FOREWORD

Dear Student,

The Rwanda Education Board is honoured to present the Senior Four English Student's Book, which serves as a guide to competence-based teaching and learning. It is designed to ensure consistency and coherence in the teaching and learning of English at Senior Four level. Rwanda's educational philosophy aims to help you achieve your full potential at every level of education, preparing you to integrate successfully into society and take advantage of employment opportunities.

As part of ongoing efforts to improve the quality of education, the Government of Rwanda emphasises the importance of aligning teaching and learning materials with the syllabus to facilitate the learning process. Many factors influence what you learn, how effectively you learn, and the competences you acquire. These factors include the relevance of the content, the quality of teachers' pedagogical approaches, the assessment strategies used, and the instructional materials available.

Special attention has been given to activities that support the learning process and enable you to develop your ideas and make new discoveries through practical tasks carried out individually or with your peers. With the support of your teachers, whose role is central to successful learning, you will acquire appropriate skills and learn how to apply them in real-life situations. This will help you develop positive values and attitudes that will enable you to improve your own life and contribute to national development.

This approach differs from traditional learning theories, which view learning mainly as the process of receiving knowledge from a more knowledgeable person, usually the teacher. In the competence-based curriculum, learning is considered an active process through which learners construct and develop knowledge and meaning. Concepts are mainly introduced through activities, situations, or scenarios that help learners acquire knowledge, develop skills, and adopt positive attitudes and values.

Active learning engages you in carrying out tasks and reflecting on what you are doing. You are also encouraged to bring your own experiences and prior knowledge into the learning process. To use this textbook effectively, you are expected to:

- Develop knowledge and skills by completing the activities provided;
- Communicate and share relevant information with other learners through presentations, discussions, group work, role plays, case studies, investigations, and research conducted in the library, Online, or outside the classroom;
- Participate actively and take responsibility for your own learning;
- Carry out research and investigations by consulting printed and Online resources and knowledgeable people, and present your findings;
- Ensure that every group member contributes effectively to assigned tasks through clear explanations, well-supported arguments, critical thinking, responsibility, and confidence in public speaking; and
- Draw appropriate conclusions from the findings of learning activities.

I sincerely extend my appreciation to everyone who contributed to the development of this textbook, particularly the Rwanda Basic Education Board staff who organised and coordinated the process from its inception. Special appreciation also goes to the teachers who supported the development process throughout.

Comments and contributions that may help improve this textbook in future editions are welcome.

Dr. MBARUSHIMANA Nelson

Director General

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I wish to express my sincere appreciation to all the individuals and institutions that played a significant role in the development of this Senior Four English Student's Book. Its successful completion would not have been possible without the active participation, commitment, and valuable contributions of various education stakeholders.

I am deeply grateful to the curriculum specialists, English language teachers, content developers, editors, illustrators, and reviewers whose knowledge, experience, and dedication contributed to the preparation and improvement of this textbook.

Special acknowledgment goes to the education partners and institutions that provided technical guidance, professional expertise, and constructive feedback throughout the development process.

Finally, I extend my sincere gratitude to the staff of the Rwanda Basic Education Board, particularly those from the Curriculum, Teaching and Learning Resources Department, who coordinated and participated in the entire process of writing, reviewing, and producing this textbook.

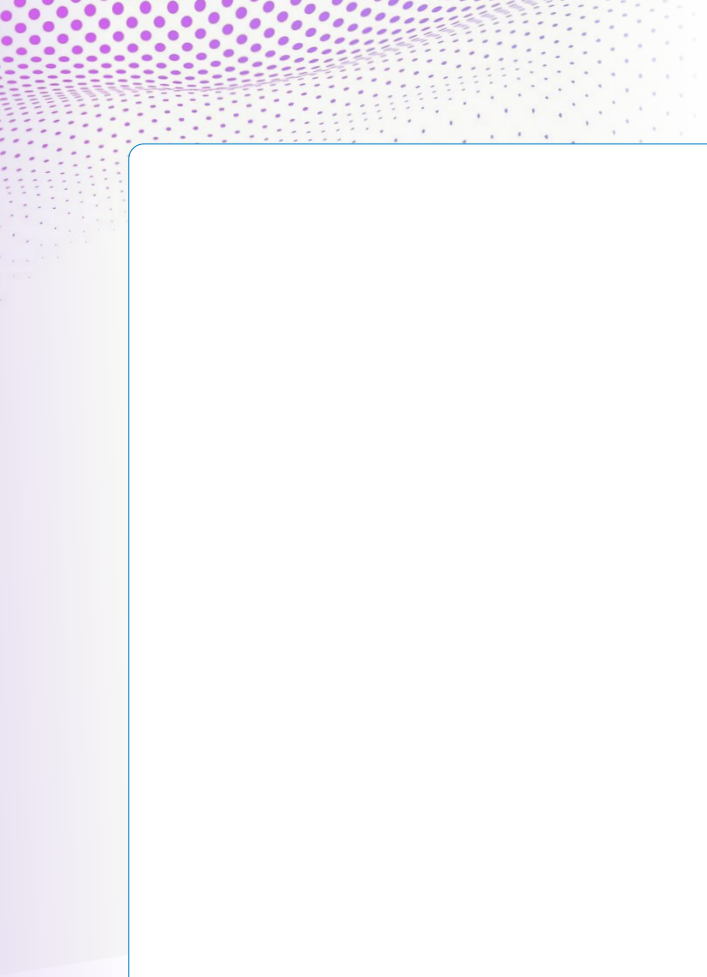

Joan Murungi,

Head of Curriculum, Teaching and Learning Resources Department/REB

UNIT 1

GEOGRAPHY OF RWANDA

Physical Features & Provinces of Rwanda

Rwanda is divided into four provinces, each with distinct physical features. The Northern Province has volcanoes, the Western Province has Lake Kivu and Nyungwe Forest, the Eastern Province has savannahs and Lake Itezwe, and the Southern Province is known for its rolling hills. Kigali, the capital city, lies at the center.

Key Unit Competence:

Communicate effectively about Rwanda's geography, population, and economy while showing respect for communities and responsible use of natural resources.

Learning objectives

At the end of this unit you should be able to:

(a) Knowledge and Understanding

- Describe Rwanda's main physical features and provinces.
- Explain basic facts about Rwanda's climate, natural resources, population, and economic activities.
- Identify and use vocabulary related to the natural environment, human activities, and development.
- Recognise and apply the present simple tense, comparative and superlative adjectives, connectors of addition and contrast, and the passive voice when describing facts about Rwanda.

(b) Skills

- Read and interpret texts about Rwanda's geography and economy.
- Listen to descriptions of Rwanda's climate and natural resources and identify key information.
- Speak confidently about Rwanda's provinces, population, economy, and physical features using appropriate grammar and vocabulary.
- Write a friendly letter describing Rwanda's natural beauty and economic activities.

(C) Attitudes and values

- Appreciate the beauty and richness of Rwanda's natural environment and economy.
- Demonstrate pride in the country and responsibility for protecting its natural resources.
- Respect the different communities and regions of Rwanda.
- Show curiosity and cooperation when discussing Rwanda's population and development.

Unit Introduction

This unit introduces you to Rwanda's geography and economy. You will explore the country's provinces, population, mountains, rivers, lakes, vegetation, climate, natural resources, and economic activities. Through reading, listening, speaking, and writing activities, you will develop the language skills needed to describe Rwanda clearly and accurately. You will also learn to appreciate the country's natural beauty, respect its different communities, and recognise the importance of protecting its natural resources.

Introductory activity

Imagine you are a tour guide welcoming visitors to Rwanda:

1. Which geographical features would you show them?
2. How does this geography make Rwanda unique?

1.1. Talking about the physical features and provinces of Rwanda

Learning activities 1.1

A. Reading

Activity 1.1

Discuss these questions

- What does the nickname "Land of a Thousand Hills" tell you about Rwanda's landscape?
- Based on what you know, how does the weather in the Northern Province differ from the Eastern Province?
- Look at a map of Rwanda's five provinces. Which one appears the largest, and which seems the most urban?

Activity 1.2

This text explores how Rwanda's unique geography and climate shape the lives of its people and its national economy. Read it and match the themes 1-5 with the paragraphs (A-E).

- The movement of people and urban development. []
- Seasonal weather patterns and their impact on soil. []
- The "journey" of agricultural goods to the market. []
- Geographical differences between the North-West and East. []
- Provincial divisions and land use. []

Physical Features and Provinces of Rwanda.

A- Rwanda is a small but beautiful country in East Africa. It is often called the “Land of a Thousand Hills” because its landscape is very mountainous, green, and attractive. The natural environment includes many mountains, forests, lakes, and fertile regions. Because of this rich natural environment, many people depend on agriculture and natural resources for their income and livelihood.

B- One important physical feature is the Virunga Mountains in the north-west. These mountains form an impressive landscape. Nearby forests are protected, and rare animals live there. The soil in many areas is fertile, which makes the land suitable for agricultural production. In contrast, some areas in the east are flatter, less mountainous, and generally warm.

C- Rwanda has two main seasons: the wet season and the dry season. During the wet season, a lot of rainfall is received, and the temperature is usually cool and humid. During the dry season, the weather becomes warm and dry. Because rainfall is regular in many regions, the soil remains fertile, and crops grow well throughout the year.

D- Many inhabitants live in rural areas where farming is the main activity. A farmer works in a field to grow crops such as bananas and coffee. These crops are harvested and taken to the market. The goods are sold locally, and some are exported to other countries. In order to reach different markets, goods are transported by road to towns and cities. These activities contribute to the national economy.

E- Rwanda is divided into five provinces: Northern, Southern, Eastern, Western, and Kigali City. Some are mountainous, while others are flatter and suitable for cattle keeping. Kigali City is the most urban and populated area. As the population shows steady growth, some people move from rural areas to urban areas in search of employment—a movement known as migration. While rural communities depend on farming, urban areas focus on business, services, and trade.

B. Comprehension

Activity 1.1.3

1. Carefully re-read the text to find the answers to these questions:

- How do the physical features of the East differ from those of the North-West?
- Discuss the four stages a crop goes through from the field to the national economy.
- According to the text, why do crops in Rwanda grow “throughout the year”?
- Identify the three specific sectors that urban areas focus on.

2. Scan the text again. Indicate whether the following statements are true (T) or false (F), and justify your answer

- The Eastern Province is more mountainous than the North-West. []
- Protecting forests helps support the “rich natural environment” people depend on. []
- Migration is the movement of people from urban areas to rural areas. []
- Rwanda participates in both importing and exporting goods. []

C. Vocabulary

Activity 1.1.4

a) Find the words/phrases in the text that mean the following:

#	Word	Meaning
1		The people who live in a specific place.
2		Sent out to another country for sale.
3		Relating to a city or town.
4		A way of earning money to pay for food and shelter.
5		The movement of people from one area to another.
6		(Of soil) capable of producing abundant vegetation or crops.
7		The buying and selling of goods and services.
8		Animals like cows kept on a farm for meat or milk.

b) Complete the paragraph using words from the passage:

"Due to the (1) _____ nature of the Western Province, many (2) _____ focus on growing coffee on the hillsides. However, as the (3) _____ of Rwanda grows, (4) _____ to urban centers like Kigali increases because people seek better (5) _____ opportunities in trade and services."

Vocabulary notes

1. Vocabulary about the Natural Environment

Landscape – the natural scenery of a place, including hills, mountains, rivers, and forests.

Example: Rwanda has a beautiful landscape of hills and valleys.

Mountain – a very high area of land.

Example: Mount Karisimbi is the highest mountain in Rwanda.

Forest – a large area covered with trees and plants.

Example: Forests provide homes for many animals.

Region / Province – a large administrative area of a country.

Example: Rwanda has five provinces including Eastern Province and Western Province.

Dry season – a period of the year with little or no rainfall.

Wet season – a period when a lot of rain falls.

Temperature – the level of heat or cold in a place.

Rainfall – the amount of rain that falls in an area.

Humid – having a lot of moisture in the air.

2. Vocabulary about Human Activities and Resources

Farmer – a person who grows crops or keeps animals.

Field – land used for growing crops.

Crop – plants grown by farmers for food or sale.

Example: Bananas and coffee are important crops in Rwanda.

Harvest – the time when crops are collected from the fields.

Market – a place where people buy and sell goods.

Goods – products that are bought or sold.

Export – to send goods to another country for sale.

Import – to bring goods from another country.

Transport – the movement of people or goods from one place to another.

Economy – the system of production, trade, and services in a country.

Income – the money people earn from work or business.

3. Vocabulary about People and Development

Rural – relating to the countryside where farming is common.

Urban – relating to towns or cities such as Kigali City.

Inhabitant – a person who lives in a particular place.

Population – the total number of people living in a place.

Growth – an increase in size or number.

Community – a group of people living in the same place.

Migration – movement of people from one place to another.

4. Useful Descriptive Words (Adjectives)

Fertile – land that is good for growing crops.

Mountainous – having many mountains.

Populated – having many people living in a place.

Productive – producing a lot of crops or goods.

Agricultural – related to farming.

Economic – related to business, money, and trade.

Vocabulary building activities: Activity 1.1.5

Activity A

Choose between two words from the brackets to complete a report.

"Hi everyone! I am the Rwandan travel vlogger. Today I am in the Northern (1)_____ (Landscape /Region) of Rwanda. The (2)_____ (Rural /Landscape) here is beautiful because it is very (3)_____ (Mountainous / Rural). I love visiting (4)_____ (Rural / Region) areas because the air is so fresh compared to the city."

Example: The landscape of the Western Province includes many hills and Lake Kivu.

Check: If a place is rural, does that automatically mean it is also mountainous? Explain.

Activity B:

Tick ☒ the sentence that uses the word correctly among similar concepts to complete the school garden project.

1. a. ☐ We know the soil is fertile because the plants are dying from lack of food.
b. ☐ We know the soil is fertile because the plants are healthy and green.
2. a. ☐ The farmer decided to plant a new crop of beans this season.
b. ☐ The farmer decided to plant a new harvest of beans this season.
3. a. ☐ During the growth, we gather all the food to sell at the market.
b. ☐ During the harvest, we gather all the food to sell at the market.

Example: Fertile soil and good rain ensure the growth of a healthy crop.

Check: Can you have a successful harvest if the growth of the plant was poor? Discuss

Activity C

Fill in the blanks to complete the young entrepreneur scenario report. The options are closely related financial terms.

- a) To grow the business, we must _____ (income/ export) our coffee to other countries.
- b) We need to produce high-quality _____ (goods / economy) so that customers want to buy them.

- c) If the national _____ (income/ economy) is strong, more people have jobs.
- d) The higher the price we get for our coffee, the more _____ (income / goods) the farmers receive.

Example: When we export our goods, it helps our national economy.

Check: Does a country's economy improve if its citizens have a very low income? Why?

Activity D

Circle the word that correctly fits the scale of the sentence about moving to the city.

1. Kigali is an (Urban / Inhabitant) centre with many modern offices.
2. The (Migration / Population) of people from farms to the city is changing the country.
3. The total (Population / Inhabitant) of Rwanda is over 13 million people.
4. Every (Inhabitant / Population) of the city must follow the local laws.

Example: Rural-to-urban migration causes the city population to grow.

Activity E

Match the terms. The descriptions are now more specific to the "feeling" of the weather.

Check: If the migration out of a village is high, does the population of that village increase or decrease?

#	Terms	Feeling of the weather
1	Wet season	The air feels sticky and your skin feels damp.
2	Dry season	You check the thermometer to see if it is 28°C.
3	Humid	The period when farmers rely on rainfall for irrigation.
4	Temperature	The period when the grass turns brown and water is scarce.

Example: During the wet season, the air is often very humid.

Check: In Rwanda, is the temperature usually higher during the dry season or the wet season?

1.2 Listening: Talking about Rwanda's climate and natural resources

Learning activities 1.2

Activity 1.2.1

In the next section, you are going to listen to a report about the geography, climate, and economy of a vibrant nation in East Africa. This country is famous for its breathtaking landscape of rolling mountains and its deep reliance on the land. As you listen, pay close attention to how its natural environment shapes the daily lives of its people.

- a) ☐ The geological formation of the Rift Valley.
- b) ☐ The impact of Rwanda's hilly landscape on its identity.
- c) ☐ How seasonal weather patterns support the agricultural economy.
- d) ☐ The transition of urban centres like Kigali into business hubs.

[A]Rwanda is a small but beautiful country in East Africa. Its landscape is mountainous and green, which is why it is often called the "Land of a Thousand Hills." Many regions have fertile land, forests, and rivers. Because of this rich environment, agriculture is very important in the country.

[B]Rwanda has two main seasons: the wet season and the dry season. During the wet season, a lot of rainfall is received, and the weather is usually cool and humid. During the dry season, the temperature becomes warmer, and rainfall is lower. These climate conditions help many crops grow well.

[C]Many inhabitants live in rural areas where farming is the main activity. Farmers grow crops such as bananas and coffee in their fields. These crops are harvested and sold in local markets. Some goods are transported to cities, while others are exported to other countries. As a result, agriculture contributes greatly to Rwanda's economy and national income.

[D]The population of Rwanda continues to grow, and both rural and urban communities are developing. Cities such as Kigali City are becoming important centres for business, transport, and trade. However, rural areas remain highly productive in agriculture.

Overall, Rwanda's natural resources, hardworking farmers, and growing population all play an important role in the country's economic development.

Activity 1.2.2

Listen again to the report, then write the words used in the report that best match these definitions. The definitions are given in the same order as they appear in the presentation.

- a) Having many mountains or high hills: _____.
- b) (Of soil or land) producing or capable of producing abundant vegetation or crops: _____.
- c) A period of the year characterized by particular weather conditions: _____.
- d) Feeling or containing a lot of water or moisture in the air: _____.
- e) People who live in a specific place or house: _____.
- f) Areas located outside of towns and cities, often characterized by farming: _____.
- g) To gather or collect a crop from the fields: _____.
- h) To send goods or services to another country for sale: _____.
- i) Relating to a whole country or nation: _____.
- j) The activity of buying, selling, or exchanging goods and services: _____.

1.3 Speaking: Talking about Rwanda's Economy and Population.

Learning activities 1.3

Activity 1.3.1

Discuss the following questions

- a) What crops are commonly grown in your community?
- b) Is your area rural or urban? Explain.
- c) How does climate affect farming in Rwanda?
- d) Why is agriculture important for Rwanda's economy?

1.4. Language Structure

Learning activities 1.4

Using the Simple Present Tense and Comparatives:

i. The Simple Present Tense

Activity 1.4.1

Read this short passage about the geography and culture of Rwanda. Answer the questions that follow with close consideration of the underlined verbs.

"Rwanda lies in the heart of East Africa. It consists of rolling hills and deep valleys that stretch across the horizon. Every morning, the sun rises over the volcanoes in the north, and the mist covers the rainforests.

The people value their heritage and strive for progress every day. In our schools, students study hard because they want to contribute to the nation's vision. Although the world changes quickly, our commitment to unity remains constant."

1. Does the sun only rise "once" in this story, or is it a repeated habit of nature?
2. Look at the word "Rwanda lies" vs. "The people value." Why does one have an -s and the other does not?
3. If we said, "The sun is rising," would that mean the same thing as "The sun rises"?

The use of the simple present tense

Use case	Example from extract	Subject/Verb agreement
Universal truth	The sun rises.	Singular (It) + s
Geography/ State	Rwanda lies in Africa.	Singular (It) + s
Habit/Routine	Students study hard.	Plural (They) + no s
Opinion/Feeling	They want to contribute.	Plural (They) + no s

NOTE:

The simple present tense is used to describe facts, habits, and general truths.

Structure: Subject + base verb

Example:

- Rwanda has many hills.

Use it for:

- Geography facts
- Climate descriptions

- Farmers grow crops.
- The population increases every year.

- Economic activities

Example:
Rwanda has fertile soil and farmers grow many crops.

Activity 1.4.2

A. Fill in the blanks with the correct form of the verb. Then, underline the subject to prove why you chose that verb form.

1. While the Western Province _____ (have) steep slopes, the Eastern plains _____ (support) large-scale cattle keeping.
2. Neither the dry season nor the wet season _____ (stop) farmers from being productive throughout the year.
3. A significant portion of the population _____ (rely) on the export of coffee and tea for their livelihood.
4. Infrastructure, such as roads and markets, _____ (facilitate) the movement of goods between provinces.
5. Each of the five provinces _____ (contribute) uniquely to the national economy.

B. Imagine you are explaining Rwandan culture to a visitor who has never been here. Write five sentences describing what "we" (the community) do as a matter of tradition or routine. Use the Present Simple to show these are permanent habits.

Example: We celebrate Umuganda on the last Saturday of every month.

1. (About food): _____
2. (About greetings): _____
3. (About school): _____
4. (About music/dance): _____
5. (About family): _____

ii. Comparatives:

A

Read this report comparing two regions. Pay attention to how the underlined words describe the differences between them.

"The Eastern Province is flatter than the Northern Province, where the hills are much steeper. While the climate in the East is hotter, the soil in the North is often more fertile for certain crops.

Developing a new road is more expensive than repairing an old one, but the results are better for the community. In the end, protecting our environment is as important as growing our economy."

1. Why do we say flatter but more fertile?
2. Look at the word better. What was the original adjective?
3. What does "as important as" mean?

Read the following key notes. Answer the questions that follow

1. Comparative and Superlative Adjectives

These forms are used to compare places, people, or things.

Comparative (comparing two things)

Structure:

adjective + -er or more + adjective

Examples:

- warmer
- more fertile
- more mountainous

Sentence example:

The western region is more mountainous than the eastern region.

Superlative (compare three or more)

Structure:

the + adjective + -est

or the most + adjective

Examples:

- the warmest
- the most populated

- the most productive

Sentence example:

Kigali is the most populated area in Rwanda.

2. Connectors of Addition and Contrast

Connectors help link ideas in a sentence.

Addition (add information)

- and
- also
- in addition

Example:

Rwanda has mountains and lakes.

Contrast (show difference)

- but
- however
- although

Example:

The eastern region is dry, but it is good for cattle keeping.

3. Passive Voice (Simple Present)

The passive voice is used when the action is more important than the person doing it.

Structure

Object + is / are + past participle

Examples:

- Coffee is exported to many countries.
- Crops are grown by farmers.
- Goods are sold in markets.

Passive voice is often used in:

- geography
- science
- reports

Example:

Bananas are grown in many regions of Rwanda.

Activity 1.4.4

A. Rewrite the following statements to show that two things are equal using the "as + adjective + as" structure.

Example: "The blue pen costs 100 RWF. The black pen costs 100 RWF."

Rewrite: "The blue pen is as expensive as the black pen."

1. English is important. Mathematics is also important.

Rewrite: _____

2. The city is beautiful. The countryside is also beautiful.

Rewrite: _____

3. S4 students work hard. S5 students also work hard.

Rewrite: _____

B. Write four sentences that compare the two items using at least four different types of adjectives.

Living in a City vs. Living in a Village

1. (Busy): _____
2. (Expensive): _____
3. (Good): _____
4. (Quiet): _____

C. Imagine you are a businessman. You are comparing two mobile phones to buy for your office staff. Look at the data below and write three sentences using comparatives and one sentence using as... as.

Feature	Phone A	Phone B
Price	150,000 RWF	120,000 RWF
Battery Life	24 Hours	12 Hours
Weight	200g	200g
Camera Quality	High	Low

D. Choose the best connector (and, also, but, however, therefore, whereas) to show the relationship between the two facts. Note: Some may require a semicolon or a comma.

1. The Northern Province receives high rainfall _____ the Eastern Province experiences a much drier climate.
2. Rwanda is often called the "Land of a Thousand Hills"; _____, the Eastern Province features broad, flat savannas.

