

ENGLISH

SENIOR THREE

Student's Book

Experimental Version

Copyright

© 2026 Rwanda Basic Education Board

All rights reserved.

This book is the property of the government of Rwanda.

Credit must be provided to REB when the content is quoted.

FOREWORD

FOREWORD

Dear student,

The Rwanda Basic Education Board (REB) is pleased to present this English Student's Book for senior Three. This textbook has been developed to support the effective implementation of the Competence-Based Curriculum (CBC) by promoting learner-centred teaching and learning practices that align with Rwanda's vision of empowering learners to reach their full potential, actively participate in society, and pursue meaningful career paths.

As Rwanda continues its journey towards becoming a knowledge-based economy, education remains a key driver of national development. Teachers play a central role in this transformation by helping learners connect classroom learning with real-life experiences, thereby fostering personal growth, critical thinking, and lifelong learning.

This textbook serves as a comprehensive resource for the teaching and learning of English at Senior Three level. English is an integral part of the CBC and contributes significantly to the development of the knowledge, skills, values, and attitudes that learners need to become responsible, competent, and productive citizens. Through the learning activities provided in this book, students are encouraged to communicate effectively, solve problems creatively, and contribute positively to their communities and the nation at large.

In its commitment to providing quality education for all, the Government of Rwanda emphasizes the use of teaching and learning materials that are fully aligned with the national curriculum. This textbook has therefore been carefully designed to support curriculum implementation and enhance learning outcomes.

I would like to express my sincere appreciation to all those who contributed to the development and refinement of this textbook. Special recognition goes to the REB team that coordinated the entire process. I also extend my gratitude to our partners, teachers, subject specialists, and all individuals who contributed their expertise and feedback from the beginning to the end of this important undertaking. Their valuable contributions have greatly enriched this textbook and will help improve the learning experiences and outcomes of our students.

Dr. Nelson MBARUSHIMANA

Director General

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I would like to express my sincere appreciation to all those who contributed to the development and refinement of this English Student's Book for Senior Three. This achievement would not have been possible without the dedication, expertise, and collaboration of various stakeholders.

Special thanks go to the Rwanda Basic Education Board (REB) staff, subject specialists, university lecturers, and teachers whose valuable contributions and professional expertise greatly enriched the quality of this textbook.

I also extend my gratitude to our education development partners for their continuous support throughout the process. Their commitment to improving the quality of education in Rwanda has been instrumental in the successful completion of this work.

To all individuals and institutions who contributed in one way or another, I convey my heartfelt appreciation for their invaluable support and dedication to enhancing teaching and learning in Rwanda.

Ms. MURUNGI Joan

Head of Curriculum, Teaching and Learning Resources Department/REB

Table of contents

FOREWORD	3
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS	4
UNIT 1: CAREERS	9
1.1. Job qualifications and work experience	11
1.2 Vocabulary (Jobs and Qualifications)	14
1.3 Listening: Jobs and Qualifications	16
1.4. Speaking: Job interview Role-Play	17
1.5. LANGUAGE STRUCTURE	19
1.6. Writing a formal job application letter	21
1.7. Literature: Types of plot in stories	24
1.8. SOUNDS AND SPELLING	28
1.9. End of unit assessment	29
UNIT 2: RUNNING A BUSINESS	32
INTRODUCTION	33
2.1. Business and purchases	33
2.2 Vocabulary: Business and trade words	35
2.3 Listening: Buying and Selling	36
2.4. Speaking: Business and purchases	38
2.5 Language structure	40
2.6. Writing: Description of business centre	43
2.7. Literature: Plot and theme	44
2.8. Sounds and spelling: Intonations	47
2.9. End of unit assessment	49

UNIT 3: DIET AND HEALTH	54
3.1. Reading: Balanced diet and health	56
3.2 Vocabulary: Diet and Health words	58
3.3 Listening: Eating Habits	59
3.4. Speaking: Talking about improving eating habits and giving advice on balanced meals	61
3.5 Language structure: Passive Voice with Modals	62
3.6. Writing: Describing personal eating habits and daily meals	64
3.7. LITERATURE	65
3.8 SOUNDS AND SPELLING	67
3.9. End of unit assessment	69
UNIT 4: HUMAN RIGHTS	72
4.1. Human Rights and Child protection	74
4.2 Vocabulary: Rights words	76
4.3. Listening: A speech on human rights	78
4.4. Speaking: Informative Speech	79
4.5. Language structure: Reported Speech: statements	81
4.6. Writing: Narrative Composition	84
4.7. Literature: Stage and Stage Directions	86
4.8. SOUNDS AND SPELLING	89
4.9. End of unit assessment	91

UNIT 5: RELIGION, CULTURE AND ARTS	96
5.1. Reading and Comprehension.....	98
5.2. Vocabulary	101
5.3. Listening: Traditional Beliefs and Practices in Rwanda .	101
5.4. Speaking: Describing traditional tools	104
5.5. Language structure: Reported Speech (Questions and Commands)	105
5.6. Writing: Describing Traditional Tools	109
5.7. Literature: Character and Characterization.....	111
5.8. SOUNDS AND SPELLING: Connected speech and elision	114
5.9. End of unit assessment	116
 UNIT 6: TOURISM AND THE ENVIRONMENT IN RWANDA ...	 119
6.1. Reading: Tourism sites in Rwanda	121
6.2. Vocabulary	123
6.3. Listening activity: Protecting national parks	124
6.4. Speaking: Tourist attractions and their importance	125
6.5. Language structure: Conditional Sentences (Types 2 and 3)	126
6.6. Writing: Describing causes and effects of pollution	128
6.7. Literature: Identifying Mood and Tone	130
6.8. SOUNDS AND SPELLING: Word Stress in Compound Words	132
6.9. End of unit assessment	133

TABLE OF CONTENTS

UNIT 7: THE INTERNET AND THE MEDIA	137
7.1. Reading: Media, the Internet and AI in Modern Life	139
7.2. Vocabulary: Internet and media words	141
7.3. Listening: Internet and Mobile Phone Use in Daily Communication.	142
7.4. Speaking: Personal Experience with Internet and Media	143
7.5. Language Structure: Noun clauses and active and passive voice	145
7.6. Writing – Formal and Informal Emails	149
7.7. Literature: Atmosphere and Style in Descriptive Writing	151
7.8. Sound and Spelling: Sentence Stress for Emphasis and Contrast	153
7.9. End of unit assessment	155
UNIT 8: INTRODUCTION TO DRAMA	159
8.1. Meaning of Drama	161
8.2. Functions of Drama	165
8.3. Elements of Drama	170
8.4. Dialogue, Plot and Setting in a Play	175
8.5. Genres of Drama	181
8.6. Monologue/Soliloquy and Dialogue in drama	190
8.7. Acting out a Dramatic play	196
8.8. End of unit assessment	198

UNIT 1: CAREERS

Key unit competence:

Communicate effectively in both speaking and writing about careers and qualifications, while showing respect for others' career choices, cooperation, and appreciation of the value of work and education.

Learning objectives

By the end of this unit, you will be able to:

Knowledge and understanding

- Understand different careers, qualifications, and language structures used when talking about work experience, including the present perfect continuous, relative pronouns, if-clauses, and then understand types of plot in stories.
- Recognise key English sound contrasts and how they support accurate speaking and listening in discussions about jobs and storytelling.

Skills

- Read, listen to, and communicate effectively by summarising information about jobs, writing formal job application letters, and describing people and their careers using correct vocabulary and grammar.
- Analyze and produce narratives by summarising stories based on plot structure and applying accurate pronunciation of key English sound contrasts.

Attitudes and Values

- Value education, skills, and continuous learning as foundations for personal and professional growth, while showing respect for all workers in the community.
- Demonstrate positive work habits such as hard work, honesty, and reliability, and appreciate the meaning and structure of stories that highlight different careers.

Introduction

Every person has a unique role to play in the community, and every job requires different skills, knowledge, and experience. In this unit, we will explore various types of careers, the qualifications needed for different jobs, and how work experience helps people grow in their professions. You will also learn how to describe jobs clearly, write formal job application letters, and appreciate the value of hard work in all careers.

Introductory activity

Read the following story and answer the questions that follow

Isheja has always loved helping people. After finishing her studies, she became a nurse at the local health center. Every day, she cares for patients, gives medicine, and teaches families how to stay healthy.

Before getting her job, Isheja completed a nursing course at the city college and did an internship at a busy hospital. Her experience taught her how to stay calm under pressure and work as part of a team. Isheja enjoys her job because she knows she is making a difference in her community.

Questions

1. What is a Career? Give examples
2. What is Isheja's job? And why is her job important to the community?
3. Answer true or false:

People choose careers because of

- a) skills and talents
 - b) education and training
 - c) passion and interests
 - d) opportunities in the community
4. Explain what you would do if you chose a certain career?
5. Describe someone you know and their job. Share with your partner

1.1. Job qualifications and work experience

Learning activities

Activity 1.1.1

1. Look at the job titles below. Engineer, Teacher, Nurse, Plumber, Journalist
2. In pairs, discuss:
 - a) What education or training do you think each job requires?
 - b) Which one of the jobs would you like to do in the future, and why?

Activity 1.1.2

Reading: People's jobs, qualifications, and work experiences

Read about Samuella, Grace, Majyambere and Fatuma carefully. Pay attention to the jobs, qualifications, work experience, and how long each person in each text has worked.

1. Samuella – The Engineer

Samuella is a mechanical engineer who repairs and maintains vehicles and machines. She studied mechanical engineering at the University of Rwanda and earned a degree in engineering. She has been working at an auto repair and engineering company since 2018 and has been leading vehicle maintenance projects for five years.

Activity 1.1.2

Samuella believes that hands-on experience is very important. If Samuella had studied civil engineering instead, she would have been designing buildings rather than working on machines and engines.

2. Grace – The Teacher

Grace is a high school teacher who helps her students understand new ideas. She earned a diploma in education at the Teachers' Training College. Grace has been teaching for eight years since she graduated. She enjoys creating lessons and encouraging students to work hard. If she were teaching at a university, she would have to prepare more advanced lessons.

3. Majyambere – The Nurse

Majyambere works as a nurse at the local health center. He is a person who cares for patients and teaches families about health. Majyambere completed a certificate in nursing at City College and has been working there for three years. He has been gaining experience in handling emergencies and helping new nurses. If Majyambere had studied pharmacy, he would be dispensing medicine instead of giving direct patient care.

4. Daniella – The Plumber

Daniella is a plumber who fixes pipes and installs water systems. She studied plumbing at a technical school and earned a certificate. She has been working as a plumber for six years. If Daniella were an electrician, She would be working with wires instead of pipes.

5. Fatuma – The Journalist

Fatuma is a journalist who writes news articles and reports events. She has a degree in journalism and has been gaining experience at the national newspaper for four years. Fatuma believes that experience and training are very important for her job. If Fatuma had studied law, she might have become a lawyer instead of a journalist.

Comprehension questions

A. Literal Understanding

1. Where did Samuella study mechanical engineering, and what has she been doing since 2018?
2. How many years of teaching experience does Grace have, and what qualification did she earn?
3. What certificate did Daniella obtain, and how long has she been working as a plumber?

B. Text analysis, interpretation, and language use

1. What does the expression "has been gaining experience" mean as used in the text about Fatuma or Majyambere?
2. Which sentence in the text shows that Samuella's career could have been different in the past? Write the sentence.
3. What does the text suggest about the link between education, experience, and job performance? Support your answer with one example from the text.
4. Compare the education paths of Samuella, Grace, and Daniella. How are they similar or different?
5. Design a chart or table that shows all five people, their education, years of experience, and what they would have done in an alternative career.

Application activity

Activity 1.1.3 Summary

Read again about Samuella, Grace, Majyambere and Fatuma. Then summarize them in no more than 80 words focusing on:

- The person's job
- Education or training
- Work experience
- Main responsibilities

Summary

A summary is a shortened version of a text, speech, or other information that captures only the most important points. The purpose of writing a summary is to help readers quickly understand the essential message of a longer source.

A good summary:

- Includes the main ideas and key details
- Excludes examples, personal opinions, or unnecessary information
- Is usually much shorter than the original text
- Uses your own words
- Sometimes you may need to change first- or second-person wording into the third person

1.2 Vocabulary (Jobs and Qualifications)

Learning activities

Activity 1.2.1

Work in pairs. Match each job in the box with the correct qualification or job description (you may use dictionary or internet). Then check your answers with another pair or with the teacher.

fire-fighter	Surgeon	Pilot	office manager
Actor	Artist	Postman	Teacher
Archaeologist	Pianist	Vet	Librarian
Chef	Miner	Farmer	Mechanic

1. A _____ prepares meals in a restaurant or hotel.
2. A _____ flies aeroplane and takes passengers to different places.
3. A _____ helps people find books and information in a library.
4. An _____ performs in films or theatre plays.
5. A _____ treats sick or injured animals.
6. A _____ delivers letters and parcels to homes and offices.
7. A _____ works underground to extract coal or minerals.
8. A _____ fights fires and rescues people during emergencies.
9. An _____ supervises employees and ensures office activities run well.
10. A _____ plays the piano professionally.
11. A _____ grows crops and keeps animals.
12. An _____ creates beautiful drawings, paintings, or sculptures.
13. A _____ teaches students in a school.
14. An _____ studies objects and ruins left by ancient societies.
15. A _____ operates on sick or injured people in a hospital.
16. A _____ repairs cars.

Application activities

Activity 1.2.2

- A. Complete the dialogue with the correct job-related words below. Then read it to your partner (journalist, mechanic, nurse, chef, pilot, farmer, plumber, office manager, civil engineer, lawyer).

Alexis: Good morning, Brian! How are you today?

Brian: Good morning, Alexis! I'm fine, thank you. And you?

Alexis: I'm fine too. I was thinking about different jobs in our community. My sister has been working as a ____1____ for five years. She writes stories for a newspaper.

Brian: That's interesting! My uncle is a ____2____. He repairs cars at a garage in town.

Alexis: What about your mother?

Brian: She is a ____3____ who helps doctors take care of sick people at the hospital.

Alexis: My neighbour wants to become a ____4____ because he loves cooking and wants to work in a hotel.

Brian: My brother is a ____5____. He flies passengers to different countries.

Alexis: And my father has been a ____6____ since 2010. He grows potatoes and keeps cows on his farm.

Brian: Do you know someone who works with pipes and water systems?

Alexis: Yes, Mr. Nshimiyimana is a ____7____. He fixes broken pipes in our house.

Brian: My cousin works in an office as a ____8____. She organises files and answers phone calls.

Alexis: I met a ____9____ yesterday who builds roads and bridges.

Brian: I would like to meet a ____10____ one day. They help people who have problems with the law.

Alexis: Yes, all these jobs are very important in our community.

B. In Pairs, choose three job title words and use them in your own sentences. Share them with another pair.

1.3 Listening: Jobs and Qualifications

Learning activities

Activity 1.3.1

A. Work in pairs and answer the questions orally with your partner:

- What job would you like to do in the future?
- What qualifications do you think are needed for that job?

B. Listen to the two speakers talking about their jobs and qualifications. Then, work in pairs to answer the questions that follow.

Audio script (Teacher reads or recording is played)

Speaker 1:

"My name is Inema. I am a librarian at a community library. I have been working here for six years. I studied Library and Information Science, and I received a diploma in 2019. I love my job because I help students find books and enjoy reading. If I had studied in Teacher Training College, I would have become a teacher at this school. "

Speaker 2:

"I'm called Flower. I am a pilot. I have been flying planes since 2020. I have a certificate in aviation and a lot of training experience. I like travelling to new places and meeting new people. If I were not a pilot, I would be a mechanic because I enjoy working with engines."

Listening comprehension questions (about Inema and Flower). Answer in full sentences

- a) What jobs do Inema and Flower do?
- b) How long has each one been working in their job?
- c) What qualifications do they have for their jobs?
- d) Why do they enjoy their work?
- e) What other jobs would they do if they had chosen different careers?

Dictation – Jobs and Experiences

Listen carefully as the teacher reads the sentences aloud and write down what you hear. Then, check your writing with a partner or as a class

- i. She has been working as a teacher in Kigali since 2018
- ii. He has been repairing bicycles for many years
- iii. They have been studying computer science since January.

Application activity

Activity 1.3.2

Discuss with your partner:

- Which job (Librarian and Pilot) sounds more interesting to you? Why?
- What is your dream job and what qualification do you need for it?

1.4. Speaking: Role-playing job interview

Learning activity

Activity 1.4.1

1. Work in small groups to discuss what you think is more important for a job: qualifications or experience?
2. In pairs, role-play a short job interview or a conversation with a career advisor. After practicing, perform for the class.

Option A: Job interview

Student A = Employer
Student B = Job applicant

Option B: Career advisor meeting

Career advisor & student seeking advice

Student A = Career advisor
Student B = Student seeking advice

Topics to include: • Applicant's job experience • Qualifications (certificate, degree, skills) • How long they have been working or studying (Present Perfect Continuous: for/since) • Future goals (If-clause sentences) Example • How long have you been working as a ...? • What qualifications do you have? • If we give you this job, what will you contribute?	Topics to include: • Jobs they are interested in • Skills and strengths • Training needed • Hypothetical advice (If-clauses) Example • If you want to become a ..., you should study • Where have you been training since ... ?
---	---

Application activity

Activity 1.4.2

Asking about work experience (Speaking)

- Look at the people in the table below. Work in pairs and ask questions about their work experience (using "How long...?")

Moses 	Adeline 	Patriot 	Igabe 	Mahoro
A teacher Since 2001	A nurse For 6 years	A carpenter Since she graduated	A doctor Since he got his degree	A trader For more than 3 years

1.5. LANGUAGE STRUCTURE

Learning activities

Activity 1.5.1

Read again the text in the Reading section: People's jobs, qualifications, and work experiences. Work in pairs and complete the tasks below.

- Find three sentences in the text that show work or experience that started in the past and is still continuing.
- Find sentences that contain for or since.
- Which word shows how long something happens?
- Which word shows when something started?
- Find sentences that use who.
- Identify: the job and the extra information about the job.
- What does who refer to?
- What information comes after who?
- Find sentences in the text that begin with if. Discuss the two questions below:
 - Did this really happen?
 - Are they talking about the present or the past?

Activity 1.5.2

In pairs, discuss the notes in the box below to learn more. Then do the exercises that follow

1. Present Perfect Continuous Tense (has/have been + verb + -ing)

Used to show ongoing experience or learning, often in careers.

- She has been working as a nurse for five years.
- They have been training as mechanics since last month.
- I have been studying accounting to prepare for my future career.

2. For / Since (to show duration and starting point)

For = period of time; Since = starting point.

- I have been learning computer programming for six months.
- They have been employed at the bank since last year.

3. Relative Pronouns (to describe jobs)

Used to give extra information about people, places, or things.

- A doctor who treats children is called a pediatrician.
- Engineering is a career which requires strong Problem solving skills.
- The company where he works trains young graduates.
- 2021 was the year when she started her career in tourism.

4. Conditional Clauses (imaginary or hypothetical situations)

Type 2 – Present/Future Imaginary Situations: If + past simple, ... would + base verb

- If I were a pilot, I would travel around the world.
- If she studied medicine, she would become a doctor.
- If they had more skills, they would get better jobs.

Type 3 – Past Hypothetical Situations: If + past perfect, ... would have + past participle

- If I had studied journalism, I would have become a journalist.
- If he had applied for the scholarship, he would have studied abroad.
- If they had joined the training, they would have learned new career skills.

Exercises

1. Read the text carefully and fill in the blanks using the correct words or correct form of the verbs.

My name is Samuel. I have been ___1___ (train) to become a teacher for five years. I have been teaching at Kabuga Secondary School ___2___ 2019. A teacher is a person ___3___ helps students learn new things and develop their skills.

If I ___4___ (be) a doctor, I would work in a hospital to help sick people. I have also been volunteering at a local library ___5___ three months. The library is a place ___6___ students can read books and improve their knowledge.

My colleague, Jane, has been working as a nurse ___7___ she earned her diploma. She says that a nurse is someone who ___8___ (care) for patients and supports doctors. If we ___9___ (have) more experience, we could start a project to teach children about hygiene. I have been planning this project ___10___ January.

2. Choose the correct relative pronoun: who / which / that / whose / where / when
 - a) A plumber is a person _____ fixes pipes.
 - b) A farm is a place _____ food is grown.

- c) The student _____ application was accepted is happy.
- d) A reporter is someone _____ writes news articles.
- e) Monday is the day _____ we have career guidance

Application activities

Activity 1.5.3

1. Write three sentences describing jobs in your community using relative pronouns.
2. Complete the sentences below with your own ideas:
 - a) If you had studied well, _____.
 - b) If I got a diploma, _____.
 - c) If I were a famous chef, _ _____.

Discussion

What would you do if you had your dream job?

1.6. Writing a formal job application letter

Learning activities

Activity 1.6.1

- a) In groups, discuss what a formal job application letter is and its parts. Share with the class
- b) Read the sample application letter and answer questions that follow

Sample job application letter

123 Kacyiru Street,
Gasabo District,
Kigali City,

December 8th, 2025.

The Director,
Nyamirambo Health Center,
Nyarugenge District,
Kigali City.

Dear Sir/Madam,

Re: Application for the position of Nurse

I am writing to apply for the position of nurse at Nyamirambo Health Center. I have got a certificate in nursing from GS KIGEME, Nyamagabe District and have been working as a nurse for three years at Gisozi Health Center, Gasabo District. During this time, I have gained experience in patient care, handling emergencies, and guiding new nurses.

I am a person who is caring, responsible, and committed to helping patients. I am confident that my skills and experience make me a suitable candidate for this position. I would welcome the opportunity to discuss my application further in an interview.

Yours faithfully,

IGABE Joen

Question

Choose the correct answer to the following questions:

1. Where should you write your own address in a formal job application letter?
a) At the bottom of the letter b) At the top right corner
c) Below the employer's address

2. Whose details go in the employer's address section?
 - a) Your family's address b) The company or organisation's address
 - c) The school you studied at
3. How should you begin the greeting/salutation in a formal letter?
 - a) Hi friend b) Dear Sir/Madam c) Hello there
4. What does "Re:" mean in a formal letter?
 - a) Regarding or in reference to the subject b) Reply to the employer's letter
 - c) Reminder of your qualifications
5. What should you include in the introduction of the body?
 - a) Your hobbies and favourite food b) The position you are applying for
 - c) The employer's phone number
6. What belongs in the qualifications and experience section?
 - a) Your education, skills, and work experience b) Your family background
 - c) The employer's achievements
7. What are two correct ways to end a formal job application letter?
 - a) Yours faithfully / Yours sincerely b) Bye / See you
 - c) Best wishes / Lots of love

Activity 1.6.2

In pairs, read and discuss the notes in the box below and answer the questions that follow

A formal job application letter is a professional letter written to apply for a job. It shows the employer who you are, your qualifications, experience, and why you are suitable for the position.

Parts of a Formal Letter:

- Your Address (writer's address) – Write your address at the top right corner.
- Date – Write the date you are sending the letter below your address.
- Employer's Address – Write the address of the company or organization on the left, below the date.
- Greeting / Salutation – Start politely.
Examples: "Dear Sir/Madam," or "Dear Mr./Ms. [Last Name],"
- The "Re:" in a letter or email stands for "regarding" or "in reference to." It is used to indicate the subject or purpose of the letter
- Body of the Letter – This is the main part. Usually 2–3 paragraphs:
 - Introduction: State the position you are applying for.

Example: "I am writing to apply for the position of teacher at City High School."

- Qualifications and Experience: Describe your education, skills, and relevant work experience.

Example: "I have been teaching English for five years and hold a diploma in education from the Teachers' Training College."

- Closing Statement: Explain why you are suitable and express interest.

Example: "I am confident that my skills and experience make me a good fit for this role. I would welcome the opportunity to discuss my application further."

- Closing / Sign-off – End politely and leave space for your signature.

Examples: "Yours faithfully," or "Yours sincerely,"

Write your name below the closing.

Question

Explain why every part is important and should not be forgotten when writing an application letter

Application activities

Activity 1.6.3

- Individually, write a formal job application letter for a job of your choice. Exchange your letter with a peer and give each other feedback on:
- Correct structure of the letter
- Use of polite and professional language
- Inclusion of relevant job-related vocabulary and experience

1.7. Literature: Types of plot in stories

Learning activities

Activity 1.7.1

Read the following three stories and answer the questions that follow

Story 1: The New Farmer (Linear Plot)

Eric grew up in Rubavu District. After finishing school, he decided to become a farmer. He joined a training programme and received a certificate in modern farming. He started planting vegetables on a small piece of land. At first, he struggled because the soil was dry.

He learned new irrigation methods and improved his harvest. He began selling his vegetables at the local market. More customers came every week. He saved money and expanded his farm. Now, he earns a good income and supports his family.

Story 2: The Lost Wallet (Circular Plot)

Keza found a lost wallet on her way to school. She picked it up and asked her friends who it belonged to. She walked from shop to shop trying to find the owner. She even went to the bus station to ask people. Keza became tired but did not give up. Finally, she met a woman who was crying. The wallet belonged to her. The woman thanked Keza and gave her a big smile. Keza felt proud of her honesty. She continued her walk to school, on the same road where she had found the wallet.

Story 3: The Brave Doctor (Non-linear Plot)

Dr. Nshuti is a respected surgeon at Kigali University Teaching Hospital. Today, he is saving a young boy in the operating room. As he works, he remembers his childhood. He had always dreamed of being a doctor, even though his family was poor. His teacher encouraged him to study hard. He earned a scholarship and later a medical degree. The flashback ends as he finishes the surgery. The boy wakes up, and his mother cries with joy. Dr. Nshuti smiles, remembering the long journey he took. He knows he chose the right career.

In pairs, choose the right answer from the alternatives given

1. Which story demonstrates a character achieving a goal step by step?
a) The Brave Doctor b) The New Farmer c) The Lost Wallet
d) None of the above
2. In which story does the main event come full circle, returning to the starting point?
a) The Brave Doctor b) The New Farmer c) The Lost Wallet
d) None of the above
3. Which story shows the character reflecting on memories to make the present situation meaningful?
a) The New Farmer b) The Brave Doctor c) The Lost Wallet
d) All of the above

Activity 1.7.2

Read the notes from the table below to learn more about plots and do the exercises (A and B) that follow

NOTES:

Plots

A plot is the sequence of events that make up a story. Writers organise events in different ways to make stories interesting. In this unit, you will study three main types of plot:

1. Linear Plot

Events are presented in chronological order (from beginning to end).

The story moves forward step by step.

Example:

A young woman starts her first job, faces challenges, and finally succeeds in her career.

Clue: Words like first, then, after that, finally show linear order.

2. Circular Plot

The story ends where it began.

The main character often learns a lesson but returns to the same place or situation.

Example:

A man travels to many places looking for success but returns home to realize his opportunities were always there.

Clue: Beginning = Ending (same place, same situation, new understanding)

3. Non-linear Plot

A non-linear plot is a way of telling a story out of chronological order. Events are not presented from beginning to end in a straight time sequence. A story plot in which events are shown in a mixed order rather than from first to last.

The story moves backward and forward in time

Example: Anna opened the letter and cried, remembering the day she lost her best friend. Ten years earlier, they had promised to always stay together, never imagining this moment.

Exercises

A. Read the short texts below and identify the type of plot (Linear, Circular, or Non-linear)

- a) A young man trains to become a driver. He learns, gets a license, and finds a job in a transport company.

Plot type: _____

- b) A story begins with a firefighter rescuing a child. Then it moves back to explain how the fire started earlier that night.

Plot type: _____

- c) A girl starts her day walking to school and ends her day on the same road where she began.

Plot type: _____

B. In small groups, draw a plot diagram showing the sequence of events for one story and then present your diagram to the class.

Application activities

Activity 1.7.3

1. The sentences below describe events from a story, but they are mixed up.
 - a) The old man smiled, realizing he had always been happy in his small village.
 - b) Years earlier, he had left the village to search for wealth in the city.
 - c) He stood again at the entrance of the village where the story began.
 - d) Life in the city was harder than he expected.
 - e) One morning, he decided to return home.

Tasks:

- a) Work in pairs to arrange the events into a logical order.
- b) Identify the type of plot the story follows.
- c) Explain briefly why this plot is not purely linear.

Activity 1.7.4

Write a short story using one type of plot (Linear, Circular or non-linear). Your story should clearly include beginning, middle, and end (3–5 lines only)

1.8. SOUNDS AND SPELLING

Learning activities

Activity 1.8.1

A. Practise the following minimal pairs and discuss with your partner:

- Do the words in each pair have the same meaning or different meanings?
- Which word do you already know?
- Do the words in each pair sound exactly the same or slightly different?

Word 1	Word 2
ship /ʃɪp/	sheep /ʃi:p/
pin /pɪn/	bin /bɪn/
rice /raɪs/	rise /raɪz/
food /fu:d/	foot /fʊt/

B. Listen and repeat each pair:

sheep / ship food / foot rice / rise team / deem

C. Underline the word you hear from your teacher or partner reads ship / sheep foot / food rise / rice team / deem

Application activities

Activity 1.8.2

A. In pairs, complete the sentences below with the correct word from the list below. Read the sentence aloud to your partner

Ship sheep foot food rise rice

- The farmer has ten _____ on his land.
- We travelled by _____ across the lake.
- Healthy _____ gives the body energy.
- The ball touched my _____.
- We grow _____ in the valley fields.
- Prices usually _____ during holidays.

B. Write three more pairs of words that sound similar but have different meanings

1.9. END OF UNIT ASSESSMENT

1.9.1 Assessment questions

SECTION A: Reading and comprehension

Text: WOMEN INSPIRING CAREERS IN RWANDA

Today, many women in Rwanda have strong and successful careers. Some are doctors, engineers, and pilots. Others are business owners, architects, or journalists. Their achievements show that women can do any job if they have education and confidence.

