: Literary text 1 "He cleared his throat twice..."	Example: Literary text 2 ; stage directions "(Silence)", "Silence as the curtains rise"

Activity 8.1.3

Sleep, My Baby

Read the literary text below and answer the questions that follow.

Hush, hush, little one, close your eyes,
Mummy is near, hear her soft sighs.
Sleep, sleep, under the moon so bright,
She'll hold you close all through the night.

Dream, dream, little one, safe and warm,
Mummy's love will keep you from harm.
Stars shine softly up above,
Mummy is coming with all her love.

Questions:

1. Who is the speaker talking to in this text?
2. What is the speaker trying to make the child do?
3. Which category of literature does this text belong to? Give a reason for your answer.
4. What do we call this type of poem?
5. Recite the text aloud as if you are soothing a baby.

8.3. Genres of Oral Literature

Oral literature includes different types of stories and songs that are told and shared through words of mouth. Some examples are fables, which teach morals using animal characters; myths, which explain the origin of people, animals, or natural events; legends, which tell about heroes or important people from the past; and songs, which are sung to entertain or soothe.

Activity 8.3.1

Read the story below and answer the questions that follow.

The Fox and the Guava

One warm afternoon, a hungry fox walked through a quiet garden. His stomach rumbled as he searched for something to eat. Suddenly, he saw ripe, yellow guavas hanging high on a strong branch.

The fox's eyes sparkled. "How sweet and juicy the guavas must be!" he thought. He jumped once, twice, and even three times, stretching his paws as far as he could. But the guavas were still too high to reach.

The fox sat down, feeling tired and frustrated. He looked up at the guavas and said, "Those guavas are probably sour anyway. I wouldn't want them even if I could reach them."

With a sigh, the fox walked away, pretending not to care. But deep inside, he wished he could taste the sweet guavas.

Questions

1. Who is the main character in this story?
2. What happens to the fox when he tries to get the guavas?
3. How does the fox act like a human in the story? Give examples from the text.
4. What lesson or message do you think this story is trying to teach?
5. What genre of oral literature could this story belong to? Why do you think so?

Fables and Their Characteristics

- A fable is a short story that teaches a moral or lesson.
- Often includes animals, plants, or objects that act like humans.

Characteristics of Fables:

1. Short and simple: usually one main event or problem.
2. Animal characters with human qualities : animals can speak, think, or act like humans.
3. Contains a moral or lesson : teaches right from wrong or gives advice for life.
4. Universal themes : deals with common human experiences or behaviors.
5. Oral tradition : many fables were originally told aloud, passed down through generations.
6. Clear conflict and resolution: often show a problem and how it is dealt with, ending with a lesson.

Examples of Famous Fables:

- The Fox and the Guava : teaches about envy and excuses.
- The Tortoise and the Hare : teaches about perseverance and humility.
- The Lion and the Mouse : teaches about kindness and helping others.

B. Myth

Activity 8.3.2

Read the story below and answer the questions that follow.

The Myth of Kigwa

Long ago, before humans had fire or tools, the world was dark and wild. In the home of the gods, high above the clouds, a being of great power and light was born, Kigwa. He was not born like humans. He was created from the breath of the Great Spirit, glowing with heavenly light, and destined for a special purpose.

As Kigwa grew, he learned the secrets of life, fire, and skill. Yet, when he looked down upon the earth, he saw humans shivering in cold, unable to cook their food or defend themselves. Their lives were hard, and the world seemed cruel and dangerous. Moved by compassion, Kigwa chose to leave heaven and bring his gifts to humankind.

He descended from the sky with a staff of fire in his hand, and his presence shook the earth. At first, the humans were terrified, thinking he was a god of wrath. But Kigwa spoke with kindness and taught them to make fire from dry wood, shape stone into tools, and build shelters to protect themselves. He also taught them to cooperate, share, and care for one another, laying the foundations of human society.

After sharing his gifts, Kigwa reminded the humans:

"I came from heaven to give you fire, skill, and wisdom. Use them with courage, kindness, and respect. Let your communities grow strong, and your hearts remain humble."

Then Kigwa returned to the heavens, leaving behind a trail of sparks that became the stars. Humans, now armed with fire and skill, thrived. They built homes, grew food, formed families, and created songs and stories to remember Kigwa's gifts.

Through Kigwa, humans learned knowledge, cooperation, and civilization, the very beginnings of society. His story explains why humans have fire, tools, wisdom, and the bonds that hold communities together, making him a bridge between the divine and the mortal world.

Questions:

1. Who is Kigwa in the story above, and how is he born?
2. What events in the story show that Kigwa has a supernatural origin?
3. Why does Kigwa leave heaven to help humans on earth?
4. How does the story explain the origin of fire and other skills among human beings?
5. How does the story explain the origin of fire, tools and cooperation?

Myth

A myth is a traditional story that is passed down from generation to generation by word of mouth. It explains the origin of the world, nature, human beings, or beliefs, and often involves gods or supernatural events.

Key Characteristics of a Myth

- Supernatural events: Things happen that are beyond human understanding.
- Divine characters: Gods, semi-gods, or extraordinary beings appear.
- Explains origins: Shows how people, society, nature, or customs began.
- Traditional beliefs : Reflects cultural practices, rituals, and values.
- Oral transmission : Passed on through storytelling.
- Set in the distant past : Takes place long before recorded history.

Experimental version

Example:

The Myth of Kigwa:

The myth of Kigwa shows key features of myths. His supernatural birth and descent from heaven show supernatural events. As the son of the King of Heaven, he is a divine character. The story explains the origin of human society, skills, and tools. It reflects traditional beliefs about ancestry and culture. The myth was passed on through oral tradition and is set in the distant past before recorded history.