3. Fertile soil is essential for crop production _____ regular rainfall is equally important for a successful harvest.
4. Rural areas focus on primary production; _____, they are the backbone of the national food supply.
5. Kigali City is the hub for trade and services, _____ most inhabitants still reside in rural agricultural zones.

E. Rewrite these sentences to sound more professional.

Example: Farmers grow coffee. Coffee is grown by farmers.

1. Farmers produce high-quality tea in the high-altitude regions of the North.
 - Rewrite: _____
2. Traders transport agricultural goods from rural fields to urban markets.
 - Rewrite: _____
3. The government divides Rwanda into five administrative provinces.
 - Rewrite: _____
4. Rural communities harvest most crops during the wet season.
 - Rewrite: _____
5. The international market imports Rwanda's specialty coffee at high prices.
 - Rewrite: _____

F. Write three original sentences comparing two provinces of your choice.

Example: The North is mountainous. Farmers grow potatoes there. The North is mountainous, and potatoes are grown there.

1. The East is relatively dry. Farmers keep cattle on the open plains.
 - Sentence: _____
2. The soil in the West is volcanic. Inhabitants produce high-quality tea there.
 - Sentence: _____
3. Urban areas focus on trade. Rural communities provide the agricultural goods.
 - Sentence: _____

1.5 Writing a friendly letter

Learning activity 1.5

You recently read an article in The Rwanda Times titled 'The Green Heart of Africa' which discussed the nation's rapid development. Inspired by this, write a friendly letter to a friend who lives in another country.

In your letter, describe the beauty of Rwanda, including its geographical features and economic activities.

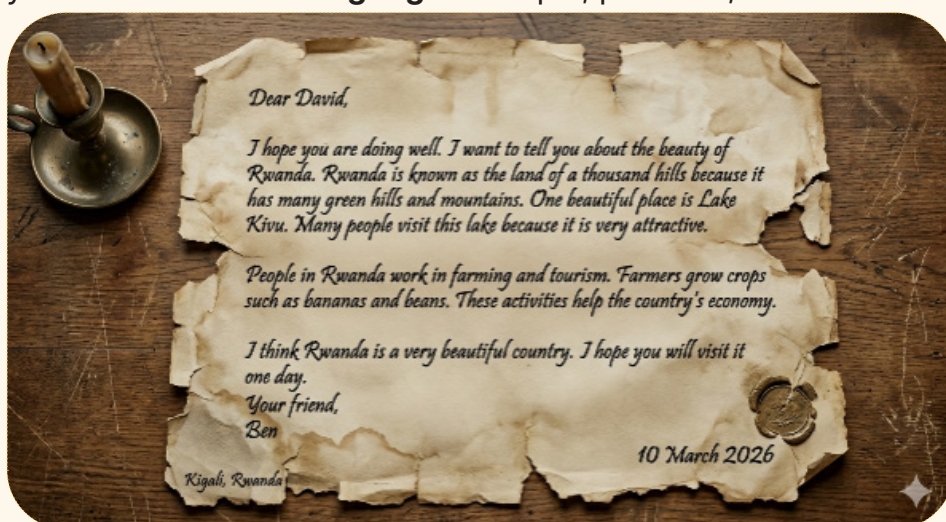

Your letter should include:

- ✓ Greeting
- ✓ Description of at least three geographical features of Rwanda (for example: hills, mountains, lakes, forests)
- ✓ Information about economic activities such as farming, tourism, or trade
- ✓ Your personal opinion about Rwanda's beauty
- ✓ A closing statement

KEY: NOTES

A friendly letter is an informal letter written to a friend, family member, or someone you know well. The language is simple, personal, and relaxed.

1. Parts of a Friendly Letter

A friendly letter usually has five main parts:

1. Sender's Address

Write your address at the top right or left of the letter.

2. Date

Write the date below the address.

3. Greeting (Salutation)

Begin by greeting your friend.

Example:

- Dear Ben,
- Dear Munganyinka,

4. Body of the Letter

This is the main message. Write 1–2 short paragraphs explaining your ideas. In this unit, you should describe the beauty, geography, and economic activities of Rwanda.

5. Closing and Signature

End the letter politely.

Examples:

- Your friend,
 - Best wishes,
 - Yours sincerely,
- Then write your name.

2. Language to Use

When writing a friendly letter:

- Use simple and clear sentences

These sentences use easy vocabulary and short structure, which make them easy to understand.

- ✓ Rwanda has many beautiful hills.
- ✓ Lake Kivu is one of the largest lakes in Rwanda.
- ✓ Many people in Rwanda grow crops.
- ✓ Farmers grow bananas, beans, and maize.
- ✓ The weather is good for farming.
- ✓ Tourists visit Rwanda to see mountains and wildlife.
- ✓ The country is very clean and attractive.

Use personal expressions

- I am happy to write to you.
- I want to tell you about my country.
- I really like the beautiful hills of Rwanda.
- I enjoy visiting Lake Kivu.

❖ Express your opinion or feelings

- I think Rwanda is a wonderful country.
- I hope you will visit Rwanda someday.
- I would love to show you these places.

- ❖ Use connectors such as and, because, but

Example:

- ❖ Rwanda is very beautiful because it has many hills and lakes.

A Sample of a friendly letter

Rwanda

10 March 2026

Kigali,

Rwanda 13 April 2026

Dear David,

I hope this letter finds you in good health and high spirits. I am writing to you because I recently realized how much I appreciate living here, and I wanted to share the true beauty of Rwanda with you.

Rwanda is a country defined by its spectacular geography. As you may know, it is famously called the "Land of a Thousand Hills" because of the rolling green landscapes that stretch as far as the eye can see. Beyond the hills, we have the majestic Virunga Mountains in the north, which are home to the famous mountain gorillas. Additionally, Lake Kivu provides a stunning and peaceful border to the west, with its clear blue waters and beautiful sandy shores.

These natural features are not just beautiful; they are the heart of our economy. Because of our fertile soil, many Rwandans are hardworking farmers who grow crops like coffee, tea, and bananas. Furthermore, our unique wildlife and mountains have made tourism a vital industry, bringing visitors from all over the world to see our national parks.

In my personal opinion, Rwanda is one of the most beautiful and welcoming places on Earth. The combination of the cool mountain air and the kindness of the people makes it truly special. I sincerely hope that you will find time to visit one day so I can show you these sights in person.

I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Your friend,

Ben

1.6 Sounds and spelling

Homophones

Learning activities 1.6

activity 1.6.1

Read the report below. It sounds correct, doesn't it? Now, look at the bold words. Identify why the bold word is the wrong choice for a professional report and write the correct spelling.

"To the Principal,

I am writing to update you on the building site. We have followed every principal of safety during the construction. However, we must decide weather to continue working if the weather becomes too rainy.

We do not want to waste any more materials. It is my peace of mind to know that the whole team is working hard. I have seen the progress of the sight with my owneye, and it looks excellent."

activity 1.6.2

Draw a line connecting the homophone to its "Professional Definition.

Word	Professional Definition
Council	To give professional advice or a lawyer.
Counsel	A group of people chosen to manage or advise.
Stationary	Materials like pens, paper, and envelopes.
Stationery	Not moving; fixed in one place.
Complement	To praise someone for their work.
Compliment	To add to something to make it better/complete.

NOTES

1. Homophones are words that sound the same when pronounced but have different meanings and different spellings.

Example:

- rain – water that falls from clouds
- reign – the period when a king or queen rules

Although they sound the same, they are used in different contexts.

2. Examples of Homophones

Word	Meaning	Example Sentence
rain	water that falls from clouds	Heavy rain falls during the wet season reign	the rule of a king or queen	The king's reign lasted many years.
plain	flat land with few trees	Farmers grow crops on the plain.

plan	an idea or method for doing something	The community made a plan to improve farming.
sun	the star that gives light and heat	The sun is very hot during the dry season.
son	a male child	Her son helps her on the farm.
flower	the colourful part of a plant	The flower grows in the garden.
flour	powder used for making bread	Flour is used to bake bread.

3. Why Homophones Are Important

Learning homophones helps students to:

- improve spelling
- understand correct word meanings
- avoid confusion in writing and speaking
- develop accurate pronunciation

Exercises

A) Some words are True Homophones while others are Near. Choose the word that logically completes the correct sentence.

1. The agriculture (council / counsel) met in Kigali to discuss the new coffee pricing.
2. Farmers must ensure their crops stay (stationary / stationery) in the truck during transport to avoid damage.
3. The heavy rains have a direct (affect / effect) on the harvest cycle in the Northern Province.
4. It is the (principal / principle) goal of the cooperative to increase local income.

B) A junior accountant has drafted a report regarding the school's new construction project. The report sounds perfect when read aloud, but it contains professional homophone errors.

Read the extract below. Circle the incorrectly spelled words and write the correct "Professional" spelling above them.

To the Board of Directors,

We have completed the finalaudit of the construction site. We heard that the steel used for the roof is of the highest quality. However, we must check if the current budget is enough to complement the remaining work.

Please ensure that all staff remain stationery while the heavy machines are moving. If we do not waste any more time, we can finish the whole project by next week. Please sign the attached cheque to pay the suppliers.

C) Imagine you are an editor. The following "Economic Report" has four spelling errors involving homophones. Find them and write the correct spelling above the word.

"Last weak, the weather was very dry. The whole community worked together to find a newroot for the water pipes. They did not want to waste any resources before the next harvest."

1. Wrong: _____ Right: _____

1. Wrong: _____ Right: _____

2. Wrong: _____ Right: _____

3. Wrong: _____ Right: _____

D) Choose two pairs of homophones from the list below. Write one long sentence for each pair that uses both words correctly.

Word List:

❖ Right / Write

❖ Weather / Whether

❖ Steel / Steal

❖ Road / Rode

Example (Weak/Week): "The irrigation pipes were weak after a long week of heavy rain."

UNIT 2

EDUCATION AND PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT

Key Unit Competence:

Communicate effectively about education, career goals, and personal growth, while demonstrating motivation, responsibility, and respect for learning.

Learning objectives

By the end of this unit, students will be able to:

1 a. Knowledge and understanding

- Identify different educational pathways, including vocational, secondary, and tertiary education, and explain their purposes.
- Explain how personal skills, interests, and qualifications influence career choices.
- Describe common career opportunities in Rwanda and the qualifications required for each.

2 b. Skills

- Read and interpret short texts and dialogues about education and careers to identify key information.
- Discuss personal educational and career plans clearly in English.
- Construct sentences that compare different educational pathways and career options using appropriate connectors.

3 c. Attitudes and values

- Show interest in exploring different career options and learning pathways.
- Appreciate the importance of education in achieving personal and professional goals.
- Demonstrate responsibility, motivation, and commitment when planning for future education and career development.

Introduction to the Unit

In this unit, you will explore different educational pathways, the importance of education, and the role of schools in personal growth. You will also learn how skills, interests, and qualifications influence career choices and how education helps people achieve their goals and contribute to the development of their communities and country. Through reading, writing, listening, speaking, and vocabulary activities, you will develop the language skills needed to discuss education, careers, and personal improvement clearly and confidently.

Introductory activity

Study the picture below and answer the questions that follow:

1. Look at the four signs in the picture below and discuss which 'path' you feel is the most important for your future.
2. What 'tools' or skills—like speaking, writing, or hard work—does the student have in their backpack to help them succeed on their journey?
3. How will the student's choice of career help develop the village and the country we see in the background?

2.1 Talking about Educational paths and career choices

Look carefully at the diagram below, which shows different career pillars. Discuss the questions.

1. Which word describes formal learning in a school or university setting?
2. Which word describes the practical ability to do a task well?
3. Which word shows a strong desire to achieve a high position or success in life?
4. Which word describes learning specific, hands-on abilities for a particular job?
5. Which word refers to the chances or available jobs you might find in the future?

Activity 2.1.2

In the following text, the headings of three sections have been removed. Choose the best heading (A-C) for each of the three sections (1-3).

- A. Engineering and Technical Excellence
- B. Pursuing a Medical Career through University
- C. Vocational Training and Culinary Arts

Diverse Paths to Success

1. _____ Ankunda always wanted to become a doctor. He worked hard at school and loved science subjects. After completing secondary school, he joined a medical school at the university. He studied for many years, learned from his teachers, and practiced in hospitals. Today, he is a successful doctor helping people in his community. Ankunda says, "Hard work, good teachers, and determination helped me achieve my dream."
2. _____ David dreamed of becoming an engineer. After secondary school, he joined a technical college to study civil engineering. He learned how to design buildings and bridges. He also took internships in construction companies. Today, David works on important building projects in Rwanda. He believes that learning the right skills and gaining experience are key to success.
3. _____ Lina wanted to become a chef. She started by attending a vocational training school for cooking. She practiced a lot at home and in restaurants. She also learned about managing a kitchen and serving customers. Today, Lina owns a small restaurant and trains young people who want to be chefs. She says, "Following the right education and being patient helped me reach my goals."

Activity 2.1.3

1. Read the text carefully and provide the best answers for each question.

- What personal qualities or habits helped each person achieve their career goals? Give examples from the text.
- Which of the three careers do you think is the most difficult to pursue, and why? Use evidence from the text.
- What do you think would have happened if David had ignored his internship opportunity?
- What lessons from these stories could help you reach your own career goals?
- Based on the stories, what specific steps (education, skills, qualities) will you take to plan your future?

2. Find out whether the following statements are true or false. Correct the false statements.

- Ankunda completed his medical studies in a very short amount of time. []
- David gained practical experience by working in construction companies. []
- Vocational training is only for people who do not want to manage a business. []
- Determination means giving up when a subject like science becomes difficult. []

Activity 2.1.4

Match the words in Column A with the correct definitions in Column B.

Column A: Words	Column B: Definitions
1. Ambition	A. A job or profession someone trains for and works in.

2.2 Listening: Talking about career development.

Activity 2.2.1

Before you listen to the script about advice for career success, answer the questions that follow:

- a) What subjects do you enjoy most in school, and why?
- b) Do you know someone in your community who has a job you admire?
What do they do?
- c) In your opinion, is it more important to follow your passion or to choose a job that is in high demand?

Activity 2.1.2

Listen to Samuel's talk about his journey to becoming an engineer and tick [✓] the CORRECT sentences.

- a) [] He chose civil engineering because he enjoys solving problems.
- b) [] Samuel completed an internship at a construction company.
- c) [] He believes that success comes easily if you are smart.
- d) [] Samuel currently works on building projects in Rwanda.

Hello, everyone. My name is Samuel. I want to share some advice about building a successful career. When I was in school, I didn't know exactly what I wanted to do. I liked many subjects, but I decided to focus on engineering because I enjoy solving problems.

After secondary school, I joined a technical college to study civil engineering. I worked hard, practiced the skills I learned in class, and completed an internship at a construction company. This experience helped me understand real-life challenges in my field.

One important lesson I learned is that success doesn't come easily. You need determination, patience, and a willingness to learn from mistakes. Sometimes I faced problems with difficult projects or tight deadlines, but I didn't give up. I also asked for advice from my teachers and mentors, which helped me improve.

Today, I work as a civil engineer on building projects in Rwanda. I enjoy my job because I can see the results of my work and contribute to my community. My advice to students is: follow your interests, gain the right skills, and be ready to work hard. Challenges will come, but with perseverance, you can achieve your career goals.

Activity 2.2.3

Listen again, then circle the suitable options in the following sentences:

- Samuel joined a university / technical college after completing secondary school.
- During his studies, Samuel completed a(n) internship / vocational course to gain real-life experience.
- When faced with tight deadlines, Samuel gave up / persevered.
- Samuel sought advice from his parents/teachers and mentors to help him improve.
- He advises students to gain the right skills / most money to achieve their goals.

Activity 2.2.4

Discussion Task: In the script, Samuel mentions that “determination, patience, and a willingness to learn” are key to his success. Form groups and discuss the following:

- Identify three other careers (e.g., Doctor, Chef, Pilot) and list the specific skills and personal qualities needed for each.
- What are the main challenges a student in Rwanda might face when pursuing their dream career, and how can they overcome them?

2.3 Speaking: Talking about one's educational goals and career plans.

Activity 2.3.1

Discuss these questions:

- What is your ambition or dream for the future?
- What goals do you need to achieve to reach that dream?
- Which subjects or training will help you develop the necessary skills?
- How will you motivate yourself to succeed?

Activity 2.3.2

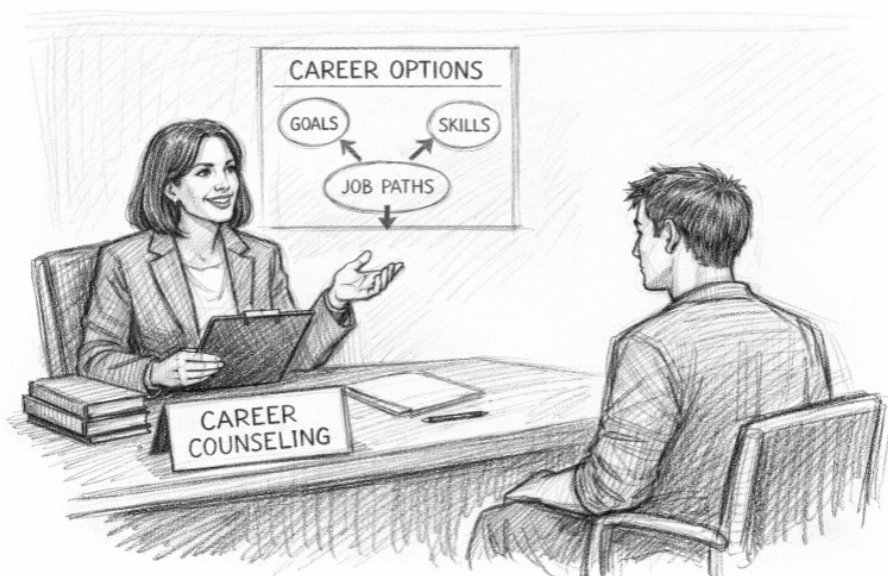

Role-Play – “Career Counsellor Interview”

- Decide who becomes a student and another a career counsellor.
- The career counsellor asks questions and gives suggestions, using words like plan, develop, opportunity, training, motivate.
- Switch roles and repeat.

Role-Play Dialogue: Student and Career Counsellor

Student: Good morning, I would like some advice about my future career.

Counselor: Good morning! Of course. What is your dream or ambition?

Student: I want to become a doctor.

Counselor: That's a great ambition. What subjects are you studying now?

Student: I study biology, chemistry, and English. I plan to work hard to achieve my goal.

Counselor: Excellent. Those subjects will help you develop the skills you need. You should also look for training opportunities, like volunteering in a clinic.

Student: How can I stay motivated when studying is hard?

Counselor: Remember your ambition and dream. Make a clear plan and celebrate small achievements. Every step helps you move closer to your goal.

Student: Thank you! I will try to follow your advice and develop my skills.

Counselor: You're welcome! Keep focused, and don't miss any opportunity to learn.

Activity 2.3.3

Debate the following motion:

"Practical skills gained through internships are more important for a successful career in Rwanda than a university degree."

2.4 Language structure

Learning activities 2.4

A. First Conditional and Second Conditional

Activity 2.4.1

Read this conversation between two students, Kalisa and Mutoni, who are discussing their future after S6. Pay close attention to how the "If" sentences change depending on how likely the event is.

The career fair

Kalisa: "If I pass my national exams with high marks, I will study Engineering at the university. My uncle says that if I get a scholarship, he will buy me a new laptop for my studies."

Mutoni: "That is a good plan. For me, I am not sure. If I were the President of Rwanda, I would make all university education free for everyone. If I won the lottery tomorrow, I would travel to every country in Africa before starting my career."

Kalisa: "Well, the exams are real! If we don't study tonight, we won't be ready for the test on Monday."

1. Is it possible for Kalisa to pass his exams?
2. Is Mutoni currently the President? Is it likely she will win the lottery tomorrow?
3. Look at the verbs. When Kalisa talks about the real future, he uses "pass" and "will." When Mutoni dreams, what words does she use?

Key note: First and Second Conditionals

1. First Conditional (Real Possibilities)

The first conditional is used to talk about real or possible situations in the future.

Structure:

If + present simple, will + base verb

Examples:

- ❖ If I study medicine, I will become a doctor.
- ❖ If she works hard, she will achieve her career goals.
- ❖ If we learn new skills, we will get better job opportunities.

Use:

- ❖ To talk about future plans or likely results.
- ❖ Often used when discussing education, careers, and goals.

2. Second Conditional (Imaginary or Hypothetical Situations)

The second conditional is used to talk about imaginary, unlikely, or hypothetical situations.

Structure:

If + past simple, would + base verb

Examples:

- ❖ If I were an engineer, I would build better roads.
- ❖ If she were a doctor, she would help people in her village.
- ❖ If they had more training, they would get better jobs.

Use:

- ❖ To imagine dreams or unreal situations.
- ❖ To talk about what we would do in different careers.

Key difference

First Conditional	Second Conditional
Talks about real or possible future situations	Talks about imaginary or unlikely situations
If + present, will + verb	If + past, would + verb
Example: If I study hard, I will pass the exam.	Example: If I were a teacher, I would help many students.

Activity 2.4.2

A. Complete these sentences. Student A provides a Real Possibility (First Conditional). Student B provides an imaginary dream (Second Conditional).

Topic 1: Money

- Student A (Real): If I save 1,000 RWF every week, I... _____
- Student B (Dream): If I found 1,000,000 RWF on the street, I... _____

Topic 2: Travel

- Student A (Real): If I have time this weekend, I... _____
- Student B (Dream): If I had wings like a bird, I... _____

Topic 3: Leadership

- Student A (Real): If I become the class prefect, I... _____
- Student B (Dream): If I ruled the whole world, I... _____

B. Match the beginnings of the sentences in column A with the correct endings in Column B. Read the full sentences aloud after matching.

Example:

1. If I study medicine, I will become a doctor.

Column A – Sentence Beginnings	Column B – Sentence Endings
1. If I study medicine...	A. ...I will become a software engineer.
2. If I practice farming...	B. ...I will become a doctor.
3. If I improve my ICT skills...	C. ...I will grow more crops for my community.
4. If I study engineering...	D. ...I will design better roads in Rwanda.
5. If I get more work experience...	E. ...I will get a better job in my career.
6. If I study teaching...	F. ...I will teach children in my school.
7. If I were a doctor...	G. ...I would help children learn new skills.
8. If I were an engineer...	H. ...I would create apps to help students study.
9. If I were a teacher...	I. ...I would design safe bridges for my village.
10. If I were a software engineer...	J. ...I would care for patients in my community.
11. If I were a farmer...	K. ...I would grow vegetables to sell at the market.

2.5. Writing a personal statement or career plan.

Learning activity 2.5

Write a short paragraph of about 10 sentences about your career plans.

1. Include the following ideas:

- ✓ Your educational background
- ✓ Your skills or strengths
- ✓ Your career ambition
- ✓ Your future plans to achieve your goal

2. Use vocabulary related to education and careers.

Helpful Sentence Starters

- ❖ I am currently studying...
- ❖ My favourite subjects are...
- ❖ I have developed skills such as...
- ❖ My ambition is to become...
- ❖ In the future, I plan to...
- ❖ If I continue to study hard, I will...

Example

My name is Jean. I am currently studying at secondary school. My favourite subjects are Mathematics and ICT. I have developed skills in problem-solving and teamwork. My ambition is to become a software engineer. In the future, I plan to study computer science at university. If I work hard and gain experience, I will achieve my career goal. I hope to create technology that helps people in my community.