One example is Dr. Ange Uwamahoro, a surgeon who works at our District Hospital. She has been saving lives for more than ten years. Another inspiring woman is Alice Mukashyaka, a social entrepreneur who has been supporting youth skills training since 2017 in my district. Women leaders encourage young girls to stay in school, work hard, and follow their dreams.

Rwanda promotes gender equality in education and employment. More girls are joining science and technology fields, where they are designing new solutions for the future. When women succeed, the whole nation benefits.

Comprehension questions

1. What message does the text communicate about the relationship between education, confidence, and women's career success in Rwanda?
2. Why do you think the writer includes real examples such as Dr. Ange Uwamahoro and Alice Mukashyaka? What effect do these examples have on the reader?
3. How do the careers of the women mentioned challenge traditional ideas about jobs for women? Support your answer with details from the text.
4. What role do women leaders play in shaping the future of young girls, according to the text?
5. Explain how the success of women contributes to national development, as suggested in the final paragraph.

Vocabulary

Find words in the passage with these meanings:

1. A person who starts a business: _____
2. The idea that men and women have equal rights: _____
3. Jobs related to medicine: _____
4. Strength or belief in yourself: _____
5. To support and encourage someone: _____

1. Multiple choice questions

Choose the correct answer.

1. A person who repairs cars and motorcycles is called a:
a) Plumber b) Mechanic c) Journalist d) Teacher
2. Which of the following shows an ongoing experience?
a) I worked as a nurse last year.
b) I have been working as a nurse for five years.
c) I will work as a nurse.
d) I am working as a nurse yesterday.
3. "A teacher is someone _____ helps students learn new things."
a) that b) who c) where d) whose
4. If I _____ a doctor, I would help people in remote areas.
a) am b) were c) was d) be
5. Which of the following is a circular plot?
a) Eric becomes a farmer and expands his farm step by step.
b) Keza finds a lost wallet and ends the day walking on the same road she started.
c) Dr. Nshuti saves a boy while remembering his childhood and education.
d) None of the above
6. "She has been working at Nyamirambo Health Centre _____ 2018." Which word correctly completes the sentence?
a) for b) since c) from d) at
7. Which job requires a diploma or degree?
a) Teacher b) Plumber c) Farmer d) Postman
8. Which of the following sentences is a type 3 conditional?
a) If I were a pilot, I would fly to Kigali.
b) If she had studied engineering, she would have become an engineer.
c) If I study hard, I will pass the exam.
d) If I am free, I will visit my friend.
9. Which of the following words has a different vowel sound?
a) ship b) sheep c) chip d) sip
10. Which is an example of appreciating work in the community?
a) Ignoring workers
b) Respecting teachers and nurses
c) Complaining about chores
d) Refusing to cooperate with colleagues

2. Short Answer Questions

1. Name three jobs in your community and mention one qualification needed for each.
2. Explain the difference between for and since when talking about work experience.
3. Identify the type of plot in this story:
"Dr. Nshuti is operating on a patient. While working, he remembers his childhood and training as a doctor."

SECTION B:

1. Read the text below and answer the questions that follow

"Nkundurwanda has been working as a journalist since 2019. She writes articles about community development and interviews local leaders. A journalist is a person who informs the public about important events. Nkundurwanda dreams of becoming an editor one day."

- a) How long has Nkundurwanda been working as a journalist?
- b) What is Nkundurwanda's job?
- c) Using a relative pronoun, write a sentence describing Nkundurwanda's job.
- d) If Nkundurwanda _____ (be) a famous editor, she would train young journalists. Complete the sentence.

2. Writing a Formal Job Application Letter (10 marks)

- Write a letter applying for a job at a health center or school in your district. Include:
 - Address and greeting
 - Body (education, qualifications, experience)
 - Closing
- Use appropriate formal language

SECTION C:

1. Explain why it is important to respect all types of work in your community.
2. How can valuing education and skills help you succeed in your career?
3. Give one example of how honesty and reliability are important in a job.
4. Write one sentence showing cooperation with colleagues in a workplace.

UNIT 2:

RUNNING A BUSINESS

Key unit competence:

Communicate effectively in both speaking and writing about business and purchases, while demonstrating confidence, honesty, and respect in real or simulated business situations.

Learning objectives

By the end of this unit, you will be able to:

Knowledge & Understanding

- Recognise and use vocabulary related to business and purchasing.
- Explain the form and use of the passive voice in simple tenses.
- Identify features of a descriptive paragraph about places.
- Recognise and describe different intonation patterns used to express emotions and emphasis.

Skills

- Use business vocabulary to communicate in real-life buying and selling situations.
- Write coherent paragraphs using descriptive language and passive voice.
- Analyse and discuss relationships between plot events and central ideas.
- Use intonation patterns to express emotions and emphasize ideas when speaking.

Attitudes & Values

- Appreciate honest business communication and polite negotiation.
- Demonstrate honesty, politeness, and cooperation in business interactions.
- Value ethical practices in trade.
- Appreciate English as a tool for real-life business communication.

Introduction

This unit introduces the language and communication skills used in business and purchasing situations. It covers key business vocabulary, the passive voice in simple tenses, descriptive writing about business places, and intonation for expressing emotions. The unit also explores polite negotiation and ethical practices in trade.

Introductory activity

Below is a jumbled block of letters. Inside it are 10 business words. Search for the words horizontally, vertically, or diagonally.

S	H	O	P	K	E	E	P	E	R	T	R	A	A
C	U	S	T	O	M	E	R	L	O	S	S	M	N
R	E	C	E	I	P	T	B	A	R	G	A	I	N
P	R	O	F	I	T	W	H	O	L	E	S	A	L
G	O	O	D	S	R	E	T	A	I	L	P	R	E
A	B	K	G	H	K	H	O	P	W	R	Q	Y	I

1. Which of these words are most common in a market or shop?
2. How do these words help describe what happens in a business?
3. Why is it important to understand these terms before learning about buying and selling?

2.1. Business and purchases

Reading: Business and Purchases at Nyamirambo Market."

Learning activities

Activity 2.1.1

1. Look at the title of the text: "Business and Purchases at Nyamirambo Market."
2. Work in pairs and discuss:
 - a) What activities usually happen in a market
 - b) Who works there and what they do
 - c) Why customers choose one shop over another

Activity 2.1.2

Read the passage carefully and focus on identifying the main ideas, supporting details, and the values (such as honesty, fair pricing, and good service) that Ms. Umurerwa demonstrates in her business. Then answer the questions that follow

Business and Purchases at Nyamirambo Market

Every morning, Ms. Umurerwa, a shopkeeper, opens her small fruit shop at Nyamirambo Market. She sells bananas, mangoes, and oranges. Many customers come to buy fresh goods. Some purchase only a few pieces, while others buy in bulk.

The shop was opened in 2015, and since then, Ms. Umurerwa has been running it successfully. She has been selling fruits since 2015. She started after receiving a certificate in small business management. She knows that fair prices and good service attract more customers.

Ms. Umurerwa always gives a receipt for every purchase. Yesterday, a customer wanted 3 kilos of bananas. Ms. Umurerwa said, "The price is 1,500 RWF per kilo. Can I offer you a discount?" After a short bargain, the customer agreed and bought 3 kilos.

Sometimes, Ms. Umurerwa buys fruits in wholesale from Kigali's main market. They are later sold at retail prices in her shop. She keeps careful records of her profit and losses. If she were dishonest, she would lose customers, and her business would fail

Fruits are sold here, in Ms. Umurerwa's shop, at a low price. They are carefully priced. Ms. Umurerwa is proud of her honesty and polite service.

Ms. Umurerwa knows that good service, honesty, and fair pricing are the keys to running a successful business. She also understands that managing change, such as giving correct money back to customers, is important in every transaction. She is preparing herself to receive new fresh vegetables which will be delivered tomorrow. She will have a busy day ahead.

Comprehension questions

A. Literal Comprehension

1. What kinds of fruits does Ms. Umurerwa sell in her shop?
2. How long has Ms. Umurerwa been running her fruit shop?
3. What does Ms. Umurerwa give to every customer after a purchase?

B. Text Analysis and Interpretation

1. Why does Ms. Umurerwa believe that honesty and good service are important for her business?
2. Explain the difference between wholesale and retail as described in the text.
3. What might happen if Ms. Umurerwa were dishonest with her customers?
4. How does Ms. Umurerwa manage changes and challenges in her business, according to the text?

Application activity

Activity 2.1.3

In pairs, read the text again and turn the 3rd paragraph into a dialogue. Act it out to the class.

2.2 Vocabulary: Business and trade words

Learning activities

Activity 2.2.1

Match the words in A to their meaning in B

A	B
1. Shopkeeper	A) Money earned after paying costs
2. Customer	B) A paper showing what has been bought and paid for
3. Goods	C) A person who buys goods or services
4. Price	D) Buying large quantities at a lower price
5. Purchase	E) Money returned to a customer after payment in excess
6. Sell	F) To negotiate the price
7. Profit	G) A person who owns or manages a shop
8. Loss	H) To give goods in exchange for money
9. Receipt	I) Money lost when expenses exceed income
10. Bargain	J) The act of buying something
11. Wholesale	K) Selling goods in smaller quantities to customers
12. Retail	L) Products for sale
13. Change	M) The amount of money asked for goods

Application Activity

Activity 2.2.2

Using business and trade vocabulary in context

1. Work individually.
2. Use at least six words from the list in Activity 2.2.1.
3. Write a short paragraph (4–5 sentences) describing a real or imagined buying-and-selling situation (e.g. market, shop, supermarket, school canteen).
4. Your paragraph should include:
 - One sentence about goods and their price
 - One sentence showing buying or selling (purchase / sell)
 - One sentence showing profit or loss
 - One sentence mentioning receipt or change

2.3 Listening: Buying and Selling

Learning activities

Activity 2.3.1

Pre-listening

A. Discuss the questions orally with your partner:

- a) Have you ever bargained for prices in a market?
- b) What do you usually buy at the market?
- c) Do prices always stay the same? Why or why not?

B. Listen carefully as the teacher reads the dialogue between Kubwayo and the sales associate.

Find out what fruits Kubwayo wants to buy, how the price is discussed, how honesty and fairness are shown in the dialogue. Then answer the questions that follow

Dialogue: Buying fruits at the market

Kubwayo: Hello, brother. I would like to buy some fruits.

Sales Associate: Sure, sir. Which fruits would you like to buy? I have a variety.

Kubwayo: Do you have organically grown mangoes?

Sales Associate: Yes, sir. Natural mangoes are the best. They are sold at 1500 RWF per kilo.

Kubwayo: Oh! That's too much. A few days ago, I bought a kilo at 1000 RWF only.

Sales Associate: That's true, sir. But the price of fruits is increasing every day. Predicting the future is hard.

Kubwayo: Anyway, can I get a kilo for 1300 RWF?

Sales Associate: I see. I have to pay taxes and transport costs. My profit will only be 20 RWF.

Kubwayo: You are a skilful seller. I am convinced.

Sales Associate: How many kilos will you take?

Kubwayo: Let me take only one kilo. I would take more, but they are expensive.

Sales Associate: Okay, I am giving you 1 kilo. The purchase is completed, and a receipt will be given. Can you take more, please?

Kubwayo: (taking the fruits) Thank you for the positive experience about business.

Sales Associate: You are welcome, sir. Honesty and fairness are valued in our shop.

1. Listening comprehension questions

1. How much does the sales associate want for 1 kilo of mangoes?
2. Why can't the sales associate sell 1 kilo for 1300 RWF easily?
3. How much profit will the shopkeeper make if he sells at 1300 RWF?
4. What is the main value emphasized in the dialogue?

Application activities

Activity 2.3.2

Role-Play: In pairs, act out the dialogue. One student is the customer, and the other is the sales associate. Swap roles and perform for the class.

Activity 2.3.3

Reread the conversation and summarise it based on the main ideas

2.4. Speaking: Business and purchases

Learning activity

Activity 2.4.1

Role-play – market scene

- Work in pairs. One student is the shopkeeper and the other student is the customer.
- Prepare your conversation using the new vocabulary: shopkeeper, customer, goods, price, purchase, sell, profit, loss, receipt, bargain, wholesale, retail, change.
- Role-play the market scene
 - The customer selects goods to buy.
 - The shopkeeper tells the price.
 - The customer may bargain politely for a lower price.
 - Complete the purchase and give a receipt if needed.
- Switch roles so both students practice being the shopkeeper and the customer.
- Perform your role-play for the class

Activity 2.4.2

DEBATE

- A. In groups, read the following notes on debate, summarise them and present to the class

A debate is a formal discussion in which two sides present different viewpoints about a particular topic or issue. One side supports the topic (for/proposition) and the other side disagrees (against/opposition).

Structure of a standard debate

1. Introduction
 - Moderator explains the motion (topic)
 - Teams and speakers are introduced
2. Opening Statements
 - First speaker from each team explains their main arguments and defines key terms and gives the team's position clearly
3. Arguments and rebuttals
 - Other speakers present supporting evidence, examples, statistics, etc.
 - They also refute (challenge) the other team's arguments
4. Conclusion / Closing statements
 - Final speakers summarise the strongest arguments
 - No new ideas should be introduced here
5. Judges' decision
 - Judges evaluate based on clarity, logic, evidence, teamwork, and persuasion

Roles in a debate team

Role	Responsibility
1st Speaker	Introduces topic, defines terms, presents main points
2nd Speaker	Supports arguments with examples, rebuts opponent
3rd Speaker	Strengthens arguments, major rebuttals
Team	Communicate clearly, stay organised, respect time

Words and Phrases Commonly Used in Debates

- I strongly believe that...
- My first point is...
- According to research...
- This proves that...
- In conclusion...
- On the other hand...
- I would like to rebut that point by saying...

Application activity

Activity 2.4.3

Organise a debate around this motion "Is bargaining important in business?"

2.5 Language structure

Learning activities

Activity 2.5.1

Read the sentences below taken from business and market situations. Work in pairs and answer the questions that follow.

- a) Clothes are sold here at a low price.
- b) Receipts are given after every purchase.
- c) The shop was opened in 2015.
- d) More goods will be ordered soon.

Discussion

- a) What is more important in each sentence: the action or the person who does it?
- b) Is the person doing the action mentioned?
- c) Which sentence expresses each of the following: A general fact? A completed past action? A future business action?

Activity 2.5.2

In pairs, read and discuss the notes in the box below. Answer the questions that follow

The Passive Voice in Simple Tenses

A. What is the Passive Voice?

The passive voice is used when the focus is on the action or the object, not on the person doing the action.

We use the structure: be + past participle

Examples:

Prices are displayed on the shelves.

Customers are served politely.

B. Passive Voice in Simple Tenses

1. Present Simple Passive

Form: am / is / are + past participle

Use: To describe things that are generally true, especially in shops and businesses.

Examples: Clothes are sold here at a low price and receipts are given after every purchase.

2. Past Simple Passive

Form: was / were + past participle

Use it to talk about completed actions in the past, often when the doer is not mentioned.

Examples: The shop was opened in 2015 and the price was reduced last week.

3. Future Simple Passive

Form: will be + past participle

Use it to describe future actions where the focus is the result, not who will do it.

Example: More goods will be ordered soon.

C. Why Use Passive Voice in Business?

We often use the passive voice in business because:

- The action or product is more important than the person doing it.
- The agent is unknown or obvious (e.g., workers, suppliers).
- It creates a more formal and polite tone in communication.

D. More Examples (Business Context)

- Profits are made when goods are sold at a higher price.
- Losses are suffered when customers are not attracted.
- Change will be given after the payment in excess is made.
- Prices were increased due to transport costs.

Exercises

1. Rewrite the following paragraph in the passive voice using the correct tense.

Traders sell goods in the local market every day. Yesterday, they sold food and clothes to many customers and recorded all the sales in their books. They issued receipts after each purchase. Next week, the traders will reduce prices and introduce new products to attract more customers.

2. Each sentence has an error. Correct it using the passive voice.

1. A receipt giving to every customer.
2. The products deliver yesterday.
3. New goods will sells at a discount next week.
4. Taxes pay by the shop owner.
5. More workers will hire next week.
6. Change giving after payment.
7. The market visit by many people.
8. The shop's profit make from retail sales

3. Rearrange the words to form correct passive voice sentences

1. every / given / A receipt / customer / to / is
2. delivered / The products / yesterday / were
3. at a discount / New goods / next week / will / be / sold

Complete the paragraph below with the correct passive form of the verbs in brackets.

A new supermarket in our town ____1____ (open) last year.

Many different goods such as rice, sugar, clothes, and fruits ____2____ (sell) there. The prices ____3____ (keep) low so that customers can afford them. Every buyer ____4____ (give) a receipt after payment. Fresh vegetables ____5____ (deliver) every morning by local farmers. The shop ____6____ (clean) daily to keep everything neat. Discounts ____7____ (offer) on weekends to attract more customers. The workers ____8____ (train) to serve customers politely. Sometimes, the shopkeeper complains that profit ____9____ (reduce) because many items are cheap. Next month, a bakery section ____10____ (add) to the supermarket to make it even better.

Application activities

Activity 2.5.3

Market Notice Board Task (Writing & Language Use)

- Work individually.
- Imagine you are managing a small shop or market stall.
- Write five short notices or announcements poster to be displayed in your shop. Use some sentences in the passive voice (present, past, or future).
- Each notice should focus on the action or product, not the person.
- Use business and market contexts (prices, goods, services, opening, delivery, discounts)

2.6. Writing: Description of business centre

Learning activities

Activity 2.6.1

1. Think of a business centre near your home. Write the following information about it:
 - Name of the business centre
 - When it was opened/ started
 - What goods are sold there
 - What services are provided there
 - How customers are served
2. Share it with a partner first, then with the class and then fill in the missing information

Activity 2.6.2

1. In Pairs: Complete a Sample Receipt

Below is an incomplete receipt. Work with your partner to fill in with the missing information about:

- Items bought
- Quantity
- Unit price
- Date
- Total price
- Buyer and seller information

Receipt

Shop name:.....

Receipt No:.....

Buyer : Seller :.....

Date:.....

Item	Quantity	Unit Price	Total
_____	_____	_____	_____
_____	_____	_____	_____
_____	_____	_____	_____
_____	_____	_____	_____

Total Amount: _____ RWF

Signature: _____

After completing the receipt, compare it with another pair and discuss any differences.

Application activity

Activity 2.6.3

Write a composition of no more than 200 words describing a visit to a business centre/a market near your home or school. In your composition include: when it was opened, goods sold, services provided, how customers are served. Make sure you use at least 5 passive voice sentences.

2.7. Literature: Plot and theme

Learning activities

Activity 2.7.1

- A. Read the three paragraphs that make up the story "The Little Painter". Put them in order to make a smooth flow of the story.
 - a) Explain your chosen order
 - b) What does the story mainly teach?

On the day of the competition, Kevin presented a colorful painting of his family in their garden. When the judges announced the results, Kevin won first prize. His classmates were surprised, but Kevin simply smiled. He knew his success came from hard work and persistence.

A young boy named Kevin loved painting more than anything else. He dreamed of entering the school art competition and winning first prize. However, his drawings were often messy, and his classmates laughed at his work. Kevin felt shy but still wanted to improve.

Every day after school, Kevin practised painting. He watched tutorials, asked his art teacher for advice, and tried again whenever he made mistakes. Sometimes he felt tired and frustrated, but he never gave up. Slowly, his paintings became beautiful. He added bright colors, clearer shapes, and new ideas.

Read the notes in the box below to learn more about plot and theme then answer the questions that follow

Relationship between plot and theme

In literature, the plot is the sequence of events in a story (what happens). The theme is the main message or lesson the author wants readers to learn (why the story matters).

The plot events help to show and develop the theme. Readers understand the theme by following what characters experience in the beginning, middle, and end of the story.

Example: Theme – hard work and persistence lead to success

Plot sequence	How Plot shows theme
Beginning	The main character starts with a desire or goal but faces challenges. This introduces the need for hard work.
Middle	The character struggles, keeps trying, and does not give up even when things are difficult. This shows persistence.
End	The character succeeds because of continued effort. This proves the theme that success comes through hard work and persistence.

Simple Illustration

- Beginning: A student wants to win a science competition but has little knowledge.
- Middle: The student studies every day, fixes mistakes, and practices even when tired.
- End: The student wins the competition. The success is a result of perseverance.

In conclusion

The plot is the journey.

The theme is the lesson learned from that journey.

Exercise 1

Match each plot stage to what usually happens there: Beginning, Middle, End

1. The character faces problems and keeps trying:_____.
2. The character succeeds or learns a lesson: _____.
3. The character's goal or problem is introduced: _____.

Exercise 2

True or False

Write True or False

1. The theme tells what happens in the story.
2. The plot shows events in order.
3. The ending of a story often helps explain the theme.
4. A theme is usually learned from the characters' experiences.

Activity 2.7.2

Short story for analysis

1. Read The Little Seed. Answer the questions that follow

Story: The Little Seed

Once upon a time, a tiny seed lay in the soil, dreaming of becoming a great tree. The soil was dark and heavy, and the seed often wondered if it would ever grow. Every day, it tried to push through the dirt, feeling the weight of the earth above it. Sometimes, raindrops fell gently, giving it strength, but other times, the sun burned hot and dry, making it feel weak and tired.

Despite these challenges, the seed never gave up. It focused on its dream and pushed a little higher each day. One morning, a tiny green sprout finally peeked above the soil. The seed felt the warmth of the sun on its small leaves and the cool touch of the wind.

As days turned into weeks, the sprout grew taller. Birds began to rest on its branches, and insects danced around its leaves. The seed faced storms, heavy rains, and strong winds that bent it nearly to the ground. But it held firm, remembering its dream of becoming a strong tree.

Years passed. The small sprout grew into a sturdy sapling, and eventually, it became a magnificent tree. Its branches stretched wide, providing shade for children playing nearby, and its fruits nourished birds and people alike. Travelers would pause to admire it and say, "What a beautiful tree! How strong it must have been to grow here!"

The tree whispered to itself, "All my hard work, patience, and persistence made this possible. Even when the challenges seemed impossible, I never gave up."

Question

1. List at least five key events that happen in the story.
2. Identify the beginning, middle, and end events.
3. Explain how these events show the theme of hard work and persistence.

2.8. Sounds and spelling: Intonations

Activity 2.8.1

A. Listen carefully as the teacher reads aloud the following sentences. Write UP if the voice goes up at the end, and DOWN if the voice goes down at the end.

1. Are you coming? -----
2. Where is the library? -----
3. You got an A on the test! -----
4. Is it raining today? -----
5. What time is it? -----

In pairs, read the notes in the box below to learn more about intonations. Do the activities that follow

Intonation

Intonation is the rise and fall of your voice when speaking.

Types of Intonation:

1. Rising Intonation ()
 - Used in yes/no questions
 - Your voice goes up at the end.
 - Example: Are you coming ?
2. Falling Intonation ()
 - Used in wh-questions (who, what, where, when, why, how) and statements of fact.
 - Your voice goes down at the end.
 - Example: Where are you going ?

Exercise 2

Guess the intonation

- In the following table, read each sentence aloud or listen carefully to your teacher/classmate.
- Decide if the intonation rises (write ↗), falls (write ↘)

Sentence	Rising ()	Falling ()
1. Are you coming to the party?
2. What time does the class start?
3. Is it raining today?
4. Where is the nearest bus stop?
5. Can you help me with this problem?
6. How are you feeling today?
7. Did you finish your homework?
8. Who is your best friend?

Application activity

Activity 2.8.2

Role-Play

1. Work in pairs:

- Create a short dialogue using yes/no questions (﷎) and wh-questions (﷏)
- Practice saying your dialogue aloud, paying attention to intonation
- Perform your dialogue for the class

2.9. END OF UNIT ASSESSMENT

2.9.1 Project Activity

Project: Design a Social Enterprise

Work in a team to design a social enterprise—a business that makes a profit while solving a child protection or human rights problem in your community.

What to do:

1. Describe your business
 - Give it a name.
 - Explain what it does and who it serves.
 - Explain the problem it will solve.
 - Explain how it will make money.
2. Prepare a simple budget
 - List start-up costs and expected expenses.
 - Estimate your income and possible profit.
3. Prepare a business pitch Explain:
 - The problem and your solution.
 - Who will benefit.
 - How the business will make a positive difference.
 - Why people should support your idea.
4. Use appropriate language
 - Use persuasive language.
 - Use the passive voice correctly.

Example: Vulnerable young people will be trained in practical skills.

Present your business plan to the class.

What your pitch should show

Your final presentation should demonstrate that your business:

- solves a real human rights or child protection issue
- can operate sustainably and make profit
- benefits the community in a meaningful way
- uses ethical practices in all operations

Work creatively, think critically, and present your business as if you were speaking to real investors who care about both profit and social impact.

2.9.2. End of the unit Assessment questions

PART A: COMPULSORY – WRITTEN ASSESSMENT

SECTION 1:

Reading Comprehension and Literature Analysis

Reading and comprehension

Text:

At Muhanga Market, Mr. Habimana runs a small electronics shop. He sells radios, mobile phones, and accessories. Every morning, fresh stock is delivered from Kigali's wholesale market. Customers visit daily, buying items in small or large quantities.

The shop was established in 2016, and Mr. Habimana has been managing it for 10 years. He keeps detailed records of every transaction and ensures receipts are issued. Occasionally, he offers discounts during promotions, attracting more buyers.

Some customers bargain politely, while others accept the prices as they are. Mr. Habimana values honesty, always giving correct change and maintaining clear communication. His profit increases steadily because of fair pricing and efficient service.

Comprehension questions

1. Multiple Choice. Circle the right answer
 - a) When was Mr. Habimana's shop opened?
 - i. 2015
 - ii. 2016
 - iii. 2017
 - iv. 2018
 - b) How does Mr. Habimana increase his sales?
 - i. Ignoring customer complaints
 - ii. Offering discounts during promotions

- iii. Raising prices daily
 - iv. Selling only mobile phones
- c) Which value is emphasized in the text?
 - i. Dishonesty
 - ii. Honesty
 - iii. Laziness
 - iv. Secrecy
- d) What does "bargain politely" imply?
 - i. Refusing to buy goods
 - ii. Negotiating price respectfully
 - iii. Selling goods secretly
 - iv. Giving free items
- 2. Short Answer Questions
 - a) Identify three business-related vocabulary words used in the text and explain their meaning.
 - b) Write two passive voice sentences from the text and indicate the tense.
 - c) How does the plot of Mr. Habimana's daily shop operations show the importance of honesty in business?
- 3. What does the daily delivery of stock from Kigali suggest about the demand for electronics at Muhanga Market?
- 4. How does keeping detailed records and issuing receipts contribute to the success of Mr. Habimana's business?
- 5. Why do you think offering discounts during promotions attracts more customers to the shop?
- 6. What can be inferred about Mr. Habimana's character from the way he treats customers and handles money?
- 7. How does fair pricing influence customer behaviour and the steady increase in profit?
- 8. In what ways does clear communication help build trust between Mr. Habimana and his customers?

Literature Analysis

Read the short story below and answer the questions that follow:

The small bakery

Alice loved baking. She dreamed of opening a bakery in her neighbourhood. Every day after school, she practised recipes, learning from books and online tutorials. At first, her cakes were uneven, but she continued. Her parents encouraged her, and neighbours began buying her cakes. Over the months, Alice's skill improved, and her bakery opened. Soon, she earned enough to hire an assistant and buy better equipment.

Question

- a) Identify the beginning, middle, and end of the story.
- b) What is the main theme of the story?
- c) Mention two events that show Alice's persistence.
- d) Explain how the plot events contribute to the theme.

SECTION 2:

Grammar, Vocabulary, and Language Use

1. Passive Voice

Rewrite the following sentences in passive voice:

- a) The shopkeeper delivers goods to customers every morning.
- b) The manager will increase prices next week.
- c) The customer bought three phones yesterday.
- d) The shop assistant gives receipts to buyers.
- e) People will pay taxes on imported goods.

2. Vocabulary and Context

Choose the correct word to complete each sentence:

- a) The _____ sells goods in small quantities to individual buyers. (wholesale / retail)
- b) The shopkeeper recorded the total _____ from today's sales. (profit / bargain)
- c) The customer returned some goods and received the correct _____. (change / receipt)
- d) The fruit _____ was delivered early in the morning. (purchase / goods)
- e) The shop was closed temporarily because the roof _____. (leaked / sold)

3. Read the following sentences carefully. Each sentence has two verb forms in brackets. Choose the correct verb form and then state whether the sentence is in the ACTIVE voice or the PASSIVE voice.

- a) Laptops a discounted price every weekend. (Sell/are sold)
- b) Farmers vegetables to the market daily. (deliver/ are deliveres)
- c) Receipts for all customers by the assistant. (will prepare/will be prepared)
- d) Someone the shop's sign yesterday. (Repaired/was repaired)
- e) Free samples by the bakery on Saturday. (Will provide/will be provided)

SECTION 3:

Composition and Functional Writing

1. Formal Business Letter

Write a formal letter to a supplier requesting 10 boxes of school stationery for your shop. Include:

- Proper greeting and closing
- Polite and clear request
- Reason for purchase
- Expected delivery date

2. Descriptive Paragraph

Write a descriptive paragraph about a business centre or market in your area. Include:

- The types of shops and goods sold
- Services offered
- Use at least 3 passive voice sentences
- Mention one value or attitude you observe

3. Receipt Creation

Fill in a receipt for the following transaction:

- Buyer: Your classmate
- Seller: Your shop
- Items: 2 notebooks at 250 RWF each, 1 pen at 100 RWF
- Calculate total, include date, and sign

UNIT 3:

DIET AND HEALTH

Key unit competence:

Communicate effectively in both speaking and writing about healthy eating habits and balanced diets, while demonstrating responsibility for personal and community health.