Importance of Myths

- Explain human origins and natural events
- Preserve culture and traditions
- Teach moral and social values
- Help people understand their identity

Conclusion

A myth is an important part of oral literature that uses supernatural stories to explain origins and beliefs, as shown in The Myth of Kigwa.

C. Legend

Activity 8.3.3

Read the story and answer the questions that follow.

Ruganzu II Ndoli

Ruganzu II Ndoli was born into a kingdom full of chaos. His father, King Ndahiro II Cyamatare, and members of his family were brutally killed by Nyebunga and his allies. The young prince narrowly escaped death and fled to the neighboring Kingdom of Karagwe, where his aunt, the queen, took care of him. In this foreign land, Ruganzu II Ndoli grew strong. Hunger taught him patience, danger sharpened his courage, and his love for Rwanda burned in his heart. Every day he trained, every night he dreamed of returning to restore his kingdom.

After eleven years, Ruganzu II Ndoli returned. Quietly, he gathered loyal warriors who remembered the rightful king. Whispers spread through the villages: Ruganzu II Ndoli is back! Battles were fought, sharp, fierce, and decisive. The usurpers fell, and the stolen throne was reclaimed.

As king, Ruganzu II Ndoli traveled across the land, protecting the country, settling disputes, and teaching his people justice and loyalty. Through skill and courage, he expanded Rwanda, uniting neighboring territories and forging alliances with Karagwe, the kingdom that had raised him. He also assisted the King of Bugesera, Rwayitare, in defeating the King of Burundi, Ntare II Kibogora, resolving old disputes and showing his strategic brilliance.

Ruganzu II Ndoli's reign was a time of courage, wisdom, and growth. Under his rule, Rwanda became stronger, safer, and more prosperous. The royal drum thundered once again across the hills. Rwanda was alive and thriving. Yet even heroes are mortal. Ruganzu II Ndoli's life ended when an arrow, fired by Bitibibisi of Rusenyi, struck his eye.

Ruganzu II Ndoli is remembered as both a king and a legendary figure, a man of heroic deeds, vision, and wisdom, whose actions shaped the destiny of Rwanda and inspired generations.

Questions

1. Who was Ruganzu II Ndoli?
2. What problems did Ruganzu II Ndoli face as a child?
3. What heroic deeds did Ruganzu II Ndoli perform when he became king?
4. How did Ruganzu II Ndoli make Rwanda stronger and bigger?
5. What lessons can we learn from Ruganzu II Ndoli's life?

D. SONG

Notes: Meaning and features of legends

A legend is a story about real extra-ordinary people or events that shows their heroic deeds and teaches lessons. Legends often mix history and imagination. They usually celebrate the deeds of heroes or teach moral lessons.

2. Features of a Legend

- Based on real people or historical events

Example: Ruganzu II Ndoli was a real king of Rwanda.

- Heroic deeds

Example: Escaping exile, defeating usurpers, protecting the country, expanding Rwanda.

- Moral lessons or values

Example: Courage, loyalty, justice, and wisdom shown by Ruganzu II Ndoli.

- Exaggeration or drama

Experimental version

Example: His exile, battles, and miraculous abilities are told with suspense.

- Cultural or historical significance

Example: His story shows how Rwanda was restored, united, and strengthened.

3. Why are legends important?

- They preserve history and culture.
- They inspire people to be courageous and moral.
- They explain achievements of famous figures in an entertaining way.

4. Example from Ruganzu II Ndoli

- Heroic deeds: Escaping exile, defeating usurpers, protecting the country, expanding Rwanda.
- Moral lessons: Courage, loyalty, justice, wisdom.
- Historical basis: He was a real king who ruled Rwanda from 1510 to 1543.
- Exaggeration and drama: His life is told with suspense, battles, and miraculous abilities, making him a legendary figure.

Activity 8.3.4

Read the song and answer questions that follow.

“Goodbye Is Part of Life” Performed by Mireille Mathieu (English translation from a French song)

We do not live without saying goodbye,
We do not live without dying a little,
Without letting go, to go further
On our path, of something or someone.
I came to say goodbye to you,
A memory always dies a little.
I wanted to know what remained for me
Of the only love that truly mattered.
I came to say goodbye to you,
Or if you prefer, goodbye to the two of us.
Like the day you made me cry
By telling me goodbye forever.
Oh, it wasn't your fault, I know it,
I know everything that was going to happen.

Your father and all that he told you,
Your studies to finish, your service, your future.
And then, "that girl is not for you,"
Today you are someone else.
Everything ends well... but
How much I loved you.
I was sixteen, sixteen years old.
We do not live without saying goodbye,
We do not live without dying a little.
I wanted to stop time,
The time to say goodbye to my sixteen years.
I wanted to say goodbye to my sixteen years
Before moving on toward what awaits me.

Questions:

1. What is the main idea of the song?
2. Find a line that is repeated. Why do you think it is repeated?
3. Find a line that creates a picture in your mind. What picture does it make?
4. Find a line where the singer compares one thing to another to show feelings.
What is being compared?
5. What makes this a song? Give examples from the lyrics.
6. How would you sing the first two stanzas to show the feelings in the song?

Song

A song is a form of oral literature and a short poem meant to be sung, expressing feelings, ideas, or experiences in a musical and rhythmic way.

Characteristics of a Song

- A song is a poem meant to be sung.
- A song has musical quality with rhythm and rhyme.
- A song expresses personal feelings and emotions.
- A song is usually short and simple.
- A song may have refrains or repetition for musical effect.
- A song often focuses on one main mood or theme.