2.6 Sounds and spelling: Vowel sounds /ɜ:/, /ʌ/, /ɪ/, /ə/

Activity 2.6.1

Read this short story about a student's morning. Pay close attention to the pronunciation of bold words.

"Every morning, my sister (/ə/) gets up early to work (/ɜ:/). She drinks a cup (/ʌ/) of tea and eats a bit (/ɪ/) of bread. It is a fit (/ɪ/) start to her day. She is a teacher (/ə/) who wants to earn (/ɜ:/) a good living. Sometimes, the sun (/ʌ/) is already hot when she leaves."

- ❖ Look at sister and teacher. Does the "er" sound strong, or is it a very quick, "lazy" sound?
- ❖ Compare work and cup. Which one do you hold longer?
- ❖ How fast do you say the word bit?

Pronunciation guide:

Symbol	Key word	Description
/ɜ:/	Learn / Girl	The "Bird" sound. Keep your mouth neutral and tongue mid-way.
/ʌ/	Up / Cup	The "Strut" sound. Short, sharp, and at the back of the mouth.
/ɪ/	In / Pin	The "Kit" sound. Very short and relaxed.
/ə/	Computer	The Schwa. The most common sound in English. It is very weak and never stressed.

Notes

In English, different vowel sounds can change the meaning and pronunciation of words. In this unit, we focus on the following sounds:

1. /ɜ:/ Sound

This sound is usually found in the middle of words and is pronounced with a long vowel.

Examples:

- ❖ work
- ❖ nurse
- ❖ learn

Example sentence:

I want to work hard to learn new skills.

2. /ʌ/ Sound

This is a short vowel sound.

Examples:

- ❖ luck
- ❖ success
- ❖ future

Example sentence:

With hard work, you can achieve success in the future.

3. /ɪ/ Sound

This is a short vowel sound commonly found in many English words.

Examples:

- ❖ skill
- ❖ big
- ❖ win

Example sentence:

A good skill can help you win opportunities.

4. /i:/ Sound

This is a long vowel sound.

Examples:

- ❖ teacher
- ❖ dream
- ❖ team

Example sentence:

My dream is to become a teacher.

5. /ə/ Sound (Schwa)

This is the most common vowel sound in English and is usually weak and unstressed.

Examples:

- ❖ teacher
- ❖ doctor

❖ engineer

Example sentence:

A teacher helps students learn for the future.

Activity 2.6.2

A. Read the following "Key words". Place each word into the correct "Sound Bucket" based on the underlined vowel sound.

Key words: Bird, But, Sit, About, Nurse, Under, Hill, Water, Burn, Love, List, Doctor.

/ɜ:/ (Long "er")	/ʌ/ (Short "u")	/ɪ/ (Short "i")	/ə/ (The Lazy "uh")
Example: Bird	Example: But	Example: Sit	Example: About

B. One of these words in each row has a different vowel sound than the others. Circle the "intruder"

- Sound /ɪ/: Finish - Ticket - Time - Village
- Sound /ʌ/: Monday - Move - Mother - Money
- Sound /ɜ:/: Heart - Shirt - World - First
- Sound /ə/: Paper - Famous - Unit

Note: In English, the letters "er" can sound very differently.

- ❖ If the sound is strong and long, it is /ɜ:/.
- ❖ If the sound is weak and lazy, it is the Schwa /ə/.

C. Look at the words below. Sort them into the correct "Evidence folder" based on how the "er" or "ur" sounds.

Evidence list: Person, Farmer, Church, Ruler, Saturday, Term, Under, Nurse.

Folder A: The strong /ɜ:/	Folder B: The Lazy /ə/
Example: Person	Example: Farmer
1. _____	1. _____
2. _____	2. _____
3. _____	3. _____

Section A: Vocabulary and meaning

Match the words in Column A with their meanings in Column B.

Column A	Column B
1. Ambition	A) A chance to do something good or improve your life
2. Career	B) A strong desire to achieve something
3. Opportunity	C) Work that someone does for a long time as a profession
4. Skill	D) Knowledge or ability to do something well
5. Promotion	E) Moving to a higher position at work

Section B: Reading comprehension

Read the text and answer the questions.

Text:

Lina always dreamt of becoming a chef. She studied hospitality at a vocational college and completed an internship at a popular restaurant. During her internship, she learned practical skills like cooking and managing a kitchen. Lina faced challenges like long hours and strict deadlines, but her determination helped her succeed. Today, she works as a professional chef and hopes to open her own restaurant in the future.

Questions:

1. Which steps did Lina take to become a chef?
2. What challenges did she face, and how did she overcome them?
3. What skills did Lina develop during her internship?
4. How does Lina's ambition influence her future plans?
5. Based on the text, what advice could you give someone who wants to become a chef?

Section C: Language structure

Read each situation carefully and rewrite it as a conditional sentence using the correct type of conditional.

1. A student studies seriously for national examinations. As a result, he may get a scholarship.
2. She is not an engineer, so she cannot design modern bridges.
3. A driver follows traffic rules. As a result, he may avoid accidents.

Section D: Writing

Write a short personal paragraph about yourself.

Include:

- ❖ Your educational background
- ❖ Skills you have
- ❖ Your career ambition
- ❖ Your future plans

Section E: Pronunciation / Spelling

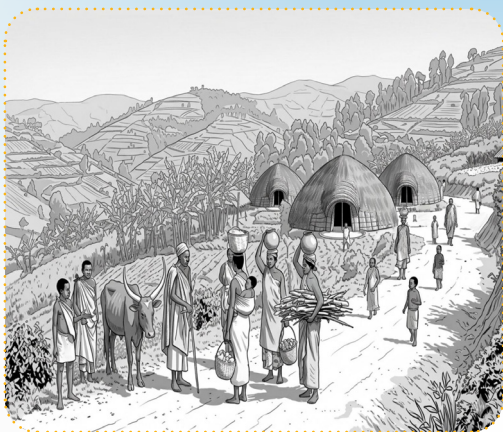

Write the words under the correct vowel sound category.

Vowel Sounds: /ɜ:/, /ʌ/, /ɪ/, /i:/, /ə/

Words: teacher, work, learn, success, skill, doctor, future, ambition, opportunity, engineer

UNIT 3

THE PAST TIMES

Key Unit Competence:

Communicate effectively about education, career goals, and personal growth, while demonstrating motivation, responsibility, and respect for learning.

Learning objectives

At the end of this unit you should be able to:

1 a. Knowledge and understanding

- Identify key historical events and national heroes of Rwanda and explain their significance.
- Describe the causes and effects of important historical events using appropriate vocabulary.
- Recognise and apply the past simple and past continuous tenses when recounting past events.

2 b. Skills

- Read and interpret texts and short stories about historical events and national heroes to identify key ideas.
- Write clear paragraphs recounting historical events using appropriate past-tense forms.
- Speak confidently about past events using relevant vocabulary and correct sentence structures.
- Listen to accounts of historical events and answer questions to demonstrate understanding.

c. Attitudes and values

- Show respect for the contributions of national heroes and other historical figures.
- Appreciate Rwanda's heritage and the lessons that can be learned from past events.
- Demonstrate curiosity and motivation to explore historical accounts and share knowledge with others.

Introduction to the Unit

In this unit, you will explore important events in Rwanda's history and learn about national heroes and other historical figures. Through reading, writing, listening, and speaking activities, you will develop the language skills needed to recount past events clearly and accurately. The unit will also help you appreciate Rwanda's heritage, recognise the contributions of national heroes, and reflect on lessons from the past.

Introductory activity

Look at the pictures below and answer the questions that follow:

Discuss the following questions:

1. What message about leadership, culture, or national history do the two images communicate to society?
2. How do the two images help us understand the importance of unity, identity, and sacrifice in the development of a nation?

3.1 Talking about life, great people, and historical events in the past.

Learning activities 3.1

Activity 3.1.1

Discuss the questions below

- a) What qualities make a person a "hero" or a "patriot"?
- b) How can a leader from the past influence the way we live and learn today?
- c) In your opinion, is it more important for a leader to be a great warrior or a great educator?
- d) Look at the historical figures described below. Discuss which area of leadership you think had the biggest impact on Rwanda: (a) Educational Reform (b) Unity & Peace (c) Heroism & Patriotism (d) Economic Modernization

Activity 3.1.2

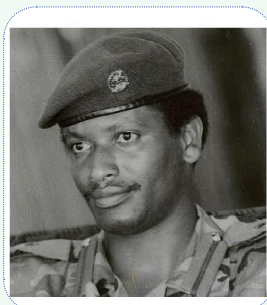

Read the passages below and answer questions that follow:

[A] King Mutara III Rudahigwa – The Modernizing King

Imagine a young king, born in 1911, who wanted Rwanda to grow and learn. That was King Mutara III Rudahigwa! When he became king in 1931, he worked hard to make schools better and teach children not only traditional knowledge but also new subjects like reading, writing, and science. He believed that education could help Rwanda become stronger. He also promoted peace among different communities and tried to make life fairer for everyone. People remember him as a wise and caring leader who wanted the best for his country.

[B] General Fred Gisa Rwigema – The Brave Patriot

Now imagine a young man born in 1957, full of courage and love for his country. That was General Fred Gisa Rwigema. He became a leader in the Rwandan Patriotic Front and played a key role in helping Rwanda recover after hard times. He was brave on the battlefield but also inspired people with his ideas about unity and working together. Even though his life was short, his dedication and heroism continue to inspire young Rwandans today.

Activity 3.1.3

Comprehension Check

1. With your partner, match the following themes (1-4) with the descriptions (A or B).
 - a) Leading through military courage and battlefield inspiration. []
 - b) Transforming the nation through science and formal education. []
 - c) Promoting unity and a sense of shared responsibility. []
 - d) Improving the fairness of life for ordinary citizens. []
2. Respond to the following Comprehension questions.
 - a) Identify the primary goal King Mutara III had for the children of Rwanda.
 - b) What role did General Fred Gisa Rwigema play in Rwanda's recovery?
 - c) How did the education system change under the reign of Mutara III?
 - d) Based on the text, what is the lasting legacy of General Rwigema for young Rwandans today?

Activity 3.1.4

Vocabulary building activities

Just as we honor the courage and wisdom of these heroes in our history, the following activities will help you master the precise vocabulary needed to recount great events and describe the lasting impact of those who shaped our heritage.

1. Match the words in Column A with the correct meanings in Column B. Write the letter of the correct meaning next to each word.

Column A: Words	Column B: Meanings
1. Hero	A. Time before now

5. Fair treatment for all people according to the law.	_____
6. The process of growth and progress in a country.	_____
7. The state of being free from foreign control.	_____

C. Rewrite the sentences below by replacing the underlined phrase with the most appropriate form of a word from the Word Bank. You must ensure the new word fits the sentence grammatically (e.g., adding -ing, -s, or -ed where necessary).

Word Bank: Past, Reform, Progress, Generation, Tradition.

- The government is making changes to improve the healthcare system. The government is _____ the healthcare system.
- We must respect the customs and beliefs passed down from our ancestors. We must respect the _____ of our ancestors.

3. Rwanda has seen much movement forward and improvement since 1994. Rwanda has seen much _____ since 1994.
4. The time before now helps us understand who we are today. The _____ helps us understand who we are today.
5. King Mutara III introduced several official improvements to the way things were done in schools. King Mutara III introduced several _____ in schools.

D. Circle the most logically and grammatically correct word from the three options in brackets.

1. King Mutara III realized that Rwanda could only achieve (Progress / Tradition / Past) if the youth embraced both science and modern writing.
2. The (Before / Period / Reform) between 1911 and 1957 saw the birth of two of Rwanda's most influential national heroes.
3. Building a strong nation is a long-term goal that often spans more than one (Generation / Speech / Ceremony).
4. When existing social structures are no longer fair, a brave leader must introduce a (Long ago / Reform / Past) to ensure justice.
5. In the (Past / Before / Progress), education was limited to traditional knowledge, but that changed under modernizing leadership.

3.2. Listening: Liberation struggle

Learning activities 3.2

Activity 3.2.1

Discuss the following questions:

- a) What does the word "Liberation" mean to you?
- b) Why do you think it is important for Rwanda to celebrate its Liberation?
- c) How do brave leaders influence the future of a nation?

Activity 3.2.2

Listen carefully to the extract and answer the questions that follow.

Rwanda's liberation struggle

The liberation struggle in Rwanda began because many Rwandans had been denied their rights for a long time. Thousands of refugees lived outside their country without the right to return home. Inside Rwanda, discrimination, division, and injustice had become part of daily life.

In 1990, the Rwanda Patriotic Army (RPA), the military wing of the Rwanda Patriotic Front (RPF), launched the liberation struggle with the goal of restoring national unity, dignity, and the rights of all Rwandans. The struggle was not only about military victory, but also about rebuilding hope for the future of the country.

During the 1994 Genocide against the Tutsi, the liberation struggle became a mission to stop the killings and rescue innocent people. Many soldiers sacrificed their lives to protect civilians and restore peace. On July 4th, 1994, Rwanda was liberated, marking the end of the genocide and the beginning of a new chapter in the nation's history.

Since liberation, Rwanda has focused on unity, reconciliation, security, good governance, and national development. Liberation Day, known as Kwibohora, is celebrated every year to remember the courage, sacrifice, and patriotism of those who fought to rebuild the nation and restore hope to Rwandans.

Questions

1. Why did the liberation struggle begin in Rwanda?
2. What was the main goal of the Rwanda Patriotic Army during the struggle?
3. How did the liberation struggle change during the 1994 Genocide against the Tutsi?
4. What happened on July 4th, 1994?
5. Mention two values promoted in Rwanda after liberation.
6. Why does Rwanda celebrate Kwibohora every year?

3.3. Speaking: Talking about great people who changed our country.

Activity 3.3.1

Think of one Rwandan hero or a leader you admire.

Write down key points:

- ❖ Name of the person
- ❖ Their achievements or contributions
- ❖ Why they are important for Rwanda

Take turns sharing your chosen hero and their contributions.

- ❖ Ask your partner at least two questions about their hero.
- ❖ Example: "What did your hero do to improve Rwanda?"
- ❖ Example: "Which quality of your hero do you admire most?"
- ❖ Each pair selects one hero from their discussion to present to the class.
- ❖ Share why this person is important and one interesting fact.

3.4. Language structure

Learning activities 3.4

1. The Past Simple Tense

Activity 3.4.1

Read this short report from a student's diary. The actions underlined happened today; rewrite the report as if it happened yesterday.

"Yesterday was a historic day. At 9:00 AM, the Principal stands at the gate. He welcomes the visitors to our school. The students sing the national anthem together. Then, the guest of honor gives a speech about our future. We feel very inspired. Before she leaves, she plants a tree in our garden."

1. Why do we use the past simple tense?

We use the Past Simple to describe completed actions that happened at a specific time in the past. In the context of our lessons on "Life, People, and Historical Events," we use it to talk about:

- Historical facts (e.g., Rwanda gained independence in 1962.)
- Completed biographical events (e.g., King Mutara III studied modern science.)

- A sequence of past actions (e.g., The leader arrived, gave a speech, and left.)

2. Sentence Structure

A. Regular Verbs (The -ed Rule)

Most verbs are made past by adding -ed, but there are spelling rules you must master:

- Standard: Work → Worked
- Ends in -e: Live → Lived
- Ends in Consonant + y: Study → Studied (change y to i)
- Short Vowel + Consonant: Stop → Stopped (double the final consonant)

B. Irregular Verbs (The "Memory" Verbs)

These do not follow the -ed rule. You must memorize their forms:

- Become → Became
- Go → Went
- See → Saw
- Take → Took

C. Negative and Interrogative (The "Did" Rule)

Critical rule: When you use did or didn't, the main verb returns to the present form.

- Positive: He led the movement.
- Negative: He did not lead the movement. (NOT: ~~didn't led~~)
- Question: Did he lead the movement?

3. The Verb "To Be" (Was/Were)

The verb "to be" is unique because it does not use "did" for negatives or questions.

Subject	Positive	Negative
I, He, She, It	Was	Was not (Wasn't)
You, We, They	Were	Were Were not (Weren't)

Example: "The citizens were happy," but "The colonial period was difficult."

4. Common Time Markers

To identify when to use Past Simple, look for these "clue words":

- Yesterday
- Last (Last week, last year, last month)

- Ago (Two years ago, a long time ago)
- In [Year] (In 1994, in 1962)
- When (When I was young...)

Tip: Past Simple vs. Used To

While Past Simple describes a completed event, we use "used to" for past habits that no longer happen.

- Past Simple: "King Mutara III visited Europe in 1955." (One specific event)
- Used To: "People used to travel by foot before modern roads were built." (A repeated habit in the past)

2. The past continuous tense

Activity 3.4.2

Read this scene from a historical story. Pay close attention to the underlined verbs. And answer the questions below it.

It was the night before the big celebration. While the moon was rising over the hills, the villagers were preparing the feast. In the centre of the town, the young men were practicing their traditional dances, and the women were weaving beautiful baskets for the guests.

As the stars were beginning to appear, the children were sitting quietly by the fire, listening to their elders. Everyone was waiting for the sun to come up. Suddenly, a loud trumpet sounded in the distance. The long wait was over.

Questions:

1. Were the people preparing the feast in one second, or was it a long, ongoing action?
2. Look at the underlined words. What two "helpers" do they all use?
3. What was everyone doing when the trumpet sounded?

1. While the Past Simple tells us what happened, the Past Continuous tells us what was in progress at a specific moment. We use it for:

- Overlapping Actions: An action that was already happening when a shorter action interrupted it.
 - ✓ Example: The citizens were celebrating in the streets when the radio announcement began.

- Setting the Scene: Describing the atmosphere at the start of a story.
 - ✓ Example: The sun was shining, and the crowds were gathering at the stadium for the 1962 ceremony.
- Simultaneous Actions: Two actions happening at the exact same time.
 - ✓ Example: While the leaders were drafting the new laws, the people were preparing for independence.

2. "When" vs. "While"

In S4 composition writing, choosing the right connector is vital for logical flow:

1. WHILE + Past Continuous: Used for the longer, background action.
 - ✓ Example: While the soldiers were guarding the border, the peace talks continued.
 2. WHEN + Past Simple: Used for the short, interrupting action.
 - ✓ Example: We were dancing when the rain started.
- 2. Crucial Rule: Some verbs cannot be used in the Continuous form because they describe a state, not an action. Even if the action was "happening" in the past, you must use Past Simple.
- Verbs of Thinking: Know, Believe, Understand, Remember.
 - ✓ Incorrect: ~~I was knowing the answer. ~~
 - ✓ Correct: I knew the answer.
 - Verbs of Feeling: Love, Hate, Want, Prefer.
 - ✓ Incorrect: ~~They were wanting independence. ~~
 - ✓ Correct: They wanted independence.
- 3. Combine the two sentences using When or While to create a sophisticated S4-level sentence.
1. (Long Action): The King was visiting the school.
 2. (Short Action): He met the young Fred Gisa Rwigema.
 - ✓ Advanced Synthesis: While the King was visiting the school, he met the young Fred Gisa Rwigema.

3. The past perfect tense

Activity 3.4.3

Read the story below carefully and identify actions that happened before others.

"Last Saturday was the Liberation Day celebration. Eric arrived at the stadium at 10:00 AM, but he was disappointed. When he arrived, the dancers had already finished their performance.

He looked for his friends, but they had already left the main gate. Eric realized he was late because he had forgotten to set his alarm clock the night before. By the time he found a seat, the guest of honor had already given the opening speech."

Look at this sentence: When he arrived, the dancers had already finished their performance.

- Action A: The dancers finished (9:30 AM)
- Action B: Eric arrived (10:00 AM)

Which happened first?

- The dancers finished before Eric arrived.

Key notes

- ❖ Use Past Perfect (had + verb) for the action that happened first.
- ❖ Use Simple Past for the action that happened later.

Example:

- ❖ Earlier action → The dancers had finished.
- ❖ Later action → Eric arrived.

Eric realised he was late because he had forgotten to set his alarm clock.

- Which action happened first?
- Write the earlier action in Past Perfect and the later action in Simple Past.

4. Using Past Time Expressions

1. "In" vs. "On" vs. "At" (Specific Points)

We use these prepositions to pinpoint exactly when a completed action happened. These almost always trigger the Past simple.

- IN + Years/Months/Centuries: In 1962, In July, In the 20th century.
- ON + Days/Dates: On Monday, On July 1st, On Independence Day.
- AT + Specific Times: At 8:00 AM, At noon, At the start of the ceremony.

2. "Last" vs. "Ago"

These are the most common markers for the Past Simple, but they are placed differently in a sentence.

- LAST + Time Period: "Last" comes before the word.
 - ✓ Examples: Last week, last month, last year, last night.
 - ✓ Usage: "Last week, we studied the colonial period."
- Time Period + AGO: "Ago" comes after the amount of time.
 - ✓ Examples: Ten years ago, three days ago, a long time ago.
 - ✓ Usage: "The school was founded fifty years ago."

3. "When" vs. "While" (The Narrative Link)

These are crucial for combining the Past Simple and Past Continuous.

- WHILE + Continuous Action: Used for the longer "background" action.
 - ✓ Usage: "While the crowd was waiting, the sun began to set."
- WHEN + Short Action: Used for the specific moment that interrupted the background.
 - ✓ Usage: "The music stopped when the President arrived."

4. "By the Time" vs. "Already"

These expressions are the primary signals for the Past Perfect. They show that one action was finished before another point in time.

- BY THE TIME: Shows a deadline in the past.
 - ✓ Usage: "By the time the police arrived, the thief had escaped."
- ALREADY: Emphasizes that the action happened earlier than expected.
 - ✓ Usage: "When I reached the stadium, the match had already begun."

5. Sequencing connectors

Activity 3.4.4

Imagine you are explaining how to make a perfect cup of Rwandan coffee to a visitor. Below are five steps, but they are in the wrong order.

Put them in the correct order (number them 1–5).

Finally, pour the hot coffee into a cup and enjoy.

Next, add two spoons of ground coffee into the pot.

First, boil some fresh water in a kettle.

After that, pour the boiling water over the coffee grounds.

Then, let the coffee sit for three minutes to develop the flavor.

Notice the bold words (First, Next, After that, Then, Finally)—these are Sequencing

Logic Discovery:

Starter word: First (always begins the process).

Middle words: Next, After that, Then (can be swapped in the middle).

Closer word: Finally (always ends the process).

Activity 3.4.5

Below is the life cycle of a plant. Use the correct Sequencing Connector from the box to complete the sentences logically.

Word Bank: First — Then — After that — Finally

_____, you must dig a small hole in the rich soil.

_____, place the seed inside and cover it with earth.

_____, water the area every morning so the seed can grow.

_____, a beautiful flower will bloom in the garden.

NOTE:

Sequencing connectors are words used to link ideas and show the logical order in which actions happen. They are essential for writing clear paragraphs, telling stories, and giving instructions.

1. The Logical Order

When describing a process or a series of events, we generally follow this flow:

Stage	Connectors	Example
Beginning	First, Firstly, To start with	First, the farmer prepares the soil.
Middle	Next, Then, Afterwards, After that	Next, he plants the seeds. Then, he waters them.
End	Finally, Lastly, In the end	Finally, he harvests the crops in the dry season.

2. How to Use Them (Rules)

- The Comma Rule: In formal writing, we usually place a comma after the connector when it starts a sentence.
 - ✓ Correct: First, you must choose your career path.
 - ✓ Incorrect: First you must choose...
- "Then" Exception: The word "then" is often used without a comma if it sits in the middle of a thought.
 - ✓ Example: I went to the market, and then I went home.
- *"Afterwards" vs. "After": * Afterwards stands alone (e.g., "We studied for two hours. Afterwards, we played football.")*
 - ✓ After needs a noun or an action (e.g., "After the lesson, we played football.")