Learning objectives

By the end of this unit, you will be able to:

Knowledge & Understanding

- Identify and list the main food groups (carbohydrates, proteins, fats, vitamins, minerals, water) and explain their primary functions in the body.
- Recognise the main ideas and supporting details from spoken texts related to health, diet, and nutrition.
- Understand the structure of descriptive paragraphs about eating habits and identify key features (topic sentence, supporting details, concluding sentence).

Skills

- Read texts about balanced diets and health, summarising key points and understanding the meaning of specialized vocabulary.
- Transform active sentences into passive voice with modals correctly (e.g., "People must eat fruits" → "Fruits must be eaten") and use them in both spoken and written forms.
- Analyse characters and conflicts in stories related to health or self-discipline, interpreting how choices affect well-being.

Attitudes & Values

- Appreciate the importance of consuming balanced meals and maintaining good nutrition for overall health.
- Show interest in maintaining healthy eating habits and encouraging peers to do the same.
- Reflect on personal dietary habits, demonstrate willingness to improve, and express opinions respectfully in discussions about health.

Introduction

A healthy diet is the combination of foods and drinks that provide the nutrients our bodies need to grow, stay strong, and function properly. It includes a balance of carbohydrates, proteins, fats, vitamins, minerals, and water. Eating well not only prevents illnesses but also improves energy, concentration, and overall well-being. Understanding the importance of diet and health helps individuals make better choices for themselves and their families.

Introductory activity

'What's on Your Plate?'

1. In pairs, list the foods you eat at home
2. Identify which food group each item belongs to (carbohydrates, proteins, fats, fruits and vegetables, dairy, water)
3. Discuss with your partner:
 - Which of these foods are eaten often in your community?
 - Which foods do you think are important for good health? Why?
4. Share your findings with the class

3.1. Reading: Balanced diet and health

Learning activities

Activity 3.1.1

1. Work in pairs and answer the following questions
 - a) What foods do you eat every day?
 - b) Do you think your meals are healthy? Why or why not?
2. Read the text below to find out:
 - a) what a balanced diet is,
 - b) why it is important for good health

Text: Balanced Diet and Health

A balanced diet is a diet that contains all the essential nutrients the body needs in the right amounts. These nutrients include carbohydrates for energy, proteins for body growth and repair, fats for warmth and protection, vitamins and minerals for body functions, and water for hydration. When we eat a variety of foods such as fruits, vegetables, eggs, fish, beans, dairy products, and whole grains, we help our bodies stay healthy and active.

A balanced diet provides many benefits. It strengthens the immune system, improves memory and concentration, and helps children grow properly. It also reduces the risk of diseases such as obesity, diabetes, high blood pressure, and heart problems. People who eat balanced meals often have more energy and feel happier throughout the day.

On the other hand, not having a balanced diet can cause serious health problems. Eating too many sugary or fatty foods may lead to weight gain, tooth decay, and lack of energy. When the body does not receive enough vitamins and minerals, it becomes weak and easily infected. Some common diseases caused by poor diet include malnutrition, anemia, and obesity. Symptoms may include tiredness, frequent illness, pale skin, and difficulty concentrating in class.

Good health depends on daily choices. To maintain a balanced diet, one should drink enough clean water, avoid too much fast food, include fruits and vegetables in every meal, and eat proper portions. Taking care of what we eat today is taking care of our future life.

Comprehension questions

A. Literal Comprehension

1. What is a balanced diet?
2. What are some benefits of a balanced diet mentioned in the text?
3. What can happen if someone eats too many sugary or fatty foods?

B. Textual Analysis and Interpretation

1. Why does the text mention diseases like anemia and obesity?
2. Why do you think the author emphasizes drinking clean water daily?
3. What is the underlying message of the text?
4. What could a student do to avoid poor diet symptoms like tiredness or difficulty concentrating?
5. How can students encourage peers to eat healthily?
6. Why is maintaining a balanced diet important for the future?

Application activities

Activity 3.1.2

Summarise

In pairs or small groups, summarize the text in 60 words focusing only on the most important ideas:

- What a balanced diet is
- Benefits of a balanced diet
- Consequences of poor diet
- Ways to maintain good eating habits

3.2 Vocabulary: Diet and Health words

Activity 3.2.1

Choose the correct term from the box below to complete each definition. If you are not sure about the meaning of a term, use a dictionary or internet to find its definition before making your choice.

Portion	Carbohydrates	Healthy	food	Nutrients
Proteins	Unhealthy food	Calories	Fats

Definitions

1. _____: Useful substances in food that the body needs to stay healthy.
2. _____: Nutrients that help the body grow and repair tissues.
3. _____: Nutrients that give the body quick energy.
4. _____: Nutrients that provide energy and keep the body warm.
5. _____: A unit of energy gained from food.
6. _____: The amount of food served or eaten at one time.
7. _____: Food that is good for the body and provides necessary nutrients.
8. _____: Food that is high in sugar, salt, or fat and can harm the body if eaten too much.

Activity 3.2.2

Complete the Sentences

Use the correct terms to fill the gaps

1. We need _____ to build strong muscles
2. Fruits and vegetables are examples of _____
3. Too much _____ can cause weight gain and health problems
4. A _____ of rice should not be too big
5. Bread and potatoes are foods rich in _____
6. Different foods contain different _____
7. Chips and sweets are examples of _____
8. Our bodies get _____ from the food we eat

Application activity

Activity 3.2.3

1. List the foods you ate yesterday for breakfast, lunch, and dinner. Then, answer the questions below using the correct vocabulary words (proteins, fats, carbohydrates, nutrients, calories, portion, healthy food, unhealthy food).
 - a) Which of the foods you ate were healthy? Explain why they are good for your body.
 - b) Name at least one food you ate that provides protein. Explain how protein helps the body.
 - c) Which foods you ate gave you carbohydrates for energy?
 - d) Did you eat any unhealthy foods? Explain what makes those foods unhealthy.
 - e) Describe the portion sizes of the foods you ate. Were they small, medium, or large?
2. Let us help a friend make healthy food choices. Think carefully, then write three sentences giving good advice about eating well. You can use the examples below to organise your ideas:
 - "You should eat more _____ because ..."
 - "Avoid too many _____ to stay healthy."

3.3 Listening: Eating Habits

Learning activities

Activity 3.3.1

1. Work in pairs and discuss the questions below
 - a) What do you usually eat for breakfast?
 - b) Do you think skipping breakfast is healthy? Why or why not?

Listen as the teacher reads the dialogue aloud. Answer the questions in pairs or groups.

Dialogue

Aisha: Hi John, you look tired. Did you have breakfast today?

John: Yes, I only drank a soda. I did not have enough time to eat.

Aisha: Soda is not a healthy breakfast. You should eat something with proteins or carbohydrates. What do you usually eat at home?

John: My family likes fast food. We eat chips and fried chicken almost every evening.

Aisha: That is unhealthy food. Too much fat can cause health problems. Do you ever eat fruits or vegetables?

John: Not really. I prefer biscuits and sweets. They are tasty.

Aisha: But they contain a lot of sugar. You must eat a balanced diet. For example, fruits and vegetables provide vitamins, and milk gives calcium.

John: You are right. I think I should change my eating habits. Maybe I will start eating porridge for breakfast and some fruit.

Aisha: Good idea. Healthy food will give you more energy and help you stay strong.

Listening comprehension questions (Pair Work)

A. Literal Comprehension questions

1. What does John have for breakfast at the beginning of the dialogue?
2. What kind of food does John's family usually eat in the evening?
3. What food does John plan to start eating for breakfast?

B. Text Analysis and Interpretation questions

1. Why does Aisha say that soda is not a healthy breakfast?
2. What health problems can be caused by eating too much fat and sugar, according to the dialogue?
3. Why does Aisha recommend fruits, vegetables, and milk?
4. Discuss:
 - Are John's eating habits similar to yours?
 - What one change can you make to improve your diet?

Application Activities

Activity 3.3.2

Role Play (Pair Work)

1. Work in pairs. Choose roles: one learner is John and the other is Aisha.
2. Use the dialogue you heard to help you remember what the characters say.
3. Speak clearly and politely, and use actions and facial expressions to show feelings and make the role play fun and meaningful.
4. Practise together, then present your role play to the class.

Activity 3.3.3

Simple Meal Plan

- In pairs, design a healthy breakfast menu using local foods.
- Explain why the meal is healthy (energy, vitamins, strength).
- Share the menu with the class.

3.4. Speaking: Talking about improving eating habits and giving advice on balanced meals

Learning activity

Activity 3.4.1

1. Work in pairs, look at the two lists below.

Healthy foods	Unhealthy foods
• fruits • vegetables • milk • fish • porridge	• soda • sweets • fast food • fried food

Discuss these questions:

- a) Which healthy foods do you eat often?
 - b) Which unhealthy foods do you eat sometimes?
 - c) How can unhealthy food affect the body?
2. Role-Play: Doctor–Patient
 - a) Work in pairs. One of you will be the doctor, and the other will be the patient.
 - b) The patient will explain their eating habits and any health problems they are experiencing.
 - c) Use at least:
 - 3 healthy food vocabulary words
 - 2 unhealthy food vocabulary words
 - 2 sentences in the passive voice with modals
 - 1 sentence expressing consequences of poor diet
 - d) After practicing, present your role-play to another pair or perform it in front of the class.

Application activity

Activity 3.4.2

Work in small groups. Imagine you are nutrition advisors visiting a school.

Prepare a short dialogue where one student asks for advice about eating habits, and the other gives recommendations.

In your dialogue, use at least two healthy food words and two unhealthy food words.

3.5 Language structure: Passive Voice with Modals

Learning activities

Activity 3.5.1

1. Read the sentences below. They all give advice about healthy eating. Work in pairs and answer the questions about them.
 - a) Vegetables must be eaten every day.
 - b) Sugar should be avoided by children.
 - c) Healthy meals can be prepared easily.
 - d) Water has to be drunk every day.
 - e) Proteins ought to be included in meals.
2. Discuss
 - What advice is given in the sentence?
 - Who does the action, if anyone?
 - Is the focus on the person or on the food/action?
3. Match each sentence to its purpose

Sentence	Purpose
a) Vegetables must be eaten every day.	1. possibility
b) Sugar should be avoided by children.	2. good habit
c) Healthy meals can be prepared easily.	3. responsibility
d) Water has to be drunk every day.	4. strong necessity
e) Proteins ought to be included in meals.	5. Health recommendation

Passive Voice with Modals

We use the passive voice with modal verbs (must, should, can, has to, ought to, may) to:

- Give advice about what is good or bad for health
Example: Fruits should be eaten every day to stay healthy.
- Emphasize the action (the food or habit), not the person
*Example: Sugar must be avoided by children.
(Focus is on avoiding sugar, not who avoids it.)*
- Express rules or recommendations about diet and nutrition
Example: Water has to be drunk regularly to keep the body hydrated

Structure:

Modal + be + past participle

Exercises

A. Complete sentences with the correct form of the verbs in brackets

1. Healthy food _____ every day. (should / eat)
2. Too much salt _____ especially for children. (must / avoid)
3. Fresh fruits _____ to keep the body strong. (eat / use)
4. Junk food _____ to protect our health. (ought to / limit)
5. Plenty of clean water _____ daily. (has to / drink)
6. Food rich in vitamins _____ more often. (should / choose)
7. Snacks with too much oil _____ at school. (must not / sell)

B. Rewrite the sentences below beginning as suggested

1. People must wash fruits before eating them.
Fruits _____.
2. People should reduce fast food.
Fast food _____.
3. Students can eat healthy snacks at school.
Healthy snacks _____.

C. Complete each sentence with a grammatically correct passive form using a different modal. More than one answer may be acceptable.

1. Sugary drinks _____ avoided to protect teeth.
2. Enough water _____ drunk during the day.
3. Fruits and vegetables _____ included in every meal

Application activity

Activity 3.5.2

Give three pieces of health advice using: must, should, can.

- Use the passive voice in all sentences.
- 1. With your partner, complete the sentences orally:
 - Healthy food should be _____.
 - Unhealthy food must be _____.
 - If people eat too much unhealthy food, _____.

3.6. Writing: Describing personal eating habits and daily meals

Learning activities

Activity 3.6.1

Guided writing

1. Make a list of the foods you eat for breakfast, lunch, and dinner.
2. Use these sentence starters to write short sentences:
 - For breakfast, I usually eat...
 - At lunch, I often have...
 - In the evening, I like to eat...
3. Read the paragraph below then after do the task that follow

My Daily Eating Habits

I try to maintain a balanced diet every day. Breakfast is usually eaten early in the morning and consists of porridge or eggs with fruit. Lunch is often prepared at home and includes rice, beans, vegetables, and sometimes fish or chicken. Snacks, such as nuts or yogurt, are eaten in small portions during the day. Dinner is kept light, usually vegetables with a small portion of meat. Fruits and water are consumed throughout the day. Unhealthy foods, like fried snacks or sugary drinks, are rarely eaten because they should be avoided to maintain good health. Healthy eating habits must be followed consistently to prevent illness and provide energy for daily activities.

- a) Underline the present tense verbs
- b) Circle the food vocabulary words
- c) Discuss how the writer organises the description (by meals).

Application activities

Activity 3.6.2

Personal paragraph writing

1. Write a short paragraph describing your own eating habits and daily meals.
2. Include:
 - At least three healthy foods.
 - At least two unhealthy foods.
 - One sentence showing a consequence of eating unhealthy food (e.g., If I eat too many sweets, I may feel tired.).

Activity 3.6.3

Peer Sharing and Feedback

1. Exchange your paragraph with a partner.
2. Read your partner's work and highlight:
 - One clear sentence about eating habits.
 - One well-used food vocabulary-word.
 - One suggestion for improvement (e.g., add more detail, use another tense form).
3. Share your feedback with the class.

3.7. LITERATURE

Learning activities

Activity 3.7.1

Read the paragraph below and answer the questions that follow

Short Story: "The Choice at Lunchtime"

Lilian loved eating chips and soda for lunch. Every day, she bought unhealthy food from the shop near school. Last week, she became sick and visited the clinic. The doctor explained that her body needed vegetables, fruits, and proteins to stay strong. At school, the nutrition club gave a lesson about balanced diets. Lilian realized her health mattered more than her cravings.

The next day, she chose a healthy meal instead of chips. Even though it was difficult, she was proud of her new decision. She promised herself that she would take care of her body.

In groups discuss the following questions about the story

1. Why did Lilian visit the clinic?
2. What message did the doctor give Lilian?
3. What helped Lilian change her habits?
4. What lesson can we learn from the story?
5. What is the conflict in the story?

Read the notes in the box below to learn more about the character and the conflict then do the exercises that follow

Character and Conflict

Characters are the people or beings who take part in a story. Each character has specific traits, which are the qualities that show who they are. Some characters are brave, honest, and kind, while others may be selfish, fearful, or rude. These traits influence how characters make decisions in a story.

Conflict is the struggle or problem that the characters face. It drives the story forward. Conflicts can be internal or external.

- Internal conflict happens inside a character's mind or heart, such as making a difficult decision, feeling guilt, or facing fear.
- External conflict is a struggle between a character and an outside force, such as another person, nature, society, or a situation.

Conflicts make stories interesting and help readers understand the character's choices and growth.

Activity 3.7.2

1. In pairs, read the short story below and answer the questions

Lina loved eating sweets and fast food, but she wanted to be fit for the school sports day. Every day, she struggled to resist cakes and chips. Her friends often teased her about her new diet. Lina had to decide whether to follow a balanced meal plan or give in to temptation. Eventually, she started eating more fruits and vegetables and avoided sugary drinks. On sports day, she ran faster than ever and felt proud of her determination.

Questions

1. Identify Lina's character traits. Are they positive, negative, or mixed?
2. What internal conflict does Lina face?
3. What external conflict does she face?
4. How do her choices resolve the conflicts?
5. What lesson about diet and health does the story convey?

Application activity

Activity 3.7.3

Write a paragraph describing another character struggling with healthy eating habits, showing both internal and external conflicts

3.8 SOUNDS AND SPELLING

Learning activities

Activity 3.8.1

Hear the strong words

1. Listen carefully as the teacher reads the sentence below. Try to notice which words sound stronger
 - People must eat healthy food to stay strong.
2. Listen to the two sentences read by the teacher. Raise your hand each time you hear a strong word
 - Lilian likes vegetables.
 - She eats them every day.
3. Work with a partner. Underline the words you think are strong in the sentences above
4. Discuss with your partner:
 - Why do you think those words sound strong?
 - What meaning do they give to the sentence?

Read the box below to learn more about stress and rhythm then answer the questions that follow

Stress and Rhythm in Complex Sentences

Stress refers to how we make certain words or syllables stronger when we speak.

A stressed word is said with a higher pitch, longer sound, and more force. Stress helps listeners understand the most important information in a sentence.

In English, we usually stress content words because they carry the main meaning:

Examples of content words:

- Nouns: vegetables, diet, health
- Main verbs: eat, choose, prepare
- Adjectives: healthy, strong, delicious
- Adverbs: slowly, usually, always

We usually do not stress function words because they mainly help with grammar rather than meaning:

Examples of function words:

- Articles: a, an, the
- Prepositions: of, to, with
- Pronouns: she, they, it
- Auxiliary verbs: is, can, must
- Conjunctions: and, but, because

Rhythm

Rhythm is the pattern of stressed and unstressed words in a sentence. English uses a stress-timed rhythm, meaning the beat of a sentence follows the stressed words. The unstressed words become shorter or quicker to keep the natural beat.

Example:

- People must eat healthy food to stay strong.

Stressed words: People, eat, healthy food, stay strong

Unstressed words: must, to

When spoken naturally, the rhythm sounds like a regular beat:

PEO-ple must EAT HEALTH-y FOOD to STAY STRONG

Exercises

1. In pairs, read the following sentences. Underline the words that should be stressed
 - a) Maria must eat fruits every day.
 - b) A balanced diet keeps people healthy.
 - c) We should drink clean water to stay strong.
 - d) Vegetables are sold in the market.
 - e) You will be given advice by the doctor.
2. Place a slash (/) before each stressed word in the sentences

Example: / Students must / eat / healthy food.

- a) Doctors give advice to patients.
- b) They want to improve their eating habits.
- c) Junk food can cause health problems.
- d) We should choose fresh vegetables.
- e) The meal will be prepared for the children.

Application Activity

Activity 3.8.2

Reading aloud with emphasis

Work in groups of three. Each learner chooses one of the following complex sentences:

- Although the teacher was tired, she continued explaining the lesson patiently.
 - Because the road was flooded, the bus arrived late at the station.
 - If you study regularly, you will understand the topic more clearly.
1. Practise reading your sentence aloud.
 - Stress the important words (verbs, nouns, adjectives).
 - Keep a steady rhythm so the sentence flows naturally.
 - Pause correctly at commas and conjunctions.
 2. Present your sentence to the group. The other members will listen and give feedback on:
 - Clear stress on key words.
 - Smooth rhythm and flow.
 - Correct pauses.
 3. Rotate until each learner has practised and received feedback.

3.9. END OF UNIT ASSESSMENT

SECTION A:

Reading Comprehension & Literature

Read the passage below and answer the questions.

Text: Healthy Choices for a Happy Life

Buzima always loved sugary snacks. Every day, he bought donuts and sugary drinks on his way to school. Soon, he began feeling tired in class and could not concentrate. His teacher advised him to eat healthier meals and drink more water. Buzima decided to make a change. He started carrying fruits to school, and his parents prepared vegetables and beans for dinner. After a few weeks, Buzima felt stronger and more active. He realized that choosing healthy food helps the body and mind work better.

A. Literal Questions

1. What kinds of snacks did Buzima usually eat on his way to school?
2. Why did Buzima begin feeling tired and unable to concentrate in class?
3. What changes did Buzima make to his diet after the teacher's advice?

B. Text Analysis and Interpretation Questions

1. How did Buzima's new eating habits affect his body and mind?
2. Why do you think the teacher advised Buzima to eat healthier meals and drink more water?
3. Which character traits can you identify in Buzima based on his actions in the story?
4. What is the main lesson or theme of this story?
5. Why is it important for someone to make gradual changes in their eating habits rather than changing everything at once?
6. Can you identify any unhealthy eating habits in your own daily routine similar to Buzima's? How do they affect you?
7. What healthy choices can you make at school or home to improve your concentration and energy, like Buzima did?

C. Literature: Character and Conflict

- a) Identify Buzima's character traits shown in the story. Give two.
- b) What internal struggle did Buzima face?
- c) How does Buzima's decision resolve the conflict?
- d) What lesson can readers learn from Buzima's actions?

SECTION B: Grammar and Vocabulary

A. Passive Voice with Modals

Rewrite the sentences in the passive form.

1. People should eat fruits every day.
2. They must avoid too much sugar.
3. You can prepare vegetables easily.
4. People ought to drink clean water.
5. We should include proteins in our meals.
6. They must not sell junk food at school.

B. Vocabulary: Diet & Health

Fill in the blanks with the correct term

(Proteins, Fats, Carbohydrates, Nutrients, Calories, Portion, Healthy food, Unhealthy food)

1. _____ help build and repair body tissues.
2. Bread and rice are examples of _____.
3. Chips and soda are examples of _____.
4. The amount of food served at one time is called a _____.

5. Fruits and vegetables are considered _____.
6. Nutrients that give energy and keep the body warm are _____.
7. Our bodies get _____ from the food we eat.
8. Useful substances in food that the body needs to stay healthy are _____.

C. Stress and Rhythm

Underline the three content words that should be stressed:

1. Children must drink water.
2. Vegetables are good for health.

SECTION C: Composition and Functional Writing

Answer one of the following writing tasks:

Choice A: Paragraph Writing

Write a descriptive paragraph (8–10 sentences) about your eating habits. Include:

- Meals you eat daily
- Healthy and unhealthy items
- At least one passive voice sentence with a modal
- A personal goal to improve your diet

Choice B: Functional Writing – A Health Reminder Poster

Design a simple poster encouraging students to eat a balanced diet. Include:

- A title
- 3–4 short advice statements in passive voice with modals

Example topics: water, vegetables, exercise, junk food

Choice C: Functional Writing: Letter or Email

Imagine your friend complains about feeling tired and weak at school. Write a short letter or email giving advice about eating a balanced diet. Use:

- At least 3 vocabulary words related to diet
- 2 sentences in passive voice with modals
- 1 sentence explaining consequences of poor diet

UNIT 4:

HUMAN RIGHTS

Key unit competence:

Communicate effectively in both speaking and writing about human rights and child protection, while showing positive attitudes and responsible behaviour towards respecting and protecting human rights

Learning objectives

By the end of this unit, you will be able to:

Knowledge and Understanding

- Understand key concepts in human rights and child protection, including vocabulary, main ideas in speeches, and elements of informative and narrative texts.
- Explain essential language and drama features, such as reported speech, stage directions, and how prefixes and suffixes influence pronunciation.

Skills

- Analyse and communicate information effectively, including reading and summarising speeches, delivering informative presentations, writing narratives, and reporting statements accurately.
- Apply performance and pronunciation skills, such as interpreting stage directions in drama and pronouncing words with common prefixes and suffixes in connected speech.

Attitudes & Values

- Respect and uphold human rights, valuing the dignity of every person—especially children—and participating in actions that protect these rights.
- Demonstrate honesty, fairness, and responsibility, including accuracy when reporting others' words and commitment to promoting justice in the community.

Introduction

Human rights are the basic rights and freedoms that belong to every person, regardless of age, gender, nationality, or social status. These rights ensure that everyone can live with dignity, freedom, and equality. Children, in particular, have specific rights that protect their well-being, safety, education, and development. Understanding human rights helps individuals recognise injustice, respect others, and contribute to a fair and safe community.

Introductory activity

Read the paragraph below and in pairs, discuss the 3 questions given below:

Rights around me

Every child has the right to safety, education, and freedom from harm. Imagine a school where every student feels safe, is treated fairly, and can express opinions without fear. Respecting human rights helps communities grow stronger and protects children from neglect, bullying, and exploitation.

Questions for Reflection

1. Can you think of examples in your school or community where children's rights are respected?
2. What could happen if children's rights are ignored or violated?
3. Why do you think it is important to know your rights and the rights of others?

4.1. Human Rights and Child protection

Reading: A speech on children's rights and protection

Learning activities

Activity 4.1.1

1. Work in pairs. Discuss the questions:
 - a) Who is responsible for protecting children in society?
 - b) What problems do some children face in schools or communities?
 - c) Why do you think children's rights are important?
2. Read the speech to understand: children's rights, the challenges children face, how society can protect children. Then answer the questions that follow

Title: Protecting children for a better tomorrow

Good morning, esteemed Head Teacher, Deputy Head Teacher, teachers, parents, and my fellow students. I am very grateful for this opportunity to speak to you today. I hope that by sharing my thoughts, we can all better understand the importance of children's rights and how we can work together to protect them.

First of all, every child has the right to grow up in a safe and supportive environment. This includes access to education, nutritious food, clean water, healthcare, and protection from all forms of harm.

Sadly, many children around the world still face serious violations of their rights, such as neglect, bullying, violence, exploitation, and child labour, which prevent them from going to school and enjoying their childhood.

Even more worrying are extreme abuses such as recruiting children into armed groups and sexual abuse. Recruitment and use of children by armed forces or armed groups exposes them to serious injuries, trauma, sexual abuse and loss of life; and it is strictly forbidden by international and domestic laws. Recruitment and use of children by the armed forces or armed groups and Sexual abuse are among the six grave violations of children's rights in situations of armed conflict or armed violence as described by the United Nations Security Council resolutions 1612 (2005) and 1882 (2009)¹. These violations cause long-lasting physical, psychological and emotional harm. Although the six grave violations are primarily identified in situations of armed conflict or armed violence, preventive measures must be implemented during times of peace to safeguard children's rights and sustain peace. In Rwanda, such crimes are taken very seriously, and the law imposes heavy punishments for offenders, including long prison sentences, to protect children and discourage these acts.

Moreover, protecting children's rights is not only the responsibility of parents or teachers; it is a responsibility we all share. If we notice a child being abused, exploited, or bullied, we should report it to a trusted adult or relevant authorities. Schools must enforce strong child protection and safeguarding policies, and communities must work together to ensure that every child is safe.

In addition, protecting children's rights helps build a healthier, peaceful and more responsible society. When children feel safe, respected, and valued, they can focus on learning, developing their talents, and contributing positively to their communities. Protecting children today means preparing strong, resilient and responsible citizens for tomorrow.

In conclusion, children are not only the leaders of tomorrow; they are important members of society today. By respecting their rights and protecting them from abuse, exploitation, and violence, we create a better future for our nation. I encourage all of us—students, teachers, parents, and community members—to stand together in protecting children's rights. Together, we can make our schools and communities safe and nurturing for every child.

Thank you.

Comprehension questions

A. Literal Understanding

1. Who is the speaker addressing in the speech?
2. According to the speech, what are some challenges children may face?
3. What is one of the main purposes of the speech?

B. Text analysis and Interpretation

1. Why does the speaker say protecting children's rights is everyone's responsibility?

2. What effect does promoting children's well-being have on society, according to the speech?
3. How does the speaker use examples in the speech?
4. What message does the conclusion of the speech convey?
5. What is the role of transitional words in this speech?
6. What can students do if they notice a classmate being bullied?
7. How does understanding children's rights help students in their own lives?

Application activity

Activity 4.1.2

Poster Creation

1. Work in groups of three. Design a poster with the title "Protecting Children's Rights".
2. Your poster should include:
 - At least three rights children should enjoy (e.g., education, safety, play).
 - At least two challenges children face in schools or communities.
 - One slogan encouraging action (e.g., "Safe children, strong future!").
3. Display your poster in class and explain its message to your classmates.

4.2 Vocabulary: Rights words

Learning activity

Activity 4.2.1

1. Read the speech in activity 4.1.1 again. Underline the words in the box below and guess their meaning.
2. Match the words in the box to their definitions:

Freedom, safety, well-being, neglect, bullying, exploitation, violence, harassment, child labour

- a) _____ : The state of being protected from harm or danger.
- b) _____ : Mistreatment or lack of care for someone who depends on others.

- c) _____ : Physical or emotional harm inflicted on someone.
- d) _____ : Work done by children that is harmful to their health or development.
- e) _____ : Treating someone unfairly or threatening them repeatedly.
- f) _____ : Taking advantage of someone in a harmful or unfair way.
- g) _____ : The overall health, happiness, and comfort of a person.
- h) _____ : The ability to act, speak, or think freely.
- i) _____ : Unwanted behaviour that makes someone feel unsafe or uncomfortable.

3. Complete the paragraph using words from the word box above. Each word can be used only once.

Every child has the right to (1) _____ and (2) _____, which means they should be protected from harm and able to make choices freely. Promoting the (3) _____ of children is important for their physical and emotional health. Unfortunately, some children face (4) _____, where they are not cared for properly, or (5) _____, where others intentionally hurt or threaten them. Others are victims of (6) _____, performing work that is harmful and prevents them from going to school. Acts of (7) _____ and (8) _____ in schools or communities must be stopped immediately. Protecting children from all forms of (9) _____ is the responsibility of everyone in society.

Application Activity

Activity 4.2.2

Group Discussion: Protecting children's rights

1. Work in groups of four. Choose one of the words from the box (freedom, safety, well-being, neglect, bullying, exploitation, violence, harassment, child labour).

As a group, discuss:

- What the word means in your own words.
- One real-life example of this word in schools or communities.
- One solution or action that can protect children's rights related to this word.

2. Each group presents their word, example, and solution to the class.

4.3. Listening: A speech on human rights

Learning activities

Activity 4.3.1

Pre-listening

1. Work in pairs. Discuss the questions below orally:
 - a) What do you understand by the term human rights?
 - b) Can you name some rights that belong to everyone?
 - c) Why is it important to protect human rights in your school or community?
2. Listen carefully as your teacher reads the speech twice and take notes on: what human rights are, who is responsible for protecting them, how respecting human rights benefits society then answer the questions that follow:

Speech: Respecting human rights for a better society

Good morning, respected teachers, parents, and my fellow students. I am grateful for this opportunity to speak to you today about human rights and why they matter to everyone.