Example from "Goodbye Is Part of Life":

- Emotional expression: "I wanted to know what remained for me / Of the only love that truly mattered."
- Repetition: "We do not live without saying goodbye, / We do not live without dying a little."
- Focus on one theme: Saying goodbye, memories, and growing up

Key Poetic Elements in the Song

1. Repetition

Example: "We do not live without saying goodbye, / We do not live without dying a little."

Emphasizes the main idea and creates rhythm.

2. Imagery

Example: "Without letting go, to go further / On our path, of something or someone."

Creates a visual and emotional picture of moving forward and leaving memories behind.

3. Figurative Language / Metaphor

Example: "A memory always dies a little."

Compares saying goodbye to a small death, conveying deep emotion poetically.

Importance of a Song in Society

Songs express emotions and bring people together.

Songs preserve culture and traditions.

Songs can inspire, motivate, or educate.

Songs entertain and relieve stress.

Songs are a means of communication and storytelling.

Points to Remember

Every song is a poem, but not every poem is a song.

Activity 8.3.5

1. The Antelope and the Caring Forest

During a long drought, a little antelope was born. Sadly, her mother died, leaving her weak and crying.

The elephant said, "Don't worry, little one. I'll bring you water." The monkeys chirped, "Here, drink this!" while carrying leaves of water. Birds dropped tiny drops from above, and the zebra shared some food. The tortoise whispered, "I will stay with you. You are not alone."

The little antelope drank and nibbled, her eyes shining. "Thank you... thank you all," she said softly.

2. How the Sun Came to Shine

Long ago, the world was dark and cold. People could not see, grow food, or stay warm. They cried out in fear and sadness.

High above the mountains, the Sun appeared and spoke gently, "I will help you. The Sky God has sent me to free you from your misery." She rose into the sky, spreading bright light and warm rays across the land.

The people gasped with joy. "We can see! We can live!" they cried. Plants grew, animals thrived, and happiness returned to the earth.

3. The Brave Girl Birakwiye

A village was attacked by wild animals. Panic filled the streets.

A young girl, Birakwiye, stepped forward and shouted, "Everyone, follow me! We can protect our homes together!" Her voice was strong but trembling with fear. Villagers hesitated but then saw her courage and followed.

She led them to safety, shouting instructions: "Hold the fences! Stay close! Don't panic!" The villagers worked together, and the animals ran away.

When the danger passed, the villagers cheered, "Hurray for Birakwiye!" Tears ran down her cheeks as she smiled. From that day, she was remembered as a hero, and songs were sung in her honor.

4. Lifting the Tree

Lift, lift, lift the tree,

Lift, lift, carefully!

Push together, heave with might,

We will move it right tonight!

Questions:

1. Name the main character in each of the three first texts.
2. Describe the problem or conflict in each of the three first texts.
3. How is the conflict resolved in each text?
4. Which text tells the story of a brave person remembered for heroic deeds? What qualities make this character a hero?
5. Which text explains origins or natural phenomena? Explain.

Activity 8.3.6

B. Match the following literary works with their genres

S/N	Title	Genres
1	The Antelope and the Caring Forest	A. Legend
2	How the Sun Came to Shine	B. Song
3	The Brave Girl Birakwiye	C. Fable
4	Lifting the Tree	D. Myth

- Creative Writing and oral Presentation

Activity 8.3.7

1. Write your own short fable (5-8 Lines). Include:
 - A main character (human, animal, or object)
 - A clear problem or challenge
 - How the problem is solved
 - A moral or lesson
2. Identify the theme of your fable.
3. Present your fable orally to the class using dialogue, expressions, or actions to bring the story to life.

8.4. Genres of Written Literature

Written literature is the art of expressing ideas, stories, and emotions through words. It can take three main genres: prose, which includes short stories, novellas, and novels; poetry, which uses rhythm, rhyme, and imagery; and drama, which are written to be performed on stage. Literature helps us understand people, cultures, and experiences while entertaining and inspiring us.

A. Prose

Activity 8.4.1

Read the story and answer the questions that follow.

Things Fall Apart is Chinua Achebe's first novel written in 1958. It tells the story of Okonkwo and the Igbo culture of the people of Umuofia. It was written to oppose the British cultural superiority imposed on Africans during the colonial period.

Okonkwo was well known throughout the nine villages and even beyond. His fame rested on solid personal achievements. As a young man of eighteen he had most powerful in the land. It was a village brought honor to his village by throwing Amalinze the Cat, a wrestler who for seven years was unbeaten.

Okonkwo was tall and powerful, with a gleaming physique that rippled beneath his skin like the muscles of a lion. He was a man of action, and when he spoke, his words carried weight. Okonkwo's village, Umuofia, was one of the largest and most powerful in the land. It was a village of sturdy men and women, renowned for their bravery, strength, and wisdom. The villagers were farmers, and their lives revolved around the cycles of nature.

Experimental version

But Okonkwo's own life was not without its struggles. His father, Unoka, had been a lazy and improvident man, who left his family in debt and shame. Okonkwo had vowed to overcome his father's weaknesses and make a name for himself. As the rain began to fall, Okonkwo sat in his obi, listening to the beat of the drum and the voices of the villagers.

The extract from Things Fall Apart by Chinua Achebe.

Questions

1. How are the sentences in the passage written? Do they use ordinary language or rhyme?
2. How many paragraphs are in the passage? What is it mainly about?
3. Who are the main characters mentioned in the passage?
4. What important events or actions are described about Okonkwo?
5. Where does the story take place, and how is the village described?

Prose

Prose is one of the main genres of written literature. It uses ordinary, everyday language and is written in sentences and paragraphs, following normal grammar and punctuation rules. Unlike poetry, prose does not rely on rhyme or rhythm. It is mainly used to tell stories, describe people or events, or give information, and it includes forms such as short stories, novellas, and novels.