3. Example Paragraph: Career Planning

Notice how the connectors guide you through the process of personal development:

"Planning a career requires several steps. First, you must identify your strengths and interests. Next, you should research which schools offer the best courses for that field. Afterwards, it is important to speak with a mentor or a teacher for advice. Then, you must work hard in your Senior 4 and Senior 5 classes to get the required grades. Finally, you can apply for a university degree or a professional internship."

Activity 3.4.6

Turn to your partner. Tell them exactly what you did this morning between waking up and arriving at school. You must use at least four different connectors.

Example: "First, I woke up and washed my face. Then, I put on my school uniform. After that, I ate my breakfast. Finally, I walked to school with my friends."

Activity 3.4.7

Below are five key stages of Rwanda's transition to sovereignty. Arrange these events in a logical chronological order by matching them with the correct sequencing marker from the Word Bank.

Word Bank: – Finally Next –Afterwards First — Then

The Events:

- The newly sovereign nation initiated a long-term strategy for national rebuilding and development.
- Across the provinces, jubilant citizens gathered to celebrate the achievement of their freedom.
- Prominent national leaders delivered powerful speeches regarding unity and the future of the state.
- Community members and organizers diligently prepared for the ceremony to ensure its success.
- Rwanda officially gained independence, marking the end of the colonial period.

Activity 3.4.8

Imagine you are preparing to host a cultural evening for visitors in Rwanda.

1. Write a short paragraph (6 sentences) explaining the steps of preparation.
2. Use at least four sequencing connectors from the box below to connect your sentences logically.

Word Bank: First — Next — After that — Then — Finally

Example

First, I chose a venue in Kigali for the cultural evening. Next, I decorated the hall with traditional Rwandan baskets and fabrics. After that, I invited local dancers and musicians to perform. Then, I prepared traditional dishes such as isombe and brochettes for the guests. Finally, I welcomed everyone and enjoyed the celebration together.

6. Reported Speech in the Past

Activity 3.4.9

"Imagine your friend was sick and missed the school assembly this morning. The Head teacher gave many important instructions. When you meet your friend at break time, you don't repeat the Head teacher's words exactly—you report them. To do this, we must 'step back' in time."

Look at the table below. On the left is what the Head teacher actually said (Direct Speech). On the right is how you report it to your friend (Reported Speech).

Circle the verb in the "Reported" column and draw an arrow to the verb it came from in the "Direct" column.

The Head teacher said (Direct)...	You tell your friend (Reported)...	The "Backshift" Rule
"The exams are next week."	You said the exams were next week.	Are - Were
"I have the new timetable."	You said he had the new timetable.	Have - Had
"Students must wear masks."	You said we had to wear masks.	Must - Had to
"The school won the trophy."	You said the school had won the trophy.	Won - Had won

Activity 3.4.10

Rewrite the following sentences from direct to reported speech.

Example:

Direct speech: The leader said, "We must work together."

Reported speech: The leader said that they had to work together.

- The teacher said, "Rwanda gained independence in 1962."
- The guide said, "Many people celebrated the event."
- The leader said, "We are building a peaceful country."
- The historian said, "This event changed Rwanda's history."

Grammar explanation

❖ Reported speech is when we tell someone what another person said. To do this, we can use direct speech or indirect speech.

Direct speech: 'I work in a bank,' said Daniel.

indirect speech: Daniel said that he worked in a bank.

- ❖ In indirect speech, we often use a tense which is 'further back' in the past (e.g. worked) than the tense originally used (e.g. work). This is called 'backshift'. We also may need to change other words that were used, for example pronouns.

Present simple, present continuous and present perfect

- ❖ When we backshift, present simple changes to past simple, present continuous changes to past continuous and present perfect changes to past perfect.

'I travel a lot in my job.'

- ❖ Jamila said that she travelled a lot in her job.

'The baby's sleeping!'

- He told me the baby was sleeping.

'I've hurt my leg.'

- She said she'd hurt her leg.

Past simple and past continuous

- ❖ When we backshift, past simple usually changes to past perfect simple, and past continuous usually changes to past perfect continuous.

'We lived in China for five years.'

- She told me they'd lived in China for five years.

'It was raining all day.'

- He told me it had been raining all day.

'I go to the gym next to your house.'

- Jenny told me that she goes to the gym next to my house. I'm thinking about going with her.

'I'm working in Italy for the next six months.'

- He told me he's working in Italy for the next six months. Maybe I should visit him!

'I've broken my arm!'

- She said she's broken her arm, so she won't be at work this week.

Pronouns, demonstratives and adverbs of time and place

Pronouns also usually change in indirect speech.

'I enjoy working in my garden,' said Bob.

- Bob said that he enjoyed working in his garden.

'We played tennis for our school,' said Alina.

- Alina told me they'd played tennis for their school.
- However, if you are the person or one of the people who spoke, then the pronouns don't change.

'I'm working on my thesis,' I said.

- I told her that I was working on my thesis.

'We want our jobs back!' we said.

- We said that we wanted our jobs back.
- We also change demonstratives and adverbs of time and place if they are no longer accurate.

'This is my house.'

- He said this was his house. [You are currently in front of the house.]
- He said that was his house. [You are not currently in front of the house.]

'We like it here.'

- She told me they like it here. [You are currently in the place they like.]
- She told me they like it there. [You are not in the place they like.]

'I'm planning to do it today.'

- She told me she's planning to do it today. [It is currently still the same day.]
- She told me she was planning to do it that day. [It is not the same day anymore.]
- In the same way, these changes to those, now changes to then, yesterday changes to the day before, tomorrow changes to the next/following day , and ago changes to before.

3.5. Writing: A short essay about a historical event in the Past.

Learning activities 3.5

Activity 3.5.1

Think about an important historical event in Rwanda's history, such as Independence in 1962 or the Liberation Struggle in 1994.

Write a short essay (200–250 words) describing the event.

In your essay, include:

- What was the event

- When it happened
- The important people involved
- Why the event was important for the country
- Past tenses
- Past expressions
- Connectors and sequencing words
- Reported speech

Example:

Rwanda gained independence on July 1, 1962. This was an important moment in the history of the country because it marked the end of colonial rule.

Main events

Describe what happened using past tenses and sequencing words.

Example:

First, leaders worked together to organize the new government. Then citizens celebrated independence across the country. Afterwards, the leaders encouraged people to work together for peace and development.

Conclusion

Explain why the event was important.

Example:

Finally, independence helped Rwanda begin a new period of national development and unity. It remains an important event in the country's history.

Useful words

Time expressions:

in 1962, long ago, during, after that, later, finally

Sequencing connectors:

first, next, then, afterwards, finally

Past verbs:

led, celebrated, inspired, developed, united, contributed

3.6. Sounds and spelling:

Word endings –ed pronunciation /t/, /d/, /ɪd/ (e.g. worked, played, visited).

Activity 3.6.1

Read the past tense verbs below and pay attention to the ending sound of each word.

Word bank: worked – played – visited – helped – lived – wanted – watched – opened – started – asked – cleaned – needed

Sort the verbs in the correct column according to how the –ed ending is pronounced.

/t/ sound	/d/ sound	/ɪd/ sound

Activity 3.6.2

Look at the verbs in the table below. Your goal is to find the patterns in how they are spelled and how they sound.

Base Verb	Past Tense	Ending Sound
Work	Worked	/t/
Play	Played	/d/
Visit	Visited	/ɪd/
Want	Wanted	/ɪd/
Help	Helped	/t/

Activity 3.6.3

Words ending in /t/ or /d/ usually stay as 1 beat. Words ending in /ɪd/ add an extra syllable, making them 2 beats.

Practice List:

Worked (How many claps? ____)

Played (How many claps? ____)

Wanted (How many claps? ____)

Helped (How many claps? ____)

Started (How many claps? ____)

Lived (How many claps? ____)

Needed (How many claps? ____)

Notes:

-ed Endings Pronunciation

When verbs are in the Past Simple, many end with -ed. The -ed ending can be pronounced in three different ways: /t/, /d/, or /ɪd/.

1. -ed pronounced /t/

The -ed is pronounced /t/ when the verb ends with a voiceless sound (a sound made without vibrating the vocal cords).

Common final sounds: /p/, /k/, /s/, /ʃ/, /tʃ/, /f/, /θ/

Examples

- worked /wɜːrkt/
- washed /wɒʃt/
- watched /wɒtʃt/
- laughed /læft/
- kissed /kɪst/

✓ Rule: If the base verb ends with a voiceless sound, pronounce -ed as /t/.

2. -ed pronounced /d/

The -ed is pronounced /d/ when the verb ends with a voiced sound (a sound where the vocal cords vibrate).

Examples

- played /pleɪd/
- cleaned /kliːnd/
- called /kɔːld/
- answered /ˈɑːnsərd/
- lived /lɪvd/

✓ Rule: If the verb ends with a voiced sound, pronounce -ed as /d/.

3. -ed pronounced /ɪd/

The -ed is pronounced /ɪd/ when the verb ends with /t/ or /d/.

Examples

- visited /'vɪzɪtɪd/
- needed /'niːdɪd/
- wanted /'wɒntɪd/
- decided /dɪ'saɪdɪd/
- started /'stɑːtɪd/

✓ Rule: If a verb ends in t or d, add an extra syllable /ɪd/.

Simple Summary Table

Verb Ending Sound	-ed Pronunciation	Example
Voiceless sound	/t/	worked, washed
Voiced sound	/d/	played, cleaned
Ends with t or d	/ɪd/	visited, wanted

Quick Classroom Practice

1. Say the words and choose the correct pronunciation.

Word	/t/	/d/	/ɪd/watched	✓ played		✓ wanted			✓
helped	✓ started			✓

2. Sort the verbs into the correct column.

Words: asked, lived, visited, opened, finished, started

/t/	/d/	/ɪd/
asked	lived	visited finished	opened	started

3. Speaking Practice

Students read the sentences aloud:

1. We visited the museum yesterday.

2. She played football after school.
3. They worked very hard.
4. He started a new job last month.

Activity 3.6.4

A: In each row, three verbs share the same -ed pronunciation, but one is different. Circle the "Odd One Out."

- a) Walked — Helped — Cooked — Played
- b) Visited — Waited — Smiled — Needed
- c) Cleaned — Loved — Fixed — Rained
- d) Watched — Washed — Danced — Decided

B: Read the short story below. Identify the past simple verbs and decide which "bucket" they belong in. Then, read the story aloud to a partner, focusing on the correct endings.

"Last Saturday, I walked to the park. I spotted a friend and we chatted for an hour. Then, we played tennis. It started to rain, so we hurried home. I cooked dinner, watched a movie, and rested."

Categorize the bold words:

- a) /t/ Bucket: walked, _____, _____
- b) /d/ Bucket: played, _____
- c) /ɪd/ Bucket: spotted, _____, _____, _____

C: Read the dialogue. Look at the phonetic symbol in the brackets []. If it is correct, leave it. If it is wrong, cross it out and write the correct sound (/t/, /d/, or /ɪd/).

A: "Hi! I called [/ɪd/] you yesterday, but you didn't answer."

Correction: _____

B: "Oh, sorry! I worked [/t/] late. Then I cooked [/d/] a big dinner and rested [/ɪd/]."

Correction (cooked): _____

A: "I wanted [/ɪd/] to invite you to the game. We played [/t/] until 9:00 PM."

Correction (played): _____

B: "That sounds fun! I cleaned [/d/] my whole house instead. It started [/t/] to get boring, so I just watched [/t/] TV."

Correction (started): _____

3.7 Project: "The Rwandan Tapestry: A Geographic and Historical Portrait"

Activity 3.7.1

Create a poster, short report, or presentation about Rwanda's geography and history.

Your project should include:

1. Geographic Features

❖ Describe some important physical features of Rwanda, such as:

- Mountains
- Lakes
- Rivers
- National parks
- Explain how these features influence people's lives, farming, tourism, or development.

OR

2. Historical Events

❖ Choose one or two important events in Rwanda's history.

Examples:

- Rwanda's Independence in 1962
- The Liberation Struggle in 1994

Explain:

- When the event happened
- What happened
- Why the event is important

OR

3. National Heroes

Choose one Rwandan hero or leader.

Explain:

- Who the person is
- What they did for the country
- Why they are remembered today

4. Reflection

- i. Write a short paragraph answering:
- ii. What lessons can we learn from Rwanda's geography and history?

Presentation

You will present your projects to the class.
During the presentation, you should:

- Speak clearly
- Use pictures or drawings if possible
- Explain your ideas confidently

3.8 End of unit assessment

Section A: Reading Comprehension

Rwanda's Independence: A Turning Point

For many years, Rwanda was under colonial rule. During this period, important decisions about the country were often made by foreign authorities. However, many Rwandans believed that their country should be governed by its own people. As a result, political discussions and movements for self-governance gradually increased.

In 1962, Rwanda finally gained independence. The event marked the beginning of a new chapter in the nation's history. Across the country, citizens gathered in towns and villages to celebrate the achievement. Leaders delivered speeches encouraging people to work together to build a peaceful and united nation.

Although independence brought hope, the country still faced many challenges. Leaders and citizens had to work hard to establish strong institutions, improve education, and develop the economy. Over time, these efforts contributed to national progress and development.

Today, Rwanda's independence is remembered as an important historical milestone. It reminds citizens of the importance of unity, responsibility, and learning from the past in order to build a better future.

Section E: Sounds and Spelling

1. Write the verbs in the correct column according to the –ed pronunciation.

/t/ /d/ /ɪd/

helped – lived – started – watched – played – needed

Section F: Writing

1. Write a short essay (120–150 words) about an important historical event in Rwanda.

Your essay should include:

- What the event was
- When it happened
- Important people involved
- Why the event was important

Use:

- Past tense verbs
- Sequencing words (first, then, afterwards, finally)

UNIT 4

FIRST AID

Key Unit Competence:

Communicate effectively about first aid and emergency responses, while showing empathy, calmness, and readiness to help others.

Learning objectives

At the end of this unit you should be able to:

(a) Knowledge and Understanding

- Identify and explain key vocabulary related to first aid, injuries, accidents, and emergencies.
- Describe common accidents and health emergencies that may occur at home, at school, or in the community.
- Explain basic first aid procedures and the importance of responding quickly and safely during emergencies.
- Recognise the role of first aid in saving lives and preventing further injury.

(b) Skills

- Read and listen to texts, dialogues, and instructions about first aid and identify the main ideas and important details.
- Describe emergencies and give simple first aid advice or instructions in spoken English.
- Write clear explanations, instructions, and short reports about first aid situations using appropriate vocabulary.
- Use sequencing words and modal verbs such as should, must, and can explain first aid procedures.

(C) Attitudes and values

- Demonstrate empathy and willingness to help people during emergencies.
- Show calmness, responsibility, and confidence when discussing emergency responses.
- Appreciate the importance of first aid knowledge and skills in promoting community safety and well-being.
- Develop a positive attitude towards helping others and promoting health and safety.

Introduction to the Unit

In this unit, you will explore the importance of first aid and learn how people can respond safely to accidents and emergencies. Through reading, writing, listening, and speaking activities, you will develop the language skills needed to describe injuries, give simple instructions, and discuss emergencies clearly. The unit will also help you understand basic first aid procedures, develop empathy for others, and recognise the importance of remaining calm, responsible, and ready to seek appropriate help during emergencies.

Introductory activity

Study the picture below and answer the questions that follow.

1. What do you think might have happened in the situation shown in the picture?
2. What different actions could people take in this situation? Explain your ideas.
3. Why is it important for people to know how to respond when someone is injured or in danger?

4.1 Listening: Talking about giving first aid

Learning activities 4.1

Activity 4.1.1

Before reading the text, discuss the following questions:

- a) What kinds of accidents or emergencies can happen at school, at home, or in your community?
- b) If someone is injured, what actions do you think people should take before medical help arrives?
- c) Why is it important for people to learn basic first aid skills?

Activity 4.1.2

Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow:

It was a sunny afternoon at Green Valley Secondary School, and during the break, students were engaged in different activities such as playing football, skipping rope, and chatting under the trees. Suddenly, a loud shout interrupted the lively atmosphere. Musa had tripped while kicking the ball and fallen heavily to the ground. As a result, his knee was badly scraped and bleeding, causing him considerable pain.

Fortunately, Aline, one of Musa's friends, noticed the incident immediately. Trying to remain calm, she quickly reassured him, saying, "Don't worry, Musa! I'll help you." At that moment, she recalled an important lesson from their Health class: "Always check the surroundings before helping someone because safety comes first." Consequently, before offering assistance, Aline carefully looked around the playground to ensure that there was no danger nearby.

After confirming that the area was safe, she politely asked the other students to move aside in order to create enough space around Musa. She then gently helped him sit on the grass and encouraged him to stay calm by saying, "Take deep breaths, Musa. Everything will be fine." Her calm attitude helped reduce Musa's fear and discomfort.

Shortly afterwards, Aline noticed that there was dirt in the wound. Although there was no tap nearby, she remembered that she had a small bottle of clean water in her backpack. Therefore, she carefully poured the water over the cut to clean away the dirt and reduce the risk of infection. In addition, she took a clean bandage from the first aid kit and covered the wound properly in order to protect it from germs.

Meanwhile, David quickly ran to call a teacher. "Ms. Grace, there's been an accident! Musa is hurt!" he shouted anxiously.

Within a few moments, the teacher arrived at the playground and immediately assessed the situation. After observing Aline's actions, she praised her by saying, "Good thinking, Aline! You remained calm, assisted the injured student appropriately, and applied the correct first aid treatment." Eventually, with the teacher's support, Musa slowly walked to the medical room for further care.

Later that same week, another accident occurred when Lina accidentally burned her hand while working in the home economics room. However, because her classmates had learned basic first aid skills, they responded quickly and responsibly. First, they ran cool water over the burn to reduce the pain and prevent further injury. Afterwards, they carefully wrapped her hand in a clean cloth and stayed with her until the teacher arrived. Consequently, Lina was amazed by how knowledgeable and supportive her friends were during the emergency.

Nevertheless, not all accidents can be handled with basic first aid alone. In some cases, injuries may be more serious and require professional medical attention. For this reason, an ambulance may need to be called, and medical treatment or medication may be necessary to care for the injured person properly. Even so, having basic first aid knowledge is extremely important because it can prevent injuries from becoming worse before professional help arrives.

Overall, by practising first aid skills, students learn how to respond responsibly, demonstrate empathy, and act quickly during emergencies. Indeed, simple actions such as cleaning a wound, applying a bandage, cooling a burn, or calling for help can make a significant difference in protecting someone's health and safety.

Activity 4.1.3

- a) Identify three different situations where someone needed first aid.
- b) For each situation, explain what actions the helper took using your own words.
- c) List the tools or materials mentioned and why they were important.
- d) Suggest one additional step or tool that could have helped in each situation, even if it wasn't mentioned in the passage.

Vocabulary

Activity 4.1.4

A. Match the word in column A with the correct meaning in Column B. Then make one sentence using each word.

Example Sentence:

- My bandage was too small, so I asked the nurse for a bigger one.

Just as Aline and David used their knowledge to help their friends during a crisis, the following activities will help you master the precise language needed to respond effectively in any medical emergency.

Column A	Column B
1. Wound	A. A person who is sick or injured
2. Bleeding	B. A serious or unexpected situation requiring help
3. Bandage	C. A person who drives a special vehicle to take patients to the hospital
4. Burn	D. To lose blood from the body
5. Accident	E. A cut or injury on the skin
6. Emergency	F. A soft cloth or strip used to cover a wound
7. Ambulance	G. An unintended event that causes harm or damage
8. Patient	H. Painful damage to the skin caused by heat or fire
9. Treatment	I. Care given to a patient to make them better
10. Injury	J. Harm or damage done to a part of the body
11. Medicine	K. Substances used to cure or prevent illness

B. Complete the sentences using the correct word from the box. Each word is used only once.

Word bank: wound, bleeding, bandage, burn, accident, emergency, ambulance, patient, treatment, injury, medicine

1. Musa fell and got a deep _____ on his knee.
2. A nurse quickly applied a _____ to stop the bleeding.
3. Lina accidentally touched a hot pan and got a _____ on her hand.
4. The teacher called for an _____ when the situation became serious.
5. The hospital sent an _____ to take the injured student to the medical room.
6. The doctor gave the _____ to the _____ to help them recover.
7. David tripped and hurt his arm, but it was only a small _____.
8. Applying the correct _____ quickly can prevent further harm.

9. After the accident, the student was calm and waited for _____ carefully.

10. Always keep some _____ at home for minor injuries.

C. Read the sentences below. Guess the meaning of the bolded word using context clues, then check the dictionary.

1. The ambulance arrived quickly after the accident to take the patient to the hospital.
2. He rubbed cream on the burn to reduce the pain.
3. The nurse gave proper treatment to the injured boy so he could feel better.
4. There was a small wound on his arm, but it stopped bleeding after a few minutes.

Notes

A serious, unexpected situation that needs quick action.

Example: The nurse treated the patient calmly during the emergency.

Usage Tip: Stay calm and act quickly in any emergency.

7. Ambulance

A vehicle used to take sick or injured people to the hospital.

Example: The teacher called an ambulance to be ready in case the injury worsened.

Usage Tip: Always give space for an ambulance to reach the patient quickly.

8. Patient

A person who is sick or injured and receiving care.

Example: Peter stayed calm while the nurse treated him as a patient.

Usage Tip: Speak gently and reassure a patient during treatment.

9. Treatment

Care given to a patient to help them recover from an injury or illness.

Example: Applying a bandage and medicine is part of the proper treatment for a wound.

Usage Tip: Good treatment can prevent a minor injury from becoming serious.

10. Injury

Physical harm or damage to the body.

Example: James's arm injury needed immediate first aid.

Usage Tip: Always assess the injury before applying first aid.

11. Medicine

A substance used to treat or prevent illness or injury.

Example: The nurse applied antiseptic medicine to prevent infection.

Usage Tip: Only use medicine that is safe and recommended for the injury.

D. The Sports Day Incident

Choose the most accurate word from the options to complete the report about the sports day incident.

"During the school football match, a sudden (1)_____ (Accident / Treatment) occurred when two players collided. One student suffered a leg (2)_____ (Injury / Emergency) and could not walk. Upon closer look, the nurse found a small (3)_____ (Wound / Medicine) on his knee that was bleeding. She quickly cleaned it and wrapped a (4)_____ (Bandage / Accident) around it."

E: The science lab emergency

Tick (V) the sentence that makes better sense based on the bolded word to talk about the science lab emergency.

1. a. ☐ After touching the hot stove, the girl had a painful burn on her hand.
b. ☐ After touching the hot stove, the girl had a painful bleeding on her hand.
2. a. ☐ The nurse gave the patient treatment by calling his name loudly.
b. ☐ The nurse gave the patient treatment by cleaning the wound and applying medicine.
3. a. ☐ It is an emergency because the person is sleeping quietly in bed.
b. ☐ It is an emergency because the patient has severe bleeding and needs help now.

F: The hospital arrival

Select the word that correctly fits the specific role in the hospital arrival scenario.

1. The driver of the (Patient / Ambulance) turned on the siren to get through traffic quickly.
2. Inside the vehicle, the (Medicine/ Patient) felt much better after the nurse arrived.
3. At the hospital, the doctor prescribed a specific (Medicine / Ambulance) to stop the infection.
4. The successful (Patient / Treatment) meant that the boy could go home the next day.

G. The first Aid hero (Reading passage)

Injury, Emergency, Bandage, Medicine, Bleeding

Fill in the blanks using the words above to complete the passage about the first aid hero.