Human rights are the basic rights and freedoms that belong to every person, regardless of age, gender, location, nationality, or religion. These include the right to education, health care, freedom of speech, and protection from harm. Unfortunately, many people, especially children and vulnerable groups around the world, still face discrimination, neglect, or abuse.

Protecting human rights is not only the responsibility of governments but of every one of us. For example, if we see someone being treated unfairly, we should speak up or support them. Schools and communities can create safe spaces where everyone feels valued and respected.

When human rights are respected, society becomes stronger, fairer, and more peaceful. Every action we take to defend these rights contributes to preventing potential conflict and building a better future for ourselves and others.

In conclusion, let us remember that human rights are for everyone, everywhere. By respecting and protecting these rights, we create a society where all individuals can live safely, freely, and with dignity. Thank you.

Listening comprehension questions ?

1. What are some basic human rights mentioned in the speech?
2. Who does the speaker say is responsible for protecting human rights?

3. Give one example of a situation where human rights might be violated.
4. Why does the speaker say that protecting human rights is everyone's responsibility?
5. How does respecting human rights benefit society?
6. What is the speaker's main message to students, teachers, and parents?

Application activity

Activity 4.3.2

In pairs, Summarise the speech in no more than 50 words. Compare your answers with another pair. Identify the introduction, body, conclusion.

4.4. Speaking: Informative Speech

Activity 4.4.1

- A. In pairs, read the listening text above and try to identify the parts of a speech and confirm whether it is informing about a fact or describing it. Share your ideas with another pair or with the class.
- B. Read the notes in the box below to learn more about informative speech then answer the questions that follow

Definition:

An informative speech is a type of oral presentation where the speaker aims to inform, explain, or educate the audience about a particular topic in a clear and organised way. The goal is to increase the audience's understanding and awareness, not to persuade or entertain.

Key features of an informative speech:

1. Clear Topic:
2. Introduction:
 - Greet the audience (students, teachers, parents, school leaders).
 - Briefly introduce the topic.
 - State why the topic is important.
3. Body:
 - Present 2–3 main points or ideas about the topic.
 - Use examples, statistics, or real-life situations to support your points.
 - Include transitional words to connect ideas (firstly, additionally, for example, in conclusion).

4. Conclusion:

- Summarize the key points.
- Highlight the importance of protecting human rights.
- Encourage action or awareness among listeners.

Language

- Use polite, inclusive, and respectful language to engage the audience.

Exercise

True or False: Informative Speech

Read each statement and decide if it is True (T) or False (F).

1. An informative speech is meant to persuade the audience.
2. The introduction of an informative speech should greet the audience and state why the topic is important.
3. The body of the speech should include 2–3 main points supported by examples or statistics.
4. Transitional words like firstly and in conclusion help connect ideas in the speech.
5. The conclusion should only restate the topic without encouraging action.
6. Polite, inclusive, and respectful language should be used in an informative speech.
7. The main goal of an informative speech is to increase the audience's understanding and awareness.

Application activity

Activity 4.4.2

In pairs, choose one human right or child protection issue (e.g., right to education, safety at school).

- Prepare a short informative speech (2–3 minutes) including:
 - The right being discussed
 - Why it is important
 - Examples of how it can be protected
- Present to the class and receive peer and teacher feedback.

4.5. Language structure: Reported Speech: statements

Learning activities

Activity 4.5.1

1. Work in pairs. Look at these direct speech sentences from the speeches:
 - a) 'Every child has the right to grow up in a safe environment,' said the speaker.
 - b) 'Protecting human rights is everyone's responsibility' explained the speaker.
 - c) 'We can create safe spaces in schools and communities,' mentioned the speaker.
2. Discuss and answer:
 - How could you tell someone what the speaker said without quoting exactly?
 - Which words (pronouns, verbs) might need to change?
 - What verbs introduce the statements?

In pairs, read and study the notes in the box below and do the exercises that follow

INDIRECT SPEECH (Reporting Statements)

Definition

Indirect speech (also called reported speech) is used to report what someone else has said without quoting their exact words. It often allows the speaker to summarise or convey the meaning rather than repeating word-for-word.

Key features of indirect speech

1. No Quotation Marks – Unlike direct speech, quotation marks are removed.
2. Pronoun Changes – Pronouns are adjusted according to the speaker and listener:
 - Direct: 'You have the right to grow up in a safe environment,' the speaker told us.
 - Indirect: The speaker told us that we have the right to grow up in a safe environment.

3. Tense Changes – Verb tenses often shift when the reporting verb is in the past:

Direct Speech	Indirect Speech
Present simple	Past simple
Present continuous	Past continuous
Present perfect	Past perfect
Past simple	Past perfect
Past continuous	Past perfect continuous
Will	Would
Can	Could

4. Reporting Verbs – Statements are usually introduced with common verbs that include: said, told, explained, advised, warned, informed, mentioned, suggested, claimed.
5. Optional “that” – In indirect statements, “that” is often used to introduce the reported clause, but it is sometimes omitted:
6. She said that every child has a right to a name
7. She said every child has right to name.

Exercise 1

Multiple Choice: Indirect Speech

- Which of the following is NOT a feature of indirect speech?
 - No quotation marks are used.
 - Pronouns may change.
 - Tenses may shift.
 - Quotation marks must always be included.
- Choose the correct indirect speech form of this sentence:

Direct: “I am studying English,” said Mary.

- Mary said she is studying English.
- Mary said that she was studying English.
- Mary said that I was studying English.
- Mary said she studying English.

Direct: "I am studying English," said Mary.

- a) Mary said she is studying English.
 - b) Mary said that she was studying English.
 - c) Mary said that I was studying English.
 - d) Mary said she studying English.
3. Which verb can be used in indirect speech as a reporting verb?
- a) danced
 - b) explained
 - c) jumped
 - d) painted
4. Which tense change is correct when reporting in the past?
5. Direct: "We will visit the park tomorrow."
- a) They said they will visit the park the next day.
 - b) They said they would visit the park the next day.
 - c) They said they visited the park the next day.
 - d) They said they are visiting the park the next day.
6. In indirect speech, the word "that" is...
- a) Always required.
 - b) Never allowed.
 - c) Optional — it can be used or omitted.
 - d) Used only in questions.

Exercise2

Sentence Transformation

- In pairs, rewrite the following statements in indirect (reported) speech.
 - Compare and discuss your answers with another pair before sharing with the class.
1. "Every child has the right to education," said the teacher.
 2. "You must respect other people's rights," advised the school prefect.
 3. "We will protect children from bullying," said the head teacher.
 4. "I am not going to remain silent when I see injustice," said Anna.
 5. "Clean environments help protect people's health and dignity," explained the community leader.

Application activities

Activity 4.5.2

Short dialogue report

- In groups, write a short conversation (4–6 lines) using direct speech about human rights. You can discuss topics such as children's rights, protection from abuse, freedom of expression, or safety at school.
- After writing the dialogue, rewrite it in reported speech.
- Present either the direct or reported speech version to the class. The rest of the class should listen carefully and identify the differences between the two forms.

Activity 4.5.3

Human Rights News Report

1. Work in pairs. One student is the news reporter, the other is the witness.
2. The witness receives a card (or the teacher gives orally) with a short direct speech line about a human rights situation, for example:
 - "I saw a child being bullied in the playground."
 - "Students were allowed to vote for the class leader."
3. The witness reads the line aloud in direct speech.
4. The reporter immediately retells it to the "audience" in indirect speech, for example:
 - The witness said that he had seen a child being bullied in the playground.
5. Switch roles and repeat with new human rights-related lines.

4.6. Writing: Narrative Composition

Learning activities

Activity 4.6.1

1. Work in pairs or small groups.
2. Read the following short example story:

Sugira was excited to join her new school. On her first day, she saw a group of children laughing at a classmate. She remembered what her teacher had said: 'She remembered that her teacher had told her always to stand up for others.' Sugira approached and invited the child to join her group. By the end of the day, everyone was playing together happily.

3. Answer these questions together:
 - a) Who are the characters in this story?
 - b) Where and when does the story take place? (Identify the setting)
 - c) What problem or conflict occurs in the story?
 - d) How is the problem solved?
 - e) Can you find an example of indirect speech in the story?
4. Discuss as a group:
 - What makes this story interesting?
 - How do the connectors (first, then, by the end of the day) help the story flow?
 - Why is it important for the ending to show learning, change, or justice?

Read the notes in the box below to learn more about narrative composition

What is a Narrative Composition?

A narrative composition is a piece of writing that tells a story. It has characters, a clear setting, and a sequence of events that show a problem and how it is solved.

A good narrative should include:

1. Characters

People involved in the story (e.g., a child, teacher, parent, doctor).

2. Setting

Where and when the story takes place (e.g., school, home, playground).

3. Plot

A sequence of events with:

- A beginning that introduces the situation
- A middle showing a challenge or conflict (e.g., bullying, neglect)
- An ending where the conflict is resolved

To write a narrative composition:

- Use descriptive language to show emotions and actions.
- Use connectors (first, then, suddenly, finally).
- Use indirect speech where necessary when characters report what others said.
- Ensure the ending shows learning, change, or justice.

Exercise1

Plot Sequencing Challenge

Below are jumbled events of a narrative. Rearrange them into a logical sequence with beginning, middle, and ending:

- The teacher praised her for being honest
- Mahoro found money on the playground
- She returned the money to the office
- She felt worried about what to do

Application Activity

Activity 4.6.2

Write a story of 120–150 words showing how a child's rights are protected or respected in a real-life situation.

Include the following:

- A child facing a challenge related to their rights
- At least one form of human rights protection (ex: reporting bullying, preventing child labour)
- Indirect speech for at least two sentences
- A positive and meaningful ending

4.7. Literature: Stage and Stage Directions

Learning activities

Activity 4.7.1

In small groups, read the following excerpt from a short play about safety at school. Answer the questions that follow

Short Play: A voice to protect

Characters:

Justine: a student who values children's rights

Teacher Grace: supportive teacher

Eric: a classmate who is being bullied

Scene: School playground during break time.

[Justine is writing in her notebook. Eric enters quietly, holding his arm in pain.]

Justine: (looking up) Eric, you look upset. What happened?

Eric: Some boys pushed me and took my lunch money again. (He looks down sadly.)

[Justine stands and moves closer to Eric.]

Justine: That's bullying. You have the right to safety at school. Let's tell Teacher Grace.

Eric: I'm scared they will laugh at me again.

[Teacher Grace enters, smiling but notices Eric's worried face.]

Teacher Grace: Hello, you two. Is everything alright?

Justine: (firmly) Teacher, Eric is not safe. Some boys are hurting him and stealing his school materials

Teacher Grace: (kneels to Eric's level) Thank you for telling me. Eric, bullying is not allowed. We must protect you. I will talk to those students and inform the school leaders immediately.

Eric: (relieved) Thank you, Teacher.

[Eric and Justine stand together smiling. The teacher stands protectively beside them.]

Teacher Grace: No child should suffer in silence. Your rights matter.

[Lights fade.]

Questions

1. What emotion does Eric show when speaking about the bullying?
2. Identify one stage direction that shows movement (instructions in brackets).
3. How does Teacher Grace show care for Eric in the play?
4. What is the main message (theme) of this short play?
5. How do stage directions help actors perform the play better?
6. Discuss: How do these directions help an actor understand how to play the character?

What is a Stage?

A stage is the area where actors perform in a play. It may include different spaces such as the front (downstage), back (upstage), left, and right.

What are Stage Directions?

Stage directions are instructions written in a script to guide actors on:

- Movement (enter, exit, sit, walk)
- Actions (laughing, crying, pointing)
- Facial expressions and gestures (smiling, frowning)
- Tone of voice (shouting, whispering)
- Lighting and sound effects (dark, loud music)

Stage directions are usually written in brackets or italics.

Example: (Maria walks slowly to the front of the stage, looking worried.)

Exercises

1. Decide whether each statement is true (T) or false (F).
 - a) A stage is only the front area where actors perform.
 - b) Stage directions can include instructions about lighting and sound.
 - c) Stage directions are usually written in brackets or italics.
 - d) "Downstage" means the back of the stage.
 - e) Facial expressions like smiling or frowning can be part of stage directions.
6. Work in pairs. One student reads the stage direction aloud, the other performs it.

Examples:

- (The actor enters from the left, smiling.)
- (She sits down and whispers to her friend.)
- (He points angrily and shouts.)
- Switch roles and repeat with new directions.

Application activity

Activity 4.7.2

1. In groups of 3 or 4, re-read the short play.
2. Assign roles: Justine, Eric, Teacher Grace, and (if needed) a narrator.
3. Follow all stage directions carefully during performance:
 - Movements (entering, standing, walking)
 - Facial expressions (sad, worried, smiling)
 - Tone of voice (firmly, sadly)
4. Present your short performance to the class.
5. Discuss how stage directions helped make the performance realistic.

4.8. SOUNDS AND SPELLING

Learning activities

Activity 4.8.1

1. Work in pairs to form the words from the roots in brackets (happy, protect, electric, fair, real)
2. In pairs, discuss three short prompts:
 - Which words begin with an extra part at the front
 - Which words end with an extra part at the end
 - Underline the part of each word that changes its meaning or form.
 - Which part of the word seems to carry the strongest stress (Say the words aloud to notice stress)
3. Read the notes in the table below to learn more. Do the activities that follow

Prefixes and Suffixes

Prefixes and suffixes are added to root words to change their meaning or word form.

1. Prefix: un-
 - Meaning: not, opposite of
 - Function: makes a word negative
 - Stress and Pronunciation:
 - The prefix un- is usually unstressed.
 - Stress stays on the root word.

Examples (stress marked in capital letters):

- unhappy → un-HAP-py
- unsafe → un-SAFE
- unfair → un-FAIR

2. Suffix: -tion
 - Common in nouns formed from verbs.
 - Pronounced as /ʃən/ .
 - The stress usually moves to the syllable before the suffix.

Examples:

- protect → proTEction /prə'tekʃən/
- celebrate → celeBRation /,selə'breɪʃən/

3. Suffix: -ity

- Forms nouns from adjectives.
- Pronounced as /ɪti/ or /ə'tɪti/
- Stress usually goes two syllables before the suffix.

Examples:

- reSPONsible → responsiBility
- NATural → natuRALity
- eLECtric → electRicity

Exercises

1. Say each word aloud and underline the stressed syllable:
a. unkind b. communication c. humanity d. uncomfortable
e. security
2. Decide whether each statement is true (T) or false (F)
a) The prefix un- usually changes a word into its opposite meaning.
b) In words with un-, the stress moves to the prefix.
c) The suffix -tion is commonly used to form nouns from verbs.
d) The suffix -ity is pronounced /jən/.
e) Stress in words ending with -ity usually falls two syllables before the suffix.
3. Add un-, -tion, or -ity to the root words to form new words and pronounce them correctly:
a. Necessary: _____
b. Locate: _____
c. Original: _____

Application activities

Activity 4.8.2

Fill in the blanks with the correct form of the word in brackets:

1. It is _____ (fair) to treat students differently.
2. The government must ensure the _____ (protect) of children's rights.
3. She showed great _____ (responsible) when caring for her younger brother.
4. The party was full of joy and _____ (celebrate).
5. Clean water is important for our _____ (safe).

Activity 4.8.3

- Choose 3 words with these prefixes or suffixes.
- Use them in short sentences and read them to your partner with correct stress.

4.9. END OF UNIT ASSESSMENT

4.9.1 Assessment questions

PART A:

Reading Comprehension (30 Marks)

Text: Children's Voices Matter

Good morning, respected Head Teacher, Deputy Head Teacher, teachers, parents, and fellow students. I am glad to stand before you to speak about the importance of respecting and protecting children's rights.

Children deserve to grow in environments where they are safe, valued, and free from harm. Sadly, some face neglect, bullying, child labour, or other forms of exploitation. Schools, families, and communities must ensure that children can exercise their rights without fear.

For instance, if a student is bullied, classmates should report it to teachers. School leaders must enforce policies to prevent harassment and protect everyone. Communities should provide support programmes for vulnerable children, including those who cannot access education or healthcare.

By protecting children's rights, we nurture responsible and confident citizens who contribute positively to society. Let us all take action to ensure every child enjoys their right to safety, freedom, and well-being. Every small step we take today makes a big difference in shaping a better future.

Circle the letter corresponding to the right choice

A. Literal Understanding

1. Who is the intended audience of the speech?
 - A. Students only
 - B. Parents, teachers, school leaders, and students
 - C. Government officials
 - D. NGOs only
2. According to the speech, what should classmates do if they notice bullying?
 - A. Ignore it
 - B. Report it to teachers
 - C. Join the bullying
 - D. Leave school
3. Which of the following is NOT mentioned as a challenge children face?
 - A. Neglect
 - B. Child labour
 - C. Lack of sleep
 - D. Bullying

B. Analysis and Interpretation – Multiple Choice

4. Why is protecting children's rights considered a shared responsibility?
 - A. Only teachers can help children
 - B. Everyone, including peers and community members, contributes to a safe environment
 - C. Children should solve their own problems
 - D. Parents are the only ones responsible
5. How does protecting children's rights help society?
 - A. It increases school fees
 - B. It encourages children to be confident and responsible citizens
 - C. It allows adults to ignore laws
 - D. It makes communities competitive
6. Which example demonstrates preventive action against child exploitation?
 - A. Ignoring students' complaints
 - B. Communities providing support programs
 - C. Punishing children
 - D. Only giving awards to top students
7. What is the main idea conveyed in the conclusion?
 - A. Children should be independent
 - B. Everyone must contribute to children's safety, freedom, and well-being
 - C. Adults must control children
 - D. Schools are the only place children are safe

8. What is the role of transitional phrases in this speech?
 - A. To confuse the audience
 - B. To guide listeners through points clearly and logically
 - C. To make the speech longer
 - D. To highlight the speaker's emotions
9. How can understanding children's rights help students at school?
 - A. By encouraging them to respect classmates and report harmful behaviour
 - B. By giving them the freedom to do anything they want
 - C. By allowing them to skip classes
 - D. By avoiding teachers
10. Which action reflects responsible behaviour towards protecting children in the community?
 - A. Watching someone being bullied silently
 - B. Joining others in teasing a student
 - C. Reporting harassment to a responsible adult
 - D. Ignoring school rules

PART B:

Vocabulary – Human Rights

1. Match words to definitions (new words included)

Word Box: inclusion, dignity, protection, empowerment, justice, harassment, neglect, discrimination, well-being, advocacy

- a) _____ : Treating everyone fairly and equally
- b) _____ : Acting to defend or support a right
- c) _____ : The state of being valued and respected
- d) _____ : Mistreatment or failure to provide necessary care
- e) _____ : The overall health, safety, and happiness of a person
- f) _____ : Giving power, confidence, or authority to someone
- g) _____ : Ensuring safety from harm
- h) _____ : Unfair treatment based on differences (e.g., gender, race)
- i) _____ : Repeated unwanted behaviour that causes distress
- j) _____ : The act of including everyone in opportunities and rights

2. Paragraph Fill-in-the-Gaps

Complete using words from the box above (each word used once):

All children deserve (1) _____ in schools and communities, where their (2) _____ is respected. Providing (3) _____ ensures they are free from harm, while (4) _____ empowers them to voice their concerns. Acts of (5) _____ or (6) _____ must be addressed immediately. Promoting (7) _____ and (8) _____ helps create a fair and safe environment. Adults should prevent (9) _____ neglect and engage in (10) _____ advocacy to protect children's rights.

PART C:

Grammar – Indirect Speech

1. Transform the following statements into indirect speech

1. "I will help my friend report bullying," said Amina.
2. "Children must not be forced to work," explained the teacher.
3. "We should celebrate diversity in our school," said the principal.
4. "I am worried about my classmate's safety," said John.
5. "Volunteers can assist vulnerable children in our community," informed the coordinator.

2. Rewrite the following conversation in indirect speech:

- Lara: "We have a right to clean drinking water at school."
- Mike: "Some students are not drinking enough water every day."
- Lara: "We should report this to the school management."

PART D:

Writing – Narrative Composition

Write a story of 120–150 words about a child whose rights are protected or respected.

PART E:

Literature – Stage and Stage Directions

Read the short play below and answer the questions that follow

[David stands by his locker looking upset. Samira approaches.]

Samira: (concerned) David, are you okay?

David: (hesitant) Some students are teasing me because I am new.

Samira: (firmly) That's not right. Let's go report it to the teacher.

[They walk together. Teacher enters.]

Teacher: Hello! Is there a problem?

Samira: (explaining) David is being harassed by some students.

Teacher: Thank you for telling me. We will handle it immediately. Everyone has the right to live free from harassment.

Questions

1. Identify two stage directions and explain their purpose.
2. How does the play show protection of students' rights?
3. What emotions are conveyed by David and Samira?
4. Why is the teacher's response important?
5. Discuss how an actor could use tone of voice to show concern.

PART F:

Sounds and Spelling

A. Pronounce the following words with correct stress. Identify the prefix or suffix:

1. Uncontrollable
2. Protection
3. Responsibility
4. Unemployment
5. Inclusion

B. Use each word in a short sentence while pronouncing the stressed syllable correctly.

PART G:

Listening and Speaking

Listening: Teacher reads a new speech about children's rights in the community. Students take notes and answer:

- List two examples of rights being protected
- Mention one action to prevent child labour

Speaking:

- In pairs, prepare a 2–3 minute informative speech on one human right or child protection issue.
- Present to the class and receive peer/teacher feedback.

UNIT 5:

RELIGION, CULTURE AND ARTS

Key unit competence:

Communicate effectively in both speaking and writing about traditional beliefs, tools, and cultural practices, while demonstrating respect for cultural heritage and traditional ways of life

Learning objectives

By the end of this unit, you will be able to:

Knowledge and Understanding

- Explore traditional beliefs and cultural practices in Rwanda, including common tools, their functions, and key ideas from stories about traditional life.
- Recognise and use language structures such as reported speech, connectors of time, and features of connected speech and elision for accurate communication.

Skills

- Read, listen, and communicate effectively by summarising texts, describing traditional tools, writing descriptive paragraphs, and reporting others' words accurately.
- Apply speaking and pronunciation skills by using connectors of time, interpreting information about traditions, and pronouncing words clearly in connected speech.

Attitudes & Values

- Appreciate and respect Rwandan cultural heritage, showing value for traditional practices and ways of life.
- Develop pride in Rwandan identity and demonstrate positive attitudes toward preserving culture for future generations.

Introduction

Traditional beliefs, cultural practices, and tools form an essential part of Rwandan identity. These include beliefs in ancestral spirits, rituals, music, arts, and crafts that have been passed down for generations. Traditional tools such as hoes, pestles, mortars, spears, drums, and baskets were vital in daily life for farming, cooking, hunting, and ceremonies. Understanding these practices helps learners appreciate Rwandan heritage, respect cultural diversity, and communicate effectively about culture and arts.

Introductory activity

Read the short paragraph below, then discuss the questions.

Life in Traditional Rwanda

"Long ago, Rwandan families lived close to nature. They cultivated their fields with hoes, prepared meals using mortars and pestles or grinding stones to prepare flour, and celebrated important events with drums and dances. Elders shared stories about the spirits and customs of their ancestors, teaching younger generations how to live responsibly and respectfully in the community."

Questions for Reflection:

1. Which traditional tools do you recognise in the paragraph?
2. How did families in traditional Rwanda learn about their customs?
3. Why do you think respecting traditional beliefs and tools is important today?

5.1. Reading and Comprehension

Learning activities

Activity 5.1.1

Pre-reading

1. What types of activities do you think Rwandan families might do together in the evening?
2. Can you name some tools or instruments used in traditional farming or music in your community?
3. Why do you think music and dance are important in celebrations or important events?

Activity 5.1.2

Reading text

Read the text below to learn more about 'Life in traditional Rwanda' then answer the questions that follow:

Life in traditional Rwanda

Traditionally, family members gathered together in the evening. They danced, sang, and proudly spoke about what they had accomplished during the day.

Some elders explained that in traditional Rwandan communities, children often helped with household tasks, such as carrying water in a pot or bringing crops in a basket, while adults used tools like hoes to work in the fields.

Special troupes of dancers, called Intore, performed at the royal court to cheer up the king. One elder explained that these dancers were chosen for their strength, skill, and good character. He added that during their training, they were taught not only to dance but also to follow moral values, such as patience and humility. He said, "Always respect your elders while practicing, and do not boast while performing."

All events in Rwanda are enhanced with traditional songs and dances. Weddings, birth celebrations, traditional baptisms, anniversaries, the launching of new projects, political events, and the welcoming of important visitors are all accompanied by music and dance. The elder told us that Rwandan music is unique because of its 5/8 rhythm, and he explained that while the dancers perform, members of the chorus clap their hands to give rhythm and to cheer, encourage, and support them.

Rwandan dance has different categories: War dance (Intore): Performed to encourage warriors or hunters. Dancers are trained in both physical skills and moral conduct. They sometimes hold a spear, bow, or arrow during performances. Farmer's dance: Symbolizes strength and stamina, especially for cattle farmers, and is used to celebrate the harvest. Farmers often use tools like hoes, baskets, grinding stones, mortars, and pestles in daily work. Soft dance: A gentle form of dance used mainly to entertain spectators.

Rwandan instruments are made from materials available locally, making the music distinctive. There is a traditional string instrument, the Inanga, which has 9 or 12 strings made from cowhide. Drums, called ingoma, also have drumheads made of cowhide. Another instrument is a single-string instrument called Umuduli, and there is also the Rwandan horn, Amakondera. One elder told us, "Always treat your instruments carefully, since they are gifts of our ancestors and carry our history."

He added that after children learn to play instruments like the drum or Umuduli, they can perform at ceremonies, festivals, and community gatherings. He reminded us that since music and dance are part of our heritage, they should be respected and passed on to future generations.

Comprehension questions

1. What does the word "troupes" mean in the sentence:

"Special troupes of dancers, called Intore, performed at the royal court to cheer up the king."

- A. Groups of people trained to perform together
- B. Types of traditional instruments
- C. Royal families in Rwanda
- D. Special events or festivals

2. In the passage, the elder says:

"Always respect your elders while practicing, and do not boast while performing."

What does the expression "do not boast while performing" mean?

- A. Do not practice too much
- B. Do not show off or act arrogantly while dancing
- C. Do not dance in front of strangers
- D. Do not forget the steps of the dance

3. The text says that Rwandan music is "unique because of its 5/8 rhythm."

What does "unique" mean here, and why is the 5/8 rhythm important?

- A. Ordinary; it is similar to other African music
- B. Rare or special; the 5/8 rhythm makes Rwandan music different from other African music
- C. Simple; the rhythm is easy to follow
- D. Loud; the 5/8 rhythm makes the music very noisy

4. Which sentence uses a connector of time correctly from the passage?

- A. After children learn to play instruments, they can perform at festivals
- B. Children play instruments before they have learned them
- C. While the dancers perform, the instruments are not used
- D. Since the evening starts, children stop learning

5. What does the elder mean when he says:

"He reminded us that since music and dance are part of our heritage, they should be respected and passed on to future generations."

- A. Music and dance are not important today
- B. Music and dance are part of Rwandan culture and should be preserved
- C. Music and dance should only be performed for the king
- D. Music and dance are only for children

6. Why do you think elders emphasize respect, patience, and humility when teaching dance or music?

7. How do music and dance in Rwanda connect daily life, work, and celebrations?

8. If you were to organise a cultural event, which aspects of Rwandan music and dance would you include, and why?

Application activity

Activity 5.1.3

- In groups, prepare a short oral summary of the passage.
- Highlight one cultural practice that is still relevant today and explain why.

5.2. Vocabulary

Learning activities

Activity 5.2.1

Use the tools below to fill in the gaps: hoe, mortar, pestle, spear, basket, drum, pot, bow, arrow, grinding stone

During harvest, the (1) _____ was used to carry crops, while food was prepared using a (2) _____. The (3) _____ and (4) _____ were tools for hunting and teaching courage. Families gathered around the (5) _____ to celebrate and share stories.

Application activity

Activity 5.2.2

In pairs, create a short dialogue where each student describes one traditional tool, explains its use, and mentions its cultural significance.

5.3. Listening: Traditional Beliefs and Practices in Rwanda

Learning activities

Activity 5.3.1

Pre-listening

Before listening to the interview with the elder, skim the list below and tick all the items you think will appear in the interview. Share your predictions with a partner.

- a) Names that show Imana's different roles
- b) Stories about greed, humility, or gratitude
- c) Customs related to childbirth and pregnancy
- d) Ceremonies, dances, and music traditions
- e) The role of ancestors in decision-making
- f) The meaning of traditional names
- g) How people understood destiny and misfortune

Activity 5.3.2

Listening text (interview)

Listen to the teacher read the interview between a student and an elder man. After listening, check which of your predictions were correct.

Interview between a student and an elder about traditional beliefs in Rwanda

Student: Thank you for meeting with me. Before we begin, could you tell me briefly what our ancestors believed about Imana?

Elder: Certainly. Our people have always believed in one Supreme Being called Imana. We say that He rules the whole world, yet when night falls, He returns to Rwanda to rest, because this land is His home.

Student: In my research, I asked several classmates what they had heard, and they told me that the name Imana was believed to have special power. Is that true?

Elder: Yes, they told you correctly. People used to say that the name could bring blessings. We used it when naming children, after offering comfort, or before making a promise. Even today, you will still find names such as Habimana, Habarurema, and Twagirimana.

Student: What about daily life? I asked my teacher why people rarely expected Imana to intervene, and she said that Imana determined a person's destiny at birth.