Characteristics of Prose.

- Written in ordinary language, not like in poetry or rhyme.
- Organized in sentences and paragraphs.
- Follows normal grammar and punctuation rules.
- Can tell a story, describe events, or give information.
- Often includes characters, setting, and events (in narratives).
- Can be short or long, e.g., a paragraph, short story, novella, or novel (like Things fall Apart by Chinua Achebe).
- Focuses on clear communication and more understandable language than in poetry.

Examples from Things Fall Apart extract

- Sentence: "Okonkwo was tall and powerful, with a gleaming physique that rippled beneath his skin like the muscles of a lion."
- Paragraph: The paragraph describing Okonkwo's fame, achievements, and his village.
- Characters: Okonkwo, Unoka, the villagers.
- Events: Okonkwo defeating Amalinze the Cat, his struggles to overcome his father's failures.
- Setting: The village of Umuofia.

Activity 8.4.2

The boys had just finished playing football on the dusty field behind their village. They were tired, and very hungry. None of them had eaten anything since morning. As they rested under a big tree, a man walked toward them smiling. He introduced himself as Simbizi and praised them for playing so well. He then told them that there was a restaurant nearby where they could get food. Driven by hunger, the boys agreed to follow him.

Avoid False Promises

At the restaurant, the boys ate eagerly. While they were eating, Simbizi began to talk.

"Wow!! This food is much better than the porridge at school," said Kato, licking his fingers.

"That is true," replied Musa. "I wish we could eat like this every day!"

Simbizi smiled. "And what if I told you that you could have meals like this whenever you want?" The boys looked at him with surprise.

"Really?" asked Kato. "How is that possible?"

"I have work for you," Simbizi said. "Work that pays well. You can become soldiers in a nearby forest."

"Soldiers?" Musa laughed nervously. "Will we have to fight lions?"

Everyone laughed. "No, no," said Simbizi. "You will earn money, gain ranks, and be respected. People will salute you wherever you go." Kato's eyes widened. "Even the head teacher?"

"Especially the head teacher!" Simbizi joked, making the boys laugh again. Then he lowered his voice and added, "Why waste time sitting in classrooms? School is useless. Education will not help you succeed in life. Real success comes from action, not books."

Some of the boys listened with interest, but Rugwiro's heart became uneasy. As he ate, he remembered what his teacher had once said in class, that children below the age of eighteen should never take part in fighting or military activities. He also remembered his father's words that education brings lasting blessings and leads to a peaceful future.

Rugwiro stopped eating and spoke calmly but firmly. "I cannot join you," he said. "My teacher warned us that children under eighteen should not be soldiers, and my father taught me that education is important. I choose school and peace."

Experimental version

Simbizi tried to convince him, but Rugwiro refused.

A few boys decided to stay behind with Rugwiro, while others followed Simbizi, hoping for a better life. Quietly, they moved toward the border.

Before they reached the forest, the police stopped them. After questioning them, the officers discovered the truth. The boys began to cry and explained everything.

Simbizi was arrested immediately for illegally recruiting children and was taken to jail to face prosecution.

The children were returned safely to their families. Parents were encouraged to guide their children carefully and to warn them against following unknown people.

Rugwiro returned to school with confidence, knowing he had made the right decision. The village learned an important lesson: children must be protected, guided, and kept in school, because peace begins with caring for the young.

Questions

a. General Understanding

1. Where were the boys before they met Simbizi, and what had they been doing?
2. What job did Simbizi tell the boys about while they were eating?
3. What tricks did Simbizi use to make the children interested in his work?
4. Why did Rugwiro refuse to join Simbizi and the other boys?
5. What happened to Simbizi and the boys who followed him at the end of the story?
6. If you were one of the boys who decided to follow Simbizi, what would you have done differently and why?
7. Summarize the story in (5-7) sentences using your own words, focusing on the main events, the choices made by Rugwiro, the choice made by his friends and the lesson learned.

B. About Genre of written Literature

1. What genre of written literature does this story belong to?
2. Give 3 reasons why this story is an example of prose.
3. How is this story different from poetry or play?
4. What key structural elements would you use to write an exciting prosaic story?

C. Drama

Activity 8.4.3

Read the text below and answer the question that follow.

(Unit A)

Kyate (short form of Kyaterekera) is trying hard to light a fire under the leaky cooking-pan. The fire cannot light because of the water leaking constantly. She tries to plug the holes with little success. Gongolo returns from the fields and puts down the hoe tiredly.

Experimental version

GONGOLO: Which responsibilities have I not shouldered?

KYATE: Buying cooking-pans for your wife.

GONGOLO: Listen. My work is not in the kitchen and will never be. I married you to produce food, cook it and serve it to me. How you do it is up to you. Have I ever called you to go and bridge a river or hunt? This is because I know that you as a woman must deal with kitchen work. You hear?

KYATE: You mean your work is only to eat?

GONGOLO: I will not be threatened by your talk, Mukyala, be careful. Don't make me hot at this hour of the day.

KYATE: I will not be threatened by your words.

GONGOLO: What did you say?

KYATE: I said I want a new cooking-pan.

GONGOLO: Go to the duka and buy one.

KYATE: Give me the money.

GONGOLO: Find it yourself. What have I sold these days that you ask money from me like that?

KYATE: Where did you put all the money we got from the ten sackfuls of coffee and from all the cotton we produced?

GONGOLO: We got that money in the month of seed-buying and now it is the month of grasshoppers. I have been looking after the family. I paid all the school-fees for both Tusuubira and Sebeku without your help. You think we got millions...