"One afternoon, there was an (1)_____ in the village market when a shelf fell on a man. He had a deep (2)_____ on his arm and there was a lot of (3)_____. A student nearby remembered his first aid training. He used a clean cloth as a (4)_____ to press on the arm. Later, the nurse arrived with antiseptic (5)_____ to make sure the man did not get an infection."

H: Distinguishing Damage

Choose the most suitable word.

5. A student spills hot tea on his leg. — This is a (Burn / Wound).
6. A student trips over a chair in the classroom. — This is an (Accident / Injury).
7. A student cuts his finger with a sharp piece of paper. — This is a (Wound / Burn).
8. The student's ankle is swollen and painful after the fall. — This is an (Injury / Accident).

4.2. Listening: First aid situations

Activity 4.2.1

Before you listen, discuss the following questions:

- a) Have you ever seen someone get injured during a sports match or in the kitchen? What happened?
- b) If someone starts bleeding heavily, what is the very first thing you should do?
- c) I am a box found in schools and offices. I contain bandages, scissors, and antiseptic. What am I?

Activity 4.2.2

Listen to the story about the sports day at GS Ireme. Decide if the following sentences are True or False.

- a) Peter was injured while participating in a sprint during sports day. []
- b) Lina applied antiseptic medicine to Peter's wound immediately. []
- c) The school nurse insisted that Peter needed proper treatment because it was an emergency. []

- d) A teacher called an ambulance just in case the injury was more serious than it looked. []
- e) The student at the food stall burned their hand, and friends used ice to treat it. []
- f) The students learned that staying calm is an important part of first aid. []

It was sports day at GS Ireme. During a sprint, Peter tripped over a hurdle and got a deep wound on his arm that started bleeding.

Lina ran to help. She asked other students to step back and cleaned the wound gently. Then she applied a bandage from the first aid kit.

The school nurse arrived and said, "This is an emergency. We need proper treatment for the patient." She applied antiseptic medicine and monitored Peter. Another teacher called the ambulance in case the injury was serious.

Later, a student got a small burn at the food stall. Friends poured cool water on it and wrapped it with a clean bandage until help arrived.

The students learned that knowing first aid—cleaning a wound, applying a bandage, using medicine, and staying calm—can make a big difference during an accident or emergency.

Activity 4.2.3

Listen again to the story about the sports day at GS Ireme with an explanation of the first aid situations. While listening, complete the following text with the missing words or phrases:

Sports day was exciting until Peter tripped over a (1)_____ and got a deep (2)_____ on his arm. Lina acted quickly; she asked others to (3)_____ and cleaned the area (4). She then used a (5)_____ from the kit. When the nurse arrived, she treated Peter as a (6)_____ and applied (7)_____ medicine. Meanwhile, a teacher called the (8)_____ as a precaution. In another incident, a student suffered a (9)_____ at the food stall. His friends showed great (10)_____ by pouring (11)_____ water on the injury until help arrived.

Activity 4.2.4

Discuss the story, and answer the questions below:

1. Why was it important for Lina to ask the other students to "step back" before she started helping?
2. How did the school nurse's role differ from what Lina did as a first responder?
3. Why do you think a teacher called an ambulance even though the nurse was already there?
4. What are the four specific first aid actions the students learned by the end of the day?

4.3. Speaking: Talking about first aid advice for various situations.

Learning activities 4.3

Activity 4.3.1

Your friend is injured after falling during a football match. Prepare and role-play a scenario helping him/her.

Asking what happened

Checking the injury

Giving simple first aid

Calling for help

Comforting the injured colleague

4.4. Language structure

Imperative sentences and modals of advice (should/shouldn't, must/mustn't)

Learning activities 4.4

Activity 4.4.1

Imagine you are a first Aid trainer. You are watching a student helping a patient who has a deep wound. Read the three types of instructions below and notice how the "strength" of the message changes.

1. "You should wash your hands before touching the injury."
2. "You must use a clean bandage to prevent infection."

3. "Press firmly on the cut to stop the bleeding!"

Analyse the sentences above and answer these three questions in your notebooks:

1. Which sentence starts with an Action Verb?
 - Example: "Sit down!" or "Call an ambulance!"
2. Which sentence suggests a "Good Idea" but is not a strict command?
3. Which sentence describes a "Strict Necessity" or a life-saving rule?

NOTES

1. Imperative Sentences

Imperative sentences are used to give instructions, commands, warnings, or requests. They usually begin with the base form of the verb, and the subject "you" is not written but understood.

Structure:

Verb + object/complement

Examples related to first aid:

- Stay calm during an emergency.
- Wash your hands before touching a wound.
- Cover the wound with a clean bandage.
- Call the ambulance if the injury is serious.

Negative imperatives are formed using "Don't + verb."

Examples:

- Don't panic during an accident.
- Don't move the patient if the injury is serious.
- Don't touch the burn with dirty hands.

Imperatives are commonly used in instructions, warnings, and emergency situations where actions must be clear and direct.

2. Modals of Advice and Obligation

Modal verbs such as should, shouldn't, must, and mustn't are used to give advice, recommendations, or strong instructions.

a) Should / Shouldn't

These modals are used to give advice or suggestions.

Structure:

Subject + should / shouldn't + base verb

Examples:

- You should clean the wound carefully.
- The patient should rest after receiving treatment.
- You should call an ambulance in a serious emergency.

b) Must / Mustn't

These modals express strong obligation, necessity, or prohibition.

Structure:

Subject + must / mustn't + base verb

Examples:

- You must stay calm during an emergency.
- You must cover the wound with a clean bandage.
- You must call for help if the injury is serious.
- You mustn't move the patient if they have a serious injury.

3. Difference Between Imperatives and Modals

Structure	Function	Example
Imperatives	Give direct instructions	Cover the wound immediately.
Should / shouldn't	Give advice or suggestions	You should clean the wound.
Must / mustn't	Express strong obligation or prohibition	You must call an ambulance.

- Ignore bleeding after an accident.

4. Example in a First Aid Situation

During an accident, someone may say:

- Don't panic.
- Call the ambulance immediately.
- You should keep the patient calm.
- You must cover the bleeding wound with a bandage.

These expressions help people give clear instructions and advice during an emergency.

- Ignore bleeding after an accident.

4.5 Writing: First aid emergency

Activity 4.5.1

Write a short story (120–150 words) about a first aid emergency situation that you witnessed or imagined. Your story should describe what happened, how people reacted, and how the injured person received help.

Your story should include:

- A description of the accident or emergency
- The actions taken to help the injured person
- The use of first aid vocabulary such as wound, bleeding, bandage, burn, accident, emergency, ambulance, patient, treatment, injury, or medicine
- Imperatives or advice (e.g., Stay calm! Call the ambulance! You should keep the patient still.)
- Sequencing words such as first, then, next, after that, finally.

Use these questions to help you plan your story:

- Where did the accident happen?
- Who was involved in the emergency?
- What kind of injury occurred?
- What first aid actions were taken?
- What happened after the treatment?

Helpful sentence starters

- One afternoon, an accident happened at...
- Suddenly, a student fell and had a...
- At first, everyone felt worried, but then...
- Someone said, "Don't panic!"
- First, we cleaned the wound...
- Then we covered it with a bandage...
- Finally, the teacher called an ambulance...

Example (Model story)

One afternoon during sports practice, a student slipped and fell on the playground. He had a small wound on his knee and it started bleeding. At first, the students were worried, but one student stayed calm and said, "Don't panic." First, they helped the patient sit down. Then they cleaned the wound with water and covered it with a clean bandage. The teacher arrived and checked the injury carefully. She said the student should rest and receive proper treatment. Luckily, the injury was not serious. This situation taught the students that knowing basic first aid is very important during an emergency.

Activity 4.5.2

A). Fill in the blanks using the words from the list below to complete the emergency story.

Word list: Emergency, Bleeding, Wound, Bandage, Accident, Patient, Medicine, Treatment,

"Yesterday at school, there was a sudden (1) _____ on the playground. A student fell and got a deep (2) _____ on his knee. It was an (3) _____ because there was a lot of (4) _____. The school nurse arrived and treated the student as her (5) _____. First, she cleaned the injury with antiseptic (6) _____. Then, she provided the proper (7) _____ by wrapping a clean (8) _____ around his leg to keep it safe."

Activity 2: In pairs, one student is the Nurse and the other is the Patient. Use the prompts below to have a short conversation.

❖ Prompt A: The patient has a burn from a hot tea cup.

✓ Nurse: "Stay calm, this is an emergency. I will cool the burn with water."

❖ Prompt B: The patient has a leg injury from a bicycle accident.

✓ Nurse: "I need to stop the bleeding before I apply the treatment."

B) Sort the 11 vocabulary words into the correct columns below.

Word list: Accident Ambulance Bandage Bleeding Burn Emergency Injury Medicine Patient Treatment Wound

The situation (What happened?)	The action/Tools (How to help?)	The people/Transport (Who is involved?)
Example: Accident	Example: Bandage	Example: Patient
1.	1.	1.
2.	2.	2.
3.	3.
4.	4.

C). Read the "Wrong action" in the left column. Then, use the Word list to complete the "Correct Advice" so that the patient stays safe.

Word list: Ambulance, Emergency, Patient, Bleeding, Wound, Bandage, Treatment, Medicine, Burn, Injury

Wrong action	Correct advice
1. Putting a dirty cloth on a cut.	Always use a clean _____ to cover a _____ to prevent infection.
2. Panicking and running around when someone is hurt.	In an _____, you must stay calm and provide immediate _____.
3. Blocking the road when a siren is loud.	Always move out of the way to let the _____ reach the _____ quickly.
4. Putting butter or oil on skin that touched fire.	If someone has a _____, you should cool it with water, not grease, and seek _____.
5. Ignoring a deep cut that won't stop leaking.	If an _____ causes heavy _____, you must apply pressure and use antiseptic _____.

D). Below are instructions found in a school's Health and Safety manual. Sort them into the correct column based on their grammatical structure.

Stay calm.

You shouldn't rub a burn with a dirty cloth.

You must call 112 in a serious emergency.

Clean the wound with water.

You should reassure the patient.

Apply a bandage immediately.

Imperatives (Commands)	Modals (Advice/Rules)
Example: Stay calm.	Example: You must call 112.
1. _____	1. _____
2. _____	2. _____

E). Change the following "Direct Commands" into "Professional Advice" using Should or Must.

Example (Command): "Wash the burn." "You should wash the burn with cool water."

1. Command: "Apply pressure to the wound."

• Advice: _____

2. Command: "Don't touch the injury with dirty hands."

- Advice: _____

3. Command: "Call the doctor."

- Advice: _____

F) Read the dialogue carefully and choose the best answer.

Dialogue responding to a first Aid situation

Student A (helper): Don't panic. Sit down and try to stay calm. Let me look at your arm.

Student B (patient): I fell while running, and my arm really hurts.

Student A: I see a wound, and it's bleeding slightly. Don't move your arm too much.

Student B: Is the injury serious?

Student A: I don't think it's very serious, but we must treat it carefully. You should keep your arm still while I clean the wound.

Student B: Okay, I'll try not to move it.

Student A: Good. First, we must clean the wound with water. Then we should cover it with a clean bandage to protect it.

Student B: That makes sense.

Student A: Hold this cloth on the wound. You must press it gently to stop the bleeding.

Student B: Thank you. I feel better now.

Student A: We should also inform the teacher so you can receive proper treatment. If the injury needs more care, they might call an ambulance.

Student B: I'm glad you helped me during this emergency.

Student A: That's okay. When an accident happens, it's important to stay calm and help the patient until professional help arrives.

After the role-play, groups present their short dialogues to the class.

1. Why did Student A ask Student B to sit down and stay calm?
 - A. To examine the injury carefully and provide safe first aid.
 - B. To prevent other students from crowding around the accident.
 - C. To allow the injured student to rest before standing again.

- D. To wait quietly until the sports activity had completely ended.
2. What did Student A first notice about Student B's arm?
- A. A small wound that was bleeding slightly after the fall.
 - B. A painful burn caused by touching a very hot object.
 - C. A broken bone that required immediate hospital attention.
 - D. A swelling that appeared several minutes after the accident.
3. Why did Student A tell Student B not to move the arm?
- A. Moving the arm could increase the pain and worsen the injury.
 - B. Moving the arm could prevent the teacher from seeing the wound.
 - C. Moving the arm could stop the bleeding from slowing down.
 - D. Moving the arm could cause the patient to feel more relaxed.
4. Why did Student A ask Student B to press the cloth on the wound?
- A. Pressing the cloth helps reduce the bleeding before further treatment.
 - B. Pressing the cloth helps remove dirt from the injured skin.
 - C. Pressing the cloth helps protect the bandage from falling off.
 - D. Pressing the cloth helps prepare the patient for hospital transport.
5. Why did Student A suggest informing the teacher about the accident?
- A. The teacher could provide proper treatment or call for help.
 - B. The teacher could record the accident in the school report
 - C. The teacher could stop the sports activities for the class.
 - D. The teacher could observe how the students practiced first aid.
6. What important idea about first aid does the dialogue mainly show?
- A. Staying calm and giving simple help can support an injured person.
 - B. Only medical professionals should respond to school accidents.
 - C. Minor injuries should always be ignored during sports activities.
 - D. First aid knowledge is useful only in serious emergencies.

4.6 Sounds and spelling

Learning activities 4.6

Long /i:/sound: bleed, treat, clean. Short /ɪ/ sound: injury, bandage./e/ ben, help, /ɜ:/ sound: burn, turn, first.

Activity 4.6.1

A. Take turns saying these pairs of words. One is a medical word, and one is a common word. Your partner must tell you if your mouth shape looks the same for both.

Sound	Medical word	Common word	Mouth shape tip
/i:/	Bleed	Sleep	Smile wide and stretch the sound.
/ɪ/	Injury	Sit	Relax your mouth; keep it very short.
/e/	Help	Bed	Open your mouth slightly, like a small square.
/ɜ:/	Burn	Girl	Keep your lips neutral and make a deep sound.

B. Complete the sentences using the words from the “Sound Pharmacy” list above. Then, read them aloud to practice the shift between long and short vowels.

1. Focus on /i:/: You must (a)_____ the wound so it does not (b)_____.
2. Focus on /ɜ:/: Use the (a)_____ aid kit to treat the (b)_____.
3. Focus on /ɪ/ and /e/: Please (a)_____ me apply the (b)_____ to the (c)_____.

C. Categorize the words from the list below into the correct vowel sound “room.” Say the word aloud as you write it.

Word List: Bleed, Help, Injury, Burn, Treat, Bandage, Ben, Turn, Clean, Medicine, First, Emergency.

D. Write one short, clear sentence for each vowel sound. Each sentence must use a word from our First Aid vocabulary. Underline the target word.

1. /i:/ Sentence: _____
2. /ɪ/ Sentence: _____
3. /e/ Sentence: _____
4. /ɜ:/ Sentence: _____

NOTES

Sounds and spelling – Long and short vowel sounds

1. Long /i:/ sound

- ❖ This is a long vowel sound, held slightly longer than short vowels.
- ❖ Commonly found in words where the vowel i or ee is pronounced clearly.
- ❖ Vocabulary examples (First Aid context):
 - bleed – The nurse treated the patient who started to bleed.
 - treat – Doctors treat injuries carefully.
 - clean – Clean the wound with medicine.

Tip: Stretch the vowel when pronouncing: /i:/

2. Short /ɪ/ sound

- ❖ This is a short vowel sound, pronounced quickly.
- ❖ Appears in many words where i or u is short.
- ❖ Vocabulary examples (First Aid context):
 - injury – The patient has a small injury.
 - bandage – Wrap the bandage around the wound.

Tip: Don't stretch the vowel. Keep it short and quick: /ɪ/

3. /e/ sound

- ❖ This is a short "e" sound, common in simple words.
- ❖ Vocabulary examples (First Aid context):
 - ben – Ben called for help during the emergency.
 - help – You should help the patient remain calm.

Tip: Pronounce with the middle of your tongue slightly raised: /e/

4. /ɜ:/ sound

- ❖ This is a long mid-central vowel, often spelled ur, ir, er.
- ❖ Found in words that emphasize care or action in emergencies.
- ❖ Vocabulary examples (First Aid context):
 - burn – Do not touch the burn.

- turn – Turn the patient gently.
- first – First, check if the patient is breathing.

Tip: Hold the vowel slightly longer, with lips relaxed: /ɜ:/

Vowel Sound	Examples (First Aid Vocabulary)
/i:/ (long)	bleed, treat, clean	Hold the vowel longer
/ɪ/ (short)	injury, bandage	Quick and short sound
/e/	ben, help	Middle of tongue slightly raised
/ɜ:/	burn, turn, first	Long mid-central vowel

Summary Table

Application activity 4.6

1. Look at the words in the word bank: Clean, Help, Injury, Burn, Bleed, First, Bandage, Treat, Ben, Turn, Medicine, Emergency.

- Place each word into the correct column in the table based on its vowel sound.
- Write the completed table in your notebook.

/i:/ (Long)	/ɪ/ (Short)	/e/ (Short)	/ɜ:/ (Long Mid)

2. Read the first aid actions in Column A.

- Match each action with the correct vowel sound symbol in Column B.
- Write the number and letter pairs in your notebook.

Column A (Actions)	Column B (Sounds)
a. /ɪ/	1. You must clean the wound.
b. /i:/	2. Wrap the bandage tightly.
c. /ɜ:/	3. First, check the breathing.
d. /e/	4. Can you help the patient?

3. Write five clear first aid instructions for helping a person with an injury.

- Use imperative sentences and include should or must.

Example answers:

1. Stay calm and check the injury.
2. You must clean the wound carefully.
3. You should cover the wound with a bandage.
4. Call for emergency help immediately.
5. You must treat the patient gently.

4. Answer the question below:

- How can you help someone during an emergency? (Write a paragraph of 40 words)

4.7 End of unit assessment

Read the passage below and answer the following questions in full, grammatically correct sentences.

The school day at GS Ireme was proceeding as usual until a sudden emergency occurred in the Senior 4 science laboratory. While the students were conducting an experiment on thermal energy, Jane accidentally touched a metal container that had been sitting over a Bunsen burner. The intense heat caused an immediate burn on her palm.

In the moment of the accident, the classroom was filled with tension. However, Jane's classmate, Eric, stayed calm. He realized that Jane was now a patient who required immediate care. Before providing treatment, Eric instructed the other nervous students to move back. This was a critical step to ensure the injury site was clear and that he could work without interference.

Eric led Jane to the sink and ran cool water over her hand for ten minutes. He knew that for a burn, cooling the skin is the most important step to prevent further damage. Once the pain had subsided slightly, he looked into the first aid kit. Although the wound was not bleeding, it was sensitive to the air. Eric found a clean bandage and wrapped the hand loosely to protect it from germs.

While Eric managed the situation, another student ran to find the teacher. When Ms. Grace arrived, she praised Eric for his quick thinking. She applied a soothing antiseptic medicine to the area and called for the school ambulance to be on standby just in case the pain worsened. By the time Jane reached the medical room, she felt much better because of the rapid and responsible actions taken by her peers.

Comprehension Questions

1. In which specific school facility did the emergency take place?

2. Why is Jane referred to as a "patient" in the second paragraph?
3. Identify the very first action Eric took before he touched Jane's injury. Why was this step necessary?
4. According to the text, what is the primary medical reason for running cool water over a burn for an extended period?
5. Eric chose to use a bandage from the first aid kit. What specific purpose did the bandage serve in this scenario?
6. List the sequence of first aid steps Eric followed, from the moment the accident happened until the teacher arrived.
7. Based on the passage, how does staying calm benefit a first aider during a crisis?
8. Why do you think Ms. Grace applied antiseptic medicine after Eric had already cooled the burn?

Complete the sentences using suitable words. (5 marks)

Use: injury, treatment, medicine, bleeding, wound

1. The nurse gave proper _____ to the patient.
2. The boy had a deep _____ on his arm.
3. The doctor applied _____ to prevent infection.
4. A clean cloth can help stop _____.
5. The student had a minor _____ after falling.

Section B: Language Structure

Identify the sentence type. Write Imperative or Modal Advice. (4 marks)

1. Call the ambulance immediately.
2. You should keep the patient calm.
3. Don't touch the burn.
4. You must inform a teacher.

Complete the sentences using should, shouldn't, must, or mustn't. (6 marks)

1. You _____ stay calm during an emergency.

3. You _____ call for help if the injury is serious.
4. You _____ touch a wound with dirty hands.
5. You _____ clean the wound carefully.

6. You _____ panic during an accident.

Section D:

Write the correct vowel sound for each word. (5 marks)

Options: /i:/, /ɪ/, /e/, /ɜ:/

1. bleed _____

2. injury _____

3. help _____

4. burn _____

5. treat _____

Circle the word with a different vowel sound. (5 marks)

1. bleed – clean – treat – bandage

2. help – pen – bed – burn

3. burn – turn – first – clean

4. treat – clean – bleed – injury

Section E: Writing

Write a short paragraph (80–100 words).

Describe a first aid emergency situation that happened at school, home, or in the community.

Your paragraph should include:

- what happened
- the injury
- the actions taken to help
- sequencing words (first, then, next, finally)
- at least 3 first aid vocabulary words

Key Unit Competence:

Communicate effectively about friendships and social interactions while demonstrating respect, trust, and responsible behaviour.

Learning objectives

By the end of this unit, students will be able to:

1 a. Knowledge and understanding

- Identify and explain key vocabulary related to friendship and social interactions.
- Describe the qualities of a good friend and the importance of trust.
- Understand common challenges in friendships and ways to resolve conflicts respectfully.
- Recognise the correct use of reported speech to convey what someone said or advised

2 b. Skills

- Read and understand short stories or dialogues about friendship and summarise main ideas.
- Write short paragraphs or messages expressing appreciation or resolving conflicts politely.
- Speak and listen effectively about friendship experiences using appropriate vocabulary and grammar.

3 c. Attitudes and values

- Demonstrate respect, honesty, and trustworthiness in interactions with peers.
- Appreciate the importance of supportive friendships for personal and social growth.
- Show willingness to resolve disagreements peacefully and maintain positive relationships.

Introduction to the unit:

In this unit, you will learn how to speak and write about friendship, share personal experiences, and describe the qualities of a good friend. You will also practise expressing trust, respect, kindness, and care in social interactions. Through different activities, you will develop the language skills needed to build and maintain positive relationships with others.

Introductory activity

Discuss the following questions:

1. Who is your best friend and why?
2. What are some qualities you like in a friend?
3. Can you describe a time when a friend helped you or made you happy?

5.1 Talking about building and maintaining healthy relationships

Learning activities 5.1

Activity 5.1.1

Look at the picture carefully and answer the questions below. Discuss the questions that follow

1. What kind of relationship do you think these people have? How can you tell?
2. What qualities do you think these friends might have (e.g., caring, supportive, loyal)?
3. What kind of story about friendship could this picture introduce? Write 2 sentences.

Activity 5.1.2

Match the following themes (1-4) with the paragraphs (A-D) in the story below.

1. Promoting fairness and integrity. []
2. Spontaneous acts of kindness to strangers. []
3. The importance of mutual support and gratitude. []
4. Teamwork and preparation for shared joy. []

A Day with Friends

(A) It was a sunny Saturday morning, and four friends—Ankunda, Bryson, Mutoni, and Hope—decided to spend the day together at the park. They always enjoyed each other's company because they were kind, loyal, and supportive. While walking, Bryson noticed a little boy struggling to carry his heavy backpack. He said, "Do you want me to help you with that?" The boy smiled and nodded gratefully. Bryson picked up the backpack and carried it for him.