Elder: That is right. People believed that once Imana set a destiny, it remained until the end of a person's life. While some enjoyed success, others struggled. When someone fell ill or faced debt, people would often say that the person had been created by Ruremankwashi, the name used when Imana assigns a difficult destiny.

Student: Could you share any folktales?

Elder: There are many. One story says that after Imana gave people great gifts, He took them away when they became greedy. As soon as people forgot their gratitude, the gifts disappeared. These stories remind us to remain humble.

Student: Earlier, you mentioned other names of Imana. Could you repeat them?

Elder: Yes. People said that He could also be called Rugira, Rurema, Iyakare, or Rugaba. Each name shows a different aspect of His power and character.

Student: And how did people explain the creation of human beings?

Elder: The stories differ, but they all agree on one point: Imana created everyone. One traditional belief says that when a woman wanted to conceive, she was told to put a few drops of water into a pitcher every night. She was also told not to stop until the pitcher held enough water. People believed that Imana, the Potter, would mix the water with the "clay" of her womb to form a baby.

Student: This is very helpful. Finally, could you tell me what young people today should remember about these beliefs?

Elder: They should remember that our traditions carry wisdom, and they should listen carefully before rejecting them. I always tell young people to ask elders questions and to keep our stories alive, since these beliefs shaped the identity of our community.

Comprehension questions

1. What are the main traditional beliefs about Imana?
2. What lessons do folktales teach about behaviour and morality?
3. How did customs guide family life, such as childbirth or naming children?
4. Which prediction from your pre-listening activity was correct?
5. Prepare a short report using reported speech to share one key lesson you learnt from the interview.

Application activity

Activity 5.3.3

Roleplay: One student acts as an elder, another as a student interviewer. Present a short exchange about traditional beliefs and values.

5.4. Speaking: Describing traditional tools

Learning activities

Activity 5.4.1

Dialogue practice

In pairs, read and act out the following dialogue. Discuss how each tool reflects daily life or ceremonies

Student 1: Good morning! Today I will describe a mortar.

Student 2: Okay, tell me about it.

Student 1: A mortar is used with a pestle to grind grains like maize and sorghum. It is very important in daily life because it helps prepare food for the family. Traditionally, children were taught to use it carefully to respect their elders.

Student 2: That's interesting! I will describe a drum.

Student 1: Yes, tell me.

Student 2: The drum is used in ceremonies, such as traditional dances and celebrations. It produces rhythmic sounds that guide dancers and bring people together. It also teaches children about the importance of music in our culture.

Student 1: Wow! So, the mortar is mainly for daily life, and the drum is for special events.

Student 2: Exactly! Both tools show how people respected work, family, and culture in the past.

Activity 5.4.2

Tool description

1. Choose one traditional tool (e.g., hoe, mortar, pestle, drum, spear, basket, pot, grinding stone, bow, arrow).
 - Explain its traditional use in daily life or special ceremonies.
 - Mention any cultural significance or lesson it teaches.
 - Which tool do you think was the most important in daily life? Why?
 - Share your description with a partner

Application activity

Activity 5.4.3

In small groups, prepare a short oral presentation comparing two tools (e.g., hoe vs. drum) and explain how each reflects Rwandan culture.

5.5. Language structure: Reported Speech (Questions and Commands)

Learning activities

Activity 5.5.1

1. Read the short dialogue below.
Dialogue
 - Teacher: "Do you eat breakfast every day?"
 - Teacher: "Don't bring junk food to school."
 - Student: "Please explain the homework again."
2. Now read how another student reports what happened:
 - The teacher asked if the student ate breakfast every day.
 - The teacher told the students not to bring junk food to school.
 - The student asked the teacher to explain the homework again.
3. Work in pairs and answer:
 - What happened to the question form when it was reported?
 - Which words introduce reported questions?
 - Which verbs are used to report commands or requests?
 - What word comes before the verb in reported commands?

Read the notes in the table below to learn more about reporting commands and request, then do the activities that follow

1. Reported Speech: Questions and Commands

Reported speech is used to report what someone else said without using their exact words.

A. Reporting Questions

When we report a question:

- We change the question into a statement form.
- We remove the question mark.
- We use ask / want to know / wonder as reporting verbs.
- We adjust pronouns, tenses, and time expressions.

Yes/No Questions

We introduce them with if or whether.

Example:

Direct: "Do you like fruits?" the teacher asked Jean.

Reported: The teacher asked Jean if he liked fruits.

Wh- Questions

We keep the question word (what, where, who, etc.).

Example:

Direct: "Where do you live?" she asked.

Reported: She asked where he lived.

Key changes:

- am/is/are → was/were
- will → would
- today → that day
- here → there

B. Reporting Commands and Requests

We report commands using tell or order and requests using ask or beg.

Structure:

Reporting verb + person + to + base verb

Examples:

- Direct: "Open your books," the teacher said.
Reported: The teacher told us to open our books.
- Direct: "Please help me," Jean said to his friend.
Reported: Jean asked his friend to help him.

Negative commands:

Use not + to + base verb.

Example:

Direct: "Don't eat junk food," the doctor said.

Reported: The doctor told him not to eat junk food.

Exercise

Rewrite the following sentences in reported speech.

- a) "Do you eat fruits every day?" the teacher asked Jean.

The teacher asked Jean _____.

- b) "Where did you buy these vegetables?" the vendor asked the customer.

The vendor asked the customer _____.

- c) "Will you attend the health club meeting tomorrow?" the nurse asked the students.

The nurse asked the students _____.

- d) "Wash your hands before eating," the doctor said to the child.

The doctor told the child _____.

- e) "Please wait here until I come back," the shopkeeper said.

The shopkeeper asked the customer _____.

- f) "Don't skip breakfast," the teacher said to the learners.

The teacher told the learners _____.

Activity 5.5.2

Dialogue transformation

Read the dialogue below and rewrite it as a short paragraph using reported speech

Dialogue

Teacher: Why are you late today?

Student: I missed the bus.

Teacher: Come to school earlier tomorrow.

Student: I will try my best.

Begin with: When the teacher saw the student she.....

b) Connectors of time

Activity 5.5.3

1. Read these sentences from daily life and school situations:
 - a) He washed his hands before eating.
 - b) When the bell rang, students left the classroom.
 - c) She was revising her notes while her friend was cooking.
 - d) As soon as the lesson ended, the students went outside.
 - e) She has studied English since 2018.
 - f) Wait here until I return.
2. Discuss in pairs:
 - a) Which words show that one action happened earlier or later?
 - b) Which words show actions happening at the same time?
 - c) Which words show an action continuing up to a time?

In pairs, read the details about connectors of time in the table below, then do the activity that follows

Connectors of Time

Time connectors show the order and relationship of events in time. They make sentences clearer and more organized.

Connector	Function	Example Sentence
Before	Earlier action	He washed his hands before eating.
After	Action that follows another	They played football after school.
When	Events happened at the same time(one follows another)/ Introduce a time clause	When the bell rang, students left class.
While	Two actions happening at the same time. (Short longer action)/ two long action	She listened to music while cooking.
As soon as	Immediate action after another	As soon as he arrived, the meeting started.
Since	From a time in the past until now	She has studied English since 2018.
Until / Till	Continuing an action up to a certain time	Wait here until I come back.

- Use before/after to show order of events clearly in sequences.
- When/while are used for actions happening together or in close timing.
- As soon as shows quick results or reaction.
- Since/until show a duration that continues up to a point in time.

Exercise

Sentence completion

1. Complete the sentences using the correct time connector:

(before, after, when, while, as soon as, since, until)

1. Students left the classroom _____ the bell rang.
2. She has studied nutrition _____ 2020.
3. Wash your hands _____ you eat.
4. He was listening to the radio _____ his sister was cooking.
5. The meeting started _____ the head teacher arrived.
6. Wait here _____ I return.

2. Work in pairs. Complete the paragraph using the correct time connectors from before, after, when, while, as soon as, since, until

The student woke up early _____ the alarm rang. _____ he washed his face, he ate breakfast. He listened carefully _____ the teacher was explaining the lesson. _____ the lesson ended, the students left the classroom. He stayed at school _____ the club meeting finished. He has been a member of the school club _____ 2022.

Application activity

Activity 5.5.4

A. In pairs, create a short classroom scenario using direct speech. Transform it into reported speech and present to the class.

B. Think about your daily school routine. Write five sentences describing your day using at least four different time connectors.

Use events such as: waking up, going to school, studying, eating, resting

5.6. Writing: Describing Traditional Tools

Learning Activities

Activity 5.6.1

Word Power – Match and Build

In your notebook, create a table like the one below. Match the traditional tool to the correct action verb and its primary purpose.

Tool	Action Verb	Purpose (Function)
1. Hoe	A. Grinding	I. To pound maize or cassava into paste or powder.
2. Mortar and Pestle	B. Cultivating	II. To carry harvested crops from the valley to the home.
3. Grinding Stone	C. Pounding	III. To dig and prepare the soil for planting seeds.
4. Traditional Basket	D. Storing	IV. To turn sorghum or millet into fine flour for porridge.

Compare your table with your partner. Discuss which materials (wood, stone, or metal) were used to make each tool.

Activity 5.6.2

The "Guess the Tool" Challenge

Read the descriptions below. Identify (name) the tool being described and write one additional sentence explaining why that tool was important for a Rwandan family.

- Description: This tool is made of a heavy, flat base stone and a smaller hand-held stone. It is used for rubbing grains until they become smooth flour.

Tool Name: _____

My Sentence: _____

- Description: This consists of a large wooden bowl and a long, heavy wooden stick. It is used to crush dried food items through a rhythmic hitting motion.

Tool Name: _____

My Sentence: _____

Application Activity

Activity 5.6.3

Writing a Museum Description

Imagine you are writing a brochure for the Ethnographic Museum in Huye. Write a descriptive paragraph (80–100 words) about two traditional Rwandan tools.

Your writing should include:

- The names of the tools.
- A description of what they look like or what they are made of.
- A clear explanation of their functions (what they are used for).
- Use at least two sentences in the Passive Voice (Example: "The grain is ground by using a stone.")

5.7. Literature: Character and Characterization

Learning activities

Activity 5.7.1

Word Power – Match and Build

In your notebook, create a table like the one below. Match the traditional tool to the correct action verb and its primary purpose.

Story reading

In pairs, read the short story below and answer to the questions that follow:

The Drummer of the Village

In the village of Muganza lived a quiet boy named Kato who loved playing the traditional drum. He believed that the drum carried the spirit of his ancestors, and whenever he played, he felt confident and proud of his culture. His grandmother always encouraged him, saying, "A drum speaks louder than words." Kato practised every evening, hoping that one day his music would be heard by everyone.

During the village festival, Kato and another boy named Mussa were chosen to perform. Mussa was talented but proud, and he often laughed at Kato for being shy. When the performances began, Mussa played loudly but without rhythm. Kato closed his eyes and played from his heart. The dancers followed his beat beautifully, and the audience cheered. The chief praised Kato for his humility and skill, while Mussa learned that pride without respect leads nowhere.

Comprehension questions

1. How would you describe Kato in one word: shy, brave, kind, or lazy? Why?
2. How would you describe Mussa in one word: humble, proud, kind, or hardworking? Why?
3. Which actions in the story show that Kato is hardworking?
4. Which actions in the story show that Mussa is proud?
5. Who seems most important in the story?
6. Who creates a problem or conflict?

In pairs, read and discuss the notes in the box below, then do the activities that follow

Character and Characterization

1. What is a Character?

A character is any person, animal, or being that takes part in a story. Characters are the ones who experience events, make decisions, and help the plot of the story move forward.

There are different types of characters:

Type of Character	Description	Example
Main (Protagonist)	The most important character; the story focuses on them	Hero, leader, child learning a lesson
Supporting Characters	Help develop the story or influence the main character	Family, friends, elders, teachers
Antagonist	The character who opposes the main character	Enemy, bully, person causing conflict

2. What is Characterization?

Characterization is the method an author uses to show what a character is like. It helps the reader understand a character's personality, thoughts, behaviour, and motivations.

Characters can be good or bad, kind or unkind, hardworking or lazy.

These qualities are called character traits.

We know character traits by looking at what characters do, say, and feel.

Examples of simple character traits: Kind, Brave, Proud, Shy, Hardworking

There are two forms of characterization:

A. Direct Characterization

The author states the character's traits clearly.

Example: "Mugenzi was a wise elder."

B. Indirect Characterization

The author shows the character's traits through:

- Actions (What the character does)
- Speech (What the character says)
- Thoughts (What the character thinks or feels)
- Effect on others (How other characters respond)
- Appearance (How the character looks or dresses)

Example: Kato practises every evening, showing that he is determined.

Common Character Traits

Brave, kind, selfish, respectful, honest, patient, hardworking, jealous, responsible, etc.

3. Why Characterization is Important

Characterization helps readers:

- Understand why characters behave the way they do
- Identify values and lessons in the story
- Connect the story to real-life behaviours

Activity 5.7.2

1. Read the descriptions below. Decide whether each character is a main character, supporting character, or antagonist. Write your answers in full sentences.
 - a) A bully who causes fear and conflict at school.
 - b) A teacher who guides students and solves problems.
 - c) A child whose experiences and decisions shape the whole story.
2. Create a character for a short story about school or community life.
 - a) Decide: the type of character (main, supporting, antagonist), and character traits.
 - b) Write 3–4 sentences showing the character's traits using indirect characterization (actions or speech).
3. Answer orally or in writing:
 - Which type of characterization is more interesting to read: direct or indirect? Why?
 - How can character traits teach us good or bad behaviour in real life?

Application Activity

Activity 5.7.3

In groups, dramatize the story of Kato and Mussa, showing characterization through actions and speech.

5.8. SOUNDS AND SPELLING: Connected speech and elision

Learning Activities

Activity 5.8.1

Listen and Notice

Your teacher will read the following phrases twice: first slowly, then naturally. Listen carefully and identify which sound disappears in fast speech.

next day just now must go last week

Discuss your answers with a partner.

Activity 5.8.2

Circle the Missing Sound

Read the phrases below. Circle the consonant sound that is usually dropped in fast, connected speech.

kept quiet first prize old man best friend

Share your answers with the class.

Read the notes in the box below and do the following activities

Connected Speech and Elision

Connected speech happens when words in a sentence are pronounced together in a smooth, flowing manner rather than individually. This often causes sounds to change, drop, or blend.

Elision is a specific feature of connected speech where a sound, usually a consonant, is left out to make speaking faster and smoother.

Examples:

1. next day → nex day (the "t" is dropped)
2. and you → an' you (the "d" in "and" is dropped)
3. I don't know → I dunno (the "t" in "don't" is dropped)
4. for a → for'a (the "a" sound blends with "for")
5. going to → gonna (sounds merge)

Connected speech

- Helps you speak more naturally and fluently.
- Makes listening to native speakers easier.
- Makes speech faster without losing meaning.

Application Activities

Activity 5.8.3

Sentence reading

In Pairs, read each sentence aloud naturally to your partner. And identify the sounds that disappear due to elision. Check your answer with another pair

- | | |
|---|--------------------------------------|
| 1. Next day we will start early. | 2. I want to go now. |
| 3. She must be tired. | 4. I looked at it quickly. |
| 5. I asked for help. | 6. He left his bag at school. |
| 7. We need to finish this soon. | 8. I'm going at seven o'clock |

Activity 5.8.4

Dialogue Practice

Practise the short dialogue below with a partner. Underline the places where elision may occur, then read the dialogue naturally.

- I must go now
- I'll see you next time
- She left school early

Practise until your speech sounds smooth and connected.

5.9. END OF UNIT ASSESSMENT

5.9.1. Assessment questions

Instructions: Answer all questions.

SECTION A Reading & Comprehension

Read the passage and answer the questions.

Text

In traditional Rwanda, many activities were done in groups, strengthening unity among families. People farmed together using hoes, harvested together, and shared meals prepared with mortars and pestles. During evenings, families gathered outside their huts, and elders narrated stories about ancestral spirits, heroic hunters, and past ceremonies.

Music also played a major role. Drums were beaten during weddings and harvest celebrations, and young people learned songs that taught respect, courage, and cooperation. Traditional tools were not only practical; they represented values—hard work, honesty, and responsibility. These practices helped children understand their roles in the community and develop pride in their heritage.

A. Literal Questions (Multiple choice)

1. What activity strengthened unity among families?
 - A. Selling tools
 - B. Farming together
 - C. Travelling to markets
 - D. Building houses
2. When did elders tell stories?
 - A. Early morning
 - B. During meals
 - C. In the evening
 - D. At ceremonies
3. What did drums accompany?
 - A. Cooking
 - B. Harvest celebrations
 - C. Fishing
 - D. Hunting

B. Analysis and Interpretation

1. Why were traditional tools considered symbols, not just objects?
2. How did music help teach cultural values to children?

3. What do the stories told by elders suggest about knowledge transfer?
4. What is the significance of doing activities as a community?
5. Why might heritage be important for modern children?
6. Identify one traditional practice still seen in your community and explain its importance.
7. How can music or stories help young people learn values today?

SECTION B

Vocabulary Use

Fill in the blanks using the correct word from the box.

Words: spear, basket, grinding stone, bow, mortar, drum

1. The farmer used a _____ to carry fresh beans from the garden.
2. The _____ was used to pound roasted sorghum for porridge.
3. Hunters relied on the _____ and arrow to protect the community.
4. Before cooking, grains were crushed on a flat _____.
5. The dancer followed the rhythm of the _____ during the ceremony.
6. Older boys practiced using the _____ to learn discipline and courage.

SECTION C

Language Structures

C.1 Reported Speech (6 marks)

Rewrite the sentences in reported speech.

1. "Where do spirits protect the family?" the student asked the elder.
2. "Please show me how to use the grinding stone," Aline said to her aunt.
3. "Don't forget to respect traditional tools," the teacher said.

C.2 Time Connectors (6 marks)

Complete with: before, after, when, while, as soon as, until

- a) Children gathered around the fire _____ the elder started the story.
- b) They prepared food _____ returning from the fields.
- c) Music played _____ the dancers performed their traditional steps.
- d) _____ he heard the drum, he ran to join the ceremony.
- e) The family waited _____ the rain stopped.
- f) They cleaned the tools _____ starting the next activity.

SECTION D

Sounds & Spelling – Connected Speech and Elision

Teacher reads the sentences. Learners identify elided or dropped sounds.

Write the elided sound or the shortened form.

1. "He kept the pot on the fire." → Elided sound: _____
2. "I asked him about the ceremony." → Elided sound: _____
3. "Next week we visit the elder." → Elided sound: _____

Read the following and rewrite using natural connected speech (write the reduced form).

1. "I am going to tell you a story." → _____
2. "She could have helped earlier." → _____
3. "They want to see the tools." → _____

SECTION E

Writing

Write one well-developed paragraph, describing a traditional belief, tool, or ceremony in Rwanda. Explain:

- What it is,
- How it was used or practised,
- The value or lesson it teaches today.

SECTION F

Speaking (Assessed orally)

Choose one task.

Option A: Description

Choose one traditional tool and describe to the teacher:

- Its use,
- Its cultural significance,
- A lesson it teaches.

Option B: Reported Speech Role-Play

A partner asks questions about beliefs and customs. You report them to the teacher using correct structure.

UNIT 6:

TOURISM AND THE ENVIRONMENT IN RWANDA

Key unit competence:

Communicate effectively in both speaking and writing about tourism and the environment in Rwanda, while showing appreciation and responsibility for protecting natural resources.

Learning objectives

By the end of this unit, you will be able to:

Knowledge and Understanding

- Recognize key vocabulary and language structures related to tourism, including national parks, environmental threats, conditional types 2 and 3, and word stress in compound words.
- Explain the importance of tourism to Rwanda's economy and recognize how language features support clear communication about tourism and conservation.

Skills

- Read, listen, and communicate effectively by summarizing texts on tourism, expressing opinions, writing compositions using correct conditionals, and analyzing mood and tone in short literary texts.
- Speak and write confidently about tourism by giving suggestions for environmental protection, using accurate vocabulary, and applying correct pronunciation and stress patterns.

Attitudes & Values

- Show appreciation for Rwanda's natural beauty and tourism heritage, expressing pride in national attractions and development.
- Demonstrate responsibility toward environmental protection and promote teamwork, respect, and positive attitudes when discussing tourism and conservation.

Introduction

Tourism is the activity of visiting places for leisure, learning, or adventure, while the environment includes natural features like forests, rivers, lakes, and wildlife. In Rwanda, tourism depends on protecting these natural resources. In this unit, learners will explore Rwanda's main tourist sites, understand environmental threats, and develop skills in speaking, reading, listening, and writing about tourism and conservation. We will also learn conditional sentences (types 2 and 3), word stress in compound words, and how to identify mood and tone in nature- or travel-based texts. Students will reflect on ways to promote sustainable tourism and protect the environment.

Introductory activity

Read the paragraph below and discuss the questions with a partner.

Tourism around us

Rwanda is known for its beautiful national parks, lakes, and cultural sites. Tourists come from all over the world to see gorillas in Volcanoes National Park, enjoy boat rides on Lake Kivu, or experience traditional dances. The environment, including forests and wildlife, must be protected to keep these places attractive and safe for everyone.

Questions for Reflection:

1. Can you name some tourist sites in Rwanda that you have visited or know about?
2. What activities do tourists do in these places?
3. Why do you think protecting the environment is important for tourism?
4. Share your answers with the class and discuss ways students and communities can help protect Rwanda's environment.

6.1. Reading: Tourism sites in Rwanda

Learning activities

Activity 6.1.1

Pre-reading discussion

Discuss the following questions

1. What is a national park?
2. Mention the national parks found in Rwanda and what we find there.
3. What is the importance of national parks to Rwandans?

Activity 6.1.2

Reading text

Read the following text and discuss the questions that follow

Text: Tourism and the environment in Rwanda

One good reason to visit Rwanda would be the numerous national parks. They cover almost all different types of geographical terrain in the country. The Volcanoes National Park is a mountain range which rises high and is on a volcanic mountain. Crowned with natural plants, it even attracts the highest number of tourists every year. There, a number of gorillas, buffaloes, and warthogs roam the forests freely.

If I were a park ranger, I would protect gorillas and guide visitors carefully so that the forest remains safe. Akagera National Park is located in an entirely different terrain. It is found on the great plain, covered by a long stretch of grassland. It is inhabited by lions, antelopes, hyenas, and many other animals. Nyungwe forest is also a good place to observe animals and plants. When one drives up the middle of the mountain, he/she passes through great natural jungles and mountain forests all the way to the top. Being covered by giant plants helps this place to be loved by botanists.

One more thing about Nyungwe forest is the view of the source of the Nile deep down in the valley. The climate of the place is also natural and suitable for both humans and other creatures. Neighboring this forest are tea plantations, which look so natural, creating a very attractive environment.

Unfortunately, Long ago, Nyungwe was also home to elephants and other large animals, but years of poaching and habitat loss drove them away. Unfortunately, if people had protected the forest earlier, some of these rare animals wouldn't have disappeared. Tourism in Rwanda includes luxury lodges, campsites, and beautiful destinations that attract visitors from around the world. However, parks face threats from poachers, deforestation, and pollution, making conservation efforts very important.

Comprehension questions

1. Why does the text describe Volcanoes National Park as attracting the “highest number of tourists”?
2. What is the writer suggesting when saying, “If I were a park ranger, I would protect gorillas...”?
3. What does the text imply about Nyungwe Forest being “loved by botanists”?
4. According to the text, which environmental threat is most linked to animal disappearance?
5. How does the writer use conditional type 3 to show regret or missed opportunity?
6. Why are luxury lodges and campsites mentioned along with environmental threats?
7. If you were responsible for protecting a national park in your area, what environmental action would you take and why?
8. What do you think would happen to Rwanda’s tourism industry if people continued polluting national parks? Relate to what you see in your community.

Application activity

Activity 6.1.3

- a) Using information from the text, complete a comparison chart in pairs:

National Park	Key features	Animals found	Why it attracts tourists
Volcanoes	...	...	...
Akagera	...	...	...
Nyungwe	...	...	...

- b) After completing the chart, discuss which park you would most like to visit and why.

6.2. Vocabulary

Learning activities

Activity 6.2.1

Word meaning

1. Find the following words in the text and, using the surrounding sentences, discuss their meaning with a partner:

Terrain botanists poachers conservation

Activity 6.2.2

Fill in the paragraph

2. Use these words to complete the paragraph: campsite, luxury, destination, poachers, deforestation, pollution

Rwanda has become a popular tourist ____1____ because of its beautiful parks and rich culture. In Akagera National Park, visitors can stay at a modern ____2____ that allows them to enjoy nature comfortably. However, the country still faces several environmental challenges. Wildlife is threatened by illegal activities carried out by ____3____ who hunt animals secretly. Forests are also disappearing because of widespread ____4____, which destroys animal habitats and reduces biodiversity. In addition, water and air ____5____ continue to harm both humans and wildlife. Despite these challenges, Rwanda works hard to protect its natural resources and promote sustainable tourism.

Application activities

Activity 6.2.3

- In small groups, choose one environmental threat mentioned in the text: poaching, deforestation, pollution
- Discuss:
 1. How this threat affects animals and tourism?
 2. What actions park rangers or communities can take
 3. How similar issues appear in your own community
- Each group presents one problem and one solution to the class.

6.3. Listening activity: Protecting national parks

Learning activities

Activity 6.3.1

Pre-Listening Questions

Before listening, think about these questions. Discuss briefly with a partner:

1. Why do you think national parks are important for Rwanda?
2. What kind of threats might animals and forests face in a national park?
3. How can tourists help protect the environment when visiting parks?

Activity 6.3.2

Listen to the short talk about protecting national parks. Then complete the activities that follow

Today, I would like to talk about the importance of protecting our national parks. Across many countries, parks face serious threats. One of the biggest challenges is poaching, where people illegally hunt or kill wild animals. This puts many species at risk and reduces biodiversity. Another major problem is deforestation. When trees are cut down on a large scale, entire habitats are destroyed and soil erosion increases.

Pollution is also becoming a concern. Harmful waste left by visitors or nearby activities can make the environment dirty and unsafe for both people and animals.

Despite these challenges, national parks remain popular destinations for tourism. Visitors are encouraged to travel safely to their destination and follow all conservation rules. Many tourists choose to stay at a campsite, while others prefer luxury accommodation with more comfort and services.

To protect national parks, everyone must act responsibly and respect the natural environment. Only then can we ensure that future generations enjoy these beautiful places.

Listening questions

1. Match the words from the listening with their correct meanings.

Word	Meaning
1. Poaching	a. Damage to land caused by cutting trees
2. Deforestation	b. Illegal hunting or killing of animals
3. Pollution	c. Harmful substances in the environment
4. Campsite	d. A place where visitors stay outdoors

2. Work in pairs. Answer these questions

- Name two major threats to national parks mentioned in the talk.
- What problems are caused by deforestation?
- Why is pollution dangerous to both people and animals?
- What does the speaker mean by "acting responsibly" in national parks?

Application activity

Activity 6.3.3

- In pairs, prepare a short oral summary of the talk.
- Suggest one action that students can take to protect the environment in their own community.

6.4. Speaking: Tourist attractions and their importance

Learning activities

Activity 6.4.1

Group discussion

In groups, list tourist attractions in Rwanda. Discuss their importance to the country and share findings with the class.

Activity 6.4.2

Question writing

Write 4 questions you can ask about tourist attractions in Rwanda. Ask the questions to your partner, who acts as a park guide. When you finish, change roles.

Activity 6.4.3

Poem recitation

Read and learn the following Poem. Recite it to the class

Rwanda's Wonders

In Volcanoes Park, the gorillas play,
Majestic creatures in forests of gray.
Nyungwe Forest whispers secrets old,
Primates and plants in green unfold.
Akagera's savannahs, lions roam free,
Birds in the sky, a sight to see.
Lake Kivu shimmers under the sun,
A place for rest, for joy, for fun.
Museums and palaces tell stories past,
Traditions and culture that forever last.
Tourists come from places far and near,
To learn, explore, and hold Rwanda dear.
Protect these wonders, keep them safe,
Nature and culture, a treasure to embrace.
If we care for forests, lakes, and land,
Rwanda's beauty will always stand.

Application activity

Activity 6.4.4

- In pairs, prepare a short speech about one tourist attraction.
- Explain why it is important and how it can be protected.

6.5. Language structure: Conditional Sentences (Types 2 and 3)

Learning activities

Activity 6.5.1

Sentence analysis

1. Read the sentences and answer the questions.
 - a) If I were a park ranger, I would protect gorillas.
 - b) If poachers hadn't hunted the elephants, they would still live in Akagera.

Questions

1. Is the speaker a park ranger now?

2. Did the poachers stop hunting in the past?
3. Which sentence talks about the present or future?
4. Which sentence talks about the past?
5. Is the situation happening now, in the past, or imaginary?
6. Which verb tense is used after if?

In pairs, read the notes in the table below and do the activities that follow

1. Definition:

Type 2 conditionals describe hypothetical or unreal situations in the present or future. They are used when the situation is imaginary, unlikely, or contrary to reality.

2. Structure:

If + past simple, ... would + base verb

Optional: other modal verbs can replace "would" (could, might, should).

3. Examples:

If I were a park ranger, I would protect gorillas.

If visitors followed the rules, parks would stay cleaner than they are now.

4. Usage

Use "were" for all subjects in formal writing (e.g., If he were..., If I were...).

Refers to imaginary present/future situations that are not true now.

If tourists followed environmental rules...

Conditional Type 3 – Unreal Past

1. Definition:

Type 3 conditionals describe imaginary situations in the past—things that did not happen, but we can imagine a different outcome. Often used to reflect on past mistakes or missed opportunities.

2. Structure:

If + past perfect, ... would have + past participle

Optional: other modal verbs can replace "would" (could have, might have, should have).

3. Examples: If poachers hadn't hunted the elephants, they would still be many in Akagera.

4. Usage:

Refers to unreal past events—situations that cannot be changed.