The extract adapted from "The Cooking Pan and other Plays" By Margaret Macpherson

Question

1. How is the story told in this text?
2. Give examples of dialogue from the text.
3. Give an example of stage directions from the text.
4. What is the main conflict in this scene?
5. If you were Gongolo, how would you react to Kyate asking for a new cooking-pan?
6. Work in pairs or groups and act out the scene between Kyate and Gongolo. Show the characters' actions, dialogue, and emotions.

Drama

Drama is one of the genres of written Literature that is meant to be performed on stage. The Dramatic story is shown through what characters say and do, not through someone just telling it like in prose. Drama uses dialogue, action, and problems to show life, and we learn about characters through their words and actions.

Key Features of Drama:

- Dialogue-driven: The story is told through what the characters say to each other.

Example: "KYATE: You mean your work is only to eat?"

Stage directions: Tell us what the characters are doing or feeling.

Example: "Kyate is trying hard to light a fire under the leaky cooking-pan."

Conflict: The main problem in the story. Drama often shows problems in life, at home, or in society.

Example: In this story, the problem is at home between Kyate and Gongolo about chores and money.

- Characterization through speech: We learn about the characters from what they say and how they talk.

Example:

Gongolo: Bossy, expects Kyate to obey him.

Kyate: Brave, stands up for herself, speaks her mind.

- Themes: The main ideas in the story. This story shows:

Gender stereotype

- Men's and women's roles at home
- Who has power in a family
- Money and work in the household

Observations from the Extract:

- Kyate struggling with the pan shows that her work at home is not appreciated.
- Gongolo's attitude shows that he, as the man of the house, controls decisions and expects Kyate to obey him.
- The play shows problems that feel real and are easy to understand, which is typical of drama.

Purpose of Drama

- To entertain people, teach lessons, and make them think.
- Shows family problems, rules in society, and unfair treatment.
- Helps the audience see and feel the characters' struggles.

Activity 8.4.4

Text 1: The Holiday Talk

(The curtain opens. Mabano, Mugarura, and Zuba are sitting under a tree. Zuba stretches happily.)

ZUBA: (smiling, relaxed): It feels good to be home for holidays. The village is so quiet.

MABANO: (shrugs, slightly bored): Quiet and boring. I don't know why people stay here. After holidays, I am going straight to the city.

MUGARURA: (turns to Mabano calmly): The city? Everyone is running there. Do you think life is easy there?

MABANO: (confident, waving his hand): Of course! There are jobs, money, and a better life. Here in the village, there is nothing.

ZUBA: (leans forward seriously): Not at all. People can earn money from modern farming. If everyone leaves the village, who will grow food? We are the ones who feed the people in the city.

MABANO: (laughs softly): Farming? That is old-fashioned.

MUGARURA: (stands up slowly, voice serious): Let me tell you something. I heard about a boy from our neighboring village who went to the city to look for a job. He did not find any work. With no money and no help, he started stealing to survive and was later arrested.

(A short silence. The mood becomes serious.)

ZUBA: (sadly): That is very sad.

MUGARURA: (nods): Yes. This is one of the effects of rural exodus. Many young people rush to the city without plans and end up in trouble.

MABANO: (lowers his head, thoughtful): I didn't know things could turn that bad.

ZUBA: (hopeful tone): Maybe we should first explore opportunities here before rushing to the city.

MUGARURA: (smiles gently): Exactly. Development can start from the village.

MABANO : (smiles slightly, convinced): Hmm... maybe staying and trying something here is not a bad idea after all.

(They all look around the village. Soft smiles appear on their faces.)

ALL (together, hopeful): Home has value too.

(Curtain closes.)

Questions

A. Comprehension and Scenario

1. Where does the play take place?
2. Why does Mabano want to go to the city?
3. What story does Mugarura tell about the boy who went to the city?
4. How does Mabano's opinion about village life change at the end of the play?
5. Suppose a friend tells you that the village is not worth living in because there are no jobs. What advice would you give your friend?
6. What is the main lesson of the play?

B. Features of Drama

1. Give an example of dialogue from the play.
2. Give an example of stage directions from the play.
3. What is the main problem/conflict in the play?
4. Name the theme shown in the play.

D. Poetry

Activity 8.4.4

Text 2: Planting Season

Last year we planted.
but the seed betrayed us.
The tendrils grew up like mushrooms.
but the food was not edible.
Apart from the fools
none bought our crops;
they were smelly, sour and bitter.
This year
let's open our eyes
and choose the best seed
which will bear edible fruits the fruits which will make the heavens rejoice
when we leave this earth

Questions

1. What special features do you notice in this text that make it different from ordinary writing?
2. How is the text arranged on the page?
3. Why do you think the writer has chosen to write in short lines instead of paragraphs?
4. Which words or expressions help you create pictures in your mind?
5. What message do you think the writer wants to communicate?
6. How does reading the text aloud affect your understanding of it?
7. Based on these features, what type of text do you think this is?
8. Recite the text aloud, paying attention to pauses, pronunciation, and expression.

Poetry

Poetry is a form of written literature that expresses ideas, feelings, or experiences using carefully chosen words, rhythm, and images. Unlike stories or plays, poetry often focuses on emotion, imagination, and sound rather than a detailed plot.

2. Key Features of Poetry

- Lines and Stanzas – Poems are divided into lines (short or long) and grouped into stanzas.
- Imagery – Uses words to create mental pictures for the reader.

Example: "The tendrils grew up like mushrooms"

- Rhythm and Sound – Words are chosen to create musicality or flow when read aloud or recited.
- Figurative Language – Uses comparisons, similes, metaphors, or symbols to give deeper meaning.
- Message or Theme – Poems often teach a lesson, share feelings, or express ideas in a condensed way.