(B) Mutoni, always cheerful and caring, suggested, "Why don't we have a picnic under that big tree?" Everyone agreed, and they laid out a blanket and shared sandwiches and fruits. Hope, who was very patient and reliable, helped organize the food neatly so everyone could reach it easily.

(C) During the picnic, Ankunda noticed that Bryson looked tired. He asked politely, "Would you like me to get you some water?" Bryson smiled and said, "Thanks, Ankunda, that would be great!" By the end of the day, they were tired but happy. Hope said, "Spending time together always makes me feel happy and supported."

(D) As they played games later, Mutoni reminded the group, "Remember to take turns fairly and be honest when playing." Everyone nodded, understanding how important it was to be honest and fair. The friends packed their things, hugged, and promised to meet again soon. They had learned that being friendly, kind, honest, and supportive made their friendship stronger and more enjoyable.

Activity 5.1.3

1. Read and find out

- Why did the friends enjoy each other's company according to paragraph A?
- What can be inferred about Bryson's character from his interaction with the little boy?
- How did Hope's personality contribute to the success of the picnic?
- What can you understand about Rwandan social values from Mutoni's advice during the games?
- What did the friends learn about the ingredients of a strong friendship?

2. Scan the text. Indicate whether the statements are True (T) or False (F) and justify your answer.

- The friends went to the park on a weekday. []
- Bryson was the one who suggested the picnic. []
- The friends shared different types of food. []
- Honesty was mentioned as a key factor in their games. []

Activity 5.1.4

Vocabulary Matching:

A. Match the character traits from the box with the actions described below.

Reliable, Grateful, Honest, Supportive, Cheerful

- _____ : Smiling and nodding when receiving help.
- _____ : Making sure the food is organized so everyone can eat.
- _____ : Reminding others to play by the rules and not cheat.
- _____ : Offering water to a friend who looks tired.
- _____ : Suggesting a fun activity with a positive attitude.

B. Use the correct form of the reporting verb in brackets to complete the sentences.

1. Ankunda _____ (offer) to get Bryson some water.
2. Mutoni _____ (advise) the group to play fairly.
3. The boy _____ (smile) because Bryson _____ (Volunteer) to help.
4. Hope _____ (remark) that spending time together was _____ (value).

C. Read the passage again. Match the words from the story in column A with their closest meanings in Column B.

Column A (Word)	Column B (Definition)
1. Loyal	a. Doing something in a correct and truthful way.
2. Struggling	b. Something very valuable and hard to find.
3. Reliable	c. Having a hard time doing something difficult.
4. Fairly	d. Constant and faithful in supporting someone.
5. Precious	e. Someone you can trust to do what is expected.

D. In Rwanda, social values like kindness and support are very important. Fill in the blanks using the adjectives from the box to describe the characters' actions.

Polite | Grateful | Cheerful | Patient | Supportive

1. Because Mutoni was _____, she always had a smile and suggested a fun picnic.
2. The little boy felt _____ when Bryson helped him with the heavy bag.
3. Ankunda was _____ when he asked, "Would you like me to get you some water?"
4. Hope showed she was _____ by waiting to organize the food so everyone could eat comfortably.
5. All four friends were _____, making sure they helped each other throughout the day.

E. In English, we often change verbs into adjectives to describe people. Complete the table below following the examples from the text.

Verb	Adjective (Person/Trait)	Sentence from your own mind
To Support	Supportive	My teacher is very supportive.
To Rely	Reliable	_____
To Cheer	Cheerful	_____
To Honesty	Honest	_____
To Help	Helpful	_____

F. Choose the correct word to complete the paragraph about a typical day in a Rwandan school. This will help you use the vocabulary in a new context.

"In our classroom, we strive to be (honest/heavy) with our teachers. When a classmate is (struggling / sunny) with a difficult math problem, we try to be (precious/supportive) by explaining the steps. During break time, we play football (fairly / gratefully) and always remember that a good friendship is more (loyal/ precious) than winning the game."

5.2 Listening activity: Friendship and daily activities.

Activity 5.2.1

Real friends spend time together helping each other. Discuss the following questions

- a) What activities do you usually do with your friends?
- b) How do good friends help each other in daily life?
- c) Have you ever helped a friend who had a problem? What happened?

Activity 5.2.2

Listen to a dialogue twice and you will answer the questions that follow.

Conversation: Helping a friend

Aline: Hello, Kevin. You look tired today. Is everything okay?

Kevin: Hi, Aline. I'm a bit tired because I stayed up late finishing my homework.

Aline: That sounds difficult. Would you like me to help you with the science assignment later?

Kevin: That would be great, thank you! I didn't understand some of the questions.

Aline: No problem. We can study together after school in the library.

Kevin: Thanks, Aline. You are always supportive.

Aline: That's what friends are for. By the way, why are you carrying so many books?

Kevin: I need them for different classes today.

Aline: They look heavy. Shall I help you carry some of them?

Kevin: Yes, please. That would help a lot.

Aline: Also, remember to take some rest tonight. You shouldn't stay up too late.

Kevin: You're right. Thanks for the advice.

Aline: You're welcome. Let's go to class now.

Kevin: Okay, and thanks again for helping me.

Activity 5.2.3

Answer the following questions

- Why was Kevin tired?
- What help did Aline offer Kevin about his homework?
- Where did Aline suggest they study together?
- Why was Kevin carrying many books?
- What advice did Aline give Kevin?
- What did Aline do that shows she is a good friend?
- What would you do if your friend was tired or needed help?

Activity 5.2.4

Write True (T) or False (F).

- Kevin was tired because he played games all night. ____
- Aline offered to help Kevin with his science assignment. ____
- They planned to study together at home. ____
- Aline offered to carry some of Kevin's books. ____
- Kevin thanked Aline for helping him. ____

Activity 5.2.5

Work with a partner to make your own dialogue about helping your friend.

5.3. Speaking: Friends, activities, and safe relationships

5.4 Language structure

1. Reported Speech

Reported speech is used when we tell someone what another person said without using their exact words.

Example from the Passage (Direct Speech)

Bryson said, "Do you want me to help you with that?"

Reported Speech

Bryson offered to help the boy carry his backpack.

More Examples from the Passage

1. Direct Speech:

Ankunda said, "Would you like me to get you some water?"

Reported Speech:

Ankunda offered to get Bryson some water.

2. Direct Speech:

Mutoni said, "Remember to take turns fairly and be honest when playing."

Reported Speech:

Mutoni advised them to take turns fairly and be honest when playing.

3. Direct Speech:

Mutoni said, "Why don't we have a picnic under that big tree?"

Reported Speech:

Mutoni suggested that they have a picnic under the big tree.

Important Words Used in Reporting Speech

When reporting what someone said, we often use verbs such as:

- said
- told
- advised
- suggested
- offered

Example:

Mutoni advised them to be honest.

2. Modals for offers and requests

Modals are helping verbs such as can, could, would, and shall. They are used to make polite offers and requests.

Activity 5.3.1

Discuss the following questions.

1. What qualities make someone a good friend?
2. What activities do you enjoy doing with your friends?
3. Why is it important to choose friends carefully?

Activity 5.3.2

- a) Your friend asks you to do something wrong, like cheating in a test. What should you do?
- b) A friend always supports and encourages you when you have a problem. Is this a safe relationship? Why?
- c) Someone who calls you a friend often insults you or bullies you. What should you do?

Activity 5.3.3

Create a short conversation between two friends about helping each other at school.

Example topics:

- Studying together
- Helping with homework
- Giving advice

a) Modals for Offers

An offer is when someone is willing to help or do something for another person.

Examples from the Passage

Ankunda said:

"Would you like me to get you some water?"

Bryson said:

"Do you want me to help you with that?"

These sentences show offers of help.

Other Examples of Offers

- Can I help you carry the bag?

- Shall I bring you some water?
- Would you like me to help you?

b) Modals for Requests

A request is when someone politely asks another person to do something.

Examples

- Could you pass the food, please?
- Would you help me organize the picnic?
- Can you help me carry this bag?

Summary

- Reported speech tells what someone said without repeating their exact words.
Example: Ankunda offered to get Bryson some water.
- Modals (can, could, would, shall) help us make polite offers and requests.
Example: Would you like me to help you?
- These structures help us communicate politely and clearly in everyday conversations.

5.5. A Narrative essay on friendship

Activity 5.5.1

Based on the story "A Day with Friends" and your classroom discussions, write a descriptive essay about a meaningful friendship. In your essay, include:

- The Foundation: How the friendship started and the shared values (honesty, loyalty, kindness) that keep it strong.
- Social Activities: The specific things you do together in your community (e.g., studying, playing sports, or volunteering).
- The Impact: How this friend has supported you and your personal opinion on why "true friends are rare and precious."

Writing Guide: How to Construct Your Essay

To ensure your writing is organized and meets the standards, follow this structural "Building Plan":

Section	Focus Area	Essential Details to Include
Introduction	The Connection	Introduce your friend and state the main qualities that define your relationship (the "Topic Sentence").
Body Paragraph 1	Shared Experiences	Describe a specific time you spent together. Use Past Simple to describe completed actions (e.g., We visited Lake Kivu last month).
Body Paragraph 2	Responsibility & Safety	Explain your "rules." Use Modals to describe your duties to each other (e.g., We must be honest or We should protect each other's privacy).
Conclusion	Final Thought	Summarize the importance of the bond and include a closing statement about your future hopes for the friendship.

Language Checklist for Your Writing

Before submitting your final draft, check that you have utilized these key language features:

- Reported Speech: Include at least one instance of reporting what your friend said to you. (e.g., My friend told me that she would always be there to help.)
- Polite Offers: Use the structures we practiced earlier. (e.g., "Would you like me to..." or "Do you want me to...").
- Vocabulary: Use at least five "Value Words" from the unit (e.g., Trustworthy, Reliable, Grateful, Supportive, Patient).

Finally:

Write your essay in 150–200 words. Ensure your paragraphing is clear and you use transition words like Additionally, Furthermore, and However to link your ideas.

Self-Assessment:

After writing, use a coloured pen to underline your Modals and circle your Reported Speech to ensure you have met the grammar requirements of the unit.

5.6 Sounds and spelling: Diphthongs

What do you already know?

Before we begin, think about what you already know about vowel sounds. Answer these questions honestly-there are no wrong answers.

Activity 5.6.1

How many vowel letters are there in English? Write them below:

.....

Activity 5.6.2

Read the following sentences aloud. Pay close attention to the underlined words. Can you hear how the vowel sound "slides" from one position to another?

- I enjoy my time with my friends.
- We should stay safe online.
- Do not post private photos.
- She is a loyaland supportive friend.

Activity 5.6.3

In English, there are 8 common diphthongs. Below are the four most relevant to our unit. Practice the sound and place the words from the "Word Bank" into the correct column.

Word Bank: Social, Profile, Private, Stay, Loyal, Face, Choice, Online, Appoint, Daily.

Sound /aɪ/ (as in Eye)	Sound /eɪ/ (as in Say)	Sound /əʊ/ (as in Go)	Sound /ɔɪ/ (as in Boy)
Example: Time	Example: Name	Example: Post	Example: Join
1. _____	1. _____	1. _____	1. _____
2. _____	2. _____	2. _____	2. _____

Activity 5.6.4

A. Sometimes, changing the diphthong changes the entire meaning of the word. Choose the correct word to complete the "Digital Safety" advice.

- If you have a problem online, you must (find / found) a trusted adult to talk to.
- Do not (let / late) strangers follow your private account.
- A good friend will (point / pant) out when you are making a mistake.
- (Wait / Wet) before you click on a suspicious link.

B. Write three original sentences about Social Media Safety. Each sentence must contain at least two words from the table in Activity 2.

- Example: "I must check my private profile settings daily."

Key notes

1. What is a Diphthong?

Key definition: A diphthong = a vowel glide within one syllable (mouth moves from position A to position B).

Monophthong = a pure, single vowel (mouth stays still) — e.g. the vowel in bed, sit, hot

Diphthong = a gliding vowel (mouth moves) — e.g. the vowel in time, boat, coin

2. The 8 Main English Diphthongs

English has 8 widely recognised diphthong sounds. Study the table carefully.

IPA Symbol	Glide (mouth movement)	Common Spellings	Example Words
/aɪ/	ah → ee	i, ie, igh, y, i_e	time, pie, night, fly, kite
/eɪ/	eh → ee	a_e, ay, ai, ey, eigh	cake, day, rain, they, eight
/ɔɪ/	aw → ee	oi, oy	coin, boy, oil, annoy
/aʊ/	ah → oo	ou, ow	out, cow, house, town
/oʊ/	oh → oo	o_e, oa, ow, oe, o	home, boat, snow, toe, go
/lə/	ih → uh	ear, eer, ere	near, beer, here, ear
/eə/	eh → uh	air, are, ear	hair, care, bear, there
/ʊə/	oo → uh	ure, oor, our	pure, poor, tour, cure

3. Key spelling rules

Learning these rules will help you choose the correct spelling for each diphthong sound.

#	Rule	Pattern	Examples
1	ai vs ay — use ai in the middle of a word; ay at the end	middle: ai / end: ay	rain, sail / day, say
2	oi vs oy — use oi in the middle of a word; oy at the end	middle: oi / end: oy	coin, moist / boy, joy
3	ou vs ow — use ou in the middle for the /aʊ/ sound; ow at the end or before consonants	middle: ou / end or + C: ow	loud, found / cow, down
4	igh — always makes /aɪ/ and comes before a consonant or at word end	igh + C or word end	night, right, high, sigh

5	Magic e — adding a silent e converts a short vowel into a diphthong	vowel + C + e	kit→kite, hop→hope, mad→made
---	---	---------------	-------------------------------------

4. The Tricky ow Problem

The letters ow can represent TWO different diphthong sounds. There is no single rule — you must learn these words by group.

ow = /ou/ (oh→oo sound)	ow = /au/ (ah→oo sound)
snow, grow, show, know, low, flow, below, elbow, window	cow, how, now, brown, crowd, town, down, flower, power
1. Common Errors and Tricky Words Homophones (same sound, different spelling): - weight / wait way / weigh night / knight - by / bye / buy flour / flower Silent letters in diphthong spellings: - The gh in night, light, eight, weigh is ALWAYS silent in modern English. The digraph trap — not all two-vowel combinations are diphthongs: - ea in bread / head = a simple short vowel /e/ (NOT a diphthong) - oo in book vs moon = two different single vowels (NOT diphthongs)

Application activities 5.6

B. Diphthong Sorting

Sort the words below into the correct diphthong group. Write each word in the right column.

Word bank: fly, eight, boy, house, snow, near, cake, coin, care, night, brown, boat, here, pure, they, joy, time, out, low, rain

/aɪ/	/eɪ/	/ɔɪ/	/aʊ/	/oʊ/	/lə/	/eə/	/ʊə/

5.7 End of unit assessment

Instructions:

- Answer all questions.
- Read each question carefully before answering.
- Write your answers clearly.

Instructions:

- Answer all questions.
- Read each question carefully before answering.
- Write your answers clearly.

Read the passage below and answer the questions that follow:

The Great High School “Friendship Fest”

The sun was blazing over the school courtyard, but the heat didn’t stop the noise. Today wasn’t a normal Tuesday; it was the annual FriendshipFest. The goal was simple: make one new friend or appreciate an old one.

At Table 1, a group of Senior 4 students were engaged in a “Compliment Relay.” Sarah giggled as her best friend, John, described her as “the most reliable person to borrow a pen from.” It was a small joke, but it highlighted a core part of their bond—trust and consistency. Nearby, a new student named Leo sat quietly on a bench. He had just moved to the city and felt like an outsider. Suddenly, a girl named Maya approached him with two sodas. “Hey, I’m Maya,” she said with a warm smile. “Starting a new school is like trying to read a book in the dark—it’s easier if someone holds the flashlight for you.” They spent the next hour talking about music and realizing they both shared a strange obsession with vintage jazz.

The festival ended with a “Trust Fall” activity in the gym. As students caught one another, the Principal made a short speech. “Remember,” he said, “a true friend isn’t just someone you laugh with during the Fest. A true friend is the one who supports you when the music stops and the hard work of life begins.”

As the balloons were cleared away, Leo realized he wasn’t an outsider anymore. He didn’t just have a classmate; he had a teammate.

Section A: Vocabulary in Context

Choose the best meaning for the words as they are used in the passage.

1. In the text, what does the word “bond” most likely mean?

- A) A legal document
- B) A strong connection between people
- C) A type of glue

2. When Maya "approached" Leo, she:

- A) Ran away from him
- B) Shouted at him
- C) Moved closer to talk to him

3. The Principal says a friend "supports" you. This means a friend:

- A) Helps and encourages you
- B) Asks you for money
- C) Tells you what to do

Section B: Comprehension Questions

Answer the following questions based on the story.

1. What was the main purpose of the "Friendship Fest"?
2. Maya uses a "flashlight" metaphor to describe friendship. In your own words, what does she mean by this?
3. Contrast Leo's feelings at the beginning of the story with his feelings at the end. What changed?
4. Why do you think the author included the "Compliment Relay" activity in the story? What does it show about Sarah and John?
5. The Principal said a friend helps "when the music stops." Give a real-life example of a situation where the "music stops" and you might need a friend.

Section C: The "Friendship Logic" Challenge

Determine if the following statements are True or False based on the passage.

- [True / False] Maya and Leo became friends because they both like the same type of music.
- [True / False] The Friendship Fest took place in the school library.
- [True / False] Sarah was offended when John called her a "pen lender."

Section D: Language Use (10 marks)

1. Report the following sentences.

Change the following direct speech sentences into Reported Speech. Remember to change the pronouns and move the verb tense back where necessary.

1. Direct: John said, "I will help you with the project."

- Reported: John said that _____.

2. Direct: The teacher said, "Please respect each other."

- Reported: The teacher asked the students _____.

3. Direct: Sarah said, "I am meeting Maya at the Friendship Fest."

- Reported: Sarah said that _____.

4. Direct: Leo told me, "I have never had a friend like you before."

- Reported: Leo told me that _____.

5. Direct: The Principal said, "Stay calm during the emergency."

- Reported: The Principal told everyone _____.

2. For each situation, your friend is facing a small problem. Use the words in the brackets to write a polite offer using "Shall I...?", "Would you like me to...?", or "Can I...?"

Word List to use for the offers: Help, Explain, Carry, Share, Lend

The Situation	Your Polite Offer (The Rescue)
1. Your friend looks very tired. (help / carry / bag)	"You look exhausted!.....?"
2. Your classmate is frowning at their book. (explain / lesson)	"It looks tricky.?"
3. It is raining and your friend has no umbrella. (share / mine)	"Don't get wet! Can I?"
4. Your desk-mate forgot their pen today. (lend / extra one)	"Don't worry. Shall I?"
5. A new student is sitting alone at lunch. (sit / with us)	"Hi there! Would you like to?"

3. Write polite requests.

1. Ask your friend to lend you a ruler.
2. Ask someone to open the window.

Section E: Speaking

Answer the questions in complete sentences.

1. Describe two qualities of a good friend.
2. What activities do you enjoy doing with your friends?
3. What should you do if a friend asks you to do something wrong?

Section F: Sounds and Spelling (5 marks)

1. Identify the diphthong sound in each word.

1. day → _____
2. boy → _____
3. house → _____
4. go → _____
5. near → _____

Section G: Writing

Write a short paragraph (6–8 sentences) about friendship.

Your paragraph should include:

- Qualities of a good friend
- An example of how friends help each other
- Why friendship is important

5.8 PROJECT TITLE: FIRST RESPONDERS & COMMUNITY GUARDIANS

Core Skills: Imperative verbs (instructions), Sequencing connectors, and Reported Speech.

1. The Mission

In groups of four, students will identify a common emergency in their local community (e.g., a small kitchen fire, a minor injury during farming, or heavy rain flooding a path). They must create a “Community Emergency Guide” and present it to the class.

2. Project Components (The “Action Plan”)

Step A: The Interview (Reported Speech Practice) Students must “interview” a local elder, a teacher, or a school nurse about a past emergency.

- Task: Write 3–5 sentences reporting what the expert said.
- Example: “The nurse told us that we should keep the wound clean.”

Step B: The “Guardian’s Guide” (Sequencing Practice) Create a poster or a one-page flyer that gives clear instructions on what to do during the emergency.

- Rule: You must use at least five sequencing connectors (First, Next, Then, Afterwards, Finally).
- Example: “First, stay calm and move away from the fire. Next, call for help.

Step C: The Classroom Simulation (Speaking Practice) The group acts out the emergency. One student acts as the "Guardian" and gives loud, clear instructions to the "First Responders" using the imperative mood (e.g., "Bring the water!", "Move the chair!").

3. Student Self-Study Instructions (Simple & Quick)

If you are working on this project at home, follow this 20-minute prep guide:

- 1. Select Your Topic: Choose one: Fire Safety, First Aid, or Weather Safety.
- 2. Draft the Steps: Write down 5 steps to solve the problem.
 - Use: First, Next, Then, After that, Finally.
- 3. The Time Shift: Write down what you told your teammates yesterday about this project.
 - Direct: "I will bring the markers tomorrow."
 - Reported: I told my team that I would bring the markers the next day.

UNIT 6

LEADERSHIP AND FAMOUS PEOPLE

Unit Introduction

In this unit, you will learn how to communicate clearly about leadership and famous people in spoken and written English. You will explore the qualities of effective leaders, examine the contributions of positive role models, and understand the importance of ethical and responsible leadership. The unit will also encourage you to reflect on how you can develop the values, skills, and attitudes needed to become a responsible and effective leader in your community.

Introductory activity

Look at a picture of a leader speaking to a group of people,

Answer these questions briefly:

1. What can you see in the picture?
2. Who is the person in the picture and what is he doing?
3. How do the people around the leader look (happy, serious, attentive)?
4. What qualities do you think this leader has?
5. Do you know any famous leaders in your country or in the world? Name one.
6. What makes a person a good leader?
7. Would you like to be a leader? Why or why not?

6.1 Understanding leadership and recognizing role models in Rwanda.

Reading comprehension about understanding leadership and recognizing role models in Rwanda.

Activity 6.1.1

Before reading the text, discuss a leader or famous person you admire. Explain what the person is known for and identify the qualities that make them a positive role model.

Activity 6.1.2

Read the short biographies of Rwandan leaders or role models, highlighting achievements, qualities, and contributions, and answer the questions that follow:

Inspiring Leaders of Rwanda: Their Achievements and Influence.

Rwanda is widely recognized for its strong leadership and remarkable development. Over the years, several leaders have played an important role in shaping the country's future. These leaders are admired not only for their achievements but also for their character, personality, and commitment to serving others.

One of the most influential leaders is Paul Kagame. After the 1994 Genocide against the Tutsi, Rwanda faced serious challenges such as insecurity, poverty, and lack of development. Under his leadership, the country developed rapidly. He introduced reforms in education, health, and technology, and encouraged unity among citizens. His leadership style combines strong authority with a focus on national development. Many people respect and admire him because he is hardworking, brave, and determined to bring positive change. His efforts have had a lasting impact on Rwanda's progress.

Another important leader in Rwanda's history is Agathe Uwiringiyimana. She was known for her honesty and strong values. During her time in leadership, she worked to reform the education system and promote equal opportunities for all students. She believed that education could transform society and reduce inequality. Despite facing many challenges, she remained responsible, fair, and trustworthy. Her contribution to the country continues to inspire many people today, especially young women who see her as a powerful role model.

Louise Mushikiwabo is another respected leader who has represented Rwanda on the international stage. Through her work, she has helped to strengthen Rwanda's global relationships and promote its image worldwide. She has influenced international discussions and shown that leadership requires confidence and strong communication skills. Many people admire her for being respectful, professional, and dedicated to her country.