Often used to reflect, regret, or analyse consequences.

Exercise

1. Fill in the blanks with the correct form of the verbs in parentheses. Decide whether it should be Type 2 (unreal present/future) or Type 3 (imaginary past).

1. If I _____ (be) a park ranger, I _____ (protect) the gorillas in Volcanoes National Park.
2. If tourists _____ (respect) the rules, they _____ (not damage) Nyungwe Forest.
3. If people _____ (plant) more trees in Akagera, the lions _____ (have) more shade.
4. If the government _____ (stop) poachers earlier, many animals _____ (not disappear).
5. If I _____ (visit) Lake Kivu last summer, I _____ (take) photos of the birds.

2. Change the direct sentences into conditional sentences using the correct type

1. I am not a tour guide, so I cannot educate tourists about protecting wildlife.
If I _____ a tour guide, I _____
2. People did not recycle their waste, so the park became polluted.
If people _____ their waste, the park _____
3. I didn't visit the national park last year, so I didn't see the gorillas.
If I _____ the national park last year, I _____

Application activity

Activity 6.5.2

In small groups, discuss:

- What would happen if people cared more about the environment?
- What would have happened if laws had been enforced earlier?

6.6. Writing: Describing causes and effects of pollution

Pollution is the introduction of harmful substances or waste into the environment, causing it to become dirty, unsafe, or unhealthy for humans, animals, and plants. Causes of pollution are the reasons or actions that lead to pollution. Effects of pollution are the results or consequences of pollution on the environment, humans, and animals

Learning activities

Activity 6.6.1

Study the table

Study the table below and fill in the missing information/ sentences about causes and effects of pollution

Cause / Situation	Effect / Result	Conditional Type 2 (Unreal Present/Future)	Conditional Type 3 (Imaginary Past)
People cut down many trees in the forest.	Soil erosion increases and animals lose habitat.	If people cut fewer trees, soil would remain fertile and animals would have a safe habitat.	1
Tourists throw garbage in rivers.	Water becomes polluted, affecting fish and people.	2	If tourists had not thrown garbage in the rivers, the water would have stayed clean and fish would have been safe.
Factories release harmful chemicals into the air.	Air pollution rises, causing health problems.	3	4
People hunt wild animals illegally.	Some species decrease or disappear.	5	6
Vehicles and motorcycles release smoke.	The atmosphere becomes polluted and climate change accelerates.	7	8

Application activity

Activity 6.6.2

Open letter

Write an open letter to the mayor of your district. In your letter:

- Describe what causes environmental pollution in your district.
- Explain the effects of these causes.
- Propose solutions that could protect the environment.

6.7. Literature: Identifying Mood and Tone

Learning activities

Activity 6.7.1

Poem reading

Read the poem below individually, then recite it to a partner.

Poem

In Akagera, the rivers gleam,
Lions and elephants roam like a dream.
The grasslands stretch beneath the sun,
A land of adventure for everyone.
At Volcanoes, mountains touch the sky,
Gorillas move quietly, curious eyes nearby.
Mist wraps the peaks in a gentle embrace,
A sacred home, a peaceful, hallowed place.

Questions

1. Underline words or phrases that show emotions (e.g., "mist rises high," "whisper secrets of old").
2. Identify the mood of the poem (peaceful, joyful, sad, worried, etc.)
3. In pairs or groups, discuss the author's attitude toward Rwanda's national parks.
4. Is the author admiring, concerned, proud, or celebratory?
5. Discuss your interpretation with a partner or in a small group. Compare how you felt while reading the poem.

Read the notes in the box bellow to learn more about mood and tone. Answer the questions that follow

Mood is the emotional feeling or atmosphere that a text creates in the reader.

It answers the question: How does the text make the reader feel?

Examples of mood: Calm, Happy, Sad, Tense, Hopeful, Peaceful

Example:

A poem about a quiet forest with birds singing may create a calm and relaxed mood.

Tone is the writer's attitude toward the subject.

It is shown through word choice, style, and details.

It answers the question: What does the writer think or feel about the topic?

Examples of tone: admiring, serious, concerned, joyful, respectful, critical

Example:

An author may write with admiration when describing Rwanda's natural beauty

Exercise

Read the short text below.

The river flows slowly through the green valley. Birds sing in the trees, and the air is fresh and cool.

1. Circle the mood of the text:
Calm / Angry / Scary
2. Circle the tone of the writer:
Admiring / Critical / Funny
3. Underline two words or expressions from the text that helped you choose the mood and tone.
4. Complete the sentences:
 - The mood of the text is _____ because _____.
 - The writer's tone is _____ because _____.

Application activity

Activity 6.7.2

1. Write three sentences that create a specific mood (e.g., tense, peaceful, sad, joyful). Use descriptive words that help the reader feel the atmosphere.
2. Write three sentences showing a clear tone (e.g., admiring, critical, serious, respectful). Use word choice and details that show the writer's attitude.
3. Exchange your work with a partner and let them identify the mood or tone you intended.

6.8. SOUNDS AND SPELLING: Word Stress in Compound Words

Learning activities

Activity 6.8.1

Classroom observation

- Look around the classroom. Find 5 objects (or pictures) whose names are compound words (e.g., BLACKboard, NOTEbook, CHALKboard).
- Say the words aloud to a partner and guess which part of the word sounds stronger or louder.
- Discuss with your partner: Why do you think one part is stressed more than the other?
- Share one example with the whole class and try to pronounce it correctly with the stress on the first element.

Read the notes in the box below to learn more about stress in compound words then answer the questions that follow

Word Stress in Compound Words

In compound words, the primary stress usually falls on the first part of the word. This helps in correct pronunciation and understanding in spoken English.

Examples:

- | | |
|--------------|------------|
| • BLACKboard | • NOTEbook |
| • TOOTHbrush | • RAINcoat |
| • SUNflower | |

Exercise

Read the words a loud and underline the part of the compound word that receives the primary stress:

FOOTball, MAILbox, BEDroom, HONEYbee, BOOKstore, EYEglasses, SCHOOLbag,

Application activity

Activity 6.8.2

In pairs, complete the following tasks:

1. Create five new compound words (e.g., rainbow, laptop, sunrise).
2. Mark the stressed part of each word.
3. Practise saying the words aloud to each other, placing clear stress on the first part.
4. Choose 5 of your words and use them in short sentences.

6.9. END OF UNIT ASSESSMENT

6.9.1. PROJECT

Project: "Cultural Heritage" Museum exhibit

In this project, you will act as museum designer. You will create a small museum display that teaches people about Rwandan cultural practice and tourist places. You will show how culture and the environment are connected and why they should be protected.

Your task:

You will work in groups to design a museum exhibit on one specific aspect of Rwandan culture. Your exhibit should show how cultural heritage and the natural environment are connected and why both must be protected.

What you will do:

- Research traditional tools, beliefs, dances, crafts, or artistic practices from Rwanda.
- Choose one tourist destination (e.g., Volcanoes National Park, Nyungwe Forest, Akagera National Park, Ethnographic Museum, King's Palace Museum).
- Explain how the cultural element you selected is linked to that destination.

- Create descriptive placards that visitors would read in a museum. These should describe the cultural object or practice and its importance.
- Draw a simple map showing where your chosen cultural element or tourist site is located in Rwanda.
- Prepare a short group presentation arguing why Rwanda must protect both its cultural heritage and its natural environment for sustainable tourism.

Your exhibit should include:

- A title for your museum display
- At least two descriptive placards (5–7 sentences each)
- A labelled map of Rwanda showing your chosen site
- One cultural object or practice clearly explained
- A short oral presentation (2–3 minutes) summarising your exhibit and its message

Your project should demonstrate:

- Understanding of Rwandan cultural heritage
- Knowledge of a tourist destination and its environment
- Clear connections between culture and tourism
- Awareness of why preservation is important

Work creatively and present your exhibit as if real visitors will walk through your museum.

6.9.2 ASSESSMENT QUESTIONS

SECTION A

READING AND TEXT INTERPRETATION (20 marks)

Read the text below and answer the questions that follow.

Text: Protecting the Green Hills of Muramba Valley

Buramba Valley, once known for its endless green hills and crystal-clear streams, has recently experienced rapid changes. As the population grew, more land was cleared for farming, leaving fewer trees to protect the soil. Villagers who once relied on clean water sources now travel long distances to fetch water, especially during the dry season. Many elders in the community say that the valley no longer has the same freshness it had years ago.

In response to these challenges, a local youth organisation launched an environmental protection campaign. They conducted community meetings, planted thousands of tree seedlings, and trained farmers on sustainable agriculture. Their goal was not only to restore the lost beauty but also to ensure long-term environmental stability. The project gained support from district leaders who encouraged families to take part in composting and rainwater harvesting.

Despite these efforts, the campaign still faces obstacles. Some residents feel that environmental protection limits their ability to farm freely. Others believe that climate change is too big a problem for a small community to solve. Yet the youth remain determined. They argue that even small actions, when combined, can create meaningful impact and preserve the valley for future generations.

A. Text Comprehension (Short Answer)

1. What environmental changes have occurred in Buramba Valley?
2. Why was the youth organisation motivated to start the campaign?
3. Mention two strategies used to restore the environment.
4. What challenges does the campaign face?
5. According to the youth, how can small actions contribute to environmental protection?

B. Text Analysis and Interpretation

1. Identify the tone of Paragraph 1 and justify your answer.
2. Explain the mood created in Paragraph 2. Provide evidence from the text.
3. In your opinion, is the youth campaign likely to succeed? Support your answer using the text.

SECTION B

VOCABULARY

A. Matching Activity

Match the terms with their correct definitions.

Terms	Definitions
1.Sustainability	A. The act of collecting resources such as water or crops.
2.Degradation	B. A plan or action intended to solve a problem.
3.Harvesting	C. The condition of being informed about an issue.
4.Awareness	D. Ability to maintain or preserve something over time.
5.Initiative	E. The process of decline or damage in environmental quality.

B. Fill in the gaps with the correct word from the box

Words: restore, conserve, pollute, educate, reduce

1. Communities must _____ water sources by avoiding waste.
2. Planting trees helps _____ damaged landscapes.
3. Factories that dispose of chemicals in rivers _____ the environment.
4. Schools _____ learners about responsible environmental behaviour.
5. To protect forests, people must _____ the amount of wood they cut.

SECTION C

GRAMMAR – CONDITIONAL TYPE 2 & 3

A. Rewrite the sentences using Type 2 conditionals

- a) People do not use bicycles, so traffic pollution increases.
- b) I do not have enough money, so I cannot visit natural attractions.

B. Rewrite the sentences using Type 3 conditionals

- a) The community ignored early warnings; therefore, the flood caused serious damage.
- b) She did not attend the conservation workshop, so she failed to change her farming methods.
- c) They cut too many trees, and the soil was washed away.

C. Fill in the blanks with the correct form of the verbs in brackets to complete each conditional sentence.

- 1. If I _____ (be) rich, I _____ (build) a school in my village. (Type 2)
- 2. She _____ (pass) the exam if she _____ (study) harder last term. (Type 3)
- 3. If we _____ (have) more time, we _____ (visit) the museum. (Type 2)
- 4. They _____ (win) the match if they _____ (train) every day last week. (Type 3)
- 5. If he _____ (know) the answer, he _____ (help) his classmates. (Type 2)

SECTION D

SPEAKING

In pairs, discuss any two tourist attractions in Rwanda and explain two reasons why they are important for the country (economic, cultural, environmental, or social).

SECTION E

WRITING

In no more than 150 words, explain causes and effects of river pollution in a rural community.

UNIT 7:

THE INTERNET AND THE MEDIA

vimeo

LinkedIn

NETFLIX

Bēhance

PayPal

YouTube

Key unit competence:

Communicate effectively in both speaking and writing about media and internet experiences, while demonstrating honesty and respect in using media.

Learning objectives

By the end of this unit, you will be able to:

Knowledge and Understanding

- Understand key concepts and language features related to media, including types of media, noun clauses, passive voice, reported speech, and how stress affects meaning.
- Identify parts and language of an email and recognise mood and style in simple texts about media.

Skills

- Read, listen, and communicate effectively by summarising media texts, speaking about personal media use, and writing clear emails for communication.
- Use language accurately by applying noun clauses, passive voice, reported speech, and correct stress patterns in both spoken and written communication.

Attitudes & Values

- Demonstrate responsible behaviour by using media and the internet ethically and communicating honestly and respectfully.
- Show appreciation for the role of media in daily life and develop curiosity and interest in learning from different media sources.

Introduction

In this unit, we will explore how the internet and various forms of media influence our daily lives and learning. You will learn to read, listen, speak, and write effectively about your experiences with media, while using important grammar structures such as noun clauses, the passive voice, and reported speech. We will also practice writing emails, recognizing mood and style in texts, and using sentence stress for clarity and emphasis. By the end of the unit, you will be able to communicate responsibly and respectfully online, understand the role of media in education and society, and create a digital portfolio to demonstrate your skills as a responsible digital citizen.

Introductory activity

1. Individually, list three ways you used the internet or media yesterday.
2. Pair up and discuss: Which of these uses were helpful? Which may be risky if not used responsibly?
3. Share two ideas with the class.

7.1. Reading: Media, the Internet and AI in Modern Life

Learning activities

Activity 7.1.1

Look at the title of the reading text: Media, the Internet, and AI in Modern Life. Work in pairs and list:

- three ways media and the internet help students,
- two possible problems caused by irresponsible use
- Share your ideas with another pair

Activity 7.1.2

Read the text below to find out more 'How media, the internet, and AI can be used responsibly to support learning and daily life'

Text: Media, the Internet, and AI in Modern Life

Media and the internet play an important role in modern society. Every day, people use media channels such as television, radio, newspapers, and online platforms to receive news and information. Journalists share stories through broadcasts, websites, blogs, and social media networks, allowing information to reach a wide audience in a short time.

The internet has changed the way people communicate and learn. Students can go online to research topics, download educational materials, and upload assignments. Teachers use online platforms to share lessons, send feedback, and communicate with learners.

In addition, artificial intelligence (AI) tools are now used in education to support learning, such as checking grammar, suggesting ideas, and personalising study materials.

Social media platforms allow users to post messages, share videos, and connect with subscribers from different parts of the world. A viral post can spread information very quickly. However, not all information shared online is accurate. Some content may be misleading or harmful, especially when users do not verify sources before sharing.

Responsible use of media and the internet is therefore essential. Users should think critically about what they read, respect others online, and limit screen time. When used wisely, media, the internet, and AI can be powerful tools for education and development.

A. Literal Questions

1. What are four examples of media channels mentioned in the first paragraph?
2. How do students use the internet for their schoolwork?
3. According to the text, what are three specific ways AI tools support education?
4. What can happen to a social media post if it becomes "viral"?
5. What are the three suggestions given for the "responsible use" of media and the internet?

B. Text Analysis and Interpretation

1. Why does the author mention that information reaches a wide audience "in a short time"? What does this imply about the power of modern journalists?
2. Based on the third paragraph, what does it mean to "verify sources," and why is this step important before sharing information?
3. How has the role of the teacher changed with the introduction of online platforms and AI compared to traditional methods?
4. Is the author's tone toward AI and the internet purely positive, or is it cautious? Support your answer with evidence from the text.
5. The text states that "not all information shared online is accurate." What are the potential real-world consequences if a user fails to think critically about what they read?

Application activityActivity 7.1.3

1. In pairs, complete the chart below using information from the text.
2. Add one idea of your own.

Media / Internet Benefit	Possible Risk	Responsible Action

7.2. Vocabulary: Internet and media words

Learning activities

Activity 7.2.1

Word Selection

- a) From the reading text, choose eight words or expressions you think are most useful.
- b) In groups: explain each word in your own words and use it in a sentence.

Activity 7.2.2

Media and Internet Words

In groups, explain each of the following words (you can use the internet or dictionary)

- a) Media: news, broadcast, journalist, channel, website, network, blog, online, post, upload, download, subscriber.
- b) Internet: go online, surf the net, send an email, social media platform, viral post, log in, log out.

Activity 7.2.3

Complete the paragraph below using the words from the box:

news, broadcast, journalist, channel, website, blog, online, post, upload, download, subscriber, social media platform, viral post, log in, log out, AI app, digital assistant

As a student in Rwanda, I often go ___1___ to find information for my school projects. I follow a famous 2___ who posts short video updates on her 3_ every morning. Sometimes, I watch a live 4_ on a local TV 5_ to learn about events in my community. I also visit educational ___6___ and read a few ___7___ to practise English. Recently, I discovered an ___8___ that summarises notes for me and gives explanations on difficult topics. I can also ___9___ my homework and ___10___ study materials shared by teachers. I make sure to be careful with every ___11___ I see so that I do not get misled by a ___12___. Whenever I finish, I ___13___ of my account to stay safe.

Application activity

Activity 7.2.4

In pairs, write five sentences about your own media use, using at least five of the vocabulary words.

7.3. Listening: Internet and Mobile Phone Use in Daily Communication.

Learning activities

Activity 7.3.1

Pre-listening discussion

1. Work in pairs and discuss the questions below. Be ready to share one idea with the class
 - a) How do you usually use your mobile phone each day?
 - b) Which communication tools do you use most: calls, messages, emails, or social media?
 - c) What problems can mobile phones cause for students?

Activity 7.3.2

Vocabulary matching

1. Read the expressions below. In pairs, match each expression with its meaning.

a. log in
b. log out
c. viral post
d. screen time
e. online platform

1. time spent using a phone or computer
2. enter an account using a username and password
3. leave an account or close a session
4. a message or video shared very quickly by many people
5. a website used for learning or communication

Activity 7.3.3

Listening text

Listen to a conversation about internet and mobile phone use and find out:

- a) How people use mobile phones and the internet for communication,
- b) What problems are mentioned,
- c) What advice is given for responsible use
- d) Decide which advice you agree with most and explain why

Application activity

Activity 7.3.4

In pairs, role-play a short conversation about responsible internet use. Include at least two vocabulary words (log in, viral post, screen time, etc.).

7.4. Speaking: Personal Experience with Internet and Media

Learning activities

Activity 7.4.1

Group discussion

- Share one positive experience using the internet or media,
- Share one challenge related to social media use.
- Agree on three rules for responsible use of social media for students.
- Present your rules to the class.

Activity 7.4.2

DEBATE

You will express opinions, defend ideas, and respond to others while using noun clauses and the active and passive voice accurately.

Debate Motion

"Social media companies should be legally held accountable for the spread of misinformation on their networks."

Step 1: Team Formation and Preparation (20 minutes)

1. Your teacher will divide the class into two teams: Proposition Team (Agree) Opposition Team (Disagree)
2. In your team:
 - Review the reading text, your listening notes, and the vocabulary from this unit.
 - Brainstorm arguments to support your position.
3. Discuss the guiding questions below:
 - Who has the power to stop the spread of misinformation?
 - What challenges do social media platforms face?
 - What are the consequences of misinformation for students and society?
 - Should responsibility belong to users, platforms, or both?

Step 2: Language Preparation

Use the sentence frames below to help you express your ideas clearly. These examples use the noun clauses and passive voice studied in this unit.

- We firmly believe that social media platforms must control harmful content.

- What the opposition fails to understand is how misinformation affects young people.
- It is clear that irresponsible sharing causes serious problems.
- It must be acknowledged that algorithms influence what users see online.

Step 3: The Debate

Debate Structure

- Proposition Opening Speech (2 minutes): Present your main arguments.
- Opposition Opening Speech (2 minutes): Present your main arguments.
- Preparation Time (3 minutes): Teams prepare responses to the other side.
- Rebuttals and Free Debate (10 minutes): Respond to arguments, ask questions, and defend your position.
- Closing Statements (1 minute each): Summarise your strongest point.

Rules

- Respect all speakers.
- Take turns to speak.
- Support your ideas with reasons or examples.

Step 4: Individual Reflection

After the debate, complete the sentences below in your notebook.

- One strong argument from my team was: _____
- One persuasive point from the other team was: _____
- I used the target grammar or vocabulary when I said: _____

7.5. Language Structure: Noun clauses and active and passive voice

Learning activities

Activity 7.5.1

Noun Clauses

- Look at the sentences below, taken from our Reading text: Media, the Internet, and AI in Modern Life. Work with a partner to answer the questions that follow.
 - The text explains that media and the internet play an important role in modern society.
 - Many students understand how the internet has changed the way people communicate and learn.

- The article warns that not all information shared online is accurate.
- Users should think carefully about what they read before sharing it online.

b) Questions

1. What is the main verb in each sentence? (e.g., explains,.....)
2. The bolded part of each sentence is called a noun clause. What is its job in the sentence?
 - Does it act as the object of the verb? Yes, or No
 - Does it complete the meaning of the verb? Yes, or No
 - Does it use statement word order rather than question word order? Yes, or No
3. What words introduce these noun clauses? Group them as follows:

Clauses introduced by 'that'	Clauses introduced by 'what / how'

Noun clause

- A noun clause is a group of words with a subject and a verb that acts like a noun in a sentence. It often functions as the object of a verb.
- a) Use a that-clause to express a fact, belief, or idea.
Example: Students believe that the internet helps them learn. I believe that media literacy is important.
 - b) Use a wh-clause (what, how, why, where, when, who) to express a question, uncertainty, or explanation.
Example: Teachers explain how AI supports learning. I don't know what the truth is.

Combine each pair of ideas using a noun clause. Use that or a wh- word.

1. Many people agree on this. Media should be used responsibly.
Many people agree
.....
2. Students want to know the answer. How can AI help them study better?
Students want to know
.....

3. Teachers wonder about this. Why do some students avoid asking questions online?
4. Teachers wonder
5. Nobody is sure of this answer. Where should the school store its digital records?
6. Nobody is sure
7. Researchers are studying this issue.
8. What effect does screen time have on learning?
9. Researchers are studying
.....

Activity 7.5.2

Active and Passive Voice

Compare the sentence pairs below. Work with a partner and discuss what changes occur when a sentence shifts from active to passive.

	Sentence Pairs
1	Active: Journalists share news through websites and social media platforms. Passive: News is shared through websites and social media platforms (by journalists).
2	Active: People upload and download educational materials online. Passive: Educational materials are uploaded and downloaded online by people.
3	Active: Teachers use AI tools to support learning. Passive: AI tools are used to support learning (by teachers).

- a) In pair 1, what is the focus of the active sentence? What is the focus of the passive sentence?
- b) In pair 2, why is the doer (people) not mentioned in the passive sentence?
- c) When do we choose the passive voice instead of the active voice? (Think about what the writer wants to emphasize.)

Activity 7.5.3

Read and discuss the notes in the box below, then do the exercises that follow:

Active and Passive voice

- Active Voice:

Subject (doer) + Verb + Object

Example: Students upload assignments online.

- Passive Voice:

Subject (receiver) + to be + Past Participle + (by + doer)

Example: Assignments are uploaded online (by students).

Use the passive voice when:

- the doer is unknown,
- the doer is obvious,
- or the focus is on the action or result, not who does it.

Exercise

Rewrite the sentences in the passive voice to emphasize the underlined part.

1. Users often share misleading information on social media.
Misleading information _____
2. Schools now use AI tools in education.
AI tools _____

Application

Activity 7.5.4

In pairs, write three sentences about internet use. One in active voice, one in passive voice, and one with a noun clause.

7.6. Writing – Formal and Informal Emails

You will write emails using appropriate tone and format, as they are commonly used in Gmail and other email platforms.

Learning activities

Activity 7.6.1

Identifying email types in Gmail format

1. Look at the two Gmail-style emails below.
2. Work in pairs and answer the questions that follow.

Email A (Gmail – Informal)

To: eric.friend@gmail.com

Subject: Learning online these days

Hi Eric,

I hope you're doing well. I just wanted to share my experience of using the internet for learning this term. I often go online to research topics, watch educational videos, and download notes from school platforms. I believe that online resources have made learning more flexible, although sometimes it is difficult to avoid distractions.

Let me know how you are using the internet for your studies.

Best wishes,
Alex

Email B (Gmail – Formal)

To: info@greensecondaryschool.edu

Subject: Request for information about internet use policy

Dear Sir or Madam,

I am writing to request information regarding the school's policy on internet use for students. I would appreciate it if you could explain what rules apply during school hours and at home.

Thank you for your time and assistance.

Yours faithfully,
Alex

Questions

- Which email is formal and which is informal?
- How does the subject line differ in each email?
- Which expressions make Email B more formal than Email A?

Read and discuss the notes in the box below and do the exercise that follow

Formal vs Informal Emails

- Informal emails are used with friends or people you know well.
 - Friendly tone
 - Short sentences
 - Personal expressions
- Formal emails are used in professional or official situations.

- Polite and respectful tone
- Complete sentences
- No slang or contractions

Writing Emails in Gmail

- Always include:
 - To
 - Subject
 - Greeting
 - Message
 - Closing and name
- Match your tone to your audience.
- Informal emails are friendly and personal.
- Formal emails are polite and respectful.

Activity 7.6.2

Exploring Email Features

In pairs, label the parts of the emails in activity activity 7.6.1: To, Subject, Greeting, Body, Closing, Signature

Application activity

Activity 7.6.3

Writing an Email to a Friend

Situation: You want to describe your experience using the internet for learning to a friend. Write an informal email in Gmail format.

Include:

- a clear email address,
- a relevant subject line,
- a friendly greeting,
- your experience using the internet for learning,
- benefits and challenges,
- a friendly closing.

Use at least one noun clause (that / wh-clause), and at least one active or passive sentence.

Length 120–150 words

7.7. Literature: Atmosphere and Style in Descriptive Writing

Learning activities

Activity 7.7.1

Noticing Atmosphere in a Text

Read the short extract below and work in pairs to answer the questions that follow.

Text extract

Late at night, the blue light of mobile phones filled the room. Notifications flashed silently as messages appeared one after another. Some students scrolled endlessly, unaware of the time passing, while others closed their screens and returned to their books, determined to focus on their studies.

Questions

1. What feeling or mood does this text create? (e.g.: Calm, distracting, etc.)
2. Which words or expressions help create this atmosphere?
3. Does the writer present technology as positive, negative, or balanced?

Activity 7.7.2

Exploring Style in Descriptive Writing

1. Look again at the extract.
2. Identify descriptive words (adjectives, verbs), and sensory details (what you see, feel, or imagine).
3. Discuss how those words help the reader imagine the situation.

Activity 7.7.3

Read and discuss the notes in the box below, then complete the exercise that follows:

Literature: Atmosphere and style

Atmosphere is the mood or feeling created in a text.

Writers create atmosphere using:

- descriptive adjectives,
- vivid verbs,
- details about sound, light, and movement.

Style refers to how the writer uses language (simple or complex, formal or informal).

Good descriptive writing helps the reader see, hear, and feel the scene.

Exercise

Read the three short descriptions below. Match each description to the correct Atmosphere from the box.

A. Peaceful

B. Tense/Scary

C. Busy/Energetic

Text 1: "The clock on the wall ticked loudly in the silent room. Mark held his breath, listening to the heavy footsteps approaching the door. He didn't move a muscle."

Atmosphere: _____

Text 2: "Horns honked constantly as hundreds of people pushed past each other. Street performers played loud drums, and the smell of fried food mixed with the bright neon lights of the city."

Atmosphere: _____

Text 3: "The lake was like a blue mirror. A single bird glided slowly across the clear sky, and the only sound was the soft ripple of water against the grass."

Atmosphere: _____

Application activity

Activity 7.7.4

- Choose one situation (a classroom during online learning, a student using social media late at night, a quiet library with students studying online).
- Write a short paragraph (5–6 sentences) describing the scene.
- Try to create a clear atmosphere (positive, negative, or mixed)

7.8. Sound and Spelling: Sentence Stress for Emphasis and Contrast

Learning activities

Activity 7.8.1

Listening and Noticing Stress

1. Listen to your teacher read the sentences below. Pay attention to the stressed words.
 - a) Students share information online. (Not teachers)
 - b) Students share information online. (They do not hide it)
 - c) Students share information online. (Not entertainment)
 - d) Students share information online. (Not offline)
 - Which word is stressed each time?
 - How does the meaning change?
 - Why is stress important in communication?

Activity 7.8.2

Read and discuss the notes in the box below then do the exercise below

Sentence stress means emphasizing certain words when speaking.

- Stress is used to:
 - show contrast,
 - highlight important information,
 - clarify meaning.
- Stress often falls on:
 - key nouns,
 - main verbs,
 - words that correct or contrast information.

Changing stress can change meaning without changing words.

Exercise

Practising stress for contrast

- Work in pairs. Read the sentences aloud.
- Change the stressed word to show a different meaning.

Sentences

- a) Social media influences students.
- b) AI helps learning.
- c) Misinformation spreads quickly.

Application activity

Activity 7.8.3

Meaning Through Stress

Read the short situations below. For each situation, say the sentence aloud and stress the correct word to show the intended meaning. Then explain briefly how the meaning changes.

Situations and Sentences:

1. Situation: Not teachers, but learners post information online.

Sentence: Students share information online.

Expected stress:

2. Situation: They share information, they do not keep it private.

Sentence: Students share information online.

Expected stress:

3. Situation: It is not games or entertainment that influence learners.

Sentence: Social media influences students.

Expected stress:

4. Situation: It helps learning, but it does not replace teachers.

Sentence: AI helps learning.

Expected stress:

5. Situation: False news spreads, not correct information.

Sentence: Misinformation spreads quickly.

Expected stress:

7.9. END OF UNIT ASSESSMENT

7.9.1. Project activity

Project: "The Digital Citizen" Portfolio Project

In this weeklong project, you will combine ideas from Unit 3: Diet and Health and Unit 7: The Internet and the Media. Your task is to create a digital portfolio that shows how you can use online tools responsibly to support personal and community health.

What You Will Do

You will research one health topic of your choice, such as healthy eating habits, physical fitness, or mental wellbeing. Using your research, you will create three digital products that demonstrate responsible online behaviour and accurate communication.