3. Difference between Poetry and Other Genres

Feature	Poetry	Play	prose
Structure	Lines and stanzas	Acts and scenes	Chapters and paragraphs
Storytelling	Uses images, feelings, and symbols	Uses dialogue and stage directions	Uses narration and description
Purpose	Evoke emotion or ideas	Show action to be performed	Tell a detailed story
Performance	Can be read aloud or recited	Performed on stage	Usually read silently or aloud

4. Importance of Poetry

- Teaches lessons, expresses feelings, and sparks imagination.
- Can be memorized and recited, helping with language skills development.
- Preserves culture, ideas, and human experiences in written form.

5. Example from Planting Season

- Last year we planted, but the seed betrayed us.
- The tendrils grew up like mushrooms, but the food was not edible."
 - Imagery: Helps the reader picture failed crops.
 - Theme: Learn from mistakes and prepare for a better future.

Activity 8.4.5

Read the poem below and answer the questions that follow.

Live Long Our Parents

Long live our parents, our guides and protectors.

You wake up early, work all day,

Pay our school fees, guide our way,

Evening meals on tired hands,

Yet you care for all our plans.

Live long our parents,

The days we spend upon your back,

You never stop, you never lack,

Tireless love in all you do,

A guiding hand that sees us through.

Live long our parents,

Though we may wander, though we may roam,

Your heart remains our safest home.

Questions

1. How many stanzas are in the poem "Live Long Our Parents"?
2. What line is repeated in every stanza, and why do you think it is repeated?
3. Name one example of imagery in the poem.
4. What is the main message or theme of the poem?
5. Recite the poem aloud, showing its meaning and emotion.

8.5. Types of Prose

Activity 8.5.1

In Cyamudongo Forest

Text 1

Read the two texts below and answer the questions that follow.

Meanwhile, the hunters threatened to cut down the tree. The girl was scared and finally agreed to climb down. Immediately, they carried her to the king's palace.

Nevertheless, she kept screaming along the way and somehow, her lion brother heard her cries. The lion followed his sister to the king's palace.

Experimental version

When the king's army tried to kill it, the sister objected, and they left it alone to enter the palace. It was not long before they realized that the lion was harmless, after all.

When the king noticed that the lion behaved like a human being, he ordered his subjects to construct a separate house for it. He even instructed them to look for a young woman to stay with the lion and care for it. The lion would become a human being during the night and turn into a lion during the day.

The lion and the young woman lived happily as husband and wife and after one year, the woman gave birth. By the time she had her third baby, most people in the palace had realized that the lion was indeed a disguised human being and they tried to find ways to rectify the situation. So the woman's friends advised her to keep her children out in the rain and prevent them from entering the house unless their father opened the door for them. One day, when it was raining heavily, she did as her friends had advised. The children begged to enter but instead of opening, the mother told them to ask their father to do so.

As the father could not bear his children's cries, he jumped out of the lion's skin and went to open the door for his children. It is at this point that the brave mother took advantage to throw the lion's skin into a big fire that she had prepared. As the skin was burning up, herds of cattle, sheep and many herdsmen came out of the flame. Soon, the whole compound was full of sheep and cattle. This was a happy surprise for the king who was forced to give the lion man a bigger space that could accommodate all the cattle and sheep.

Biography of Chinua Achebe

Chinua Achebe was a great Nigerian writer, teacher, and storyteller. He is one of the most respected African authors in history. Chinua Achebe was born on 16 November 1930 in Ogidi, a town in present-day Anambra State, Nigeria. His parents were teachers and church workers, and they believed strongly in education. Because of this, Achebe grew up learning both traditional Igbo culture and Western education.

As a child, Achebe enjoyed listening to traditional stories, folktales, and proverbs told by elders in his community. These stories later influenced his writing. He attended primary and secondary school in Nigeria and was known to be a very bright student. After finishing secondary school, he gained admission to University College, Ibadan, where he studied English, history, and theology.

After completing his education, Chinua Achebe worked as a teacher and later as a broadcaster with the Nigerian Broadcasting Corporation. While working, he continued to write stories and essays. In 1958, he published his first and most famous novel, Things Fall Apart. The novel tells the story of Okonkwo, a strong Igbo man, and shows how African culture was affected by European colonization. The book became very popular and is now read in schools and universities all over the world.

Achebe went on to write many other important books such as No Longer at Ease, Arrow of God, A Man of the People, and Anthills of the Savannah. Through his writings, Achebe talked about leadership, culture, tradition, and the problems facing African societies. He believed that Africans should tell their own stories in their own voices.

Apart from writing novels, Chinua Achebe also wrote poems, short stories, and essays. He taught literature in several universities in Nigeria and abroad, including in the United States. Achebe received many awards for his contributions to literature and education.

In 1990, Achebe was involved in a car accident that affected his health, but he continued to write and speak about important issues. Chinua Achebe passed away on 21 March 2013, at the age of 82.

Today, Chinua Achebe is remembered as a writer who helped the world understand African culture and history. He is often called the "Father of African Literature" because his work opened the door for many African writers. His books continue to inspire students, teachers, and readers across the world.

Questions

1. Which text includes imaginary or made-up events? Give some examples.
2. Which text talks about real people, places, or dates? Give evidence from the text.
3. Which story has real characters, and how can you tell?
4. Which story has an unreal or imaginary setting, and how can you tell?
5. Which text portrays unusual events, and what makes them unusual?
6. Which story is mainly meant to entertain or teach a moral, and why?

A. Fiction Prose

Writing that tells made-up or imaginary stories.