Although these leaders have different leadership styles, they share important qualities such as being honest, responsible, and committed to serving others.

Their achievements show that true leadership is about making a positive difference in society. They have not only achieved personal success but have also contributed to national development.

These stories teach us that leadership is not limited to famous people. Students, teachers, and community members can also show leadership in their daily lives. If young people develop good values, work hard, and learn from these role models, they will become future leaders who will continue to build and improve their country.

Activity 6.1.3

Comprehension questions:

A. Literal Questions

1. According to the passage, what three challenges did Rwanda face after 1994?
2. Which three sectors are mentioned as areas where reforms were introduced under Paul Kagame?
3. What belief about education is attributed to Agatha Uwiringiyimana?

B. Inferential Questions

4. Why does the passage suggest that Paul Kagame's leadership had a lasting impact on Rwanda?
5. How does Louise Mushikiwabo's role show that leadership goes beyond national boundaries?
6. How does the final paragraph support the idea that leadership can be practiced by ordinary people?

- b) What was her professional title at the Rwanda Development Board (RDB)?
- c) What was the main goal of the “Visit Rwanda” campaign?
- d) Which two famous European football clubs partnered with Rwanda for this initiative?
- e) How did the campaign change the way international tourists viewed Rwanda?
- f) According to the text, what three leadership qualities make people admire Clare Akamanzi?

From Dreams to Global Impact

As a young girl, Clare Akamanzi believed that education was the key to success. She worked hard in school and dreamed of making a difference in her country. Over time, she achieved her goals and became a respected leader.

Clare later became the Chief Executive Officer of the Rwanda Development Board. In this role, she helped to develop Rwanda’s economy and attract international investors. She worked to make Rwanda known around the world as a safe and attractive place for business and tourism.

One of her most exciting achievements was promoting Rwanda globally through the famous “Visit Rwanda” campaign. This initiative partnered with international football clubs like Arsenal F.C. and Paris Saint-Germain F.C.. The words “Visit Rwanda” appeared on their jerseys and stadiums, helping millions of people around the world learn about Rwanda.

Because of this, more tourists began to visit the country, and Rwanda’s image improved internationally. This had a strong impact on the economy and created new opportunities for young people.

People admire Clare Akamanzi because she is confident, hardworking, and responsible. She has shown that leadership is about action, vision, and making a meaningful contribution.

Her story teaches us an important lesson:

If you believe in your dreams and work hard, you will achieve great things.

Today, she is a true role model who continues to inspire young people across Rwanda and beyond.

Activity 6.2.3

Decide if the following statements are True (T) or False (F).

- a) ☐ Clare Akamanzi believed that education was not important for success.
- b) ☐ The "Visit Rwanda" words appeared on jerseys and in stadiums.
- c) ☐ The campaign had no measurable effect on Rwanda's economy.
- d) ☐ Leadership, according to Clare's story, is about action and vision.

Activity 6.2.4

After listening to the story, sit in small groups. Discuss the impact of visionary leadership and write a paragraph of no less than 50 words on the following topic:

"How effective leadership and creative campaigns can improve a country's image and economy internationally."

Checklist for your paragraph:

- ☐ Did I mention at least one specific example from the text?
- ☐ Did I use formal language (e.g., furthermore, consequently)?
- ☐ Did I check my spelling of "leadership" and "international"?

6.3 Speaking: Leadership and Role Models

Activity 6.3.1

Compare and present to the class the qualities and achievements of different Rwandan leaders such as:

- Clare Akamanzi
- Agathe Uwilingiyimana
- Paul Kagame

Talk about:

- Their achievements (What did they do?)
- Their qualities (What kind of people are they?)
- Their influence (How did they impact society?)

Useful Language

- "I think is more hardworking than ____."
- "Both leaders are honest, but is more..."
- "In my opinion, has had a bigger impact because..."

Activity 6.3.2

Report what a leader said using reported speech.

Examples

"Education is important."

- The leader said that education is important.

"We must work hard."

- The leader said that people must work hard.

Activity 6.3.3

Work in pairs and act out an interview:

- Student A → Journalist
- Student B → Leader

The journalist asks for example:

- What are your achievements?
- What qualities make you a good leader?
- How have you influenced society?

Use First Conditional

The "leader" must answer using:

- If + present simple, will + verb
- Example:
- "If young people work hard, they will succeed."
- "If we invest in education, the country will develop."

Activity 6.3.4

Prepare a mini speaking for 1 minute about a leader you admire.

Include:

- ✓ One achievement
- ✓ Two qualities
- ✓ One reported statement
- ✓ One first conditional sentence

6.4. Language structure

A. Simple Past Tense:

Activity 6.4.1

Read these two sets of sentences carefully:

Group A (Present)	Group B (Past)
Minister Agathe works for the people.	Agathe Uwilingiyimana worked to improve education.
Clare Akamanzi promotes Rwanda today.	Clare Akamanzi promoted Rwanda internationally.

Discuss with a partner:

1. Which group describes actions that are finished and over?
2. Look at the verbs in Group B (worked, promoted). What two letters were added to the end?

Notes

1. When do we use it?

We use the Simple Past Tense to talk about:

- Completed Actions: Things that started and finished at a specific time in the past.
- Historical Achievements: Great things leaders did for our country years ago.

2. How do we build it?

Sentence Type	Structure	Example
Positive (+)	Subject + Verb-ed	She developed the program.
Negative (-)	Subject + did not + Base Verb	She did not develop the program.
Question (?)	Did + Subject + Base Verb?	Did she develop the program?

❖ Critical Rule: In Negative sentences and Questions, the verb goes back to its original form (we remove the -ed) because "did" already shows the past.

3. Regular vs. Irregular Verbs

- Regular: Just add -ed (e.g., improve → improved, help → helped).
- Irregular: These "rebel" verbs change completely! You must memorize them:
✓ become → became

- ✓ lead → led
- ✓ give → gave
- ✓ build → built

Exercise A: Complete the sentences using the correct past form of the verb in brackets.

1. In the past, many leaders _____ (struggle) for our independence.
2. Agathe Uwilingiyimana _____ (become) the first female Prime Minister of Rwanda.
3. The government _____ (build) many new schools last decade.
4. She _____ (inspire) many young girls to study science.

Exercise B: Correct these false statements by making them negative.

1. Example: Paul Kagame led the country in 1800.
Paul Kagame did not lead the country in 1800.
2. Clare Akamanzi worked for a construction company.
3. The leaders ignored the needs of the youth.

Exercise C: Imagine you are a journalist interviewing a historian. Turn these facts into questions.

Fact: She promoted peace.

Question: _____ she _____ peace?

Fact: They made a new law.

Question: _____ they _____ a new law?

Exercise D: Why is the Simple Past the most important tense for a historian or a person writing a biography of a leader?

B. Reported Speech: Sharing the Message

Activity 6.4.2

Look at the following sentences and discuss the questions that follow

Direct Speech (What they said):

Minister Agathe says: "I want to improve education."

Reported Speech (How we tell others):

The messenger said that Agathe wanted to improve education.

Look at the change:

1. What happened to the word "want"?
2. Why did we add the word "that"?

Notes:

The Rules of Reporting

1. The Tense Shift (The "Backstep")

Direct Speech (Present)	Reported Speech (Past)
Present Simple: "I work hard."	Past Simple: He said that he worked hard.
Present Continuous: "She is leading ."	Past Continuous: They said she was leading .
Can: "We can help."	Could: They said they could help.
Will: "I will develop the country."	Would: He said he would develop the country.

When the reporting verb is in the past (e.g., She said...), the main verb inside the sentence moves back:

2. Changing People (Pronouns)

We must change the pronouns so the sentence makes sense to the listener.

- "I" usually becomes "he" or "she".
- "We" usually becomes "they".
- "My" becomes "his" or "her".

3. The Structure

Speaker + Said/Told + (that) + Changed Sentence

Practice Activity

Activity 1: A leader is giving a speech. Change their words into Reported Speech.

1. Direct: "I promote international trade," said Clare Akamanzi.
✓ Reported: Clare Akamanzi said that she _____ international trade.
2. Direct: "The youth are the future of Rwanda," the leader said.
✓ Reported: The leader said that the youth _____ the future of Rwanda.
3. Direct: "We will build new roads," the officials promised.
✓ Reported: The officials promised that they _____ build new roads

Activity 2: Each sentence has one error. Can you find it and fix it?.

1. He said that he is a great leader. (Mistake: _____)
2. She told me that she can help the students. (Mistake: _____)

Activity 3: Pair Work "Interviews"

1. Partner A tells Partner B one goal they have (e.g., "I want to be a doctor.").
2. Partner B reports this to the class (e.g., "She said that she wanted to be a doctor.").

C. The First Conditional:

Activity 6.4.3

Read these two scenarios and discuss with a partner and check logic:

- a) Scenario A: If a leader listens to the youth, they will understand the country's needs.
- b) Scenario B: If we work together, we will achieve our goals faster.

Check logic:

- Is the "If" part happening in the past or the present?
- Is the result (the "will" part) happening now or in the future?

Key Notes Key Notes

1. When do we use it?

We use the First Conditional to talk about real possibilities. In leadership, we use it to give advice or predict the result of a specific action.

2. The Golden Structure

The sentence is made of two "clauses" (parts):

The Condition (If-Clause)	The Result (Main Clause)
If + Subject + Present Simple	Subject + Will + Base Verb
If she leads with integrity,	people will trust her.

3. Punctuation Rule

- If the "If" comes first, use a comma before the second half.
- If the "will" part comes first, you do not need a comma.
 - Example: People will trust her if she leads with integrity.

Practice Activity

Activity 1: Complete the sentences to give advice to a new student leader.

1. If you _____ (organize) your time well, you _____ (finish) your work early.

2. The students _____ (follow) you if you _____ (set) a good example.
3. If a leader _____ (not/communicate) clearly, the team _____ (become) confused.
4. If we _____ (invest) in education, the nation _____ (prosper).

Activity 2: Match the condition to the most logical result.

Condition (If...)	Result (...will)
1. If you respect your team,	a. they will solve the problem.
2. If the weather is bad,	b. they will respect you back.
3. If they study the law,	c. the meeting will be moved inside.

Activity 3: In groups, finish these sentences with your own opinions:

1. "If a leader tells the truth, _____."
2. "If I become the class prefect, _____."
3. "If our community plants more trees, _____."

6.5. Writing: (written production)

Activity 6.5.1

Write a short biography (200 – 250 words) about a leader you admire. This can be a national leader, a community hero, or even a school prefect.

Structure of Your Writing

❖ The Achievement (Simple Past)

Start by introducing the leader and what they did in the past.

✓ Example: "In 2005, my grandmother started a small farm to feed the village. She worked every day to make it successful."

❖ The Message (Reported Speech)

What are the important things this leader always says or said? Report it to the reader.

✓ Example: "She always told me that hard work was the key to a happy life. She said that we could achieve anything if we tried."

❖ Your Opinion (First Conditional)

Give your advice or opinion on why this leadership style is important for the future.

✓ Example: "If more people act like her, our community will grow stronger. If we follow her example, we will be successful too."

Sample Writing: The Father of a Nation

Title: The Courage of Nelson Mandela

In the past, South Africa faced many years of inequality. Nelson Mandela became a leader who fought for justice and freedom for all people. He spent twenty-seven years in prison, but he did not give up on his dream. When he left prison in 1990, he led the country toward peace and won the Nobel Peace Prize for his bravery.

During his speeches, Mandela often said that education was the most powerful weapon to change the world. He told his followers that they could overcome hatred with love. By sharing this message, he united a divided nation and showed everyone the power of forgiveness.

Mandela's life teaches us that one person can change history. If we practice his values of peace and equality, our world will become a better place. If young leaders read his story, they will understand that true strength comes from kindness and perseverance.

6.6 Sounds and Spelling: Minimal Pairs (/i:/ vs. /ɪ/ and /ɔ:/ vs. /ɒ/)

Activity 6.6.1

Find a small mirror and mirror yourself as you say these words, or let your friend look at you.

- Say "TEAM." Look at your mouth. Are your lips stretched wide like a big smile? Is your face tight? This is the Long /i:/.
- Say "TIM." Look at your mouth. Is it relaxed and slightly open? This is the Short /ɪ/.
- Say "SPORT." Your lips should make a small, tight circle like a "O." This is the Long /ɔ:/.
- Say "SPOT." Your mouth should open wide and flat. This is the Short /ɒ/.

Notes & Key Examples

Sound Symbol	How it feels	Example Pairs
Long /i:/	Tense Smile	Seat, Feel, Sheep
Short /ɪ/	Relaxed Drop	Sit, Fill, Ship
Long /ɔ:/	Tight Circle	Port, Short, Court
Short /ɒ/	Wide Surprise	Pot, Shot, Cot

Practice Activities

Activity 1:

Circle the word in each group that has a DIFFERENT vowel sound than the others.

1. Seat / Team / Sit / Feel
2. Shot / Pot / Spot / Short
3. Fill / Ship / Sheep / Tim
4. Court / Cot / Port / Sport

Activity 2:

Choose the correct word to complete the sentence based on the sound.

1. The leader told the people to take a _____ (sit / seat) and listen.
2. It was a very _____ (shot / short) speech, only five minutes long.
3. The captain sailed the _____ (ship / sheep) into the harbor.
4. He cooked the food in a large metal _____ (port / pot).
 1. Read the following sentence aloud 3 times:
"The short leader took a shot at the goal while his team watched Tim run."
 2. Record yourself on a phone if possible.
 3. Listen back: Did you make the "smile" for team and the "circle" for short?

Activity 1:

In each sentence below, one word has been replaced by its "Minimal Pair" partner, making the sentence sound poor. Identify the incorrect word and write the correct one.

- a) The farmer sheared the wool from the ship. (Incorrect: _____ | Correct: _____)
- b) I need to feel this glass with water. (Incorrect: _____ | Correct: _____)
- c) The basketball player made a great short at the basket. (Incorrect: _____ | Correct: _____)
- d) The leader stood in the center of the cot to address the judge. (Incorrect: _____ | Correct: _____)

Activity 2:

These sentences are designed to "trip up" your tongue. Practice saying them slowly at first, then increase your speed. Focus on the muscle tension (Smile for /i:/, Circle for /ɔ:/).

- a) The /i:/ vs. /ɪ/ Drill: "Tim's team will fill the field with green sheep on the ship."
- b) The /ɔ:/ vs. /ɒ/ Drill: "The smart leader brought a hot pot to the sport court."

Activity 3:

Complete the table by providing the missing half of the minimal pair. Use a dictionary or discuss with a partner if you are stuck.

Word A (Short Vowel)	Word B (Long Vowel)
Bit (a small piece)	Beat (to win or a heart sound)
Lick (action of tongue)	_____ (a hole in a pipe)
_____ (past of 'shoot')	Short (not tall)
Hot (high temperature)	_____ (to wait/halt)

Activity 4:

Look at the following words. Draw a Smile next to words that require a tense, long /i:/ and a Circle  next to words that require a rounded, long /ɔ:/.

- a) Team []
- b) Port []
- c) Feel []
- d) Court []
- e) Sheep []

6.7 End Unit Assessment

SECTION A: READING COMPREHENSION

Read the text below and answer the questions that follow in full sentences.

The Essence of Servant Leadership

In many societies, people believe that being a leader means having power over others. However, the most respected leaders in history, like Mahatma Gandhi or Julius Nyerere, practiced "Servant Leadership." This means they put the needs of their community before their own desires.

In Rwanda, this value is seen in the concept of "Ubudehe" and "Umuganda," where leaders work side-by-side with citizens. A servant leader does not just give orders; they listen, they show empathy, and they lead by example. For instance, if a village needs a new well, a servant leader is the first to pick up a tool to start digging.

Research shows that if a leader serves with integrity, the citizens will feel motivated to contribute to national development. In the past, many great leaders sacrificed their comfort to ensure their people achieved freedom. They said that true greatness was found in service, not in titles. Today, young people are encouraged to adopt these qualities to become the role models of tomorrow.

Questions:

1. According to the text, what is the main difference between a traditional leader and a "Servant Leader"?
2. Which two Rwandan concepts are mentioned as examples of leadership through community work?
3. Identify one physical action a servant leader might take according to the second paragraph.
4. Why do you think the author says that true greatness is found in "service" rather than "titles"?
5. Find a First Conditional sentence in the third paragraph and write it down.
6. Find words in the text that mean:
 - a) The ability to understand and share the feelings of another: _____
 - b) The quality of being honest and having strong moral principles: _____
 - c) Something you want or wish for: _____
7. In your own words, what is the lesson this text teaches young people?

- Exhibit confidence and perseverance when presenting and discussing business ideas

Introduction

In the Rwandan Competence-Based Curriculum, students are prepared to become creative, innovative, and responsible citizens who can contribute to national development. One of the key goals of the curriculum is to equip young people with the knowledge, skills, and attitudes needed to become job creators rather than job seekers.

Effective communication plays an important role in achieving this goal. Students need to use language to describe business activities, discuss business ideas, listen to people sharing experiences about entrepreneurship, and present their own plans clearly.

This unit therefore develops your language competencies in a business context. You will read texts about Rwandan entrepreneurs, listen to talks about business activities, discuss and present your business ideas through spoken English, and write short texts about business plans. Through these activities, you will develop your reading, listening, speaking, and writing skills while reflecting on real-life entrepreneurial opportunities.

You are encouraged to actively participate in all the activities provided in this unit in order to develop the required competencies and apply them in real-life situations.

Introductory activity

Read each task carefully and answer the questions in your notebook.

Imagine the following situation:

It is break time at school. Many students are tired and thirsty, but there are no good drinks available nearby.

Questions:

1. What problem do you notice in this situation?
2. What could you do to solve this problem?

Write your answers in full sentences.

Think like a young entrepreneur.

Answer the following:

1. What business would you start at your school?
2. What product or service would you offer?
3. Who would be your customers?

7.1 Talking about entrepreneurs and business development.

Activity 71.1

Discuss these questions with a partner.

- a) What is an "entrepreneur," and do you know any in your local community?
- b) Why is a "business plan" important before someone starts selling a product?
- c) What are some healthy alternatives to sugary sodas that could be sold at a school?

Activity 71.2

With your partner, read and match the following descriptions (1-4) with the paragraphs (A-D).

1. Overcoming low demand through creative marketing. []
2. Calculating costs and managing initial investment risks. []
3. Identifying a market gap and creating a product. []
4. Expanding the business and creating jobs for others. []

The Juice King of Kigali:

A. Two years ago, a student named Samuel noticed a massive opportunity at his school. Every afternoon, his classmates were exhausted and thirsty, but the only drinks available were expensive, sugary sodas sold at a distant shop. Samuel, a natural entrepreneur, had a creative idea: he would produce fresh, cold passion fruit juice mixed with a hint of local ginger.

B. Before he squeezed a single fruit, Samuel realized that a good strategy requires a solid business plan. He spent a week calculating his costs, including the price of sugar, passion fruit, and charcoal for boiling the water. However, he knew that starting any enterprise involves a certain amount of risk. Samuel had to use all his personal savings as an investment to buy a high-quality blender and a large, durable icebox.

C. In the beginning, the demand was lower than he expected. Many students were used to their regular sodas and did not trust a new product. To fix this, Samuel focused on marketing. He created a colourful advertisement on a chalkboard and offered free “taster” samples to team captains. Soon, his supply could barely keep up with the long lines! His innovation—adding ginger for a unique kick—became his biggest success.

D. Today, Samuel’s business continues to expand. He has gained valuable experience in manufacturing and now employs two other students to help him sell during break time. He often tells younger students, “Your business will not grow unless you are willing to face every obstacle with a clear vision and a hard-working spirit.”

Activity 7.1.3

Comprehension

1. Read and find out answers to each of the following questions.

- What specific “gap” in the school market did Samuel identify?
- What equipment did Samuel purchase with his initial investment?
- How did Samuel use “innovation” to make his juice different from the sodas?
- What evidence shows that Samuel’s business is helping other students?

2. Scan the text and indicate whether the statements are TRUE or FALSE, then justify your answers.

- Samuel started his business without any planning. []
- Students immediately loved the juice as soon as it was launched. []
- Having “backup” savings saved Samuel’s business when his equipment broke. []
- Samuel used his personal savings to buy a blender and an icebox

Activity 7.1.4

Vocabulary

A. Fill the table with the missing information based on the text.

#	Concept / Item	Specific Detail from Samuel’s Story
1	The main “Risk” taken	_____
2	Initial Goal	Provide healthy service to _____ customers.
3	Marketing Tactic	Offered free _____ to captains.
4	Current Impact	Employs _____ other students.

B. Find the words from the text that match these meanings.

- A situation where it is possible to do something: _____
- Resources committed to a project for future gain: _____

- c) The desire of customers to buy a specific product: _____
- d) A new idea, method, or product: _____
- e) To give work to someone and pay them for it: _____

C. Fill in the blanks with the correct word from the list below:

investment | demand | strategy | innovation | opportunity | unless | produce

- a) You will not succeed in business _____ you have a clear plan.
- b) The teacher gave the students an _____ to present their business ideas.
- c) We need to _____ more juice because the students are very thirsty today.
- d) Using solar power to run the blender was a great _____ for the shop.
- e) High _____ for cold drinks usually happens during the hot dry season.
- f) Buying the icebox was a necessary _____ for the new enterprise.

To communicate like a professional entrepreneur and fully grasp the strategies used in Samuel's journey, it is essential to master the specific terms used in the world of trade and commerce.

Vocabulary notes

1. Entrepreneurship & Planning (The "Starting" Phase)

- Entrepreneur: A person who identifies a gap in the market and takes a financial risk to start a business.
- Business Plan: A written document describing a business's goals, strategies, and how it will make money.
- Investment: The money, time, or tools (capital) put into a business with the hope of making a profit later.
- Opportunity: A favourable set of circumstances that makes it possible to start a business (e.g., a lack of clean water).
- Risk: The possibility that a business will lose money or fail.

2. Production & Operations (The "Making" Phase)

- Produce / Manufacture: The process of turning raw materials (like timber) into finished goods (like chairs).
- Service: An intangible product where you do work for someone else (e.g., phone repair or teaching).
- Supply: The total amount of a specific good or service that is available to customers.
- Cost: The money a business must spend to make a product (e.g., rent, electricity, and raw materials).

3. Marketing & Sales (The "Selling" Phase)

- Marketing: The action of promoting and selling products, including market research and advertising.
- Advertisement: A public notice (on radio, posters, or social media) designed to spread awareness of a product.
- Demand: The desire of customers to buy a specific product and their ability to pay for it.
- Target Market: The specific group of people a business wants to sell to (e.g., "S4 students").

4. Business Development (The "Growing" Phase)

- Revenue: The total amount of money a business receives from sales before costs are subtracted.
- Profit: The money left over after all costs and taxes have been paid (Revenue - Cost = Profit).
- Competition: Other businesses that offer similar products or services to the same customers.
- Innovation: Creating a new method, idea, or product that is better than what currently exists.
- Expand / Grow: To increase the size of a business by hiring more staff or opening new branches.

Activity 7.1.5

Vocabulary building activities:

Activity A:

Read the scenario and choose the word that correctly fit the sentence

Scenario: Mugisha notices that many students in his village need affordable notebooks. He decides to use his savings to buy a printing machine.

- Mugisha is a/an (Entrepreneur / Investment) because he is starting a new venture.
- The lack of notebooks in the village is a great (Opportunity / Risk) for a new business.
- The money Mugisha spent on the printing machine is his initial (Investment / Opportunity).
- Mugisha knows there is a (Risk / Entrepreneur) that students might not buy his notebooks.

Example: Every entrepreneur must accept some risk when they start a new business.