Your portfolio must include:

1. A Formal Email to an Expert

Write a professional email to a hypothetical health expert requesting information about your chosen topic. Your email should show:

- clear purpose
- polite and formal language
- correct email structure

2. A Blog Post Debunking a Health Myth

Choose a common health myth found online (for example, "skipping meals helps you lose weight"). Write a short blog post that:

- explains the myth
- provides accurate information
- uses reliable online sources responsibly

Your goal is to help readers understand how to identify false or misleading information on the internet.

3. An Infographic

Design a simple infographic that presents:

- key facts about your health topic
- practical tips for healthy living
- visual elements that make information easy to understand

You may draw it by hand or use a digital tool.

What you should demonstrate

By completing this project, you will show that you can:

- use digital media responsibly
- communicate health information clearly

- evaluate online sources for accuracy
- create digital content that benefits your community

Work carefully, be creative, and present your portfolio as if it will be shared with a real online audience.

7.9.2 ASSESSMENT QUESTIONS

SECTION A READING COMPREHENSION

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

Digital Life in Rwanda Today

As a Rwandan citizen, I see how digital tools shape our daily lives. Each morning, people check news updates on their phones before going to work or school. Media platforms inform us about health, education, and national development, while the internet allows students to learn beyond the classroom walls.

In recent years, artificial intelligence has quietly entered our routines. Learners now use AI-powered tools to organise notes, practise languages, and understand complex ideas. In public services, digital systems help citizens access information faster, from health appointments to government announcements. However, digital progress also requires responsibility. Sharing unverified information or misusing technology can cause confusion and harm trust in society.

When media, the internet, and AI are used wisely, they support learning, save time, and strengthen national services. What matters most is how people choose to use these tools.

Questions

1. According to the passage, what role does media play in the daily life of citizens?
2. Explain two ways artificial intelligence supports learning or public services.
3. What risk is mentioned if digital tools are used irresponsibly?
4. Identify one sentence from the passage that contains a noun clause (that-clause or wh-clause) and explain its function.

Sentence: _____

Explanation: _____

5. What is the writer's attitude towards digital technology? Give one reason.

SECTION B VOCABULARY

Activity 1: Matching (5 marks)

Match the words in Column A with their correct meanings in Column B.

Column A	Column B
1. subscriber	a) information that spreads very fast online
2. platform	b) share information publicly through media
3. upload	c) send files from a device to the internet
4. broadcast	d) a system used for communication or learning
5. viral	e) a person who follows or receives content

Activity 2: Vocabulary in Sentences (5 marks)

Choose FIVE words from the list below and use each in a meaningful sentence related to school, media, or technology.

journalist, website, network, online, post, download, AI assistant, social media platform, log in

SECTION C

LANGUAGE STRUCTURES

Activity 1: Noun Clauses (8 marks)

Combine each pair of ideas into ONE sentence using a noun clause (that-clause or wh-clause).

1. People believe this. AI improves access to information.
2. Students want to understand something. How does media influence opinions?
3. The teacher explained something. Why responsible internet use matters.
4. Citizens are aware of this fact. Digital services save time.

Activity 2: Active and Passive Voice (7 marks)

1. Rewrite the sentence in the passive voice.
People share news through online platforms.
2. Rewrite the sentence in the active voice.
Educational data is analysed by AI systems.
3. Choose active or passive voice and explain your choice.
"AI tools are used in schools to support learning."

SECTION D

WRITING

Answer ONE question only.

Option A: Formal Email

Write a formal email to a school administrator requesting guidance on the responsible use of AI tools for learning.

Your email must:

- follow a Gmail-style format,
- be 120–150 words,
- include at least one noun clause,
- include at least one passive sentence,
- use a polite and formal tone.

Option B: Reflective Paragraph

Write a reflective paragraph of 120–150 words on:

"How media, the internet, and AI influence my learning and my community."

Your paragraph must include:

- first-person perspective,
- at least one that-clause and one wh-clause,
- at least one passive sentence,

UNIT 8:

INTRODUCTION TO DRAMA

Key unit competence:

Perform simple dramatic texts by using their elements, expressing ideas through role-play, and demonstrating values and teamwork.

Learning objectives

By the end of this unit, you will be able to:

Knowledge and Understanding

- You will be able to explain drama as a literary genre meant for performance by clearly defining it and distinguishing it from prose and poetry using correct literary terms.
- You will be able to identify, describe, and classify the main elements such as plot structure, character, character traits, dialogue, monologue/soliloquy, and forms of drama such as comedy, tragedy, tragicomedy and melodrama through the analysis of short dramatic texts.

Skills

- You will be able to analyse and interpret short dramatic texts by identifying conflict, structure, themes, messages, and stage directions, and communicating your understanding orally or in writing.
- You will be able to create and perform short dramatic pieces (monologues, dialogues, or role plays) by effectively using voice, gesture, facial expression based on guidance in stage direction while exercising teamwork.

Attitudes & Values

- You will demonstrate appreciation of drama as a creative art and a tool for moral and social reflection through active participation and reflection on performances.
- You will show positive values instilled such as empathy, respect, self-confidence, discipline, and responsibility while collaborating with others during rehearsals and performances.

Introduction

Drama is a form of literature written for performance, where stories are presented through characters, dialogue, and action rather than narration. It brings human experiences, conflicts, and emotions to life on stage, entertaining, educating, and communicating moral and social messages. In this unit, you will learn about the meaning, functions, elements, forms, and structure of drama, and how they work together to create meaningful plays. You will also read, write, analyse, and perform short dramatic pieces to develop creativity, confidence, teamwork, and moral awareness.

Introductory activity

Observe carefully all elements in the picture and answer the questions that follow.

Questions

- What is happening in the scene, and how does it make you feel?
- Who are the characters, what might their relationships be, and how do they make you feel as an audience?
- What emotions or conflict can you see between the characters? Are they praising each other, arguing, or having another kind of interaction?
- What does the content of the picture—characters, actions, and setting—show us about the type of performance or story being presented?

8.1. Meaning of Drama

Activity 8.1.1

Read the play carefully, paying attention to characters, dialogue, and words in brackets and answer the questions that follow

(Noon. Living room. Gwira stands in the center holding an envelope. Murego reads quietly. Kabanyana knits. Shami reads a newspaper.)

Gwira (softly, earnest): Mama, Papa, Murego... come here. I have something important to share. It is a blessing I have prayed for, and it is a fortune for our whole family.

Shami (curious, lowers newspaper): A blessing? Speak slowly, child, so we may understand.

Kabanyana (smiling, leaning forward): Gwira, your voice carries excitement. What is this blessing?

Murego (whispering, leaning forward): I feel something big is coming...

Gwira (holding envelope, confident): I have been accepted to the University of Rwanda. This is an opportunity to learn, to grow, and one day bring honor to our family.

Kabanyana (softly, supportive):

My child... "A child not embraced by the village will burn it down to feel its warmth." You have earned this blessing. Go and follow your dreams.

Shami (frowning, pacing slightly):

University... I ask... what can a girl do after schooling? I do not see any chance in studying for girls. Our daughters' lives are made for the home, not for universities.

Gwira (steps forward, respectful but firm):

Papa... the world is wider than we sometimes see. A girl's learning does not take her away from the home; it strengthens the home. "A bird that soars brings news of distant lands." My education will bring honor and knowledge to our family.

Shami (voice trembling, pacing):

The only thing I can think... being away from us might make her wander... enter inappropriate relationships and bring shame upon our family... and bring shame upon our family. I fear what the world may do to her.

Kabanyana (calm, placing a hand on Shami's shoulder):

Shami... "A child's roots must be strong before she can grow tall." Your fear comes from love, but it must not cage her. Guidance and trust will protect her more than fear. Her growth will bless us all.

Gwira (steady, respectful):

Papa, I understand your worry... I respect our family and our values. But learning does not weaken me—it strengthens my heart and mind. "A river does not flow backward because the path is long." I will honor our home while learning.

Shami (pauses, conflicted, hands clasped):

I... I see your words, child. My heart aches at the thought of losing control over your safety.

Kabanyana (softly):

Shami, love is not control. "The child who flies learns to return." She will return with knowledge, honor, and care for us all.

Shami (takes a deep breath, voice softening, hands resting on Gwira's shoulders):

Then... go, my child. May your journey be safe, and may it bring pride—not shame—to our family.

Gwira (smiling, eyes glistening):

Thank you, Papa. I will honor our home and our values, always.

Kabanyana (placing hand on Gwira's other shoulder, warm smile):

Go with our blessings, child. "A home that nurtures dreams will never be empty."

Murego (hugging Gwira tightly): Teach me everything you learn!

(Rain softens outside. Lamplight casts gentle shadows, reflecting the family's unity, hope, and pride.)

(Morning. The family gathers around Gwira with her luggage. Emotional, but calm.)

Gwira (holding parents' hands): Thank you for believing in me and letting me carry this blessing.

Shami (smiling, nodding): Go with courage. "A child who travels far learns more than one who stays behind." Even here, your journey will teach us all.

Kabanyana (softly): Our love travels with you, always. "The heart that loves is never far from home."

Gwira (smiling): I will return with knowledge, stories, and hope for all of us.

Shami (softly, to Kabanyana): Today, we watched a blessing walk out the door... and yet our family feels stronger.

Kabanyana (smiling): Yes... "A home that nurtures dreams will never be empty."

(Family stands together, calm, proud, united. Curtain slowly closes.)

Questions

- What is happening in the scene, and how does it make you feel?
- Who are the main characters, and how do their actions and words show their feelings and relationships?
- What is the main conflict, and how do the characters express their emotions?
- What features of a play can you identify in the script? (Think about dialogue, stage directions, and character actions.)
- How do the setting, objects, dialogue, and actions work together to make this a drama? Why is this different from just a story?
- Role-play (perform) the play, following the stage directions (words in brackets before each character) to show how characters move, speak, and express their feelings.

Notes:

Drama is a type of literature written to be performed on stage. It tells a story through dialogue, actions, and stage directions rather than just narration. Drama shows the emotions, conflicts, and relationships of characters, and it is meant to be experienced by an audience. The play about Gwira's acceptance to university is an example of drama because it is written for performance and shows characters expressing their feelings through words and actions.

Difference Between Drama, Prose, and Poetry

Feature	Drama	Prose	Poetry
Form	Script with characters, dialogue, and stage directions	Paragraphs and sentences; no special format	Verses, stanzas, often rhythmic and figurative
Purpose	To be performed; to show emotions, conflicts, and stories	To inform, entertain, or tell a story in written form	To evoke feelings, create imagery, or express thoughts
Language	Conversational; reflects how characters speak	language and style vary by genre and purpose; prose is written in sentences and paragraphs.	Figurative, symbolic, expressive; uses metaphors, similes, and sound devices
Differences	Written to be performed; tells a story through dialogue and action	Ordinary written or spoken language; tells a story or gives information	Expressive writing with rhythm, rhyme, or figurative language; conveys emotions or ideas

Read the following literary work and answer the questions that follow:

Homework and Playtime

Scene: A classroom at the end of the day.

A: (looking at B's notebook) "Did you finish your homework?"

B: (smiling and closing notebook) "Yes, I just completed it."

A: (excitedly, standing up) "Great! Let's go play outside."

B: (puts on backpack and runs to the door) "Okay, I'm ready!"

Morning Song

Sun rises bright,
Chasing away the night.
Birds sing in the air,
Morning brings hope everywhere.

Lina and the Lost Puppy

Lina found a lost puppy by the river. She took it home and fed it.

The puppy wagged its tail happily. Lina smiled, knowing she had a new friend.

1. Match the titles of literary works in Column A to their titles in Column B.

Genre A	Title B
Drama	a) Morning Song
Prose	b) Homework and Playtime
Poetry	c) Lina and the Lost Puppy

2. In Homework and Playtime, what is the purpose of the stage directions (the words in brackets)? Give one example.
3. Identify one theme in Homework and Playtime, Morning Song, or Lina and the Lost Puppy. Explain briefly.
4. Summarise Lina and the Lost Puppy in one sentence
5. Recite Morning Song aloud, paying attention to rhythm and expression.
6. Perform Homework and Playtime with a partner, including the stage directions.

8.2. Functions of Drama

Activity 8.2.1

Read the play below and answer questions that follow.

Excerpt 1: At Home

(Kayitesi walked into the house. She was 19 and very beautiful, and she knew it. But today, her looks seemed less bright because she was feeling down. She dropped her school bag on the empty folding chair and went straight to her bedroom without looking at her mother.)

Mother: Kayitesi!

Kayitesi: Mm?

Mother: Didn't you go to school?

Kayitesi I did.

(cross):

Mother: Then what is this?

Kayitesi: What is what, Mama?

Mother Don't answer your mother with questions. What time is it?

(cross):

Kayitesi: Three o'clock.

Mother: And when do classes end? (Silence) I'm waiting, Kayitesi. When?

Kayitesi: Four.

Mother: What are you doing here then at this time if classes end at...

Kayitesi But I told you this morning, Mama. Have you forgotten again?

(interrupting, haughtily):

Mother: Tell me again.

Kayitesi: We were given the warning yesterday during the evening parade. The principal said I had no choice... Many of us had no choice. We had to pay or stay out of school.

Mother And it wasn't enough?

(thunderstruck):

Kayitesi: Hardly enough, Mama.

Mother: One thousand Rwandan francs! And only yesterday morning!

Kayitesi (giving The balance has to be paid, Mama. And it wasn't just me. Three her a typed hundred of us were given that paper.
piece of paper):

Mother Fees balance: two thousand, construction fund three thou...!

(reading): My father! What are they constructing? Another palace?

Kayitesi: A second perimeter fence for the school.

Mother: Another fence! Against what? When did you become cattle to be fenced in like this?

Kayitesi: And for the new Computer Science Laboratory. We must keep up with the world.

Mother (wildly): Computer Science and no food, no water in this house! (Continues reading) Activity fee, one thou... what's this new fees again?

Kayitesi: Games.

Mother: You must now pay even to play games?

Kayitesi: Yes.

Mother (continues reading, her shoulders progressively droop. She has suddenly aged.): Examination fee: two thousand! (Looks at the daughter in bewilderment.)

Kayitesi: It's... it's to pay for paper and ink and the officials who will mark our examinations.

Mother: Again! But what about the salaries they get?

Kayitesi: This is extra work, Mama!

Mother (sighs, pause. With pathetic resignation): Just tell them I can't pay. Every morning I wake up before cockcrow and pick those coffee beans until sunset. I walk all this distance, back home and nobody has paid me for extra work. (She looks long at the paper, lost in thought, her brow in her left palm. Pause. The paper falls to the ground)

Kayitesi: Mama.

Mother: Yes, child.

Kayitesi: What do we do?

Mother (barely above a whisper): I don't know, child. I don't know. You heard what the men's leaders told us the other day: No free things anymore. The holiday is over. We must also tighten our belts and contribute. It happens all over the world. (Ray of hope) Unless... couldn't we perhaps ask the principal to let you learn on credit? If I promised to work harder and pay later... in instalments of course...

Excerpt 2: At the Land

(In front of a poor woman's cottage. Enter The Entrepreneur and workers. He examines the land.)

- The Entrepreneur: This is good land. (Poor Woman enters.) Is this the land you told me was on sale? How sure can I be that it is yours?
- Poor Woman: Yes. It is mine. I inherited it from my grandfather. I've the title deed. I gain nothing from this land. My husband and his fellow drunks reap the profits. It would be better if I sold part of the land and sent my daughter to school. I'll sell this entire piece to you and keep that small plot over there.
- The Entrepreneur: Good idea... but I don't seem to know your daughter. I've never seen her. (Pretending to think) Could I talk to her?
- Poor Woman: She is not here. She went to say farewell to her uncle before she reports to school next week, that is, if you buy this land.
- The Entrepreneur: Here's the money as agreed. Now please give me the title deed.
- Poor Woman (weeping, gives him the deed): I wouldn't have sold this land but I want my daughter to go to school. Her education is my only hope.
- The Entrepreneur: This is my land now, my personal property. Woman, move out of this portion of land within seven days. My workers will start clearing all this after a week. I want to start some development project... I want to build a bar and lodging here.
- Poor Woman: Well... this is now yours... it's up to you to do whatever you want with it.
- The Entrepreneur: Thank you for understanding. (Exit)

Questions

- Why is Kayitesi at home before classes end, and how does her mother react?
- Why does the Poor Woman decide to sell her land, and what does this reveal about her priorities?
- How does the play show the struggles and challenges faced by the characters in their daily lives?
- What lessons or messages about education, responsibility, and family can you learn from this play?
- How do dialogue and stage directions help you understand the emotions and intentions of the characters?
- Explain how drama (play) as a form of literature helps you understand human behaviour, social issues, and moral lessons. Support your answer with examples from this literary work.
- In groups, perform this play, paying attention to the stage directions, dialogue, and emotions of each character.

Notes: Functions of Drama

Drama is a powerful form of literature because it entertains, educates, and reflects real life. Through dialogue, action, and stage directions, drama helps us understand human behaviour, social issues, and moral lessons.

Below are key functions of drama in our lives:

1. Drama Reflects Real-Life Situations

Drama shows the problems, challenges, and experiences of real people, making it relatable to audiences.

Example: Kayitesi struggles with paying her school fees, and the Poor Woman sells her land to educate her daughter.

- The situations reflect poverty, education challenges, and family responsibilities, helping the audience understand real-life issues.

2. Drama Teaches Lessons and Moral Values

Drama conveys ethical lessons, social norms, and values, helping audiences learn about right and wrong.

Example: The Poor Woman sacrifices her land so her daughter can go to school.

- This teaches the importance of sacrifice, responsibility, and valuing education.

3. Drama Evokes Emotions

Drama makes audiences feel the emotions of the characters, creating empathy and a deeper understanding of their experiences.

Example: Stage directions such as (weeping, gives him the deed) and (cross) show sadness, anger, or frustration.

- Audiences experience the characters' pain, worry, and determination, making the story more engaging and memorable.

4. Drama Encourages Critical Thinking

Drama presents conflicts and dilemmas, prompting audiences to analyse situations and consider consequences.

Example: The dilemma of selling the land or keeping it creates questions about priorities and ethics.

- Audiences are encouraged to reflect on decisions and their impact, enhancing understanding of human behavior and society.

5. Drama Entertains While Informing

Drama uses conflict, suspense, dialogue, and action to capture attention while conveying meaningful messages.

Example: The tension over school fees and land sale keeps the story interesting.

- Audiences are engaged and entertained, while also learning about social and economic issues.

6. Drama Shows Human Behaviour and Relationships

Drama illustrates how people interact, make decisions, and relate to one another.

Example: The interactions between Kayitesi and her mother, and the Poor Woman's care for her daughter.

- Audiences understand motivations, emotions, and relationships, helping them relate to the characters

7. Drama Guides Performance Through Stage Directions

Stage directions tell actors how to move, speak, and show emotions, making the story clear and engaging.

Example: Directions like (interrupting, haughtily) and (softly, earnest) guide the actors' expressions and tone.

- Audiences understand the characters' mood, intentions, and feelings, making the drama more realistic and immersive.

Drama contributes to society by mirroring life, teaching values, evoking emotions, and encouraging reflection. The examples from this play, like struggles with school fees and sacrifices for education, show how drama makes these contributions meaningful and relatable.

8.3. Elements of Drama

8.3.1. Characters and Characterization

Activity 8.3.1.1

Read the short play below and answer questions that follow.

John: I can't believe we lost this match.

Hakuzimana: It was your fault you fool!

John: What? Did you just call me a...(Pouncing on him with a clenched fist.)

Hakuzimana: (Turning to John with a thundering slap on the cheek.)
Yes, I did!
(The two tear at each other in a wrestle.)

Mr Abwagire: What is happening here!
(Pointing at the two boys fighting.)

Mwenz: John and Hakuzimana have been insulting each other after the football match.

John: (Scared to see the teacher and pulling away from Hakuzimana who has not seen the teacher yet.)
He called me a fool, Sir

Mr Abwagire: And you decided to act like one? Both of you to my office!
Now!

Read the short play below and answer questions that follow.

John: I can't believe we lost this match.

Hakuzimana: It was your fault you fool!

John: What? Did you just call me a...
(Pouncing on him with a clenched fist.)

Hakuzimana: (Turning to John with a thundering slap on the cheek.)
Yes I did!
(The two tear at each other in a wrestle.)

Mr Abwagire: What is happening here!
(Pointing at the two boys fighting.)

Mwenz: John and Hakuzimana have been insulting each other after the football match.

John: (Scared to see the teacher and pulling away from Hakuzimana who has not seen the teacher yet.)
He has called me a fool, Sir.

Mr Abwagire: And you decided to act like one? Both of you to my office!
Now!

Hakuzimana: (Rising in panic.)
Am sor...y...

Mr Abwagire: I will send you two home, for your parents. I don't tolerate violence in school.
(John and Hakuzimana run towards the office, blaming each other.)
The rest of you can continue playing.

Questions

1. Fill in the table by noting the character's name, the evidence from the play, and what it shows about their personality.

Character	Evidence from the Play (speech/actions)	Characterisation
_____	Argues after losing the match; "Pouncing on him with a clenched fist"	_____
_____	Insults another player and uses violence; "Turning to John with a thundering slap on the cheek"	_____

Mr Abwagire	_____	Strict, authoritative, disciplined, responsible
Mwenza	_____	Calm, honest, observant, responsible

B. Open-ended Questions

1. Which character shows poor self-control? Support your answer with evidence from the play.
2. Which character is presented as a figure of authority? Explain how the playwright shows this.
3. How does the contrast between the students' behaviour and the teacher's response strengthen the message of the play?
4. Imagine you are John. How would you have handled your anger differently after the match to avoid the fight?
5. Imagine you are Hakuzimana. How could you have reacted differently to avoid escalating the conflict with John?

Notes: Characters and Characterization

1. Character

A character is a person or being in a play who takes part in the action. Characters drive the story and help the audience understand the events, conflicts, and messages of the play.

Examples from the play:

- John – a player who gets angry after losing a match.
- Hakuzimana – a player who insults John and fights him.
- Mr Abwagire – the teacher who stops the fight and maintains order.
- Mwenza – a student who calmly explains what happened.

2. Characterisation

Characterisation is the way a playwright shows what a character is like. It helps the audience understand why characters behave the way they do.

Characterisation can be identified through:

- Speech – what a character says and how they say it.
- Actions – what a character does, gestures, or movements.
- Reactions – how other characters respond to them.

Examples:

- John: "Pouncing on him with a clenched fist" shows he is hot-tempered and impulsive.
- Hakuzimana: "Turning to John with a thundering slap on the cheek" shows he is rude and confrontational.
- Mr Abwagire: stops the fight and sends the boys to the office shows he is strict and responsible.
- Mwenza: explains calmly what happened shows he is calm and observant.

Why Characterization Matters

- Makes the story realistic and interesting.
- Shows how conflict develops and is resolved.
- Helps the audience understand motivations and predict outcomes.
- Engages the audience by making characters' actions and emotions understandable.

Activity 8.3.1.2

Read the dialogue below and answer the questions that follow

Play: "The Tree Between Two Lands"

Scene: Early morning near a large tree between two farms

(Amani is clearing weeds around a large tree. He looks at the crops thoughtfully.)

Amani: This tree has grown so much. If I clear the weeds, the crops will get more sunlight.

(Baraka storms in angrily, holding an axe. His footsteps are loud.)

Baraka: Amani! What are you doing here?

Amani: (calmly) Good morning, Baraka. I am just clearing some weeds near the tree.

Baraka: (clenching his fist, raising his axe) Near the tree? That tree marks the boundary of my land! You are trying to take what is mine!

Amani: (calmly raises his stick to block Baraka) Baraka, please calm down. Fighting will not solve this problem. Let us call Mama Zawadi.

(Kato sneaks closer, whispering to Amani.)

Kato: Maybe the tree grows only on brave people's land.

Amani: (suppressing a smile, still calm) Kato, now is not the time for jokes.

Baraka: (shouting, stepping forward) Stay out of this, Kato! Amani, leave my land now!

(Tension rises as the two men face each other, weapons raised.)

(Mama Zawadi enters slowly, her presence commanding respect.)

Mama Zawadi: What is happening here?

Amani: Mama Zawadi, Baraka thinks I am taking his land.

Baraka: Because he is working on my side of the boundary!

Mama Zawadi: (firmly, with wisdom) Enough! Anger will not solve this problem. Land is not just soil. It is respect, fairness, and responsibility.
(Both men lower their weapons, feeling her calm authority.)

Baraka: (sighs, calmer) Then what should we do?

Mama Zawadi: We will measure the boundary carefully and consult the village elders.

Amani: That sounds fair.

Baraka: (nodding, reflecting) Maybe I reacted too quickly.

Amani: And maybe I should have asked before clearing the weeds.

Kato: (grinning) Good! Now the tree can stop worrying about who owns it.

Mama Zawadi: Remember this lesson: always choose peace before anger.
(Everyone looks at the tree quietly. The tension fades.)

Comprehension questions

1. How does the first character (Amani) behave when Baraka threatens him?
2. How does the second character (Baraka) react when he thinks Amani is taking his land?
3. What does Mama Zawadi do to try to resolve the conflict?
4. What does Kato do during the fight between Amani and Baraka, and what does it reveal about him?
5. How do Amani and Baraka's actions make the conflict tense? Give examples from the play.
6. How do the behaviours and choices of the characters help develop the story and make it interesting? Use evidence from the play.
7. Imagine you are Amani. How could you have handled the situation differently to avoid escalating the conflict?
8. Imagine you are Baraka. What could you have done differently to avoid the argument?

Fill in the table by noting the character's name, the evidence from the play, and what it shows about their personality.

Character	Character Traits	Evidence from the Play (Speech/ Actions)
_____	_____	"Calmly raises his stick and blocks Baraka; suggests calling Mama Zawadi."

_____	_____	"Storms in angrily, clenches fist, raises an axe, shouts at Amani."
Mama Zawadi	_____	"Enters firmly, says: 'Land is not just soil. It is respect, fairness, and responsibility.'"
Kato	_____	"Whispers to Amani: 'Maybe the tree grows only on brave people's land.'"

8.4. Dialogue, Plot and Setting in a Play

Activity 8.4.1

Read the dramatic play below and answer the questions that follow

Narrator: (Standing at the side of the stage) This play is set in a small restaurant. Business is low. Workers are tired. The owner is under pressure.

(Lights come up. Kabosi walks slowly among empty tables.)

Kabosi: Mama Zawadi, Baraka thinks I am taking his land.

Mugema: (Leaning toward Karaki) He worries about empty tables but ignores our hunger.

Karaki: (Shaking his head) Hungry workers cannot give good service.

Kabosi: (Claps his hands loudly) Why is table four still dirty? Why are customers not welcomed properly?

Kabagema: (Holding a dirty cloth) Sir, we are trying our best.

Kabosi: (Pointing at the table) Your best is not enough.

Marebe: (Quietly, looking down) We are tired, sir.
(Kabosi looks angrily at the swinging door bell.)

Kabosi: (Staring at the bell) Even the door bell works harder than you.

Karaki: (With controlled anger) Maybe it is treated better.

Kabosi: (Steps closer) Say that again.

Karaki: (Standing firm) We are exhausted.

Mugema: (Raising his voice slightly) We survive on promises instead of pay.

Kabosi: (Angrily) I gave you jobs when no one else would.

Kabagema: (Steps forward bravely) And paid us too little.
(Kabosi turns away and paces nervously.)

Kabosi: (Pacing) I borrowed money to start this business. If I increase salaries, I collapse. If I don't, this place still collapses.

Mugema: (Turning to the audience) He fears losing his business. We fear losing our dignity.

Marebe: (With frustration) Hunger affects attitude. A hungry worker cannot serve properly.
(Kabosi suddenly turns to face the workers.)

Marebe: (Sharply) So this bad service is intentional?

Karaki: (Calm but firm) No. It is exhaustion.

Kabosi: (Shouting) This restaurant is about to close.

Kabagema: (Moving closer) So are we?

Kabosi: (Pointing angrily) You will destroy everything I worked for.

Mugema: (Stepping into Kabosi's space) You destroyed what makes service work—respect for workers.
(A knock is heard offstage. Kabosi slowly sits down.)

Kabosi: (Sitting heavily) Another customer has left.

Kabagema: (Quiet but firm) Or another warning.

Kabosi: (Looking up slowly) So bad service is not the real problem.

Marebe: (Clearly) No. It is the result of how workers are treated.
(The door bell rings once. Lights fade.)

Questions

1. What shows that Kabosi was angry and stressed?
2. What shows that the workers were tired and frustrated?
3. How do the workers use dialogue to explain why service was poor?
4. Which character spoke calmly even when facing Kabosi's anger, and what did they say?
5. Where and when (time of the day) does the play take place?
6. What happens at the beginning, in the middle, at the end of the play, and what message does the ending give?
7. Summarise the play, explaining the main events from beginning to end?
8. Choose a part of the play to role-play. Then act out that part with a partner or group, showing the dialogue, emotions, and actions of the characters.

1. Dialogue

Dialogue is the conversation between characters in a play.

Why it matters:

- Shows what characters think, feel, and want.
- Reveals conflict between characters.
- Helps the audience understand personalities and emotions.

Example: Kabosi shouting, "Why is table four still dirty?" shows he is angry and stressed.

2. Setting

Setting is the place and time where the play happens.

Why it matters:

- Helps the audience imagine the scene.
- Creates the mood (tense, happy, sad).
- Explains why characters behave in certain ways.

Example: The restaurant setting explains why characters talk about tables, customers, and service.

3. Plot

Plot is the sequence of events in a play.

Why it matters:

- Helps the audience follow the story.
- Shows how problems and conflicts develop.
- Helps the audience understand the main message or lesson.

Example: In the play, poor service is shown in the middle, and the ending shows the real problem is how workers are treated.