Features:

- Characters can be humans, animals, or magical beings (e.g., the lion who turns into a man in Text 1).
- Events may be unrealistic, magical, or unusual.
- Settings can be imaginary or exaggerated.
- Purpose is often to entertain, teach a moral, or tell a tale.

Example: Text 1 (the lion story) – includes a talking lion, magical transformations, and heroic actions.

B. Non-Fiction Prose

Writing that tells about real people, events, or facts.

Features:

- Characters are real people (e.g., Chinua Achebe in Text 2).
- Events are true and can be verified, with real dates and places.
- Purpose is to inform, explain, or describe achievements and experiences.

Example: Text 2 (Biography of Chinua Achebe) – describes his birth, education, career, and accomplishments.

Key Difference in short:

- Fiction is imaginary; Non-Fiction is real.
- Fiction entertains and teaches morals; Non-Fiction informs and explains real-life facts.

Similarities:

- Both tell a story with characters and events.
- Both can teach something important to the reader.

Activity 8.5.2

Read the story below and answer the questions that follow.

The Sick Forest

A dark mist covered the forest. The animals were sick because they did not keep their homes clean. Flies and lice were everywhere, and the young ones were coughing and scratching. Some animals said, "It's not my problem," and did not clean their homes.

Soon, the neighboring animals avoided them. "Stay away!" they warned. The sick animals felt lonely and scared.

Experimental version

Madam Rat called a forest meeting. Animals gathered, but some gave useless ideas. The lazy Tortoise said, "Let's just wait and hope the sickness goes away."

The Egret suggested, "Why can't we migrate to another place? Maybe this place is the problem." But the Rabbit rejected the idea. "Running away will not solve anything! We must clean our forest!"

Finally, Mr. Wagtail spoke: "I agree with Madam Rabbit. We need a special cleaning day, where everyone cleans their homes together. This will stop the sickness."

All animals agreed. They worked together, cleaned the forest, and learned that poor cleanliness causes dangerous sicknesses. Slowly, the forest became healthy and happy again.

Questions

1. Give two reasons why it is fiction or non-fiction.
2. Name two characters in the story and explain how they show it is fiction or non-fiction.
3. Are the events in the forest realistic? How does this help you decide if the story is fiction or non-fiction?
4. Where does the story take place? Is this setting real or imaginary?
5. Which type of prose is this story?
6. What do the characters do that shows the story is fiction?
7. Can animals talk and hold meetings in real life? What does this tell you about the story?

8.6. Elements of Prose

A. Plot and Setting in a story

Activity 8.6.1

Read the story below and answer the questions that follow.

No Man is an Island

Experimental version

In the quiet but modern village of Rugari, everyone knew Gafaranga. He had been so rich for many years that people whispered he was the wealthiest man anyone had ever seen. He often said, "If you have money, you lack nothing!"

For years, Gafaranga trusted only his gold. As he never helped his neighbors, he never asked for help from anyone. One afternoon, his neighbor Murema's wife went into labor. In a panic, Murema ran to Gafaranga, urgently asking to borrow his car to reach the hospital. Gafaranga laughed coldly. "I do not share my car with poor people," he said.

Murema had no choice but to carry his wife painfully to the hospital, while villagers watched from their windows, whispering in shock and anger.

Over the following weeks, the story of Murema spread throughout Rugari. Slowly, young and old began to avoid Gafaranga. Even those who once admired his wealth now spoke of him as a man with a bad heart. But this never bothered him.

Several months later, Gafaranga decided to build a grand house. He took a large bank loan, confident that money could buy anything. But when he called the builders, they all refused. The brickmakers turned him away too. No amount of gold could change their minds. "Let him build for himself. He thinks he is an island," some of the builders said.

For a year and a half, Gafaranga searched for workers. He threatened, pleaded, and even begged, but every door remained firmly closed against him. Loneliness and fear settled heavily in his heart, and time seemed to drag endlessly.

Finally, one quiet morning, his old friend Miburo visited. "Money alone cannot bring you respect. People say you made yourself a god in this village," he said gently. "Go to the villagers. Apologize."

Hesitant at first, Gafaranga wondered how he would kneel down for those lowly people. After a long time lost in thought, Gafaranga humbled himself. Over the following weeks, he went to each neighbor, confessed his wrongs, and promised to change. Slowly, the villagers forgave him. They began to see not just his wealth, but his transformed heart.

Some days later, Gafaranga realized that while money could buy comfort, it could never buy friendship or respect. He learned that kindness was far more valuable than gold. From that day on, he was not only rich, he loved people and was loved, he respected people and was respected, and he truly made others happy.

Questions

A. Open ended questions

1. What do we learn about Gafaranga at the beginning of the story?
2. What problem or events begin to create conflict in the story?
3. What is the moment when the story starts to change?
4. What does Gafaranga do after deciding to change?
5. What lesson does Gafaranga learn at the end of the story?

B. Answer the following questions by True or False

1. The story takes place in a village called Rugari.
2. Rugari is described as a modern village.
3. The events of the story happen in modern times.
4. The story takes place in a large city.
5. The villagers never go to the hospital.

A. Plot and Setting in p

A. Plot

Plot is what happens in a story. It shows a sequence of events from beginning to end.

Features:

- Exposition (Beginning):

Introduces characters, setting, and situation.

Example: Gafaranga is rich, proud, and does not help his neighbors.

- Rising Action:

Events that create problems or tension.

Example: He refuses to help Murema when his wife goes into labor, and villagers start avoiding him.

- Climax (Turning Point):

The most exciting or important moment.

Example / Insert: His friend Miburo tells him to apologize to the villagers.