Check: If a business has no investment, can it still have a risk? Explain.

Activity B: Tick (V) the sentence that makes better sense based on the bolded word.

1. a. ☐ A tailor provides a service by sewing a school uniform for a student.
b. ☐ A tailor provides a produce by sewing a school uniform for a student.
2. a. ☐ The supply of mangoes is high because it is currently the harvest season.
b. ☐ The cost of mangoes is high because there are too many in the market.
3. a. ☐ To produce a wooden desk, a carpenter needs timber and nails.
b. ☐ To service a wooden desk, a carpenter needs timber and nails.

Example: The cost of electricity increases the total price to produce bread.

Check: Is teaching an example of a service or a physical produce? Why?

Activity C:

Read the scenario and fill in the blanks with the most appropriate word from the alternatives.

Scenario: A group of students makes a new organic soap. They want to sell it specifically to mothers in their local community.

1. The mothers in the community are the students' (Target Market / Demand).
2. To tell the mothers about the soap, the students put a/an (Advertisement / Marketing) on the local radio.
3. If many mothers want to buy the soap, there is a high (Demand / Target Market).
4. The students' whole plan for research and sales is called (Marketing / Advertisement).

Example: Effective marketing helps a business find its target market.

Check: If a business has a great advertisement but no demand, will it succeed? Why?

Activity D: Circle the word that correctly describes the business situation.

1. A baker sells 100 loaves of bread for 100,000 RWF. This total amount is his (Revenue / Profit).
2. After paying for flour and rent, the baker has 20,000 RWF left. This is his (Profit / Revenue).
3. There are three other bakeries on the same street. They are the baker's (Competition / Innovation).

4. The baker starts using a solar oven to save money. This new idea is an (Innovation / Competition).

Example: To stay ahead of the competition, a business must use innovation.

Check: Can a business have high revenue but very low profit? How?

Activity E: Read the passage and fill in the blanks using the words provided below.

Plan, Business Supply, Expand, Cost

"Mutoni started a small juice business. First, she wrote a (1)_____ to organize her goals. As her sales grew, she decided to (2)_____ by opening a second shop in a different town. She had to be careful because opening a new branch increases the (3)_____ of rent and staff. However, she knew that having two shops would help her increase the (4)_____ of fresh juice available to her customers."

Example: When a business wants to expand, it must check its business plan first.

Check: Does a business expand by getting smaller or by getting larger? Why?

7.2 Listening: TALKING ABOUT A SMALL BUSINESS'S GROWTH.:

Activity 7.2.1

Discuss the following riddle and questions with a partner.

- a) I am often the first person to arrive and the last to leave. I take big risks to turn a small idea into a large reality. My name often stands for the quality of my work. Who am I?
- b) Why do some business owners choose to use their own names or initials for their brands?
- c) Do you know any famous Rwandan fashion designers or entrepreneurs?

Activity 7.2.2

You are going to listen to an interview between James (a journalist) and Sonia Mugabo, a young Rwandan entrepreneur. Decide if the following sentences are True or False. You can work with a partner.

- a) Sonia named her brand "SM" because it was easier for international customers to remember. []
- b) Sonia considers her business to be her "first baby" because she is personally accountable for it. []

- c) The business began in a large factory in the center of Kigali. []
- d) Sonia believes that starting small helped her develop the experience to manage a large team. []
- e) The biggest challenge she faced was balancing creativity with the financial costs of the business. []
- f) Sonia suggests that a business can grow even if the owner is not willing to take risks. []
- g) Her advice to young Rwandans is to wait until they have a lot of money before starting. []
- h) Persistence and trust in the process are key requirements for successful expansion. []

The Listening Script: Building a Fashion Empire

James (Journalist): Welcome, Sonia! It's great to have you here. Your brand, "SM," is now known across Africa. Tell us, why did you name it after yourself?

James: How did it all begin? Was it always this big?

Sonia: Not at all! It began in a tiny corner of my parents' home with just one tailor. As the demand grew, I hired a second, then five, then ten. If I had not taken that initial risk to start small, I would never have developed the experience to manage a large team.

Sonia Mugabo: Thank you, James. I used my initials because I wanted to be personally accountable. This business is my "first baby," and I wanted the world to know I stand behind the quality of every garment we produce.

James: What was the biggest challenge during that expansion?

Sonia: Balancing the creative side with the costs of running a business. I learned that you cannot expand successfully unless you trust the process and stay persistent.

James: What is your final piece of advice for young Rwandans? Sonia: Start where you are. Use the resources you have. Your business won't grow unless you are willing to take risks and stay dedicated.

Activity 7.2.3

Based on the conversation between James and Sonia, answer the questions below:

1. What does the phrase "I stand behind the quality" tell you about Sonia's leadership style?
2. How does the "initial risk" Sonia mentioned relate to her current success?

3. In the sentence, "Your business won't grow unless you are willing to take risks," what is the condition for growth?
4. How would you describe Sonia's attitude toward business growth (e.g., resilient, cautious, or fearful)? Use evidence from the text.

Activity 7.2.4

After listening to the interview again, sit in small groups and complete the following:

- a) Discuss how Sonia's journey from a "tiny corner" to a "fashion empire" reflects the spirit of entrepreneurship in Rwanda. Write down three key lessons you can apply to your own future career.
- b) Prepare your own original dialogue (8–10 lines). One student act as a journalist and the other as a young entrepreneur starting a business (e.g., a juice shop, a tech startup, or a craft business).
 - Requirement: Use at least one Third Conditional sentence (e.g., If I hadn't... I would never have...) and the word "unless."
- c) Perform your dialogue for another group and assess their use of the required grammar points.

7.3 Speaking: Describing one's business idea and how it would be marketed.

Activity 7.3.1

Plan and present your business idea in small groups using the Pitch Template.

Some entrepreneurs prefer to start businesses that use local, traditional materials. Others prefer to use modern digital tools because they reach a wider audience. Which approach do you prefer for your business and why? Use specific reasons and details to support your answer.

You can use the following structure to build your pitch:

- The Concept: Define your business name, product, and target audience.
- Marketing Strategy: Explain your primary method (e.g., Radio, Social Media) and justify why it reaches your specific community.
- The Innovation: Highlight your unique feature or competitive advantage.

Activity 7.3.2

After the pitch, use the Third Conditional to discuss past (unreal) scenarios.

Group Question Structure:

- "If you had started this business during the rainy season, how would your supply have changed?"
- "If your competition had lowered their prices earlier, what would you have done?"

Presenter Response Structure:

- "If I had started during the rainy season, I would have invested in waterproof packaging."
- "If my competition had lowered their prices, I would have improved my marketing."

Activity 7.3.3

Extend and role-play the dialogue between a Bank Manager and an Entrepreneur asking for a loan.

Introduction:

The entrepreneur needs a loan to expand their business after a successful first year.

❖ Body 1: Reflecting on Past Success (Third Conditional)

- Bank Manager: "Your business grew by 20% last month. If you had not used social media for marketing, would you have reached the same number of customers?"
- Entrepreneur: "No, Sir. If I had not advertised online, I would have struggled to find young clients."

❖ Body 2: Future Requirements and Constraints (Using "Unless")

- Entrepreneur: "However, I will not succeed in expanding unless I receive this investment for new equipment."
- Bank Manager: "And what would have happened if your costs had increased during that period?"
- Entrepreneur: "If costs had increased, I would have adjusted my prices, but we cannot maintain quality unless we upgrade our machines now."

❖ Self-Assessment

- [] Did I clearly define the Strategic Detail of my concept?

- [] Did I use $if + had + past\ participle$ correctly in my responses?
- [] Did I use "unless" to show a clear requirement for the future?

7.4 Language structure:

I. The Third Conditional (The "Unreal Past")

We use the Third Conditional to talk about a situation in the past that did not happen and to imagine its different result.

The Formula:

If + Past Perfect (had + past participle), ...would have + past participle

Business Examples:

1. Reflecting on Success: * Reality: Samuel wrote a business plan, so he knew his costs.
 ✓ Third Conditional: "If Samuel had not written a business plan, he would not have known his costs."
2. Reflecting on Failure: * Reality: The entrepreneur did not advertise, so the demand was low.
 ✓ Third Conditional: "If the entrepreneur had advertised more, the demand would have been higher."

Key Logic

- The "If" part is the Condition (which never happened).
- The "Would have" part is the Result (which also never happened).

II. The Use of "Unless" (The Conditional Warning)

Definition: "Unless" means "If... not" or "Except if." In a business context, it is used to give warnings or conditional advice about what is required for success.

The Formula:

Main Clause + Unless + Condition

Business Examples:

1. Warning about Profit: * "You will not make a profit unless you reduce your manufacturing costs."
 ✓ (Meaning: If you do not reduce costs, you won't make money.)
2. Advice on Growth: * "A business cannot expand unless the entrepreneur finds a new investment."
 ✓ (Meaning: Except if the entrepreneur finds money, the business won't grow.)

3. Advice on Marketing: * "Customers will not know about your product unless you create an advertisement."

III. Comparison Table for Students

Activity 7.4.1

Instructions: Rewrite the following "Business Realities" into the grammar structures requested.

1. Reality: I didn't save money, so I couldn't buy a new blender.

✓ Rewrite (Third Conditional): If I _____
_____.

2. Reality: You must satisfy your customers, or they won't come back.

✓ Rewrite (Unless): Your customers _____
_____.

3. Reality: Sonia took a risk, so she became a successful designer.

✓ Rewrite (Third Conditional): Sonia _____
_____.

❖ Example Starter: "The cafe closed because the costs were too high. If the owner had managed the budget better, the business would have survived..."

7.5 A short business plan or report on business development.

Activity 7.5.1

Working with your partner, choose a business idea (e.g., a bakery, a mobile repair shop, or a vegetable farm). Complete the five sections of the business plan below.

Writing Requirements:

- Use at least 5 business terms from your notes (e.g., Investment, Demand, Revenue).
- Include 1 sentence using the Third Conditional to reflect on a "past" challenge you overcame.
- Include 1 sentence using "Unless" to describe a future requirement for success.

The Business Plan Template

- Business Name: _____
- Entrepreneur(s): _____
- The Product/Service: Describe what you will produce or the service you will provide.

Drafting Tip: "We aim to fill an opportunity in the market by providing..."

Production & Operations (The Making)

- How will you manufacture your goods?
- What are your primary costs (e.g., raw materials, rent)?

Marketing Strategy (The Selling)

- Who is your target market?
- What is your primary advertisement method to increase demand?

Financial Reflection (Grammar Application: Third Conditional)

- Imagine you started a small pilot version of this business last month.
- Task: Write a sentence reflecting on what happened using the Third Conditional.

Example: "If we had started our marketing earlier, our initial revenue would have been much higher."

Business Development & Risks (Grammar Application: Unless)

- What is your goal for the next year? How will you expand?
- Task: Write a sentence using "Unless" to warn about a potential risk.

Example: Our business will not grow unless we find a reliable supply of raw materials.

How to Write a Business Plan or Development Report

A business plan is a formal document that outlines a company's goals and how it plans to achieve them. A development report focuses on how an existing business will expand or solve a challenge.

Section 1: The Executive Summary (The "What")

This is a brief overview of the entire business. It should answer:

- What is the opportunity you identified?
- What product or service are you offering?

Section 2: Production and Operations (The "How")

Describe the physical process of running the business.

- Manufacturing: Where and how will you make the product?
- Supply Chain: Where will you get your raw materials?
- Costs: List your fixed costs (rent) and variable costs (materials).

Section 3: Marketing and Sales Strategy (The "Who")

Explain how you will attract and keep customers.

- Advertisement: How will people hear about you? (Radio, posters, word-of-mouth?)
- Competition: Who else is selling similar items, and why is your product better?
- Demand: How will you ensure there is a high desire for your product?

Section 4: Financial Planning (The “Money”)

This section proves the business is sustainable.

- Investment: How much money do you need to start?
- Revenue vs. Profit: Explain your plan to ensure revenue is higher than costs.

Section 5: Risk Management and Reflection (The “What If”)

This is where you use your Language Structures to show deep thinking.

❖ Reflecting on the Past (Third Conditional): analyse a trial period.

- ✓ Example: “If we had conducted better market research, we would have known the students preferred ginger over plain juice.”

❖ Warning for the Future (Unless): Identify a critical requirement for success.

- ✓ Example: “We will not achieve our growth goals unless we secure a modern cooling system for our products.”

Writing Checklist

Before submitting your plan, check for the following:

1. Professional Tone: Did you avoid slang and use terms like entrepreneur, investment, and strategy?
2. Organization: Did you use clear headings for each section?
3. Grammar Precision: Does your Third Conditional sentence use had + past participle? Does your Unless sentence have a positive verb?

Activity 7.5.2

Draft your business plan that sells solar-powered lamps to students in rural areas.

Application activity 7.5

A. Based on your reading of "The Juice King of Kigali," select the best response for the following business scenarios.

1. Scenario: A new shop has opened next to Samuel's stand and is selling juice for a lower price. Based on the passage, what is the most effective strategy for Samuel to maintain his success?

- A. He should stop his marketing activities to save money on costs.
- B. He should reduce his supply so that students have to wait longer to buy.
- C. He should focus on innovation and quality to justify his brand's value.
- D. He should stop paying his staff to ensure he still makes a profit.

2. Scenario: Samuel realizes that the cost of passion fruit has doubled due to a poor harvest. If he keeps his selling price the same, how will this affect his business development?

- A. His revenue will decrease, but his profit will stay the same.
- B. His profit will decrease because his expenses are now higher.
- C. His investment will automatically double in value.
- D. The demand for his juice will increase because the fruit is rare.

3. Scenario: Analysing the "Unreal Past" (Third Conditional) Samuel's blender broke in the second month. Which statement accurately applies the Third Conditional to his situation?

- A. If the blender breaks, Samuel will buy a new one with his revenue.
- B. Unless the blender breaks, Samuel will make a large profit.
- C. If Samuel had not saved his money, he would not have been able to replace the equipment.
- D. Samuel would have expanded his business if the blender is not broken.

4. Scenario: Samuel wants to expand his business to a second school. Which document must he improve first to show he understands the new risks?

- A. His Business Plan
- B. His Advertisement chalkboard
- C. His Supply list for passion fruit
- D. His list of previous customers

B. Choose the word that best completes the professional advice for a young entrepreneur.

2. "Before you start manufacturing your goods, you must calculate your total costs to ensure you can reach your goal of making a _____."
A. Profit
B. Loss
C. Risk
D. Debt

C. You are a business consultant helping young entrepreneurs in Kigali. Use the Third Conditional and "Unless" to analyse their situations and give professional advice.

Rewrite these real-life business scenarios into the "Unreal Past" to show what could have happened differently.

1. Scenario: The tailor did not check the quality of the fabric, so the customers complained.
✓ Consultant's Analysis: If the tailor (check) _____ the quality, the customers (not/complain) _____.
2. Scenario: Samuel offered free samples, so his juice became famous quickly.
✓ Consultant's Analysis: Samuel's juice (not/become) _____ famous so quickly if he (not/offer) _____ free samples.
3. Scenario: The poultry farmer didn't buy a generator, so the eggs spoiled during the power cut.
✓ Consultant's Analysis: If the farmer (buy) _____ a generator, the eggs (not/spoil) _____.

D. Choose the sentence that is both grammatically correct and makes the most sense in a professional business context. Pay close attention to the Third Conditional for past reflections and Unless for future warnings.

1. Which sentence correctly reflects on a past business failure?
A. If we have invested more in marketing, we would win.

- B. If we had invested more in marketing, we would have won more customers.
- C. Unless we invested in marketing, we would have won customers.
- D. If we had invest in marketing, we will have won customers.
2. Which sentence provides the most logical warning to a new entrepreneur?
- A. You will make a profit unless you spend too much on costs.
- B. You will not make a profit unless you spend too much on costs.
- C. You would have made a profit unless you spent too much on costs.
- D. You make a profit if you don't spend unless on costs.
3. Which sentence accurately describes a missed opportunity for expansion?

- D. An entrepreneur had succeeded unless they take risks.
5. Which sentence correctly analyses the impact of a past innovation?
- A. If the company had not focused on innovation, its product would have failed.
- B. If the company had focused on innovation, its product would have succeeded.
- C. Unless the company focused on innovation, its product would fail.
- D. If the company has not focused on innovation, its product would not fail.

E. A junior accountant wrote the following draft report, but the grammar is "broken." Using your knowledge of the Third Conditional and "Unless," rewrite the sentences so they are professionally correct.

- 1. The Error: "If the manager has invested in a better delivery truck last year, the vegetables would not spoil."

✓ Your Correction: If the manager _____ (invest) in a better truck, the vegetables _____ (not/spoil).

2. The Error: "The company will make a profit unless it does not reduce its electricity costs."

✓ Your Correction: The company will make a profit unless it _____ (reduce) its electricity costs.

3. The Error: "If we would have known the demand was so high, we had produced more items."

✓ Your Correction: If we _____ (know) the demand was high, we _____ (produce) more items.

4. The Error: "The entrepreneur would have expanded the shop last month if he would have received the loan."

✓ Your Correction: The entrepreneur _____ (expand) the shop last month if he _____ (receive) the loan.

5. The Error: "We will not be able to pay our staff unless our revenue does not increase by 10%."

✓ Your Correction: We will not be able to pay our staff unless our revenue _____ (increase) by 10%.

Imagine a small cafe in your community closed down last month. Write a short paragraph (80–100 words) explaining why it failed. You must include:

Third Conditional (to explain what they should have done) and "Unless" (to give advice to the next person who tries to open a cafe there).

7.6 Sounds and spelling: Minimal Pairs for Consonants

Activity 7.6.1

To get started, play this quick game in pairs it will help you distinguish between sounds.

1. Partner A whispers a "Business Order" to Partner B.
2. Partner B must write down exactly what they heard.
- 3. The Words: "I have a new plan for the shop." (Did you hear plan or bran?)
 - "I need to talk to the team." (Did you hear team or deam?)
 - "I want to sell my products." (Did you hear sell or shell?)
 - "What is the cost?" (Did you hear cost or lost?)

If Partner B wrote the wrong word, the "business deal" might fail!

Learning Notes: Minimal Pairs for Consonants

A Minimal Pair is a pair of words that differ by only one sound (phoneme). Even though the words sound almost the same, their meanings are completely different.

1. Voiced vs. Voiceless Plosives (/p/ vs /b/ and /t/ vs /d/)

❖ Plan /p/ vs. Bran /b/: * /p/ is “voiceless” (just air). A plan is a strategy.

- /b/ is “voiced” (your throat vibrates). Bran is a type of cereal grain.

❖ Team /t/ vs. Dean /d/: * /t/ is a sharp burst of air. A team is a group of co-workers.

- /d/ involves vibration. A Dean is a high-ranking official or leader.

2. Sibilants (/s/ vs /ʃ/)

❖ Sell /s/ vs. Shell /ʃ/:

- /s/ is a thin, hissing sound (like a snake). To sell is to trade for money.
- /ʃ/ (sh) is a deeper, rushing sound. A shell is a hard outer covering.

3. Velar vs. Liquid (/k/ vs /l/)

❖ Cost /k/ vs. Lost /l/:

- /k/ is a sharp sound at the back of the throat. Cost is the price paid.
- /l/ is a smooth sound where the tongue touches the roof of the mouth. Lost means missing or gone.

Application activity 7.6

A. In pairs, take turns reading these sentences aloud. Focus on the bolded sounds. Your partner must signal if they heard the correct word.

1. “We need a better plan to beat the competition.” (/p/)
2. “Our team is looking for a new Dean for the college.” (/t/ then /d/)
3. “Unless we sell more, we will lose our shop.” (/s/)
4. “The cost of the shell was too high.” (/k/ then /ʃ/)
5. “If I had not lost the money, the cost wouldn’t matter.” (/l/ then /k/)

SECTION A: READING COMPREHENSION & CASE STUDY

Read the following case study and answer the questions in full sentences.

The Green Weavers of Musanze

Five years ago, a young woman named Belise noticed that many farmers in her village were throwing away dried banana husks, treating them as waste. Belise, a creative entrepreneur, saw an opportunity. She realized she could manufacture high-quality, eco-friendly floor mats and baskets from these husks to sell to tourists in Musanze.

To begin, she invested her small inheritance to rent a workshop and hire three local women. However, the first six months were a struggle. "We will not see a profit unless we find a way to reach the big hotels," Belise told her team. She developed a marketing strategy that included placing a small advertisement in a popular travel magazine and visiting hotel managers in person to show her samples.

Reflecting on her growth, Belise recently said, "If I had not used local waste materials, my costs would have been much higher. Also, if I had not visited those hotels personally, I would not have secured my biggest contracts." Today, "Green Weavers" has expanded to employ twenty people. Belise proves that innovation—turning waste into art—is the key to sustainable business development.

Questions:

1. Identify the specific market "opportunity" Belise discovered.
2. What was Belise's "unique innovation" that gave her a competitive advantage?
3. Name two specific marketing tactics Belise used to increase demand for her products.
4. Why did Belise say her costs would have been higher in the past?
5. Grammar Application: Look at the sentence: "We will not see a profit unless we find a way to reach the big hotels." Rewrite this sentence using "If... not."
6. Critical Thinking: If Belise had failed to hire local staff and tried to do everything alone, how might that have affected her ability to expand?
7. Summarize the outcome of Belise's business today using at least two business terms.
8. Write one piece of advice Belise might give to a new entrepreneur using "Unless."

SECTION B: VOCABULARY & CONSONANT SOUNDS

I. Business Vocabulary

Match the business term in Column A with its correct definition in Column B.

Column A	Column B
1. Revenue	A. The specific group of people you plan to sell to.
2. Target Market	B. The total amount of money received from sales.
3. Investment	C. Making a new product that is better than existing ones.
4. Innovation	D. Money or time put into a business to make a profit later.
5. Risk	E. The possibility that a business might lose money.

II. Sounds and Spelling: Minimal Pairs

Circle the word that correctly completes the professional business sentence.

1. We need a better (plan / bran) to increase our sales this quarter.
2. The marketing (team / deam) will meet at 10:00 AM.
3. We must (sell / shell) at least 100 units to cover our costs.
4. What was the total (cost / lost) of the raw materials?
5. He is a very (best / pest) manager because he listens to his employees.

SECTION C: LANGUAGE STRUCTURE

I. The Third Conditional (Past Reflections)

Rewrite the following "Business Realities" into Third Conditional sentences.

1. Reality: The entrepreneur did not conduct market research, so the business failed.

If: _____.

2. Reality: I didn't have enough capital, so I couldn't buy a delivery truck.

If: _____.

3. Reality: Samuel added ginger to his juice, so his product was unique.

If: _____.

II. The Use of "Unless" (Conditional Advice)

Complete the following professional warnings with your own logical business ideas.

1. A business cannot expand unless _____.
2. You will not attract new customers unless _____.

3. The bank will not give you a loan unless _____.

III. Error Correction

Correct the underlined mistakes in these professional reports.

1. If the manager (has) known the price was high, he (would not buy) it.

Correction: _____.

2. You will not succeed in business (unless you do not) work hard.

Correction: _____.

SECTION D: WRITING & CREATIVITY

The Business Development Report

Imagine you own a small business (e.g., a poultry farm, a tailor shop, or a fruit stall). Your business faced a problem last month (e.g., a machine broke, or a competitor moved nearby).

Write a Short Report (120–150 words) for your business partner. Your report must include:

- A brief description of the business and the opportunity it fills.
- One sentence using the Third Conditional to reflect on the problem from last month.
- One sentence using "Unless" to describe what is needed for future growth.
- At least five business terms (e.g., Investment, Demand, Strategy, Profit, Manufacturing).