Plot structure

a) Exposition

- Beginning of the story
- Introduces setting, characters, and problem
- Example: Empty restaurant, tired workers, worried owner (Kabosi)

b) Rising Action

- Conflict begins and grows
- Arguments and tension increase
- Example: Kabosi complains about service; workers complain about hunger and low pay

c) Climax

- Highest point of tension
- Main issue is revealed
- Example: Workers explain that poor service is caused by mistreatment

d) Falling Action

- Tension reduces after the climax
- Characters begin to reflect
- Example: Kabosi sits down and starts to understand the workers

e) Resolution

- Ending of the story
- Lesson or message is shown
- Example: Kabosi realizes respect for workers is important

Activity 8.4.2

Read the play Below and answer questions that follow

- Narrator: It is early morning in the village. The sun has not yet risen, but work has already begun. In this small home, Mutesi starts her day with hard work, while the family's troubles quietly wait to unfold.
- Mutesi (softly, wiping sweat as she pounds cassava leaves): Another day begins before the sun... and still ends with blame.
- Shami (entering angrily and dropping his walking stick): Mutesi! Why is the pot still empty? Am I not the man of this house?
- Mutesi (Calm but firm, without looking up): I have been in the fields since morning, Shami. The children needed water. The firewood is not yet dry.
- Shami (mocking, stepping closer): Excuses... excuses until when? How many times do I need to remind you of your duty? A woman's duty is to cook for her man.
- Mutesi (standing up slowly): And what about rest? What about respect?
- Kamali (entering and laughing): Shami, women today talk too much. If she doesn't cook, remind her who rules the house.
- Mutesi (angrily, facing Kamali): Is marriage a kingdom? Am I your servant or your wife?
- Shami (stepping closer, voice raised): You forget yourself, woman! This house stands because I am the man!
- Mutesi (shaking but strong): No, Shami. This house stands because I wake before dawn, work without rest, and still must smile while hungry!
- Giramahoro (entering slowly with a walking stick): Enough. Shami, tyranny does not build a home. It breaks it.
- Shami (defensive, turning to his mother): Mother, I only follow tradition.
- Giramahoro (sternly): Tradition without justice is cruelty. A woman is not a pot to be filled with orders.
- Shami (frowning, still confused): But mother, if I do not lead, who will? How can a man be respected if his house is not obeyed?
- Mapata (entering, calm but firm): Shami, slow down. Listen before you answer. A home where a woman is respected is a home that grows strong. A man who listens and values his wife prospers, for harmony brings wealth, peace, and love.

Shami (pausing, lowering his head slowly): I... I did not see it that way. I thought strength was in ruling, in being feared.

Mapata (placing a hand on Shami's shoulder): True strength is in respect, in partnership. The family that works together and honors each member will never lack.

Shami (looking at Mutesi, softly): Mutesi... I forgot you are human before you are a wife. I was blind to your toil and your heart.

Mutesi (placing the pot on the fire, calm but firm): Then let us cook , respect first. Food will follow.

Shami (lighting the pot and helping Mutesi to cook): "From now on, this home will stand on respect, not fear. I will work with you, Mutesi. I am truly sorry, and I apologize for how I have been treating you."

(Goat bells fade. Lights dim slowly as the family moves together, a sense of hope, unity, and shared work filling the stage.)

End of Play

Questions

1. Mutesi says, "Another day begins before the sun... and still ends with blame." What does this tell you about her daily life and feelings?
2. Imagine you are Shami at the beginning of the play. How would you act?
3. Describe the main problem in the story. Which character actions create tension in the home?
4. When and where does the story take place?
5. Mapata advises Shami about respecting his wife. What does this advice teach about how a family can live peacefully and prosper?
6. How do Shami's actions change at the end of the play? What does help Mutesi cook show about him?
7. Which character do you admire, and which character don't you admire? Explain your answer using examples from the text.

8.5. Genres of Drama

Activity 8.5.1

Read carefully the four short dramatic plays and answer questions that follow.

I am an Evildoer

A rural village home, late afternoon. The kitchen is bare; a small ¹water tank stands at the side. Silence hangs heavy.

Kagoyire (knocking furiously at the door):
Who has taken my coffee from the plantation? This theft will not go unanswered!

Sano (trembling, pointing at Marebe):
Kagoyire, come and see! This is your coffee, peeled and already sold to the factory.
It was Marebe! I saw her carrying the coffee grains in a white sack!

Marebe (shaking her head violently):
No! I did not take your coffee!
You are lying!
(points at Sano with fury)

Sano (pleading):
Mother... I am only telling the truth. I saw you stealing the coffee.

Kagoyire (glaring at Marebe): Is this true?
Did you steal my coffee?

Marebe (voice breaking): I did not! I swear I am innocent!

Kagoyire storms out to report the matter to Kaburame, the village leader. The house falls into an ominous silence.

Marebe (alone, muttering, eyes hollow):
Hunger... hunger... hunger has eaten my soul.
This woman will destroy me... disgrace me...

I have already eaten the coffee. There is no escape now. Where can I escape to? She slowly turns toward Sano

Marebe (grabbing his arm, voice low and unsteady): You will not destroy me with your tongue.

Sano (crying): Mother! Please! I have done nothing wrong! I only spoke the truth!

Marebe (dragging him toward the water tank, desperate): If you speak again... I am finished.

Sano (screaming): Help! Help! Neighbours, please help me! Rescue me! I am died! I am dying!

The screams fade into silence.

A moment passes. Marebe steps back slowly, staring into the tank. Her hands tremble. She collapses to her knees.

A crowd of villagers rushes in, followed by police officers.

Villager (horrified): What has she done?

Police Officer (rushing forward, then stopping abruptly): ...Oh no.

Marebe does not speak. She stares blankly.

Kaburame (arriving, stern and shaken):
Marebe... this is beyond theft.
This is blood on your hands.

Kagoyire (breaking down):
The child... the child was innocent...

Marebe (whispering, broken):
Hunger blinded me... I killed my own child... What kind of person am I? I am a real evildoer.

The villagers murmur in terror and sorrow. Marebe is taken away by the police. The water tank remains at the center of the stage, silent and unforgiving.

Lights dim.

End of Scene

An Eye for Meal

NARRATOR: (low, dramatic) The drought had emptied the land. Hunger had taken residence in every stomach in this village.

JUMA: (staggering in, clutching his stomach) Doctor... today hunger has defeated my pride.

DOCTOR: (concerned, guiding him to a seat) Sit down, Juma. You look like a shadow arguing with itself.

JUMA: (shaking his head side to side, weak laugh) Leave it, Doctor... leave it for hungry people like us. Hunger is knocking me down every minute. Remove my eye so that I can eat it.

DOCTOR: (studying him, serious) Juma... this is not a butcher shop. This is a clinic.

JUMA: (straightens slowly, suddenly serious) That is why I am here, Doctor. Remove my eye.

DOCTOR: (jumps back, horrified) Your eye?!

DOCTOR: (firm, desperate) Yes. I will eat it.

DOCTOR: (calm but firm) Juma... even if I remove one eye, you will still be hungry.

(Long pause. JUMA thinks deeply.)

JUMA: (suddenly nods, confident, grinning) Ahhh... then remove two.

DOCTOR: (shouting, panicked) TWO?!

JUMA: (very calm, logical) Yes, Doctor. If one cannot end my hunger, then two will be sufficient to remove my hunger forever.

(The doctor freezes, speechless. JUMA smirks.)

Gold Cannot Buy Fur

Scene: (KOFI tending his rabbits. Villagers watch anxiously from a distance.)

NARRATOR: (somber, gripping) In the village, the sun beat mercilessly, the drought had stolen every drop of hope... and yet, Kofi's rabbits hopped safely, unaware of the storm about to descend.

MUSORE: (sarcastic, smirking) Let him try... Kofi's rabbits bite harder than a lion's teeth!

MR. KWAME: (running in, pan-ic-stricken, voice shaking) Kofi! Kofi! My daughter... she screams in unbearable pain! Hot beans scalded her arms! We rushed her to the hospital... the doctors fear... she may not survive! I beg you... I need your rabbit fur for bandages!

KOFI: (leaning on his stick, smirking, voice calm and proud) My fur? You want my rabbits' fur?

KALISA: (whispering to MUSORE, nervously giggling) Can you believe him? He actually thinks Kofi will give it... even now!

KANKWANZI: (clutching chest, horrified, voice trembling) Oh! The audacity! To ask for fur while a child suffers!

MR. KWAME: (pleading, shaking a bag of gold, desperate) Take this money! Please... my daughter's life depends on it! I am begging you!

KOFI: (laughing, slapping a rabbit gently, voice firm) Gold? Coins? Your wealth cannot buy my heart. My pride... my rabbits... my fur... they remain untouchable.

KALISA: (giggling, covering her mouth) Look at him! Acting like a king among peasants while the girl writhes in pain!

MUSORE: (shaking head, voice wry) Smarter than the richest man here... yet, perhaps not kinder.

KALISA: (whispering to MUSORE, nervously giggling) Can you believe him? He actually thinks Kofi will give it... even now!

KANKWANZI: (dramatic, nearly fainting) He even refuses gold! What kind of man is this?!

KOFI: (patting a rabbit, proud, voice almost singing with arrogance) I am a man with fur, Mr. Kwame... and that is enough!

(Long, tense pause. MR. KWAME throws the gold to the ground, fuming and humiliated, and storms away. Villagers stare silently, torn between laughter at Kofi's stubbornness and fear for the girl.)

NARRATOR: (soft, bittersweet) And so Mr. Kwame left... defeated and powerless. Kofi returned to his rabbits, proud, boastful... while the village whispered, caught between awe, fear, and amusement.

MR. KWAME: (voice cracking, desperate) What kind of man are you? No heart? No mercy? My daughter... she may die... and still, you refuse!

KALISA: (half-laughing, half-sad) Hilarious... yet terrifying. The girl writhes in agony, and still, the rich man is helpless.

MUSORE: (nodding, serious) That's life. Sometimes you laugh... sometimes you cry... sometimes both at once.

NARRATOR: (reflective, gentle) And that is the way of the village... tragic, ridiculous... and deeply human.

BLACKOUT.

THE HILL OF SORROW

Scene: (A small, dimly lit room. GWIZA sits on a chair, holding her stomach, tears streaming. KAGORORA paces nervously. Soft, sorrowful violin music plays.)

NARRATOR: In the quiet of the ghetto, sorrow and despair filled the air. Gwiza, young and full of dreams, now faced a life-changing dilemma.

KAGORORA: (voice trembling, approaching Gwiza) Gwiza... please... I may have nothing, not a coin... but I love you. Let us marry, even informally. I promise... I will care for you and the child.

GWIZA: (shaking her head, sobbing) Kagorora... you do not understand. I... I never loved you. I believed you had means, that you could provide... but you... you have nothing!

KAGORORA: (voice cracking, desperate) Nothing... but my heart, Gwiza! My life is yours!

GWIZA: (voice breaking, tears falling like raindrops) My parents... my parents warned me. They said, "Protect your future, Gwiza. Do not let poverty bind your life." Their words... they echo in my heart now...

NARRATOR: Her tears fell silently, while the violin whispered her sorrow, echoing the hopelessness of her predicament. GWIZA: (voice trembling, almost whispering) I cannot marry you, Kagorora... I... I must end this... I cannot bear a child I never chose, with a man who cannot give.

KAGORORA: (falling to his knees, crying, music intensifies) Gwiza... please... do not take my heart... my life... my only dream...

GWIZA: (stands trembling, hands shaking, face wet with tears) I... I am sorry... I cannot...

NARRATOR: The room filled with grief. Love, poverty, and broken dreams collided... leaving hearts shattered. A melodrama of life's cruelest twists.

(Music swells sorrowfully, then fades to silence. Gwiza sobs quietly as Kagorora stares helplessly.)

BLACKOUT.

Questions

A . Open ended questions

1. Which play ends with a serious misfortune that causes great suffering and leaves the audience feeling pity and fear? Support your answer with evidence from the play.
2. Which play uses amusing situations, unexpected ideas, or humorous dialogue to entertain the audience? Give examples from the play.
3. Which play combines both serious suffering and humorous moments? Explain how these contrasting elements affect the audience.
4. Which play contains exaggerated emotions, intense suffering, crying, pleading, or other highly emotional scenes? Support your answer with examples from the play.
5. Compare the endings of the four plays. Which ending leaves the audience feeling the saddest, and why?
6. How do the actions and decisions of the main characters contribute to the events and outcomes of each play?
7. Which play relies most on humour to communicate its message? Explain how humour is used to influence the audience.
8. Which play relies most on strong emotions to engage the audience? Identify the emotions presented and explain their effect.
9. How do the conflicts presented in the four plays differ from one another? Give examples from each play.
10. What lessons or messages can audiences learn from each of the four plays?
11. Which play did you find most effective in communicating its message? Give reasons based on the characters, conflict, and events.

B. Match each play in Column A with the correct form of drama in Column B. Give a reason for your choice.

Column A: Play	Column B: Genres of Drama
1. I am an Evildoer	Tragi-comedy
2. An Eye for Meal	Tragedy
3. Gold Cannot Buy Fur	Melodrama
4. The Hill of Sorrow	Comedy

Notes: Genres of Drama

1. Tragedy

A play that ends with sadness, suffering, or death.

Purpose: To make the audience feel pity or fear.

Features:

- Characters face serious problems they cannot escape.
- Ends with misfortune or death.

Example:

- The Evildoer: Marebe kills her child because of hunger and fear. The ending is sad and tragic.

2. Comedy

A play written to make the audience laugh.

Purpose: To entertain and sometimes teach lessons through humor.

Features:

- Funny situations, misunderstandings, or mistakes.
- Usually ends happily.

Examples:

- An Eye for Meal: Juma wants to eat his eye. This is funny and absurd, even though it is about hunger.

3. Melodrama

A play that shows strong emotions like crying, begging, or fear.

Purpose: To make the audience feel strong emotions like sympathy or sadness.

Features:

- Exaggerated feelings and actions.
- Often includes music or dramatic gestures.

Example:

- The Hill of Sorrow: Gwiza cries, Kagorora begs, and the music makes it very emotional.

4. Tragicomedy

A play that mixes sadness and humor.

Purpose: To make the audience feel both sad and amused.

Features:

- Serious situations with some funny or ironic moments.
- Can include pride, stubbornness, or lessons about life.

Example:

- Gold Cannot Buy Fur: A child is suffering (serious), but Kofi's pride and villagers' reactions are funny.

Quick Tips to Identify Drama Genres

Genre	Look for...
Tragedy	Sad ending, death, suffering
Comedy	Funny situations, happy ending
Melodrama	Exaggerated emotions, crying, music
Tragicomedy	Mix of sadness and humor, irony

Activity 8.5.2

Read the play below and answer questions that follow

Murema the "Pig Thief"

Scene: A pigsty at night. MUREMA sneaks in to steal pigs. The FARMER comes quietly with pig feed.

FARMER: (quietly)
Time to feed my pigs before I sleep...

(Murema freezes, hiding behind the pigs.)

FARMER: (tapping Murema on the head accidentally)
Hey! Who's there?

MUREMA: (panicking, taps his head and oinks loudly)
Oink! Oink!

FARMER: (laughs)
A talking pig? Or a thief pretending to be a pig? Hmm... let's see.

(The farmer sprinkles some feed on the ground near Murema.)

FARMER: (muttering)
If you're really a pig... eat it like one. But if you are human... hmm... I'll know!

(Murema looks nervous but quickly starts eating the feed, rolling in it, and oinking loudly.)

FARMER: (scratching his head, speaking softly)
Wow... this pig... it's eating just like my other pigs. Seems normal... maybe I'm imagining things.

(The farmer sprinkles more feed, even talking to Murema.)

FARMER: Eat well, my pig. You must grow big and strong... yes, just like a proper pig!

(Murema continues oinking and eating, pretending to enjoy it.)

VILLAGER 1: (watching from outside, laughing)
Look at him! He's eating like a pig... and the farmer believes it!

VILLAGER 2: The thief fooled everyone!

FARMER: (yawning, satisfied)
Good pig... now sleep.

(The farmer leaves the pigsty and goes to his house to sleep. Murema waits a moment, then sneaks out, covered in feed.)

MUREMA: (to himself, whispering)
Phew! That was close... pretending to be a pig really works!

END SCENE

Questions

1. What genre of drama does this play belong to?
2. Give two examples from the play that make it funny.
3. How does Murema pretend to avoid being caught by the farmer?
4. Did the farmer discover that Murema is human? Explain your answer.
5. What moral lesson does the play teach the audience?

8.6. Monologue/Soliloquy and Dialogue in drama

Activity 8.6.1

Re-read the play and answer the questions that follow.

A. Open-Ended Questions

1. Can you identify a part in the play where Murema speaks alone? What is happening at that moment?
2. Can you identify a part where two or more characters are talking to each other? What is happening in that conversation?
3. Find a part where Murema speaks to himself (soliloquy). Why does he speak alone there?
4. How does the dialogue between the farmer and Murema help the audience understand the story?
5. Why is it important to pay attention to both soliloquies/monologues and dialogues in this play?

B. Answer by True or False

1. Murema speaking to himself at the end of the play is an example of a soliloquy. (True / False)
2. Dialogue happens when Murema talks alone in the pigsty. (True / False)
3. The farmer never finds out that Murema is human. (True / False)
4. Soliloquies show what a character is thinking or feeling. (True / False)
5. The conversation between the villagers is an example of dialogue. (True / False)

Notes:

1. Monologue

Definition: A monologue is a long speech given by one character to other characters on stage.

Purpose: It allows a character to express thoughts, feelings, or plans directly to the audience or other characters.

Key Features:

- One character speaks at length.
- Other characters may be present and listening.
- Reveals important information about the character or the plot.

Example:

Murema talks to the farmer about his life or problems without being interrupted.

2. Soliloquy

Definition: A soliloquy is when a character speaks alone on stage, expressing inner thoughts or feelings.

Purpose: It gives the audience insight into what a character is thinking privately.

Key Features:

- The character is alone or appears to be alone.
- Other characters do not hear what is being said.
- Reveals the character's inner conflicts, emotions, or decisions.

Example:

- Murema speaks to himself in the pigsty, explaining his worries or dreams.

3. Dialogue

Dialogue is a conversation between two or more characters in a play.

Purpose:

- Moves the story forward.
- Shows relationships between characters.
- Reveals conflicts, ideas, or emotions through interaction.

Key Features:

- Involves two or more characters speaking.
- Characters respond to each other.
- Helps the audience understand the story through interactions.

Example:

- Murema talking to the farmer about the pigs.
- Villagers discussing what happened in the village
- Quick Comparison Table

Technique	Who speaks?	Who hears it?	Key Feature / Purpose
Monologue	One character	Other characters or audience	Long speech revealing feelings or important info
Soliloquy	One character	Nobody (alone)	Reveals inner thoughts and emotions
Dialogue	Two or more	Each other	Conversation that advances story and shows relationships

Activity 8.6.2

Read the play carefully and answer the questions that follow.

THE PRICE OF LAZINESSScene One: At School

(A school compound. Aline is sitting on a bench reading a book. Umulisa is lying on the grass, looking bored and lazy.)

Aline: Umulisa, why are you not reading your books?

Umulisa: (stretching and yawning) Reading is too hard. I am tired of school work.

Aline: Education is important for our future.

Umulisa: My future will be fine. I don't need to work hard like you.

Aline: Laziness brings problems, my friend.

Umulisa: (sitting up slightly) Stop disturbing me. Life is easy when others help you.
(Aline shakes her head in worry and continues reading.)

Scene Two

(Umulisa sits alone under a tree. She looks thoughtful and worried.)

Umulisa: Why should I suffer like others when life can be easy? Men have money and they can give me food, clothes, and airtime. I will enjoy life without working hard because hard work is not for me.

(She smiles faintly and looks offstage as if imagining an easy life.)

Scene Three: On the Road

(Umulisa walks slowly on a dusty road, holding her stomach. She looks tired and hungry. Man One and Man Two approach her from stage left.)

Man One: (looking at her closely and shaking his head) Young girl, why are you walking alone like this? A beautiful girl should not walk alone. You look weak and hungry.

Umulisa: (sadly, lowering her eyes) I have not eaten since morning. I have no money at all.

Man Two: (pretending to care, smiling) That is very sad. A young girl like you should not suffer like this.

Umulisa: (almost crying, holding her stomach) Life is hard. Nobody cares about me.

Man One: (bringing out money from his pocket) Take this money. Buy food and feel better.

Umulisa: (surprised, smiling faintly) Really? Thank you so much.

Man Two: (smiling slyly) We just want you to enjoy life like other girls.

Umulisa: (relieved, looking at the money) I like easy life. I am tired of suffering.

Man One: Do not ask many questions. Just enjoy today.

Umulisa: (hesitates, then nods) Alright.

(They walk offstage together slowly. Umulisa looks down at the money with a mixture of happiness and curiosity. Lights fade.)

Scene Four

(Aline finds Umulisa sitting near a fence, counting the money. She looks cheerful but careless.)

Umulisa: Aline, life is sweet! I do not read books and I do not work hard, but men give me money whenever I want. I eat well, dress nicely, and enjoy myself. Why should I suffer in class when life can be this easy?

(Aline frowns and crosses her arms.)

Scene Five

Aline: Umulisa, this life you are living is dangerous.

Umulisa: You are just jealous of me.

Aline: I am worried about you. Easy money can destroy your future.

Umulisa: (waving her hand dismissively) Do not worry. I know what I am doing.

(Aline sighs and walks offstage, shaking her head.)

Scene Six: At the Health Centre

(Umulisa sits on a chair in a small clinic. Nurse stands in front of her holding papers.)

Nurse: Umulisa, your test results are ready.

Umulisa: (anxiously leaning forward) Please tell me, nurse.

Nurse: You are HIV positive.

Umulisa: (covers her face with hands, crying) Oh no! How will I live now?

Nurse: With treatment and care, you can live positively, but you must change your life.

(Umulisa sits silently, sobbing. Nurse gently pats her shoulder and exits.)

Scene Seven

(Umulisa sits alone under a tree, head in hands, crying softly.)

to study and ignored good advice. I chose easy money instead of hard work, and now I am suffering because of my poor decisions.

(She looks up briefly at the audience, eyes full of regret, then bows her head again.)

Scene Eight: Final Scene

(Umulisa stands alone center stage, facing the audience.)

Umulisa: Young girls, learn from my story. Laziness pushed me into danger. I wanted easy life and ignored education and self-respect. Today I suffer the consequences. Work hard, respect yourselves, and protect your future.

(She slowly walks offstage as the lights fade to black.)

Questions

A. Comprehension questions

1. Give one example of a dialogue in the play and explain what the characters are talking about.
2. Find a part where Umulisa speaks alone and describe what she is thinking. What dramatic technique is this?
3. In Scene Four or Scene Eight, Umulisa speaks at length to another character or the audience. What is she trying to say? What dramatic technique is this?
4. How does the conversation between Aline and Umulisa help the audience understand the story?
5. Act out the play "The Price of Laziness" and make sure you follow all the directions written in brackets.

B. Identify the Dramatic Technique

Feature	Dramatic Technique (Monologue, Soliloquy and Dialogue)
Umulisa is alone under a tree, expressing her private thoughts about wanting an easy life.

Umulisa talks at length to Aline, explaining why she prefers easy money and ignores hard work.
Umulisa and Man One talk on the road; they ask questions and respond to each other about money and food.
Umulisa speaks to herself after learning her test results, showing her regret and inner feelings.
Umulisa gives advice to other girls about working hard while standing alone on stage.

8.7. Acting out a Dramatic play

Activity 8.7.1

Re-read the play “The Price of Laziness” carefully. Then answer the questions that follow. Focus on understanding the characters, their emotions, and the actions in each scene, as this will help you perform the play effectively.

Questions

1. Who are the main characters in the play, and what are their key traits?
2. What is the main conflict or problem in the story?
3. Identify one scene where a character is alone. What is their emotional state, and how would you show it while acting?
4. Give an example of a scene with two or more characters interacting. How would you show the relationships and emotions through acting?
5. What key actions or stage directions must you follow to make the performance realistic?
6. Which parts of the play are most important to highlight for the audience to understand the moral lesson?
7. How can you use your voice, facial expressions, and gestures to convey the characters' feelings effectively?
8. What is the lesson or moral of the play, and how can it be communicated through performance?

Acting Out a Dramatic Play

Acting out a dramatic play involves performing the written play on stage, bringing the characters, dialogue, actions, and emotions to life in front of an audience. It is both a literary and performance skill.

Purpose of acting out a story in Literature

- Helps students understand characters, their emotions, and motivations.
- Brings the story and themes to life beyond just reading the text.
- Enhances students' expression, voice modulation, gestures, and timing.
- Develops appreciation of dramatic techniques such as dialogue, monologue, and soliloquy.
- Communicates the moral, lesson, or theme of the play through performance.

Key Points / Features

1. Follow Stage Directions: Movements, actions, and positions of characters must match the instructions (in brackets) in the play.
2. Interpret Characters: Show each character's emotions, attitudes, and personality through voice, expressions, and gestures.
3. Use Voice and Expression: Modulate tone, volume, and pace to reflect emotions and tension.
4. Show Interaction: In scenes with two or more characters, act out relationships, conflicts, and responses realistically.
5. Convey the Theme: Performance should make the story's message or moral clear to the audience.
6. Embody the Story: Your physical movements, gestures, and facial expressions should support what the character is feeling or thinking.

Benefits for us

- Improves confidence and public speaking skills.
- Enhances understanding of literature through active participation.
- Develops teamwork and collaboration when performing with others.
- Helps learners connect text to real-life emotions and situations.

Activity 8.7.2

Re-read the play "The Hill of Sorrow" (page 180-181)" carefully, paying attention to the characters' emotions, dialogue, and stage directions. Then act out the play, using voice, gestures, and expressions to bring the story and its dramatic tension to life.

8.8. END OF UNIT ASSESSMENT

8.8.1. Project

Project: In groups, choose one of the four social problems (Poverty, Laziness/ Dependence on Others, Peer Pressure, Early/Teenage Pregnancy) and create a short dramatic scene. Re-read your scene carefully, then perform it in front of the class or school assembly, using voice, gestures, facial expressions, and stage directions to clearly show the problem and its impact.

To keep this in mind:

- Work as a team and respect each member's role.
- Focus on showing the emotions and message of the social problem clearly.
- Speak loudly and clearly so the audience can hear every word.
- Use gestures, facial expressions, and movements to bring the scene to life.
- Practice several times before performing to build confidence and flow.
- Stay in character and follow the stage directions throughout the performance.

8.8.2 ASSESSMENT QUESTIONS

SECTION A

DRAMA CONCEPTS (MULTIPLE CHOICE)

- If a literary work is performed by actors on stage to show emotions and convey a message, this type of literary work is called
A) Poem B) Storybook C) Drama D) Report
- If a play amuses the audience, teaches moral lessons, and expresses emotions, which function of drama is this?
A) To entertain B) To teach moral lessons C) To express emotions D) All of the above
- If a play takes place in a classroom during school hours, which dramatic element is being described?

- A) Plot B) Setting C) Dialogue D) Theme
- iv. If two characters are speaking to each other on stage, what is this called?
A) Plot B) Dialogue C) Setting D) Theme
- v. If a play makes the audience laugh, or shows sadness or suspense, which of these is a genre of drama?
A) Comedy B) Tragedy C) Melodrama D) All of the above
- vi. If one character argues with another character over borrowing a book, what type of conflict is this?
A) Character vs. Character B) Character vs. Nature C) Character vs. Self D) Character vs. Society
- vii. If a play shows a child returning a lost wallet with money, what is the main theme?
A) Honesty B) Anger C) Adventure D) Jealousy
- viii. If a play emphasizes strong emotions and suspense to engage the audience, which genre is it?
A) Comedy B) Tragedy C) Melodrama D) Fable
- ix. If a play is acted on stage while a story is read silently, what does this illustrate?
A) The difference between drama and storybooks
B) A moral lesson
C) A dramatic element
D) A stage direction
- x. If people or animals act in a dramatic play, which dramatic element is being shown?
A) Characters B) Plot C) Setting D) Dialogue

SECTION B

DRAMA TERM FOR EACH DESCRIPTION

- i. Last week, the actors on stage spoke words to each other to show their feelings. What is this called?
.....
- ii. During a play, the story followed events in the order they happened from beginning to end. Which dramatic element is this?
.....
- iii. In a play, the story happened in a park in the morning. What is the term for the time and place?
.....
- iv. A serious play showed the main character facing a downfall because of a tragic mistake. Which type of drama is this?
.....
- v. A play made the audience laugh and ended happily. Which type of drama is this?
.....
- vi. A play kept the audience on edge with suspense and emotional scenes. Which type of drama is this?
.....

SECTION C

COMPREHENSION OF A DRAMATIC PLAY

Read the extract below and answer the questions:

Scene: A hospital waiting room.

Nurse: "Why are you late, Tom?"

Tom: "I had to help my sister get ready for school, Nurse."

Nurse: "I understand, but try to manage your time better tomorrow."

- i. Identify two characters in the extract.
- ii. What is the setting of the scene?
- iii. Name the type of conflict in the extract.
- iv. What is the main message in this scene?
- v. Identify one example of dialogue in the extract.

SECTION D

CONCEPT OF PLOT

- i. Suppose a play opens by showing a poor family and their daily struggles.
Which part of the plot is this?
.....
- ii. Suppose the main character faces pressure to drop out of school and the problem grows worse.
Which stage of the plot does this show?
.....
- viii. Suppose the main character decides whether to continue school or give up.
Which part of the plot is this?
.....
- ix. Suppose the situation starts improving after help from the community.
Which stage of the plot is this?
.....
- x. Suppose the play ends with the child returning to school and the family finding a solution.
Which part of the plot is this?
.....