- Falling Action:

Shows what happens after the climax.

Example: Gafaranga apologizes and begins to change his behavior.

- Resolution (Ending):

The ending, where problems are solved, and lessons are learned.

Example: He learns that kindness is more valuable than money and becomes loved and respected.

The story plot line:

B. Setting

Setting is where and when a story happens.

Features of Setting:

Place: Where the story happens (e.g., village, city).

Example: Rugari village

Time: When the story happens (in the evening, in the morning, modern times, traditional times).

Example: the story happens in the "Modern times"

Key Points to Remember:

- Plot = what happens (sequence of events).
- Setting = Where and when the story happens.

Activity 8.6.2

Read the story below and answer the questions that follow.

Mugisha's Promise to Change

Mugisha was a good electrician. He fixed wires in houses and on electric poles. People trusted him, but he had a bad habit. At night, he stole public electrical wires and sold them, saying they were new. One night, the town went dark. The mood was tense and scary. Matabaro followed the wires and found Mugisha stealing them. People gathered around and Mugisha became very afraid. He thought they were taking him to jail.

Matabaro warned him and told him to stop stealing public wires. He said, "If you continue stealing, you will end your life in prison!" Mugisha felt ashamed and promised to change.

From that day, Mugisha worked honestly and helped protect public property.

Question:

1. What is the setting of the story? Mention both the place and the time.
2. What information is given in the beginning (exposition) of the story?
3. Which events form the rising action of the story?
4. What is the climax or turning point of the story?
5. How is the problem resolved in the ending (resolution) of the story?
6. How does the setting help to create the mood of the story?
7. Describe Mugisha's character at the beginning and at the end of the story.
8. Summarize the story by identifying the exposition, rising action, climax, falling action, and resolution.

8.7. Themes and messages in prose

Activity 8.7.1

Read the story below and answer questions

In a small village near Lake Kivu, Amina, a 14-year-old girl, helped her mother sell fruits and vegetables at the local market every morning. She loved meeting people from different parts of the village and hearing their stories. One day, while walking back from the river, she noticed a lost calf wandering alone. The calf looked weak and hungry. Amina wanted to take care of it, but she also feared what the villagers might say.

Amina and the Lost Calf

She decided to bring the calf home and feed it. Over the next few days, she secretly gave it fresh grass and water. Some villagers started noticing the missing calf and wondered who was taking care of it. Some even accused her of stealing it. Amina felt scared but did not give up. She explained to the village elders that she only wanted to help.

Finally, the calf's owner came looking for it. Amina returned the calf safely. The villagers were impressed by her honesty, courage, and kindness. They realized that helping others, even when it is hard, earns respect. From that day on, Amina became known as a girl with a big heart, and she inspired others in the village to be brave, honest, and helpful.

Questions

1. Who is the main character in the story, and what does she do to help the calf?
2. What challenges does Amina face when she decides to take care of the calf?
3. How do the villagers react to Amina's actions, and what does this tell us about the community?
4. What do you think the story teaches us about honesty and helping others?
5. Can you explain the main idea of the story in one sentence?

Themes and messages in Prose

1. Theme

A theme is a central idea or topic the story talks about.

For example, from Amina and the Lost Calf

- Honesty: Amina returns the calf to its owner.
- Courage and Kindness: She cares for the calf despite challenges.
- Community Values: Respecting and helping others in the village.

2. Message

A message is the moral or lesson the writer wants the reader to learn.

For example, from Amina and the Lost Calf

- Always be honest, even when it is hard.
- Helping others brings respect and trust.
- Courage and kindness make the community stronger.

Tips for Remembering

- Theme= what the story is about (general idea).
- Message = what the story teaches you (lesson).

Activity 8.7.2

Read the story below and answer Questions

Amani's Courage

Along a quiet path walked Amani, a boy with albinism, his skin pale as sunlight, his hair almost white. At school and in the village, people feared what they did not understand. Some whispered that children like him carried magic, or that their hair and bones could bring wealth. These beliefs were false, but they made Amani feel alone.

One evening, two men stepped from the trees, believing the lies they had heard. They tried to seize him. Fear froze Amani for a moment, but he remembered the lessons about child protection: Run. Shout. Seek help.

He screamed and ran. Villagers heard him, and a patrol of the Rwanda National Police arrived just in time. The men were arrested.

The village held a community meeting. Police explained the law protecting children, health workers explained albinism, and teachers spoke about rights and inclusiveness. People realized that believing rumours almost cost a child's life. They said, every child has right to joy and life. The assailants were taken to court and imprisoned. At school, learners began walking with Amani, sharing games and lessons, and defending him. Fear turned into understanding, and the village learned a hard truth: knowledge protects, and unity gives strength.

Amani survived, and in doing so, became a beacon of courage, showing that every child, no matter how different, deserves safety and respect.

Questions:

1. What are the main themes of the story?
2. What does inclusiveness mean according to the text.
3. Why do you think inclusiveness is important in schools and communities?
4. How does the story show that awareness can protect children?
5. In your own words, explain why Amani is described as a " beacon of courage" for the community.
6. What beliefs about children with albinism are mentioned in the story?
7. How did Amani respond when he was in danger, and what lesson helped him act?

Hard Work Pays off

Karangwa is a young farmer who lives in the village of Rugari. Every morning, he wakes up early and goes to his farm while others are still sleeping. He works hard under the hot sun and never complains. Some people laugh at him and say farming is useless, but Karangwa believes that honest work brings success.

As time passes, Karangwa's farm produces a good harvest. He sells his crops, supports his family, and helps his neighbors. The villagers now respect him and admire his effort. Karangwa proves that hard work pays off, and his life becomes an example to everyone.
